The prayer of Manas ses kyng of Iuda, when he was holden captiue in Babylon.

Lord Almighty, God of oure fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and of the ryghteous scade of them: whych hast made heauen and earth, wyth all the ornament therof, whych haste ordered the see by the worde of thy comaundement: whych hast shutte vpon the depe, and hast sealed it for thy fearfull and laudable name, whych all men feare, & tremble before the face of thy vertue, and for the anger of thy threatynge, the which is importable to synners. But y mercy of thy promys is grete and vncor-cheable: for thou arte the Lord God most hygge, aboue all the earth, long suffrynge, & exceedynge mercifull, & repentant for the malice of me. Thou Lord after thy goodnes hast promysed repētance of y synners of synners: and thou that arte the God of y ryghteous, hast not put repētance to the ryghteous Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, vnto them that haue synned agaynst the: But becaule I haue synned aboue the nombre of the sandes of the see, and that myne iniquities are multiplyed, I am humbled with many bandes of yron, and ther is in me no brea-thynge. I haue prouoked thynge anger, and haue done euill before the, in commyttyng ge abhominacions and multiplying offences. And now I bowe the knees of my hert, requyrynge goodnes of the O Lord I haue synned, Lord I haue synned, and knowe myne iniquyte. I desyre the by prayer, O Lord forgeue me: forgeue me and destroye me not wyth myne iniquytes, nether do thou alwayes remēbre myne euilles to pu-nysh them, but saue me (whyche am vnwor-thy) after thy grete mercy: and I wyll praple the euerlastynge, all the dayes of my lyfe: for all the

The fyyst booke of the Machabees.

The fyyst Chapter.

After the death of Alexander the kynge of Macedonia, Antiochus takeh the kyngdom, & many of the chyl- dren of Israel make couenaunt wth the Gentiles. An- tiochus subdueth Egypte and Jerusalem vnto his do- minion. Jerusalem beinge burne maketh lawes of her owne, and fo: hyddeth to kepe Soddes lawes. Antiochus setteth vp an Altare ouer the altar of God.

After that Alexander the sonne of Philyppe, kyng of Macedo- nia wente forth of the lade of Cethim, & slewe Dari⁹ kyng of the persyas and Medes: It happened, that he toke greates warres in hade, wane very many stroge cy- ties, & slewe many kynges of p^rarth: gopng thorow to p^rendes of p^r worlde, and gettynge many spoyle of p^r people: In so moch, p^r the worlde stode in greates awe of hym, & ther fore was he proude in his herte. Now whan he had gathered a myghty stronge host, & subdued p^r landes & people wth they^r prin- ces, so p^r they became tributaryes vnto him: he fel syck. And whē he perceaued p^r he must nedes dye, he called for his noble estates (whych had bene brought vp wth hym of chyl- dren) & parted his kyngdome amōge the, whyle he was yett alpye. So Alexander raygned. xii. yere, and then dyed.

After his death fell the kyngdome vnto his princes, and they optayned it euery one in his rowme, and caused them selues to be crowned as kynges: and so dyd they^r chyl- dre after them many yeres, and moch wy- ckednesse increased in p^r worlde. Out of these came the vnglacypous rote, noble Antioch⁹ the sonne of Antiochus the kyng (whych had bene a pledge at Rome) and he raygned in the C. xxxvii. yere of the empyre of the Grekes.

In those dayes wete there out of Israell wycked men, whych moued moch people wth they^r coucell, saye:ge: Lett vs go & make a couenaunt wth the heathen, p^r are rounde aboute vs: for lence we departed fro them, we haue had moch sorow. So thys deuypce pleased them well, and certayne of p^r people toke vpō the for to go vnto p^r kyng, which gaue the lycence to do after the ordinaunce of p^r heathen. Then set they vp an opē scole (at Jerusalem) of the lawes of the heathen & were nomore cypcumysed: but forsoke p^r holy Testamente, & toynd them selues to p^r heathē, & were cleane solde to do myschete. So when Antiochus beganne to be mygh- tie in his kyngdome, he wente aboute to op- tayne p^r lade of Egypte also that he myght haue the domynio of two realmes. Upon this entred he into Egypte wth a stroge host, wth charrettes, elephantes, horseme and a greates nombre of wyppes, and beganne to warre agaynst Ptolomy the kyng of Egp- pte. But Ptolomy was afrayed of hym, ad fled: and many of his people were woful- ly to death. Thus Antiochus wane many stro- ge cyties, & toke awaye greates good out of the lande of Egypte.

And after that Antiochus had synpten Egypt, he turned agayne in the C. llii. yea- re, & wente towarde Israel, & came vp to Je- rusalem wth a myghty people: & etred prou- dly into the Sanctuare, and toke awaye the golden altare, p^r candylstycke and all the or- namentes ther of, the table of the shewbzed, the pouryng vessel, the chargers, the golden spones, the vayne, p^r crownes, and golde ap- parell of the temple, & brake downe all. He toke also the siluer & golde, the p^recious Je- welles, & the secrete treasures that he founde. And when he had take awaye all together, caused a greates murthar of men, and so ful- fylled his malycious pynde, he departed into his awne lande.

Thus there arose greates heynesse and misery in all p^r lande of Israel. The princes & the elders of the people mourned, the pon- ge men and the maydens were despyled, and the fayre beute of women was chaunged: the bypdegrome and the bypde toke them to mournynge: the lande and those that dwelt therein, was moued: for all the house of Ja- cob was brought to confusio.

After two yeres the kyng sent his chefe treasurer vnto p^r cities of Juda, which came to Jerusalem wth a greates multitude of peo- ple, speakeinge peaccable wordes vnto the but all was disceate: for whā they had geue hym credence, he fel sodenly vpon the cytie, & smote it soze, ad destroyed moch people of Israel. And when he had spoyled the cite, he set fyre on it, castynge downe howles and walles on euery syde. The women and their chyl- dre toke they captiue, & led awaye their catel. Then buylded they p^r cytie of David wth a greates ad thynke wall, & wth mygh- tie towres, and made it a stronge holde for them. Besyde all this they set wycked peo- ple and vngodly mē to kepe it, soared it wth weapens & vntayles: gathered the goodes of Jerusalem, ad layed them vp there: thus became it a theupcastell.

And thys was done to laye wayte for the people that went into the Sanctuare, and for the cruell destruccyon of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on euery syde of p^r Sanctuare, and despyled it: In so moch that the cytiesyns were fayne to departe, and the cytie became an habitacyon of straungers, beyng desolate of her awne seide, for her aw- ne natyues were fayne to leaue her. Her Sa- ctuare was cleane wasted, her holy dayes were were turned into mournynge, her Sabba- thes were had in derisyon, and her honoure brought to naught. Loke how greates glo- ry was afore, so greates was her confusio, & her loye turned in to sorowe.

Antiochus also the kyng sent out a co- mission vnto all his kyngdome, that al the people shulde be one. The they left euery mā his lawe, and all the heathen agreed to p^r commaundement of kyng Antiochus: Pee many of the Israelites consented there vnto, offerynge vnto Idols, & despylinge the Sab- bath. So the kyng Antiochus let his mel- saungers wth his commissyon vnto Jeru- salem, & to all the cyties of Juda: that they shulde folow the lawes of the heathen, and forbad ether burnt offerynge, meat offeringe or peace offeringe to be made in the temple of God, and that there shulde no Sabbath ner hye feast daye be kepte: but commaunded, p^r the Sanctuare & the holy people of Israel shulde be despyled.

He commaunded also that there shulde be sett vp other altares, tēples & Idols: to of- fre vp swynes flesch & other vnclene beastes: that men shulde leaue they^r chyl- dren vncir- cumcised, to despyle they^r soules wth al ma- ner of vnclēnesse and abhominacyōs: p^r they myght so forget the lawe, & chaunge all the holy ordinaunces of God: & that whosoeuer wolde not do accordynge to the comaunde- ment of kyng Antioch⁹, shulde suffre death. In lyke maner commaunded he thorow out all his realme, and sett rulers ouer the peo- ple, for to compell them to do these thinges commaundyng the cyties of Juda to do sa- crifyce vnto Idols.

Then wente the people vnto the heathē by heapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lord, ad comytted moch euell in the lande: pec ad cha- ced out p^r secrete Israelites, which had hyd them selues in corners and p^reuyp places.

The xv. daye of the moneth Callen, in the C. lvi. yere, sett kyng Antiochus an abho- minable Idol of desolacyon vpo the altare of God, and they buylded altares thorow out all the cyties of Juda on euery syde, be- fore the dozes of the houses, and in the stre- tes: where they brent incense, and dyd sacri- fyce. And as for p^r booke of p^r lawe of God, they brent them in the fyre, and ret them in peces. What soeuer he was that had a boke of the Testament of the Lord found by hi, pec whosoeuer endeuored hymselfe to kepe the lawe of the Lord, the kynges comaun- demēt was, that they shulde put hym to de- ath. And thorow his auctorite they execu- ted these thinges euery moneth, vpo p^r peo- ple of Israel that were founde in the cyties.

The fyue and twente daye of the mo- neth what tyme as they dyd sacrifyce vpo p^r altare (whych stode in p^r steade of p^r altare of the Lord) accordynge to the commaun- dement of kyng Antiochus, they put cer- tayne women to death, which had caused they^r chyl- dre to be circumcised: Not only p^r, but they hanged vp the chyl- dren by the nec- kes thorow out all they^r houses, and slewe the circumcisers of them.

Pet were there many of the people of Is- rael, whych determined in them selues, that they wolde not eate vnclene thynges: but chose rather to suffre death, then to be defi- led wth vnclene meates. So because they wolde not breake the blessed lawe of God, they were cruelly slayne. And thys greates tyranny increased very soze vpon the people of Israel.

The ii. Chapter.

The mournynge of Machabias and his sonnes for the destruccyon of the holy cytie. They refuse to do sacri- fyce vnto Idols. The zeile of Machabias for the lawe of God. They are slayne and will not fight agayne be- cause of the Sabbath daye. Machabias dyngie comma- undeth his sonnes to speke by the worde of God after the example of the fathers.

In those dayes there dyd stāde vp one Machabias the sonne of Symeon the prest (out of p^r kynred of Iorais) from Jerusalem, and dwelt vpon p^r mount of Modin, & had v. sonnes: Iohn called God- dis Symeon, called Chasi: Judas, otherwi- se called Machabeus: Eleazer, other wyse called Abarō: and Jonathas, whose spyna- me was Apphus. These sawe the euell, that was done amōge the people of Juda ad Je- rusalem. And Machabias sayd: wo is me, alas that euer I was borne, to se thys mise- ry of my people, and the p^rteous destruccio of the holy cytie: and thus to lye so tēpl, it be- inge delpyured into the handes of the enemy- es. Her Sanctuare is come into the power of straungers: her temple is, as it were a mā that hath lost his good name: her p^recyous ornamentes are carped awaye captiue. Her olde men are slayne in the stretes, & her yonge men are fallen thorow p^r swerde of the enemyes.

What people is it, that hath not some pos- sessyon in her kyngdome? Who hath not gotten some of her spoyle? All her gloze is taken awaye. She was a fre womā, & now she is become an handmayde. Beholde oure Sanctuare, oure beuetye & honoure is wa- sted awaye, & despyled by p^r Gentiles. What helpeth it vs then to lyue? And Machabi- as rete his clothes, he and his sonnes, & put sackcloth vpon them, & mourned very soze.

Then came the men thither whych were sent of kyng Antiochus, to compell soch as were fled into the cytie of Modyn, for to do sacrifyce and to burne incense vnto Idols, and to forlake the lawe of God. So, many of the people of Israel consented and encl- yned vnto the, but Machabias and his son- nes remayned stedfast. Then spake p^r com- mander myfponers of kynge Antiochus, and layde vnto Mathathias: Thou art a noble man, of hys reputacyon and greate in this cytie, haupngesayre chyldezen and byethen. Come thou therfore fyft, and fulfyll þe kynges comaundement, lyke as all the heathen haue done, yee and the men of Iuda, and soch as remaine at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy chyldezen be in þe kynges fauoure & enryched with golde, syluer & greate rewardes.

Mathathias answered, and spake wyth a loude voyce. Though all nacions obeye þe kyng Antiochus, and fal awaye euery man from keepynge the lawe of the fathers: though they consente to his comaundementes, yet will I and my sonnes & my byethen, not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God forþyd we shulde, that were not good for vs, that we shulde forsake the lawe and ordinaunces of God, and to agre vnto the comaundement of kynge Antiochus. Therefore we wyl do no such sacrifice, nether breake þe statutes of oure lawe, to go another waie. And when he had spoken these wordes, there came one of the Jewes, whych openly in the sight of al, dyd sacrifice vnto the Idols vpon the aulter in the cytie of Iudon, acor dyng to the kynges comaundement.

When Mathathias sawe this, he greued hym at the herte, so that hys raynes shoke wythall, & hys wyath kyndled for very zeale of the lawe. Wyth that, he start vp, & kylled the Jewe besyde the aulter: yee & slewe the kynges commysponer, that compelled hym to do sacrifice, & destroyed the aulter at the same tyme: soch a zeale had he vnto þe lawe of God. Lyke as Phinehes dyd vnto zabdi þe sonne of Salom, And Mathathias cryed wyth a loude voyce thozow the cytie, sayenge: Wylso is feruent i the lawe, & wil kepe the couenaunt, let him folowe me. So he and his sonnes fled into the mountaynes, & left all that euer they had i the cytie. Many other godly me also departed i to þe wilderness wyth the chyldezen, they wyues & they catell, and remainyd there: for þe tyranny increased soze vpon them.

Now when the kynges scrutautes, and the hoost, whych was at Jerusalem in þe cytie of Dauid herde, þe certayne men had broken the kynges comaundement, and were gone they wape to the wilderness into secrete places & that there were many departed after them: they folowed vpon them, to fyght agaynst them i the Sabbath daye, & sayde: Wyl ye yet rebell? Get you hence, and do the comaundement of kynge Antiochus & ye shall lyue. They answered: We wyl not go forth, nether wyl we do the kynges comaundement, to defyle the Sabbath daye. Then beganne they to fyght agaynst them, neuerthelesse they gaue the none other answer, nether cast they one stone at the, nether made fast they þe places, but sayde: We wyl dye all in oure innocency, heauen and earth shall testifie with vs, that ye put vs to death wrongeously. Thus they fought agaynst them vpon the Sabbath, & slewe both men & catell, they wyues & their chyldezen, to the nombze of a thousande people.

When Mathathias and his frendes herde this, they mourned for them ryght sore and sayde one to another: If so be that we all do as oure byethen haue done, & fyght not for oure lyues & for oure lawes agaynst þe heathen: then shall they the soner rote vs out of þe earth. So they concluded amonge the selues at the same tyme, sayenge: what soeuer he be that cometh to make battayll wyth vs vpon the Sabbath daye, we wyl fyght agaynst hym, & not dye al, as oure byethen þe were murthured so hapnously. Wpō this came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto the stronge men of Israel, all soch as were feruent i the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecucion, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In so moch that they gathered an hoost of men, and slewe the wycked doers in theyr gelousy, and the vngodly me i theyr wyath. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mathathias & his frendes wente aboute, and destroyed the aulter, and circumsyde the chyldezen, that had not yet receaued circumsydon: as many as they founde within the costes of Israel: and tolowed myghtely vpon the chyldezen of pryde, & this acte prospered i theyr handes: In so moch, that they kepte the law agaynst the power of the Gentiles & the kynges, and gaue no ouer theyr domynion vnto wycked doers.

After this when the tyme dyetwe on fast, that Mathathias shulde dye, he sayde vnto his sonnes: Now is pryde and persecucion increased, now is the tyme of destruccyon & wyathfull dyspleasure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruent in the lawe, and ioparde your lyues for the Testamēt of the fathers dyd in theyr tyme, so shal ye receaue greate honoure and an euerlastyng name.

Remember Abraham, was not he founde saythfull in tentacyon, and it was reckened vnto hi for ryghteousnes? Joseph i tyme of hys trouble kepte the comaundement & was made a lord of Egypt. Phinehes our father was so feruent for þe honoure of God, that he optayned the couenaunt of an euerlastyng pzeithode. Josue for fulfyllige þe worde of God, was made the captayne of Israel. Caleb bare recorde befoze þe congregacyon, and receaued an heretage. Dauid also in his mercyfull kyndnesse, optayned the trone of an euerlastyng kyngdome.

Elas

Elas beinge gelous & feruent in the lawe, was taken vp into heauen. Hananias, Alas and Misael remainyd stedfast in fayth and were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner Daniel beyng vngylt, was saved from the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consyde thozow out all ages sence þe worlde begane, that whosocuer put their trust in God, were not overcome. I care not ye the þe wordes of an vngodly man, for his gloze is but donge and wormes: to daye is he set vp, and to morow is he gone: for he is turned into earth, & hys memorial is come to naught. Wherefore (O my sonnes) take good hertes vnto you, and quyte your selues lyke men in the lawe: for ye do the thynges that are comaunded you in the lawe of the Lord your God, ye shall optayne greate honoure therein.

And beholde, I know that your brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se þe ye gene eare vnto him alwaye, he shal be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hath euer bene myghty and stronge fro his youth vp: let him be your captayne, and ordze the battayll of the people: thus shall ye byrynge vnto you all those that fauoure the lawe, & se that ye auenge the wronge of your people, and recompence the heathen agayne, & applye your selues whole to the comaundement of the lawe. So he gaue them hys blessinge, and was layed by hys fathers: & died in the .c. & xlvi. yere at Iudon, where hys sonnes buried hym in hys fathers sepulchre, and all Israel made greate lamentacyon for hym.

The .iii. Chapter.

Judas is made ruler ouer the Jewes. He killeth Appollonius & Seron þe prince of Syria. The confederacyon of Judas towardes God. Judas deterrith them to fyght agaynst Pylas, whom Antiochus had made captayne ouer his host. The prayer of the abtyners.

When rode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers steade, & all hys byethen helped hym: and so dyd all they that helde wyth hys father, & fought wyth cherefulness for Israel. So Judas gat hys people great honoure: he put on a best plate as a giante, & arayed hym selfe with hys harness, and defended the hoost wyth hys swearde. In his actes he was lyke a Lyon, & as a Lyons whelp roaringe at his praye. He was an enemye to the wycked, & hunted the out: & bent vp those that vexed his people: So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym, & all the woorkers of vngodlynes were put to trouble: soch lucke and prosperyte was in hys hade. This greued diuerse kynges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed thozow his actes, and he gatt hym self a greate name for euer.

He wente thozow the cityes of Iuda, destroyinge the vngodly out of them, turning awaye the wyath from Israel, and receauynge soch as were oppressed: and the fame of him wete vnto the vttemost parte of the earth. Then Appollonius (a prynce of Syria) gathered a myghty greate hoost of the heathen & out of Samaria, to fyght agaynst Israel. Whych when Judas perceaued, he wente forth to mete hym, fought wyth him, slewe him, and a great multitude with him, the remnaunt fled, & he toke their substance. Judas also toke Appollonius a wne swearde, and fought wyth it all hys lyfe longe.

Now when Seron (another prynce of Syria) herde saye, þe Judas had gathered vnto him the congregacyon & church of the faythfull, he sayde: I will get me a name & a prayse thozow out þe realme: for I wyl go fyght wyth Judas, & them that are wyth hym, as many as haue despyled the kynges comaundement. So he made hym ready, and there wete wyth him a greate myghty hoost of vngodly, to stande by him, and to be auenge of the chyldezen of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethoron, Judas wente forth agaynst them wyth a small company. And when his people sawe soch a great goost befoze them, they sayde vnto Judas: how are we able (beinge so fewe) to fyght agaynst so great a multitude and so stronge, seinge we be so weery, and haue fasted all this daye?

But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be overcome w fewe: yee there is no difference to the God of heauen, to deliuer by a greate multitude or by a small company: for þe victozy of the battell standeth not in the multytude of the hoost, but the strength cometh from heauen. Beholde, they come agaynst vs with a presumptuous and proude multitude, to destroye vs, oure wyues and oure chyldezen, and to robbe vs. But we will fight for oure lyues, & for oure lawes, & the Lord hym selfe shall destroye them befoze oure face: therfore be not ye afrayed of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes, he leapt sodenly vpon the. Thus was Seron smytten, and his hoost put to flight, and Judas folowed vpo them beyonde Bethoron vnto the playne felde: where there were slayne epyght hundreth men of them, and the resydue fled into the lande of the Philistynes. Then all the heathen on euery syde were afrayed for Judas and his byethen: so that the rumoure of hym came vnto the kynges eares, for all the Gentyles coude tell of the warres of Judas.

So when kynge Antiochus hearde these tidynges, he was angry in his minde: wherfore he sente forth, and gathered an hoost of his whole realme, very stronge armyes: and opened hys treasury, and gaue hys hoost a yeaeres wagges in hande, commaundynge them them to be ready at all tymes.

Neuerthelesse when he sawe, that there was not moneye ynough in his treasuries, and þe thow the discorde and persecucion, whych he made in the lande (to put downe the lawes that had bene of olde tymes) hys customes & trybutes of the lande were mynyshed: he feared that he was not able for to beare the costes and charges any longer, nor to haue such gyftes, to geue so liberally as he dyd afore, more then the kynge that were before hym.

Wherefore, he was hery in his mynde, and thought* to go into Persides, for to take tributes of the lande, & so to gather moche moneye. So he left Lysias (a noble man of the kynge's bloude) to ouersee the kynge's busynesses, from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte: & to kepe well his sonne Antiochus, tyll he came agayne.

Moreover, he gaue him half of his host, and Elephanes, comytted vnto him euery thyng of hys mynde, concernynge those whych dwelt in Iuda and Ierusalem: that he shulde sende out an armye agaynst them, to destroye and to rote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Ierusalem: to put out their memorye from that place, to set straungers for to inhabyt all theyr quarters, and to parte theyr lande amonge the. Thus the kynge toke the other parte of the host, and departed from Antioch (a cite of hys realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the hundredeth and xlvij. yere, and went thow the hys countrees.

These he sent with. xl. thousande fote men & vii. thousande horsmen, for to go into the lande of Iuda & to destroye it, as the kynge commaunded. So they wete forth wpyth all their power, and came to Emmaus into the plaine felde. When the marchauntes hearde the rumoure of them, they & theyr seruantes toke very moche syluer & gold, for to bye the chyldre of Israel to be their bonde men: There came vnto them also yet moo me of warre on euery syde, out of Siria and from the Palestynes.

Now when Judas & hys brethren sawe þe trouble increased, & that the host drew nye vnto their borders considering þe kynge's wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namely, that they shulde utterly waste and destroye them: They sayde one to another: Let vs redress the decaye of oure people, let vs fyght for oure folke and for oure Sanctuary. Then the congregacion were soone ready gathered to fyght, to praye & to make supplicacion vnto God for mercy & grace.

* As for Ierusalem, it laye voyde, & was as it had bene a wyldernesse. There wente no man in nor out at it, and the Sanctuary was troden downe. The altars kepte the castell, there was the habitation of the heathen. The myrth of Jacob was take awaye, the pyper and the harpe was gone fro amonge them.

The Israelites gathered them together, and came to Maspha before Ierusalem: for in Maspha was þe place* where they prayed afore tyme in Israel. So they fasted þe dave & put sackclothes vpon them, cast asches vpon their heades, rete their clothes, & layde forth the bookes of the lawe (wherout the heathen sought the lykenesse of theyr ymages) and brought þe prestes ornaments, the fyrstlings & the tithes. They sett there also þe abstepners (whyche had fulfilled theyr dayes) before God, and cryed wpyth a loude voyce towarde heauen, sayynge: What shall we do with these? and whyther shall we carry them awaye? For thy Sanctuary is troden downe and despyled, thy prestes are come to heynesse and dyshonoure: and beholde, the heathen are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagin agaynst vs. How may we stande before the, excepte thou (O God) be oure helpe?

They blew out the trompettes also wpyth a loude voyce. The Judas ordered* captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyfthe, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded the houses, marped wyues, planted them vyneyardes, and those þe were fearfull: he commaunded them euery man to go home agayne, accordynge* to the lawe, so the host remoued, and pyched vpon the southsyde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Arme poure schues, be stronge (O my chyldren) make you ready agaynst to morow in the mornynge, that ye maye fyght wpyth these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and oure sanctuary. Better is it for vs to dye in battail, than to se oure people and oure sanctuary in such a myserable case: * Neuerthelesse, as thy wyll is in heauen, so be it.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias which lieth in waite. He putteth Gorgias and his host to flight. Lysias inuadeth Jewry, but Judas dyspueeth him oute. Judas purifyeth the temple and dedycateth the altare.

When toke Gorgias fyue thousand men of fote, and a thousande of the best horsmen: & remoued by nyght, to come nye where the Jewes host laye, & so to slaye them sodenly. Now þe men that kepte the castell, were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to sympte the chefe & principall of þe kynge's host at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyght in to Judas to Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there, he sought them in the mountaynes, & thought they had bene fled awaye, because of hym. But when it was dave, Judas thewed hym selfe in the felde wpyth thre thousande men only, whych had nether harnesse nor swerdes to their myndes.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the heathen were myghtie and well harnessed, and their horsmen aboute them, and all these well experte in fettes of warre. Then sayde Judas to the me that were with him: Feare not ye the multitude of them, be not afrayed of their violence runnyng: remembre, how oure fathers were deliuered* in the reed see, when Pharaos folowed vpon them wpyth a greate host.

Each so lett vs also crye now towarde heauen: and the Lord shall haue mercy vpon vs, and remembre the couenaut of oure fathers, pec & destroye this host before oure face this dave: And all þe heathen shall know, that it is God hym selfe, whych deliuereth and saueh Israel.

Then the heathen lyft vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were comynge agaynst them, they went out of their tentes into the battayll: and they that were wpyth Judas, blew vpon the trompettes. * So they buckled together, and the heathen were dyscomfyted and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hymnost of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Maresmoth, and in to the felde of Judea towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne wpyth his host, and sayde vnto the people: Be not greedy of the spoyle, we haue yet a battayll to fyght: for Gorgias & hys host are here by vs in the mountaynes, but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes, & ouercome them: then maye ye safely take þe spoyle.

As Judas was speakynge these wordes, beholde there appeared one parte of the vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of hys partye were fled, and the tentes bent vp (for by the smoke they myght vnderstande what was done) they perceauynge this, were very sore afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and hys host were in the felde ready to strike battayll, they fled euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gatt moche golde and syluer, precious stones, purple & great ryches. Thus they went home, and songe a psalme of thankesgeuynge, and praysed God in heauen: * for he is gracious, & hys mercy endureth for euer: And so Israel had a greate victory in that dave.

Now all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euery thinge as it happened. Wherefore Lysias was sore afrayed, & greued in his minde, because Israel had not gotten soch myffortune as he wolde they shulde, nether as þe kynge commaunded. The nexte yere folowing, gathered Lysias thre scoze thousande cholen men of fote, and fyue thousande horsmen, to fyght agaynst them.

So they came into Jewry, and pyched their tentes at Bethozor, where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousande me. And when he sawe so great & myghtie an host, he made his prayer and sayde: Blessed be thou (O Saupoure of Israel) * whych dydest destroye þe violent power of the gyaunte, in the hande of thy seruant Dauid, * and gauest the host of the heathen into the hande of Ionathas (the sonne of Saul) and of hys weapen bearer.

But thys host now into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in their multitude and horsmen. Make them afrayed, & dyscomfote the boldnes of their strenght, that they maye be moued thow their destruccio. Cast them downe thow the swearde of thy louers, then shall all they that knowe thy name, prayse the wpyth thankesgeuynge.

So they stroke the batell, and there were slayne of Lysias host, fyue thousande men. Then Lysias seynge the dyscomfetyng of hys men, and the manynesse of the Jewes, how they were ready, ether to lyue or to dye lyke men: he wete vnto Antioche, and chose out men of warre: that whan they were gathered together, they might come agayne into Jewry. Then sayd Judas and his brethren: behold, our enemyes are dyscomfyted: Let vs now go by, to cleanse and to repayre the Sanctuary.

* Upon thys, all the host gathered them together, and wente vpon into mount Syon. Now whan they sawe the Sanctuary layed waste, þe altare despyled, the doores bent vp, þe shrubbes growynge in the courtes, like as in a wod or vpon mountaynes, pec & þe prestes Celles were broken downe: They rente their clothes, made great lamentacion, cast asches vpon their heades, fell downe flat to the grounde, made a greate noyse wpyth the trompettes, and cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas apoynted certayne men to fyght agaynst those which were in þe castell till they had cleansed the Sanctuary. So he chose prestes þe were vndeptyled, soch as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they cleansed the Sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stones into an vncleane place. And for so moche as the altare of burnt offerynge was vnhallowed, he toke aduplement, what he myght do w all: so he thought it was best to destroye it (lest it shulde happe to do the eny shame).

same) for the heathen had defiled it, & therefore they brake it downe. As for the stones, they layed them vp vpon the mountayne by the house in a conuenient place: tyll there came a prophet, to shewe, what shulde be done wyth them.

I* So they toke whole stones accordyng to flawe, & buylded a new aulter soch one as was before, & made vp a Sanctuary wythin & without, & halowed the house & the courtes. They made new ornamente, & brought the candlestick, the aulter of incense, & the table in to the temple. The incense layed they vpon the aulter, & lyghted the lampes which were vpon the candlestick, & they myght burne in the temple. They set the shewbread vpon the table, & haged vp the vayne, and set vp the temple, as it was afore. * And vpon the xxv. daie of the ix. moneth, which is called the moneth of Casleu, in the xlviii. yeare: they rose vp by tymes in the mornynge for to do sacrifice (accordyng to the lawe) vpon the new burnt offering aulter that they had made: after the tyme and season that the heathen had defiled it. The same daie was it set vp agayne, with songes, psalms, harpes and cymbales.

C And all the people fell vpon their faces, worshippynge & thankynge God of heauen, which had geuen them the victorie. * So they kepte the dedicacion of the aulter. viii. daies, offeringe burnt sacrifices & thankofferings with gladnesse. They deckt the temple also w crownes & shildes of gold, & halowed the portes & celles & haged doores vpon the. Thus there was very great gladnes amonge the people, because the blasphemy of the heathen was put awaye. So Judas & his brethren w the whole congregacion of Israel, ordeyned, * the tyme of the dedicacion of the aulter shulde be kepte in his season fro yeare to yeare, by the space of. viii. daies, fro the xxv. daie of the moneth Casleu: wyth myght and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mount Syon wyth hie walles and stronge towres rounde aboute: lest the Gentiles shuld come and treade it downe, as they dyd afore. Therefore Judas sett men of warre in it, to kepe it: and made it stronge, for to defende the. * Bethlura: that the people myght haue a refuge agaynst the Edomites.

C The v. Chapter.

Judas buylded the heathen that go aboute to destroye Israel, & is holpen of his brethren Simon & Jonathan. He ouerthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they benygne hym passage thowow it.

I* Happened also when the heathen rounde about herd, how that the aulter & the Sanctuary were sett vpon their olde estate: it displeased them very sore, wherfore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was amonge them: in so much that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certayne of the people.

* Then Judas fought agaynst the chyl- dren of Esau in Idumea, and agaynst those which were at Arabathane (for they dwelt rounde aboute the Israelites) where he slew and spoyled a greate multitude of them. He thought also vpon the malice and unfaithfulness of the children of Beniamin, how they were as snare and stoppe vnto the people, and how they layed wayte for them in the hie waye: wherfore he sent them vp in to towres, and came vnto them, destroyed them utterly, and bent vp their towres, wyth all that were in them.

Afterwarde wente he agaynst the chyl- dren of Ammon, wherof he founde a myghty power & a greate multitude of people, with Timothy ther captayne. So he stroke many battayls with them, which were destroyed before him. And when he had slayne them, he wanne Gazer the cite, wyth the towres belongynge therto, and so turned agayne into Jewry. The heathen also in Galaad gathered the together, agaynst the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slaye them: but they fled to the castell of Dathemā, and sent letters vnto Judas & his brethren sayinge: The heathen are gathered agaynst vs on euery syde, to destroye vs, & now they make them for to come, and laye sege to the castell, wherunto we are fled, and Timothy is the captayne of their host: come therefore, and deliuer vs out of their handes: for there is a greate multitude of vs slayne all ready. Pee and oure brethren that were at Tabin, are slayne & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues, their chyl- dren and their goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, beholde, there came other messengers from Galilee, with rote clothes: which tolde euen the same tydynge, and sayde, that they of Ptolomays, of Cyprus and of Sydon were gathered agaynst the, and that all Galilee was filled with enemyes to destroye Israel.

* Whē Judas & the people herde this, they came together (a greate congregacion) to denye, what they myght do for their brethren, that were in trouble & beleged of their enemyes, And Judas sayd vnto Simon his brother: chouse the out certayne men, and go deliuer thy brethren in Galilee: As for me & my brother Jonathan, we will go into Galaadithim. So he left Josephus the sonne of Zachary, and Azarias to be Captaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the host in Jewry, and commaunded them, sayinge: Take the ouersyght of this people, and let ye make no warre agaynst the heathen, vntill the tyme that we come agayne. And vnto Symon he gaue thre thousande men, for to go into Galilee, but Judas hym selfe had

C Then wente Symon into Galilee, & stroke diuerse batelles wyth the heathen: whom he discomfited, and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomais. And there were slaine of the heathen all most. iii. thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, and caried awaye the Israelites, that were in Galilee and Arabatis, wyth their wyues, their chyl- dren and all that they had, & brought them in to Jewry wyth greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathan wente ouer Iordane, ad traunpled. iii. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse: Where the Arabithes met them, and receaued them louingly, and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto their brethren in Galaadithim, and how that many of them were beleged in Barasa, Bosoz, Alimis, Casphoz, Hageth and Carnaim (all these are stronge walled and myghtie greates cities) and that they were kepte in other cyties of Galaad also: & to morow they are appointed to bryge their host vnto these cyties, to take them, & to wyne them in one daie.

So Judas and his host turned in all the haste in the wyldernesse towarde Bosoz, and wane the cite, slew all the males with the swerde, toke all their goodes, and sett fyre vpon the cite. And in the nyght they toke their iourney from thence, and came to the castell: And by tymes in the mornynge whē they looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearynge laders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayll beganne, and that the noyse therof wente vprange in to the heauen, and that there was so greate a crye in the cite: he sayd vnto his host: fyght this daie for your brethren. And so came behynde their enemyes in thre companyes, and blew vpon the trompettes, and cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timotheus host perceaued that Machabeus was there, they fled from him, and the other slew them downe ryght so: so that there were kyled of them the same daie, almost eyght thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, layed sege vnto it, and wanne it, slew all the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpon it. From thence wete he and toke Casbon, Hageth, Bosoz, and the other cyties in Galaad.

D After this gathered Timothy another hoste, which pitched their tentes before Raphon beyonde the water. Judas also sent to spy the hoste, & they brought him worde agayne, sayinge: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto him, and the host is very great: Pee they haue byrd the Arabians to helpe them, & haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water, and are ready to come & fyght agaynst the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothy sayd vnto the captaynes of his host: when Judas & his host come nye the ryuer: if he go ouer first, we shal not be able to withstāde him: for why? he will be to stronge for vs. But if he darre not come ouer, so that he pitch his tente beyonde the water: the will we go ouer, for we shal be stronge ynough agaynst him. Now as soone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appoynted certayne scribbs of the people, & commaunded them, sayinge: se that ye leaue none behinde vpon this syde of the ryuer, but let euery mā come to the battayll. So he wente fyrst ouer vnto them and his people after him.

And all the heathen were discomfited before him, and let their weapons fall, & rāne into the temple that was at Carnaim. Whych cite Judas wanne, and bent the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued, and myght not withstāde Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadithim, from the left vnto the most, wyth their wyues and their chyl- dren (a very greate host) for to come into the lande of Israel.

* So they came vnto Ephraim, which was a myghtie, greate and stronge cite, and laye in their waye. For they coulde not go by it, nether of the ryght hande ner of the left, but must goo thowow it. Neuerthelesse they that were in the cite, wolde not let the go thowow, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes sayinge: Lett vs passe thowow your land, & we maye goo into oure awne countre: there shall no body do you harme, we will but only go thowow on fote. But they wolde not let them in.

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamation to be made thowow oute the hoste, that euery man shulde kepe his ordre: and so they dyd their best lyke valcaunt men.

And Judas beleged the cite all that daie and all that nyght, and so wanne it: where they slew as many as were males, and destroyed the cite, and spoyled it, and wente thowow all the cite ouer the place where they were slayne. Then wēt they ouer Iordane in to the playne felde before Bethsā. And Judas helpe the forwarde the behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacion all the waye thowow, tyll they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto the mount Syon, where they offred with myght & thanksgyvinge: because there were none of them slayne, but came home agayne peaceably.

Now what tyme as Judas & Jonathan were in the lande of Galaad, and Symon ther brother in Galilee before Ptolomays: Then

Then Josephus & some of zachary and Asaryas the captaynes, hearing of the actes that were done and of the battels that were broken, sayde: Lett vs get vs a name also, and go fyght agaynst the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

If So they gaue theyr hoost a commaundement, and wente towarde Jamna. Then came Gorgyas & his men out of the cite, to fyght agaynst them: Josephus also & Asaryas were chased vnto y borders of Jewry, & there were slayne that daye of the people of Israel. ii. M. men: so y there was a great misery amonge y people, & al because they were not obedient vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shulde quyte the felices maffully. Neuertheles they came not of the side of these men, by whom Israel was helped. But the me that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the syght of all Israel and all heathen, where so euer they name was herde vpo, & the people came vnto them, byddynge them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth wyth his brethren, and fought agaynst the childre of Esau, in the lande plyeth toward the south where he wanne the cite of Hebron and the townes that lye besyde it: & as for y walles and towres rounde aboute it, he bzent them vp. Then remoued he to go into the lade of the Philistines, and wente thowow Samaria. At the same tyme were there many prestes slayne in the battayll, whych wylfully and without aduysment wente out for to fyght to get the honoure. And when Judas ca to Azot in y Philistines lande, he brake downe theyr aultares, bzent the ymages of their Idols, spoyled y cyties, & came againe into the lande of Juda.

The. vi. Chapter.

Antiochus wyllyng to take the cite of Elymas for a praye is dyspued awaye of the cite. He falleth into spekenes & dyeth. His sonne Antiochus is made kynge. The besyge of y towne of Syon. Eupator cometh into Jewry wyth a great armye. The boldnesse of Eleazar.

When kynge Antiochus traunayled thowow the hye countrees, he herde y Elymas in Persia was a noble & plenteous cite in syluer & gold, & that there was in it a very riche temple: where as were clothes, cote armoures & myldes of golde, whych Alexander the sonne of Philippe kynge of Macedonia (that raygned fyrst in Greke londe) had left behynde hym. Wherfore he wente about to take the cite & to spoyl it, but he was not able: for the cite lynes were warned of it, & fought w him. And so he fled & departed wyth greate heupnesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Moreouer there came one whych brought him tydynge in Perside, that his hoostes which were in the lande of Juda, where dy-uen awaye, and how that Lysias wet forth fyrst wyth a greate power, & was dyspued awaye of the Jewes: how y they had wonne the victorie, & gotten greate goodes out of the hoostes y perished: how they had broken downe the abhominacyon, whych he set vp vpo the altare at Jerusalem, and fenced the Sanctuary with hye walles, lyke as it was afore: yee and Bethsura his cite also.

So it chaunced, that when the kynge had herde these wordes, he was afrayed and greued very soze. Wherfore he layed him downe vpon his bed, and fell sicke for very sozowe: ad all because it had not happened as he had deuised. And there contynued he longe, for his greue was euer, more & more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye. Therfore he sent for his frendes, & sayde vnto the: the slepe is gone fro myne eyes, for the very sozow and vexacion of herte that I haue. For when I couldre in my mynde the greate aduersyte y I am come vnto, & the floudes of heupnesse which I am come in, where as afore tyme I was so mery, & so greatly set by (by reason of my power) Agayne, consyderinge y euell y I haue done at Jerusalem, fro whence I toke all y ryches of golde & syluer y were in it, and sent to fetch awaye the inhabytours of Jewry wythout any reason why: I knowe, y these troubles are come vpon me for y same cause. And beholde, I must dye wyth greate sozow in a straunge lande. The called he for one Philippe a frende of his, whom he made ruler of all his realme, & gaue him the crowne, his roabe & his ryng: y he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto him, & bynge hym vp, tyll he myght raygne hi self. So the kynge Antiochus dyed there, in the. cxlii. yere. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was deed, he ordened Antiochus his sonne. (*Whoe he had brought vp) to raygne in his fathers steade, & called hym Eupator. Now they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes round about the Sanctuary, & sought euer styll to do them harme for the strengthenyng of the heathen.

Wherfore Judas thought to destroye the, and called all the people together, that they might laye sege vnto the. So they came together in the. Cl. yere, & beseged them, layinge forth theyr ordinaunce and instrumetes of warre. Then certayne of them that were beseged, wente forth (vnto whom some vngodly me of Israel ioynded them selues also) and wet vnto the kynge, sayinge: how longe wyll it be, or thou punyssh and auenge oure brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father serupce, to walke in his statutes, and to obeye his commaundementes: Therfore oure people fell from vs, and wherforeuer they founde any of vs, they slewe them: (and spoyled oure enheritaunce) and they haue haue not only medled wyth vs, but with all oure countrees: and beholde, this daye are they beseginge the castell at Jerusalem, & haue made vp the ströge holde in Bethsura: And yf thou doest not preuente them ryght soone, they wyll do more then these, & thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

When y kynge herde this, he was very angrye, and called all his frendes, the captaynes of his fote men, and of all his hoostmen together. He byzded men of warre also out of other realmes & out of the fles of the see, which came vnto hym. And the nobze of his host was an hundreth thousande fote men, & twentye thousande horsmen, & xxii. Elephantes wel exercised to battail. The same thowow Idumea vnto Bethsura, & beseged it a longe season, and made dysuerse instrumetes of warre agaynst it. But y Jewes came out ad bzent the, and fought lyke men. Then departed Judas fro the castell at Jerusalem, & remoued y host toward Bethsura caran ouer agaynst the kynges armye.

So the kynge arose before the daye, and brought the power of his host into y waye to Bethsacaran, where y hostes made the to y battayll, blowynge the tropettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fight, they shewed them the sappe of reed grapes & molberies. And deuised the Elephantes amonge the hoste: so y by euery Elephante there stode a. M. men well harnessed, & helmettes of stele vpon theyr heades: yee vnto euery one of the Elephantes also, were ordened. v. C. horsmen of the best, which wayted of the Elephante, goynge where so euer he wete, and departed not from hym. Euery Elephante was couered with a stronge tower of wod, where vpon were. xxii. valaunte me with weapens to fight, and within was a man of Inde to rule the best.

As for the remnant of the horsmen, he sett them vpo both the sydes in two partes with trompettes, to prouoke the hoste, ad to sterc vp loch as were slowe in the armye. And when the sunne shone vpo their shildes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agayne at them, and were as bright as the cressettes of fyre. The kiges hoost also was deuyned, one parte vpon the hye mountaynes, the other lowe beneth: so they went on, takynge good hede, and keepynge theyr ordre. And all they that dwelt in the lade, were afrayed at the noyse of their hoost, when the multitude wente forth, & when the weapens smote together, for the hoost was both great & myghy. Judas also & his hoost entred into the batayll, & slew. vi. C. me of the kynges armye. Now when Eleazar y sonne of Saura dyd se one of y Elephantes deckte w the kynges badge, & was a more goodly beast the other: he thought y kynge shuld be vpo him, & leoparde hi self to deluyce his people, and to gett hym a perpetuall name.

Wherfore he ranne with a corage vnto the Elephante in y middelt of the hoost, smytynge the do. one of both y sydes, & slewe many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephantes fete, & gat him vnder him, & slewe hym: then fell the Elephante downe vpo him, & there he dyed. Judas also & his men seing y power of the kynge & the myghtye violence of his hoost, departed fro them. And y kinges armye wete vpo agaynst the towarde Jerusalem, & pitched their tetes in Jewry besyde mount Sidon. Moreouer, the kynge toke truse with them that were in y Bethsura.

But when they came out of the cyte (because they had no vitales within, & the lade laye vntilled) the kynge toke bethsura, & set me to kepe it, & turned his hoost to the place of the Sanctuary, & layed siege to it a greate whyle. Where he made al maner ordinaunce: handbowes, fyrie dartes, rackettes to cast stones, scorpios to shotte arrowes, & flynges. The Jewes also made ordinaunce agaynst theirs, and fought a longe season.

But in the cyte there were no vptaples, for it was the seuenth yere of the warres, & those heathen y remayned in Jewry, had eaten vp all their stoare. And in the Sanctuary were few me lefte, for y hunger came so vpo the, that they were scattered abzoade euery man to his a wne place.

So when Lysias hearde that Philippe (*Whoe Antiochus the kynge wyle he was pet luyng. Had ordened to bynge vp Antiochus his sonne, that he myght be kynge) was come agayne out of Persia & Grece with the kiges hoost, & thought to optaine the kyngdome. He gat him to the king in all the haste, & to the captaynes of the hoost, & sayde: we decrease daply, & oure vptales are but small: Agayne, the place that we laye sege vnto, is very ströge, & it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre wyth these men, and take truce with them, and with all theyr people, ad graunte them to lye after theyr lawe, as they byd afore. For they be greued & do all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue despyed theyr lawe. So the kynge and the prynces were content, & sent vnto them to make peace, & they receaued it. Now whe the kynge & the prynces had made an othe vnto the, they came out of y castell, and the kynge wente vp to mount Syon. But when he sawe that the place was well fenced, he brake the othe that he had made, & commaunded to destroye the wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioche, where he founde Philippe haupng dominion of the cite. So he fought agaynst hym, and toke the cite agayne into his handes.

The vii. Chapter.

Demetrius raygneth after he had killed Antiochus & Lysias. He troubleth the children of Israel chozow & counsell of certen wycked personnes. The prayer of Judas against Micanor. Judas killeth Micanor, after he had made hys prayer.

In the Cii. yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the cytie of Rome with a small cōpany of men, vnto a citie of the lee coast, & there he bare rule. And it chanced, y^e while he came to Antioche the citie of his wyge-nitours, his host toke Antiochus & Lysias, to brynge them vnto him. But whē it was tolde hym, he sayd: let me not se theyr faces: So the hoost put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the trone of hys kyngdome, there came vnto hym wycked & vngodly mē of Israel: whose captayne was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene made hys prest: These men accused y^e people of Israel vnto the kyng, sayinge: Judas & hys brethren haue slayne thy frēdes, and dryuen vs out of our awne lāde. Wherfore, sende now some man (to whom thou geuest credence) that he may go and se all the destruccyon, which he hath done vnto vs & to the kynges lande, and lett him be punished with all hys frēdes and fauourers.

Then the kyng chose Bachides a frende of his, which was a man of greate power in the realme (beyonde the greate water) and faythfull vnto the kyng: and sent him to se the destruccyon that Judas had done. And as for that wycked Alcimus, he made hym hys prest, and commaunded hym to be auctored of the children of Israel. So they stode vp, and came with a greate hoost into the lande of Iuda, sendynge messaungers to Judas & hys brethren, & speakynge vnto them with peaccable wordes: but vnder disceate.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus & Bachides, trustinge the best vnto them. And fyrst the Alideans requyred peace of thē, sayinge: Alcimus the prest is come of the sede of Aarō, how can he disceauce vs? So they gaue thē lōynge wordes, & swore vnto them, & sayde: we wyl do you no harme: nether your frēdes: & they beleued them. But the very same daye toke they lx. men of them & slewe them accordynge to the wordes that are wyrtten: * They haue cast the flesch of thy sayntes, & shed their bloude rōnde about Ierusalem, & there was no mā y^e wolde burye them. So there came a greate feare and dzedc amōge the people, sayinge: there is nether treuth nor ryghteousnesse in thē, for they haue broken the appoyntement and othe y^e they made. And Bachides removed his hoost from Ierusalem, and pytched his tente at Betzecha: where he sent forth, & toke many of them that had forsaken hym: he slewe many of the people also, and cast them into a greate pytt. Then commytted he the lande vnto Alcimus, and left men of warre with hym to helpe hym, & Bachides hym self wēt vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended his hys presthode: & all such as vexed Israel resorted vnto hym: In so moche that they optayned the lande of Iuda, and dydmocheuell vnto the Israelites.

Now when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcimus and his cōpany had done (ye more then the heathen thē selues) vnto the Israelites: he wente forth rōnde about all the borders of Iewry, and punished those vnsaythfull rennagates, so that they came nomore out into the cōntre. So when Alcimus sawe, that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhāde, and that he was not able to abyde them: he wente agayne to the kyng, and sayde all the worst of them that he coude. Then the kyng sent Micanor, one of hys chiefe prynces (whych bare euell wyl vnto Israel) and commaunded him, that he shoulde utterly destroye the people.

* So Micanor came to Ierusalem with a greate goost, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (but vnder disceate) sayēge: there shall be no warre betwixte me & you: I wyl come with a fewe men, to se how ye do, with frēdschyppe. Upon this he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but y^e enemies were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Neuertheles it was tolde Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder disceate: wherfore he gat hym awaye from him, and wolde se hys face nomore. Whē Micanor perceaued that hys counsell was betrayed, he went out to fight agaynst Judas, helpe Capharsalama: where there were slayne of Micanors hoost. v. M. men: and the resydue fled vnto the castell of David.

After this came Micanor vp vnto mount Syon: and the prestes with the elders of the people wēt forth to salute hym peaceably, & to shewe hym the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed thē and y^e people to scozne, mocked them, defiled their offerings, & spake disdainfully, yee and swore in hys wyoth, sayenge: * If Judas and hys hoost be not delpyered now in to my hādes, as soone as euer I come agayne (I fare well) I shall burne y^e thys houle. With that, wente he out in agreate anger. Then the prestes came in, and stode before the aulter of the temple, wepyng & sayēge. * For so moch as thou (O Lorde) hast chosen this houle, that thy name myght be called vpon therin, & that it shoulde be * an house of prayer and petition for thy people: Be a- uenged benged of this man & his hoost, & let them be slayne with the sword: remēbre the blasphemies of them, and suffre them not to cōtinue any longer.

When Micanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pitched his tente at Bethozon, and there an hoost met hym out of Syria. And Judas came to Adara with thre thousand men, & made his prayer vnto God, sayeng: O Lorde, * because y^e messaungers of kyng Senacherib blasphemed y^e, the angell went forth, and slewe an hundred foure score and fyue thousande of them. Euen so destroye thou thys hoost before vs to daye, y^e other people maye knowe how that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuare: & punish hym accordynge to hys malyciousnesse.

And so the hostes stroke the felde, the thyrtyene daye of the monethe * Adar: and Micanors hoost was dysconfited, & and he him self was fyrst slayne in the battaylle. When Micanors men of warre sawe that he was kylled, they cast awaye theyr weapons and fled, but the Iewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney, from Adazer vnto Gazara, blowynge with y^e trōpettes, and makynge tokens after them. So y^e Iewes came forth of all y^e towncs there aboute, and blew out theyr hornes vpon them, and turned agaynst them. Thus were they all slayne, and not one of them left.

Then they toke theyr substance for a pray, and smote of Micanors heade and his ryght hande (which he helde vp so proude-ly) and brought it with them, & hāged it vpon afoze Ierusalem. Wherfore, the people were exceedingly reioyced, and passed ouer that day in greate gladnesse. And Judas ordeyned, that y^e same daye (namely y^e thyrtynth daye of the moneth Adar) shoulde be kepte in myrth euery yere. Thus the lāde of Iuda was in rest a lytle whyle.

The viii. Chapter.

Judas consyderyng the power and godly posspe of the Romaynes maketh peace with them. The rescript of the Romaynes sent vnto the Iewes.

Judas heard also the fame of the Romaynes, that they were myghty & valeaunt men, & agreeable to all thynges y^e are required of them, & make peace w^{al} men, which come vnto them, and how they were doughty men of strength. Welsydes y^e it was tolde him of theyr battaylles, and noble actes which they dyd in Galacia, how they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thynges they had done in Spayne, how that w^{al} theyr wysdome & soldier behauour they had wonne y^e Rynnes of silver & gold y^e are there, & optayned all y^e lāde, with other places farre from them: how they had dysconfyted & slayne downe y^e kyn- ges y^e came vpon them, from the uttermost parte of y^e earth, and how other people gaue thē tribute euery yere. How they had slayne & ouercome Philip and Perles kynges of Cethim, & other mo (in battaylle) which had brought theyr ordynauce agaynst thē: how they dyscōfyted great Antiochus kyng of Asia (that wolde nedes fyght w^{al} them) haupnge an hundred & twenty Elephātes, with horsemen, charettes, and a very great hoost: how they toke hym selfe alpye, & ordeyned hym (with such as shuld raygne after him) to paye thē a greate tpybute. * yee, and to fynde them good suertyes & pledge: helydes all thys, how they had taken from hym India, Media, and Lydia (his best lādes) and geuen them to kyng Eumenus. Agayne, how they perceauynge y^e the Grekes were cōpyng to vere thē: sent agaynst thē a captayne of an hoost, which gaue thē battaylle, slewe many of them, led awaye theyr wyues and chyldren captiue, spoyled thē, toke possession of theyr lande, destroyed theyr stronge holdes, and subdued them to be theyr bonde men, vnto thys daye. Moreover, how that as for other kyngdomes and Iles, which somtyme withstode them, they destroyed them, and brought them vnder theyr domynon. But helped euer theyr awne frendes and those that where confederat with them, and conquered kyngdomes both farre and nye: & that whosoever herde of theyr renowne, was afrayed of them: for whom they wold helpe to their kyngdomes, those raygned: & whom it lyked not them to raygne, they put him downe. And how they were come to greate preeminence: haupnge no kyng among them, nether any man clothed in purple, to be magnified there thoro- w, but had ordeyned them selues a perla- mēt, where in there sat thre hundred & twenty Senatours daylye vpon the counsell, to dyspatch euer y^e busynesse of the people, & to kepe good ordre. And how that euery yere they chose a Mayre, to haue y^e gouernance of all theyr land: to whom euery man was obedient, & there was nether euell wyl nor dyscōpyon amonge them.

Then Judas chose Eupolenus y^e some of Ihon the sonne of Jacob, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, & sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshyppe and a bōde of loue with them: that they myght take fro them the bōdage of y^e Grekes, for y^e Iewes sawe, that the Grekes wolde subdue y^e kyngdome of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very greate iourney) & came into y^e perla- mēt, and sayd: Judas Machabeus with his brethren and y^e people of y^e Iewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bōde of frēdschyppe and peace w^{al} you, & ye to note vs as pour louers and frendes. And þe matter pleased the Ro-maynes right wel, wherfore it was written vp: of the whiche þe Romaynes made a wytynge in tables of brasse, and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a me-moriall of the same peace & bonde of frend-shipp after this maner. God saue þe Romaynes and the people of the Jewes both by see and by land, and kepe the sweard and enemy fro the for euermore. If there come first eny warre vpon the Romaynes or eny of theyr frendes thow out all theyr dominyon, the people of the Jewes shall help them (as the tyme requyret) & that w all theyr hertes.

Also they shall nether geue nor sende vnto theyr enemyes vitayles, weapens, money ner shippes: but fulfyll this charge at þe Ro-maynes pleasure, & take nothyng fro them therfore. Agayne yf the people of þe Jewes happen fyrst to haue warre, the Romaynes shal stonde by them w a good wyll, accordyn-ge as þe tyme wyll suffre. Nether shall they geue vnto þe Jewes enemyes, vitayles, wea-pens, money ner shippes. Thus are the Ro-maynes content to do, and shall fulfyll their charge without eny disceate.

Accordynge to these articles, the Romaynes made the bonde with the Jewes. Now after these articles (sayde they) yf eny of the parties wyll put to the, or take eny thyng from them: they shall do it w the consent of both: & what soeuer they adde vnto them or take from them, it shall stande fast. And as touchynge yeuell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue written vnto hym, sayenge: wherfore layest þe thy heupocke vpon þe Jewes oure frendes & louers?
If they make eny cōplayne of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyght with the by see and by lande.

The ix. Chapter.

After the deeth of Apcanor, Demetrius sendeth his arme agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathas is put in the steade of hys brother. The strete betwene Jonathas and Bachydes. Alcimus is taken with the palpe and dyeth. Bachydes retourneth agayne into the kyng. He cometh vpon Jonathas by the counsell of certain wycked personnes, and is overcome. The treuce of Jonathas with Bachydes.

In the meane season whē Demetrius was slayne in the felde, he proceeded further to fede Bachydes and Alcimus a-gayne into Jewry, & those that were in the ryght wyng of his hoost, with them. So they went forth by the waye þe ledeth vnto Galgala, and pitched theyr tentes before Mefaloth which is in arbelleis, and wanne the cytie & slewe moche people. In the fyrst moneth of the Clij. yere, they brought theyr hoost to Jerusalem, and rose vp & came to Bcrea, with .xx. M. footmen, & .ii. M. horsemen.

Now Judas had pyched his tēte at Lay-sa, with thre thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so greute, they were soze afrayed, and many couped them selues out of the hoost. In so moch that there abode no mo of them but eyght hundred men. When Judas sawe þe hys hoost fayled hym, and that he must nedes fight: it brake his herte, that he had no tyme to gather them together: wherfore the man was in extreme trouble.
Nethertheless, he sayde vnto them, that remayned with hym. Up, lett vs go agaynst oure enemyes, peraduenture we shalbe able, to fyght with them. But they wolde haue stopped hym, sayenge: we shall not be able, therfore lett vs now saue oure lyues, & turne agayne to our brethren and then will we fyght agaynst the, for we are here but fewe.
And Judas sayde: God forbyd, þe shulde fle from them. Wherfore, yf oure tyme be come, lett vs dye manfully for our brethren, and lett vs not stayne oure honoure. Then the hoost remoued out of þe tentes, and stode agaynst them. The horsemen are deuyded in two partes: the syng casters & archers wente before þe hoost, and all the myghtye men were formost in þe felde. Bachydes himselfe was in þe ryght wyng of þe battayll, ad the hoost drewe nye in two partes, & blew the trompettes. They of Judas syde blew the troppettes also, & the earth shoke at the noyse of þe hostes, & they stroke a felde from the morow tyll nyght. And when Judas sawe þe Bachydes hoost was strongest of þe ryght syde, he toke with hym all the hardy men, & brake þe ryght wyng of theyr ordre, & folowed vpon them vnto þe mount Azot.

Now when they which were of the left wyng, sawe that þe ryght syde was discōfyte, they persecuted Judas & them þe were w hym. Then was there a soze battaylle, for many were slayne & wounded of both þe parties. Judas also him selfe was kyled, & the remnant fled. So Jonathas and Symon toke Judas theyr brother, and buryed hym in his fathers sepulchre in þe cytie of Modin.
And all þe people of Israel made greute la-mentacyon for hym, & mourned longe, sayenge: Alas, that thys worthy shulde be slayne, which deliuered þe people of Israel. As for other thynges perceyninge to þe battaylles of Judas, þe noble actes that he dyd & of hys worthynesse: they are not wyrtten, for they were very many.

And after þe deeth of Judas, wycked men came vp in all þe coastes of Israel, and there arose all soch as woꝝke vngodlynesse. In those dayes was there a greute dearthe in þe lande, and all the countre gaue ouer them selues and theyr vnto Bachydes. So Bachydes chose wycked men, and made them lordes lordes in þe land. These sought out & made search for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachydes: which auenged hi self vpo them with great despyte. And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not sens þe tyme that no prophete was sene there.

Then came all Judas frendes together, and sayde vnto Jonathas: For so moch as thy brother Judas is deed, there is none ly-ke him to go forth agaynst our enemyes, a-gaynst Bachydes, & soch as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherfore thys daye we chose the for hi, to be oure prync & captayne to orde oure battaylle. And Jonathas to-ke þe gouernance vpon hym at the same tyme, and ruled i steade of hys brother Judas.
Whē Bachydes gatt knowledge therof, he sought for to sleie hym. But Jonathas and Symon his brother, perceauinge that, fled into the wilderness of Chema with al their company, and pyched theyr tentes by the water pole of Asphar.

Which when Bachydes vnderstode, he came ouer Jordane with all his hoost vpon þe Sabbath day. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Ithon (a captayne of the people) to praye hys frendes the Nabuthytes, þe they wolde lende them their ordinaunce, for they had moch. So the chyldre of Jambry came out of Madaba, and toke Ithon and al that he had, and wete theyr waye withal. Then came worde vnto Jonathas & Simon hys brother, that the chyldren of Jambry made a greute mariage, and brought the bride fro Madaba with greute pompe: for she was daughter to one of þe noblest prynces of Ca-naā. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Ithon their brother, and wete vp and hid the selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp theyr eyes, and looked, & beholde, there was moch a do, and great repayre: for the bridegrome came forth, & hys frendes and hys brethren met them w tym-panes, instrumētes of musicke, and many weapens. Then Jonathas and they þe were with him, rose out of their lounkyng places agaynst them, and slewe many of them.
As for the remnant, they fled into þe moun-taines, and they toke all theyr substāce. Thus the mariage was turned to moꝝ-ninge, and the noyse of theyr melody into la-mentacyon. And so when they had auenged þe bloud of theyr brother, they turned agayne vnto Jordane.

Bachydes hearynge thys, came vnto the very border of Jordane with a great power vpo þe Sabbath daye. And Jonathas sayd to hys companye, let vs get vp, and fyght agayne oure enemyes: for it stādeth not with vs to dape, as in tyme past: Beholde, oure enemyes are in our waye, the water of Jordane vpon the one syde of vs, wth bankes, fennes and woddes of the other syde, so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto.

Wherfore crie now vnto heauen, that ye maye be deliuered fro þe power of your ene-myes. So they stroke þe battaylle. And Jonathas stretched out hys handes to smyt Bachydes, but he fled backwarde. Then Jonathas & they þe were with him leapte into Jordane, and swymmed ouer Jordane vnto hym, and there were slayne of Bachydes side that daye, a thousande men.

Therfore Bachydes wth his hoost turned agayne to Jerusalem, and buylde vp þe castels and strong holdes that were i Jew-rye, Jericho, Emaus, Bethozon, Bethell, Chamnata, Phara and Copo, w hys wal-les, with portes and with lockes: & let men to kepe the, that they myght vse theyr malyce vpo Israel. He walled vp Bethsurath, Gazarah and the castell at Jerusalem also and prouided the wth men and vitayles.
He toke also the cheffest mens sonnes in the countre for pledges, and put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the hundred fiftye & thre yere in þe secōde moneth, Alcimus comaun-ded, that þe walles of the ynnmost Sanctuary shuld be destroyed, and the buyldinges of þe prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroie them, þe thynges þe he wete aboute, were hyndered, for he was smyttē w a pal-sey, and his mouth shut, so that he coulde no more speake ner comaunde eny of his house concernynge his busynesse. Thus dyed Alci-mus in greute mysery at þe same tyme. And whē Bachydes sawe that Alcimus was deed, he turned agayne to the kyng, and so þe lāde was in rest two yeres. Then all the vngodly men held a counsell, sayenge: Behold, Jonathas and his company are at ease, and dwell without care. Wherfore let vs brige Bachydes hyther, and he shall take them al in one nyght.

So they wente and gaue Bachydes this counsell, which arose to come with a greute hoost, and sent lettres pryncely to his adheres, whiche were in Jewrye, to take Jona-thas & those þe were w hym: but they myght not for þe other had gottē knowledge of the-yr deuyce. And Jonathas toke fyfty me of þe countre (whiche were þe ringleaders of the) and slewe the. Then Jonathas and Simō wth theyr cōpany departed vnto the cytie Bethbessen whiche lyeth in the wyldernes, & repayred þe decaye therof, & made it strōg.
When Bachydes knewe thys, he gathered all hys hoost, and sent worde to them that were of Jewry. Then came he and layed sege to Bethbessen & fought agaynst it a long season, & made instrumētes of warre. Now Jonathas left his brother Simō in þe cytie, Juii and

and wente forth hym selfe into the fildre, & came with a certayne nobye, & flewe Odares and his brethren and the children of Bhaseron in theyr tentes: so that he beganne to be stronge, and to increase in power.

As for Symon and his companye, they wente out of the citty, and went by the iurmentes of warre, & fought agaynst Basydes, and discōfyt hym. And Basydes was soze vered, because his counceyl and traunayl was i wayne. Wherefore he was wroth at the wycked men (that gaue hym counceyl to come into theyr lāde) and slewe many of them. Then purposed he with his company to go awaye into his awne countre: wherof whē Jonathas had knowledge, he sent embassitours vnto hym, for to make peace w hym, and that he shuld deliuer hym his prisoners agayne. To the whych Basydes cōsented gladly, and dyd accordynge to his desyre: yee and made an othe, that he shulde neuer do hym harme al the dayes of his lyf. So he restozed vnto hym al the prisoners that he had taken out of the lāde of Iuda, & then turned and wente his waye into his awne lāde, nether proceded he eny further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Israel had nomore warre. And Jonathas dwelt at Machemas, and beganne there to gouerne the people, and destroyed þ vngodly men out of Israel.

The .x. Chapter.

Demetrius desyeth to haue peace with Jonathas Alexander moueth warre agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The frendshyppe of Ptolomeus & Alexander.

* Joseph. ca. vi. lib. viii.

In the hundred and thre scoze yere came Alexander þ sonne of noble Antiochus and toke Ptolomeus, whose cytespyns receaued him, and there he raygned. When Demetrius herde therof, he gathered an exceeding greāt hoost, and went forth agaynst him to fyghe. Wherefore Demetrius sent lētters vnto Jonathas with lōuyng wordes, and prayled him greatly. For he sayde: we will first make peace with him, before he bynde hym selfe wth Alexander agaynst vs: els he shall remembre þ euell that we haue done agaynst hym, his brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leue to gather an hoost, to make weapons, and to be confederat wth hym, & commūded the pledges that were i the castell, to be deliuered vnto hym.

Then came Jonathas to Ierusalem, and red the lētters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were i the castell. And therfore were they soze afraied, because they herde, that þ kyng had geuen hym lycence to gather an hoost. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathas, whych restozed the to theyr elders. Jonathas also dwelt at Ierusalem, and beganne to buylde vp & to repayre the citty: commādyng the workmen, to wall it, and the mount Sion round aboute with fre stone, to be a stronge holde, and so they dyd. As for þ heathen that were i þ castles which Basydes had made by theyr fled: so that euery man left þ place, and wēt into his awne countre. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of þ Jewes, whych had forsaken þ lawe and commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Now when kyng Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas, and when it was tolde hym of þ battels and noble acten, whych he and his brethren had done, and of the greāt traunayles that they had takē, he sayde: where shall we fynde soch a man? well, we wyll make him our frende, and be cōfederat wth hym. Upō this he wrote a lēttr vnto hym, with these wordes: kyng Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. We haue herde of the, þ thou art a valeant man, and mete to be our frende: wherefore this daye we ordeyne the to be the hye prest of thy people, and to be called the kynges frēde. (Upon this, he sent hym a purple clothyng, and a crowne of golde) that thou mayest conspyre what is for oure profyt, and kepe frendshyppe towarde vs.

So in the seuenth moneth of the hundred and thre scoze yere vpo the solempne feast daye of the tabernacles, Jonathas put þ holy rayment vpon him. Then gathered he an hoost, and made many weapons. Which whē Demetrius herde, he was maruelous sorry, & sayde: Alas, what haue we done, that Alexander hath preuēted vs in gettyng þ frēdshyppe of the Jewes, for his awne defence? Yet will I wyte lōuyngly vnto them also, yee and promyse them dignities and rewardes, þ they maye be of my lyde. Whereupon he wrote vnto the these wordes. Kyng Demetrius sendeth greting vnto þ people of þ Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte your cōuenant towarde vs, & cōtynued in our frendshyp, not enclpyning to our enemyes, we were glad, when we herde therof. Wherefore remayne styll, & be faythfull to vs: & we shall well recōpense you for þ thynges, þ ye haue done on oure part: we shall release you of many charges, & geue you rewardes. And now I dyscharge you & all þ Jewes frō tributes, I forgeue you þ customes of salt, and release you of þ crowne taxes, of the thyrde parte of seide, & half of þ frute of trees, which is myne awne dewtye. These I leaue for you, frō this daye forth: so þ they shal not be taken of the lande of Iuda ner of the thre cyties whych are added ther vnto out of Samaria and Galylee, from this daye forth for euer.

For enermore. Ierusalem also with al thynges be longyng thereto, shal be holy and fre, yee þ tythes and trybutes shall pertaine vnto it. As for the power of þ castell which is at Ierusalem, I remyt & geue it vnto þ hye prest, that he maye set i it soch mē, as he shal chole to kepe it. I frely deliuer al the Jewes that are prisoners thozow out all my realme: so þ euery one of the shal be free from payng any trybute, yee euen of their catell.

All the solempne feastes, Sabbathes, new moones, the dayes appoynted, the thre dayes before & after the feast, shal be fre for all the Jewes in my realme: so that in them no man shal haue power to do eny thyng, or to moue any busynesse agaynst any of the in any maner of cause. There shall thyrty thousande also of the Jewes be wyrtten by in the kynges hoost, and haue theyr wages payed, as all other men of warre of the kynges shulde haue: and of them shal be ordeyned certayne, to kepe þ kynges strong holdes: yee and some of the shal be set ouer the kynges busynesse, that they maye faythfully deale w the same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of theyr awne, and walcke in theyr awne lawes, as the kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cyties that are fallen vnto Jewry from þ countre of Samaria & Galylee: shal be taken as Jewry, and be vnder one: nether be subiecte to any straunge Lord, but to the hye prest. As for Ptolomeus and the lande perteynyng thereto, I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Ierusalem, for the necessary expences of the holy thynges. Moreover, I wyll geue euery yere fyftene thousand Syckles of syluer out of þ kynges checker (which pertaineth vnto me) to the worke of the temple: yee and loke what remayneth (which they þ had oure matters in hand in tymes past, haue not payed) þ same shal they geue vnto them also. And besydes all this, the fyue thousand Syckles which they toke yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary, shal belonge vnto the prestes that do seruyce.

Item, whosoever they be that fle vnto þ temple at Ierusalem or within the liberties therof, where as they are fallen into þ kynges dainger for eny maner of busynesse, they shal be pardoned and all the goodes that they haue in my realme, shal be fre. For the buyldyng also and repayring of the worke of the Sanctuary, expenses shal be geuen out of the kynges Checker: yee and for the makynge of the walles rounde aboute Ierusalem, for þ breakyng downe of the olde and for the lēttyng by of þ stronge holdes in Jewry, shal the costes and charges be geuen out of the kynges Checker.

* But when Jonathas and the people hearde these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them, nether receaued them: for they remembred the greāt wyckednesse that he had done vnto Israel, and how soze he had vered them. Wherefore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a pryncce that had dealt frendly wth them, and so they stode by hym all waye. * Then gathered kyng Alexander a greāt hoost, and brought his armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges stroke bataylle together, but Demetrius host fled, and Alexander folowed after and fell vpon them. A myghty soze felde was it, contynuyng tyll the Sonne wente downe, and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

* Joseph. b. lib. viii.

And Alexander sente ambassitours vnto Ptolomeus the kyng of Egypte with these wordes, sayenge: For so much as I am come agayne to my realme, and am set in the trone of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynyon, ouercomed Demetrius, conquered the lande, and stryke a felde wth hym, so that we haue discōfyt both hym and his hoost, and spt in the trone of his kyngdome. Let vs now make frēdshyppe together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in lawe, and both geue the rewardes, and her greāt bygnite. Ptolomeus the kyng gaue answer, sayenge: happy be the daye wherein thou arte come agayne to the lande of thy progenytours, and set in the trone of thy kyngdome. As now wyll I fulfill thy wytyng: but mete me at Ptolomeus, that we maye se one another, & that I maye mary my daughter vnto the accordynge to thy desyre. So Ptolomeus wente out of Egypte wth his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomeus in the Cxii. yere: where kyng Alexander met him, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, & married the at Ptolomeus with greāt wysshyppe, lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. The wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he shulde come and mete hym. So he wrote honorably vnto Ptolomeus, and there he mete the two kynges, and gaue them greāt presentes of golde and syluer, and founde fauoure i theyr syght. And there came together agaynst Jonathas certayne wycked men & vngacious personnes of Israel, makynge complayntes of hym, but þ kyng regarded the not. As for Jonathas, the kyng commaunded to take of his garmentes, and to clothe hym i purple: and so they dyd. Then þ kyng appoynted hym to spt by hym, and sayde vnto his princes: Go with hym into þ myddest of the citty, and make a proclamacyon, that no man complayne agaynst him of eny matter, and that no man trouble hym for eny maner of cause.

* Josephus. ca. vi. lib. vii. Antio.

* Josephus. ca. vi. lib. vii. Antio.

So it happened, that when hys accusers sawe the worlhyppye which was proclaimed of hym, and that he was clothed in purple: they fled euerychone. And the kynge made moch of hym, wrote hym amonge hys chere frendes, made hym a duke, and partaker of hys domynion. * Thus Jonathas went awayne to Jerusalem with peace & gladnes. In the xlv. yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius frō Creta to hys fathers lande: wherof whē Alexander herde tell, he was ryght sozpy, and returned vnto Antioche. And Demetrius chose * Appollonius, (whych had the gouernance of Celosyria) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate hoost and came vnto Iamnia, and sente word vnto Jonathas the hys preste, sayeng: Darrest I with- stand vs thy self alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scozne and shamed, because thou proudest thy strength agaynst vs in y mo- untaynes. Now therfore, yf thou trustest in thyne awne strength, come downe to vs in- to the playne felde, and there let vs proue our strenght together: thou shalt fynde, that I haue valeaunt mē of warre wyth me and shalt knowe who I am, and the other that stande by me.

Whych saye, that your fote is not able to stāde before oure face, for thy fathers haue bene twise chaced to the y aduē lade. And now, how wilt y be able to abyde so greate an hoost of horsmen and fotemen in the fel- de, where as is nether rocke, stone ner place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas herd the wordes of Ap- pollonius, he was moued i hys mynde: wher- fore he chose tente thousand men, and wen- te out of Jerusalem, and Symon hys bro- ther met hym for to help hym. And they pit- ched theyr tētes at Joppa, but y cytie kepte hym forth, for Joppa was an holde of Ap- pollonius. Then Jonathas layed sege to it, and they that were in the cytie, for very fea- re let hym in: and so Jonathas wanne Jop- pa. Appollonius hearinge of thys toke thre thousand horsmen, with a greate hoost of fote, and wente as though he wold go to A- zotus, and came immediatly to the playne felde: because he had so many horsmen, and put hys trust in thē. So Jonathas folowed vpon hym to Azotus, and there they stroke the battaylle. Now had Appollonius lefte a thousand horsmē behynde them pryncely in the tētes. And when Jonathas knewe that soch wayte was layed behynde them, they went rounde aboute the enemyes hoost and shot darteres at the people frō the moynge to the euenynge. As for Jonathas people, they kepte theyr ordze as he had commaun- ded them, and the enemyes horses were euer labouringe.

Then brought Tymon forth hys hoost, & set them agaynst the fote men. For the hor- men were wery all ready. So he discoryted them, and they fled. And they that were sca- tred in the feld, gat thē to Azotus, and ca- me into the temple of Wagon theyr Idoll, y they myght there saue theyr lyues. But Jo- nathas let fyre vpon Azotus and all the cy- ties rounde aboute it, and toke theyr goodes and * bzrent vp the temple of Wagon, wyth all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and bzrent well nye. viii. M. men. So Jonathas remoued the hoost from thence, and brought them to Ascalon: where the men of the cytie came forth, & met hym with greate worlhypp. After this wēt Jonathas and hys hoost awayne to Jerusa- lem, with greate substaunce of good. And when kynge Alexander herde these thynges he thought to do Jonathas more worlhypp and sent hym a colar of golde, as the vse is to be geuen vnto soch as are of the kynges next bloude. He gaue hym also the cytie of Accaron (with the landes belongynge ther- to) in possession.

The xi. Chapter.

The difference betwixt Ptolomeus and Alexander hys sonne in lawe. The deeth of Alexander. Demetrius raygneth after the deeth of Ptolomeus. Symon is beseged of Jonathas. Demetrius seynge that no man resisted hym, sendeth his armye agayne. Tri- phon moueth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. De- metrius is deliuered by the succour of Jonathas. After hys deliuerance he breaketh hys couenaunt that he had made.

And the kynge of Egypte gathe- red an hoost (lyke the lande that lyeth vpo y see shore) and many wyues: * & v. c. aboute thozow di- scate to optayne y kyngdome of Alexander, & to loyne it vnto hys awne real- me. Vpo thys he toke hys iourney into Si- ria, & was lettē into the cyties, and mē came forth to mete hym: for kynge Alexander had commaunded them so to do, because he was hys father in lawe. Now whē Ptolomey en- tred into eny cytie, he lefte men of warre to kepe it, and this he dyd thozow out all the cities. And when he came to Azotus, * they shewed hym the temple of Wagon and Azotus that was bzrent vp, with the other thyn- ges whych were destroyed, the deed bodys cast abrode, & y graues that they had made by y waye syde, for soch as were slayne in y felde. And tolde y kyng that Jonathas had done all these thynges, to y intēt they might get hys euell wyll. But the kynge sayde not a worde therto. And Jonathas met the kynge wyth greate honour at Joppa, whe- re they saluted one another, and toke theyr rest. So whē Jonathas had gone w y kyng vnto the water that was called Cleuthe- rus, he turned agayne to Jerusalem.

Nowe Ptolomey had gotten the domynion of the cyties vnto Seleucia vpon y see coast, pynagynge wyched counceils agaynst A- lexander, and sent ambassitours vnto Deme- trius, sayeng. Come, let vs make a bond be- twyxe vs, so shall I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my daughter, for the goeth aboute to slep me. And thus he sleaundred Alexander, because he wolde haue had hys realme.

Thus he toke hys daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke A- lexander, so that his malysce was openly kno- wne. And Ptolomey cam to Antioche, where he set two crownes vpo hys awne head: the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kynge Alexander in Cilicia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebel- led agaynst him. But when Alexander herde of thys, he came to warre agaynst hym. So kynge Ptolomey brought forth hys hoost & met hym with a myghty power, and chaced him awaye. Then fled Alexander into Ara- by, there to be defended, and kynge Pto- lomes honour increased. And zabdici y Ara- bian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolomey. But the thys daye after, dyed kynge Ptolomey hym selfe: and whom he had sett in the strōge holdes, were slayne of those that were wythin the cyties. And Demetrius raygned in the hundred and se- uen and syrtie yere.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas thē that were in Jewry, to laye sege vnto the ca- stell whych was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wente there certayne vngodly per- sonnes (whych hated their awne people) vn- to kynge Demetrius, and tolde hym that Jo- nathas beseged the castell. So whē he heard it, he was angrie, and immediatly came vn- to Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathas, that he shulde not laye sege to the castell, but come and speake wyth him in all the haste. Neuertheles, when Jonathas herde this, he commaunded to besēge it. He chose also cer- tayne of the elders and prestes of Israel, and put him selfe in the parell, and toke with him golde, syluer, clothyng, and diuerse presen- tes: & wente to Ptolomais vnto the kynge, and founde hym gracyous.

And though certayne vngodly men of hys awne people made cōplaintes vpon him, yet y kyng intreated hym, * lyke as hys prede- cessours had done before: and promoted hym in the syght of all his frendes, cōfyrmed hym in the hys presthode with all y worlhypp y he had afore, and made him hys chere frēde. Jo- nathas also despyed the kyng, that he wolde make Jewry fre, * w the thre head cyties of Samaria and the landes pertaynyng ther- to: vpon thys dyd Jonathas promysse hym thre. C. talentes. Where vnto y kyng cōsen- ted, & gaue Jonathas wytyng of the same, conteyning these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto his brother Jonathas & to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a cōpy of the lettre which we dyd wyte vnto oure eldēt Lathenus, concernynge you that ye shulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto Lathenus hys eldēt. For the saythfulnesse y oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the louynge kyndnes whych they beare towarde vs: we are determyned to do thē good. Wherfore we ordeyne all the coastes of Jewry with thre cyties, Lydda & Ramatha (whych are added vnto Jewrye from Samaria) and all the landes pertay- nyng there vnto, to be frely separated for soche as do sacrificy in Jerusalem: both concer- nyng the paymentes whych the kynge toke yearly afore tyme, and the frutes also of the earth and trees. As for other tythes and tri- butes that belonged vnto vs, we discharge them therof from thys tyme forth. In lyke manner we graunte vnto them all the custo- mes of salt and crowne taxes, whych were brought vnto vs. And this fredome shall they haue fyrm and stedfast, from thys ty- me forth for euermore. Therfore se that ye make a cōpy of these our lettres, and deliuer it vnto Jonathas: that it maye be kepte vpo the holy mount in a convenient place.

After thys, when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his lande was in rest, and that no resystaunce was made him: he sent awaye all his hoost, euery man to hys awne place, ex- cepte an army of straungers, whō he brought from the Ales of the heathen, wherfore all hys fathers hoost had euell wyll at hym. * Nowe was there one Triphon (that had be- ne of Alexanders parte afore) whych when he sawe that all y hoost murmured agaynst Demetrius: he wente to Emalcuel the Ara- bian (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye sege vpon hym, to de- liuer hym this yōge Antiochus: y he myght raygne in hys fathers steade. He tolde hym also, what great euell Demetrius had done, and howe his men of warre loued him not: & so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kynge Deme- trius, to dyue them out whych were in the castell at Jerusalem, and in the other refu- ges, for they dyd Israel greate harme. So Demetrius sent worde vnto Jonathas, sa- yeng: I wyll not only do these thynges for y and thy people, but at tyme conuenient I wil do both the and thy people great worlhypp. But nowe thou shalt do me a pleasure, yf y wilt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne

* Joseph. cap. vii. lib. viii.

In this armye

armye is gone fro me. So Ionathas let him the thousand stronge men vnto Antioche, & they came vnto Pkyng, wherefore the kyng was very glad at their comming. But they that were of the cytie (euen an hundred and twenty thousande men) gathered the together, and wold haue slayne the kyng, which fled into his court, and the cytelins kepte the stretes of the cytie, and beganne to fyght.

Then the kynge called for the Jewes bel-ye, whych came vnto hym all together, and wente abrode thowme the cytie, and slewe the same daye an hundred thousande men: set fyr vpb the cytie, gat many spoyles in that daye, and deliuered the kynge. So whē the cytelyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their wyll of the cytie, & they them selues di-sapoynted of their purpose, they made theyr supplicacion vnto the kynge, sayeng: Grant vs peace, and let the Jewes cease fro troublyng vs and the cytie, and vpon this they cast awaye theyr weapens. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes gatt great worthypin the syght of the kinge, and in the syght of all that were in hys realme, and were spoken of thowme out the kynngdome: and so they came agayne to Ierusalem wpth great goodes.

¶ So the kynge Demetrius sat in the throne of hys kyngdome, and had peace in his lāde: Neuerthelesse, he dyssembled in all that euer he spake, and wythdrew hym selfe fro Ionathas, nether rewarded hym acknowledging to the benefites which he had done for him, but troubled hym very sore. After thys came Tryphon agayne wyth yonge Antiochus, whych raygned and was crowned kynge. Then there gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whō Demetrius had put away: these fought against Demetrius, which fled and turned his backe. So Tryphon toke the Elephātes, & wāne Antioche. And yōg Antiochus wrote vnto Ionathas, saynge: I con fynde the in thy prestode, and make the ruler of .iiij. countres, & thou mayest be a frēde of the kynges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue hym leue to drynke in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to were a collar of golde, he made hys brother Symō also captayne, fro the coastes of Tyrrus vnto the borders of Egypt. Then Ionathas to ke his iourney, and wete thorowe the cyties beyond the water of Iordane, & all the mē of warre of Syria gathered them vnto him for to helpe him. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the cytie receaued hym honorably, and from thence wente he vnto Gaza, but they wolde not lett hym in: wherfore he layed sege vnto it, burnynge vp and spoy-lynge the places that were aboute the cytie.

And the cytesyns of Gaza submitted the 19 schies unto Jonathas, which made peare in the, but toke of they? soimes to pledge, sent them to Ierusalem; and wente thozowe the cowntre vnto Damaskus. Nowe whē Ionathas herde that Demetrius princes were come into Cabes (which is in Galilee) wyth a greate hoost, purpolsynge to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme: he came agaynst them, and lesse Symon hys brother in the lande: whych came to Bethsura, and layed sege to it a longe season, and discomfitted the. So they desyred to haue peace with hym, whych he graunted them, and afterwarde put them out from thence, toke the cite, and sett men to kepe it. And Ionathas wth his hoost came to the water of Genesar, and by tymes in the moornyng gatt them to the playne felde of Azot.

And beholde, the hostes of the Heathen met them in the felde, and layed watch for them in the mountaynes: so that when Ionathas came against them, the other (which were layed to watch) rose out of theyr places, and fought, and they that were of Ionathas syde, fled euery man: and there was not one of them left, except Hathathias the sonne of Absalomus, & Judas the sonne of Caphi the captayne of the host. Then Ionathas rente his clothes, layed earth vpon his head, made his prayer, and turned agayne to the in the felde: where they fought together, & he put them to flight. Nowe when his a wne me, that were fled, sawe this: they turned agayne vnto hym and helped him to followe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the Heathen the same daye thre thousande men, and Ionathas turned agayne to Ierusalem.

The. xij. Chapter.

¶ Jonathan sendeth Ambassadors to Darius and to the people of Sparta to renew their covenant of frendship. Jonathan putteth to flight the princes of Demetrius. Jerophon taketh Jonathan by decree.

Nonathas seying that þ tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sent the vnto Rome for to sta-blysh to renue the frendshipp with the. he sent letters also vnto Sparta, and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counsell, & sayde: Jonathas the hye preste and the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you, for to renue the olde frendshipp and bonde of loue: & þo thys the Romaynes ga-ue them fre passortes, that men shulde lede them home into the lade of Iuda peaceably.
And thys is the copy of the letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hye pries^t wth the elders, pres-tes, & the oth^r people of the Jewes, sende gretynge vnto the Spartians their brethren.
There were letters sente longe agoo vnto Dinas the hye pries^t, fro Arius, wherby than captained

assigned among you: that ye are our brethren; as the vespunge made ther vpon, speaketh: And Onias entreated the embassitour that was sent, honorably, and receaued the letters: where in there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and frendshyppe.

25. But as for vs, we haue no suche wrytynges: for why? we haue the holy booke of scripture in oure handes to our comforte. Neuertheles, we had rather sende vnto you, for the remynge of the brotherhode and frendshyppe: lest we shulde be straunge vnto you: for it is longe; sens the tyme y^e sent worde vnto vs. Wherefoze in the sacrificys that we offre and other cerimonys vpo the hye solempne dayes and other, we alwaye remembre you without ceassyng (lyke as reason is, and as it becommeth vs to thyncke vpon our brethren) yee and are ryght glad of youre p^{ro}- sperous honoure.

And though we haue had great troubles and warres, so that the hynghes aboute vs haue foughten against vs: yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you, ner to other of our lo-uers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are deliuered, and oure enemies subdued. Wherefore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renue the olde bonde of frendshyppe and loue with them. We comaunded them also to come vnto you to salute you, and to delyuer you oure lettres, concernynge the renouacyon of oure brotherhode. And now we shall do ryghte well, to geue vs an answer there vnto.

C And this is the copy of the wyptynge, which Arius the kynge of Sparta sent vnto Onias. Arius kynge of the Spartians sendeth greetynge vnto Onias the hye prest. It is founde in wyptynge, that the Spartians and Jewes are brethzen, and come out of the generaciō of Abrahā. And nowe for so moch as this is come to oure knowledge, ye shall do well, to wypte vnto vs of your p[ro]sp[er]itye. As for vs, we haue wypttē oure myn-de vnto you: Oure catell and goodes are yours, & yours ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Ionathas hearde, that Demetrius prynces were come forth to fyght agaynst him, with a greater host then afore, he went from Ierusalem, and met them in the lande of Bethan, for he gaue them no space to come into his awne countrey. And he sent spies vnto their tentes, which came agayne and tolde him, that they were appoynted to come vpon him in the nyght season. Wherefore when the sunne was gone downe, Ionathas comma-unded his men to watche all the nyght, and to be ready wth weapons for to fyght: and set D watchmen rounde aboute the host. But When the aduersaries herde that Ionathas was ready with his men to fy battayll, they feared, and were afraied in their hertes, and kyndled fyres in their tentes; brake vp, and gat the awaye. Neuertheles Ionathas and his cōpany knewe it not tyll the mornynge; for they sawe the fyres burnynge.

Then Jonathas folowed vpo them, but he myght not ouertake them, for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherns. So Jonathas departed vnto þe Arabiās (which were called Sabadel) ſawe the, and toke their goodes. he proceeded further alſo, and came vnto Damascus, and wente thorowe all þe countre. But Simō his brother toke his iourney and came to Aſcalon and to the nexte ſtrōge holdes: departynge vnto Joppa, and wantte it. For he herde that they wolde ſtāde of wemetrus partye: wherfore he ſet mē of warre in the cpte, to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne, and called the elders of þe people together: and deuyſed wiþ them for to bylde vp the ſtronge holdes in Jeruſy, & the walles of Jeruſalē, to ſer vp an hve wall betwixt the caſtell and the cpte, for to ſeparate it from the cpte, that it myght be alone, and that men ſhulde nether bye nor ſell in it.

¶ Upō this they came together for to buy-de vp the ctyie, and for so much as the wall vpon the broke of the west syde (called Caphetah) was fallen downe, they repayred it.
And Simon set vp Adiabab in Sephelah, & made it strōge settinge portes & lockes vpo it. Nowe when * Triphon purposed to rap-tune in Asya, to be crowned, and to slay the kyng Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas wolde not suffre hym, but fyght against him. Wherefore he wente about to sake Ionathas, and to kyll hym.

So he departed, and came vnto Beth-san. Then wente Ionathas forth agaynst hym to the battayll with fourtye thousande chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan also.
 But when Triphon sawe that Ionathas came wpyth so greate an hoste to destroye him, he was afrayed: and therfore he recea-ued him honorably, commēded him vnto all hys frendes, and gaue hym rewardes, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to him selfe.

And sayde vnto Ionathas: why hast thou caused this people to take such traunple, sepyng there is no warre betwyxe vs? Therfore sende the home agayne, and chosse certayne men to wayte vpon the, and come thou w-me to Bofomais: for I wyll geue it þe, with the other stronge holdes, men of warre and their officers: As for me, I must departe, this is onely the cause of my conpyng. Ionathas beleued him, and dyd as he sayde, puttynge awaye his host, which wente in to the lande of Iuda. he kepte but .iiij. ¶ by him, whereof he sent. ii. M. into Galile, and one. M. wente with him selfe.

Nowe as soone as Ionathas entred into Ptolomais, the cytelys spard the gates of the cytie, and toke him, and slewe all them with the swerde, & came in with him. Then sent Crispion an host of fote men and horsemen into Galilee and into the greete playne felde, to destroie all Ionathas company. But when they knewe that Ionathas was take, and all they sayne that wayted vpon hym: they toke counsell together, and came forth ready to the battayll. So when they whych folowed vpon the, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned backe agayne. As for the other, they wente into the lande of Juda peaceably, & bewayled Ionathas, and them that were with hym ryght sore. And Israel made great lamentacion. Then all the heathen that were rounde aboute the, sought to destroie them. For they sayde: nowe haue they no captayne, nor any man to helpe the. Therefore lett vs overcome them, and rote out their name from amonge men.

The. xiiij. Chapter.

After Ionathas was taken. Symon is chosen captayne, of whom Crispion takynge hys chyldre and money for the redemption of Ionathas, kyleth hym and hys chyldren. The graue of Ionathas. Crispion kyleth Antiochus, and possedeth the realme. Demetrius taketh fruce wth Symon. Symon wynneth Gaza. He possedeth the towre of Syon. He maketh his sonne John Captayne.

Nowe when Symon herde y Crispion gathered a great hoste, to come into the lande of Juda, & to destroie it: and sawe that the people was in great fearfulness and care: he came vnto Ierusalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacyon, sayinge: Ye knowe what greete battayls I and my brethren and my fathers house haue fought for the lawe and the Sanctuary, and what manner of troubles we haue sene: thowow occasyon wherof * all my brethren are slayne for Israels sake, and I am left alone. And nowe lett not me spare myne awne lyfe in any maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethren: but wyll auenge my people and the Sanctuary, oure chyldren and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together, to destroie vs of very malice.

At these wordes the hertes of the people were kyndled together, so that they cryed w a loude voyce, sayinge. Thou shalt be oure captayne in steade of Judas and Ionathas thy brethren, ordre thou oure battell, & whatsoever thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, makinge haste to synke all the walles of Ierusalem, which he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sent he Ionathas the sonne of Absaloms with a fresh hoste vnto Joppa, which he gaue them out that were in the castell, and remayned there him selfe. Crispion also remoued from Ptolomais w a greete armye, to come in to the lande of Juda, and Ionathas w him in warde. And Symon pitched his tentes at Addus before the playne felde.

But when Crispion knewe that Symon stood vpon in steade of hys brother Ionathas, & that he wolde warre agaynst him: he sent messengers vnto hym, sayinge: Where as we haue kepte Ionathas thy brother, it is for money that he is dwynge in the kynges accompte, concernynge the busynesse that he had in hande. Wherefore sende now an. C. talentes of syluer and his two sonnes for suretye, that when he is litten forth he shall not forsake vs: and we shall sende hym agayne. Neuerthelesse Symon knewe, that he dissembled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money and chyldren to be deliuered vnto him: lest he shulde be y greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel: and saye, because he sent him not y money and the chyldren, therefore is Ionathas deed.

So Symon sent him the chyldren and an hundred talentes, but he dissembled, & wolde not let Ionathas go. Afterwarde came Crispion into the lande, to destroie it, and went rounde about by the waye, that ledeth vnto Ador. But where soeuer they wete, theyther wete Symon and his hoste also. Nowe they that were in the castell, sent messengers vnto Crispion, that he shulde make haste to come by the wyldernes, and to sende them vnto the castell. And Crispion made ready all hys horsemen, to come that same nyght. Neuerthelesse it was a very greete snowe, so that he came not in Gaaladithim. And whē he drew npe Baschama, he slewe Ionathas and his sonnes there, and then turned for to go home into his awne lande.

Then sent Symon for to set his brothers deed coarce, and buryed it in Modin hys fathers cytie. So all Israel bewayled hym w greete lamentacyon, and mourned for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a buyldynge hys to loken vnto, of fre stone behynde and before. & set vpon leue pylles, one agaynst another (for his father, his mother and foure brethren) and set great pylles rounde aboute, with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory, and carued theyppes beynde the armes: that they myght be sene of men saylynge in the see. The sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this daye.

* Nowe as Crispion wēt forth to walke w the yonge kyng Antiochus, he slewe hym traitorously, & raygned in his steade, crowning hym selfe kyng of Asia, and dyd much euill in the lande. Symon also buylte vpon the castles castles in Jewry, makinge the strong with hye towres, great walles, portes and lockes and layed vpon wyttayles in the strong holdes. And Symon chose certayne men, & sent them to kyng Demetrius: to besyde him, that he wolde discharge the lande from all bondage, for Crispion had spoyled it very sore. Where vpon Demetrius the kyng answered him, and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kyng sendeth greetinge vnto Symon the hye prest hys frende, with the elders and people of y Jewes. The golden crowne and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receaved: and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, pee and to wyte vnto oure officers, for to release you, concernynge the thynges wherin we made you fre: and the appoyntment that we make with you, shall be firme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylded, shall be youre awne. As for any ouerspyght or fauote comytted vnto this daye, we forgiue it, & the crowne tax that ye ought vs also. And where as was any other tribute i Ierusalem, it shall now be no tribute: and loke who are mete among you to be in oure counte, let them be wyrtten vp, that there maye be peace betwyxte vs.

Thus the pock of the heathen was taken from Israel, in the hundredth and seuentieth yere. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in theyr letters & actes on this maner. * In the fyrst yere of Symon the hye prest, and prince of the Jewes.

In thole dayes went Symon vnto Gaza, and beseged it rounde aboute, where he set vpon ordynance of warre. And waune a towre, which he toke. So they that gatt in to the towre leapt into y cytye, whych was in a greete feare: In so moch that the people of the cytye rente their clothes, and clymmed vpon vpon the walles with theyr wyues and chyldren besechyng Symon to be at one with them sayinge.

Whereas vs not after oure wickednes, but be gracious vnto vs, and we shall do y scrupce. Then Symon for very pytie, wolde fyght nomore agaynst them, but put them out of the cytie, and caused the houses (wherin the Images were) to be clesed, and so entred the cytye wth psalmes of prayse, geuyng thankes vnto the Lord. So when he had cast all abhominacyons out of the cytie, he set soch mē in it as kepte the law of God, and made the cytie stronge, and buylded a dwellynge place for him selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Ierusalem were kepte so straitly, that they coude not come forth into the countre, and myght nether bye ner sell: they were very hungrye, and many of them famished to death: In so moch that they besought Symon to be at one with them, which he graunted them. So he put them out from thence, and clesed the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the xxiiij. daye of the seconde moneth in the. C. lxxi. yere they entred into it wth thankesgeuyng and braunches of palme trees, wth harpes, crowdes, cyrnals, and lutes, syngeynge psalmes, and songes of prayse vnto God, for that the greete enemy of Israel was overcome.

And Symon ordeyned, that y same daye shuld be kepte euery yere in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyll of y temple that was beynde the castell, where he dwelt hym selfe with his company. Symon also perceauing that Ihon his sonne was a myghtie man of armes, made him captayne of all the hostes and caused him to dwell at Gaza.

The. xliij. Chapter.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. Symon being captayne there is greete quietnes in Israel. For ceasinge of frendshipp with the Romaynes and with the people of Sparta is reuocd.

In the. C. lxxii. yere gathered kyng Demetrius his host, and departed vnto Media, to gett hym helpe for to fyght agaynst Crispion. Now when Arsaces the kyng of Persia and Media herde, y Demetrius was entred wth in hys borders: he sent one of his princes to take him alyue: and to bryng hym vnto hym. So he wente and slewe Demetrius hoste, toke hym selfe, brought hym to Arsaces, whych kepte hym in warde. And all the lande of Juda was in rest, so longe as Symon lyued, for he sought the wealth of his people, therefore were they glad to haue hym for theyr ruler, and to do hym worshippe all waye.

Symon wane the cite of Joppa also for an haue towne, and made it an entrance vnto the Iles of y see. He enlarged the borders of his people, and coquered them more land: he gathered vpon many of theyr people that were prisoners: he had the dominion of Gaza, Betsura and the castell, whych he clesed from fylthynesse, and there was no man that relisted him: So that euery man tyllid hys grounde in peace, the lande of Juda and the trees gaue their fruite and increace. The elders sat all in iudgement, and toke theyr deuice for the wealth of the lande: the yonge men put on worshippe and harnesse vpon the. he prouided vntalles for the cytyes, and made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of hys worshippe was spoken of vnto y ende of the worlde. * For he made peace thowow out the land, and Israel was full of myrrh and tope.

Euery man sat vnder his vyne and fygg trees, and there was no man to fraye them awaye. There was none in y lande to fyght agaynst the, for then the kynges were overcome.

come. he helped those that were in aduersy-te among his people, he was diligent to se lawe kepte: as for such as were vngodly ad wycked, he toke them awaye. he set vp the Sanctuary, and encreased the holy vessels of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Sparcians had gotten worde, that Ionathas was deed they were right soyy. But when they hearde that Symon his brother was made hys prest in hys steade, & how he had wonne the lande agayne with the cities in it: they wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renue the frend-shipp, and bonde of loue, which they had made afore wth * Judas and * Ionathas hys brethren. Which writings were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the cōpy of the lettres, that the Sparciā sent: The Senatours and citefins of Sparta sende greting vnto Simō the great prest, with the elders, prestes, & the other people of the Jewes their brethren: When your ambassytours that were sent vnto oure people, certyfied vs of your wor-shipp, honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of theyr cōmynge, and haue wrytten the carauide which they spake before the councell of the people: namely, that Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, And Antipater sonne of Jason Jewes ambassytours are come vnto vs, for to renue the olde frend-shipp with vs. Upon this the people consented, that the men shuld be honorably intre-ated, and that the cōpy of theyr carauide shul-de be writte in the speciall bookes of the people, for a perpetuall memory vnto * Spar-ciāns: yee and that we shulde sende a cōpy of the same vnto Symon & great prest. After this dyd Simō sende Numenius vnto Rome, wth a golden chylde of a thousande pounde weight, to cōfirme the frendshipp wth the: which when * Romaynes vnderstode, they sayde: What thackes shall we receyue agayne vnto Symō & his childe? For he hath stablished his brethren, & ouercome * enemies of Israel. Wherefore, they graunted him to be fre.
And all this wrote * Jewes in tables of brasse, & naped it vnto * pillars vpon * mounte Syon. The cōpy of the wrytinge is this.

The. xliii. daye of * moneth * Elul in the Clxxii. yere in * third yere of Simō hys prest, in * great cōgregacion the prestes, rulers of * people, & elders of * cōtre at Asa-rame, were these wordes openly declared.

For so moch as there was moch warre in our land, therfore Simon the sonne of Ma-tathias (come of the children of Iareb) and his brethren put them selues in parell, and resisted the enemyes of theyr people: & theyr Sanctuary & lawe myght be maynteyned, and dyd theyr people great worship: Jona-thas in lyke maner, after that he had gouerned hys people & bene their hys prest: dyed, and lyeth buried besyde hys elders.

After that wold theyr enemyes haue trodden their holy thinges vnder fote, destroyed their lande, and utterly waisted their Sanctuary. Then Symon withstode them, and fought for his people, spēt moch of hys awne money, weapened the valeant men of hys people, gaue them wages, made stronge the cities of Iuda, wth Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Ieruzalem (where the ordinauce of theyr enemyes laye somtyme) and set Jewes there for to kepe it.

he made fast Joppa also, which lyeth vpon the see, & Gaza that bordreth vpon Azotus (where * enemies dwelt afore) & there he set Jewes to kepe it: and whatsoeuer was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaries, & layed he therein. Now whē the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, & what worshippe, he purposed to do for the, his godly behauoure, & faithfulness which he kepte vnto the, and how he fought by all wayes & wealth of his people, because he dyd all this, therfore they chole him to be theyr price & hys prest. And in his tyme they prospered well by him, so the heathen were take out of theyr lande: & they also which were in * cōtrie of Iuda at Jerusalem in the castell (where they wēt out and despoiled all thinges that were about the Sanctuary, & dyd greate harme vnto clen-lynnes) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cōtrie, and set vp the walles of Jerusalem.

And kyng Demetrius confirmed hym in his hys presthode, made him his frēde, & dyd him great worshippe. For he herde that the Romayns called the Jewes theyr frendes, louers & brethren: how honorably they recea-ued Symons ambassytours: how the Jewes & prestes consented that he shulde be theyr price & hys prest perpetually (tyll God rapsed vnto the true prophet) & that he shulde be theyr captaine, to care for the Sanctuary, & to set officers vpon the workes therof, ouer * land, ouer the weapens, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouision for the holy thin-ges, & to be obeyed of euery mā, & all * wrytinges of the land to be made in hys name: & he shulde be clothed in purple & golde, & that it shulde be lausfull for none of the people nor prestes to breake eny of these thynges, to wstande his wordes, ner to call eny congrega-cion in the land without him: that he shulde be clothed in purple, & weare a colar of gold: And yf ther were eny which disobeyed or brake this ordinaunce, & he shulde be punyshed.

So all the people consented to allowe Simon, and to do accordynge to these wordes: Symon also him self toke it vpon him, and was contente to be * hys prest, the captayne and prince of the Jewes and prestes, and to gouerne gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wrytinge in tables of brasse, and fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to laye vp a cōpy of the same in the treasury, that Symon & hys posterite myght haue it.

The. xv. Chapter.

Antiochus maketh a couenaunt of frendshipp with Symon, & Tripho is persecuted. The Romaynes write letters vnto kynges and narbons in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refuseth the helpe that Symon sent hym, breaketh hys couenaunt.

Demetrius sent letters fro * Jles of the see, vnto Symon & hys prest and prince of the Jewes, and to all * people confyrminge these wordes: Antiochus hys kyng sendeth gretyng vnto Symō the hys prest and to the people of the Jewes. For so moch as certayne wicked mē haue gotten * kyngdome of oure progenitours, I am purposed to chalenge * realme agayne, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherefore I haue gathered a great host, & made shippes of warre: & I maye goo thro-row the cōtre, & be auenged of the which haue destroyed oure land, and waisted many cities in my realme. And therfore now I make the see also fro all the tributes, wherof al kinges my progenitours haue discharged & and fro other customes (wherfro they haue released) whatsoeuer they be: Yee I geue
* leaue to synpte money of thyne awne win-thy lande. As for Jerusalem, I wyll that it be holy and free: & all the weapens and houses of defence which thou hast buylded & kepest in thine hādes, shall be thyne. Where as eny thing is or shall be owynge vnto the kyng, I forgeue it, fro this tyme forth for euermore. And whē we haue optayned our kingdome, we shall do * thy people and the temple great worshippe: so * your honoure shall be knowne thorow out the whole worlde.

In the. Clxxiii. yere wente Antiochus into his fathers lande, & all the mē of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe were left wth Triphon. So * kyng Antiochus folowed vpon hi, but he fled vnto Doza, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe * there was mischeffe commynge vnto him, & that his host had forsake him. Then cam Antiochus vnto Doza with an hundred and twety thousande mē of armes vpon fote, & eyght thousande horsē. So he cōpaied the citie rōnde about, & * shippes came by the see. Thus they vexed the citie by land & by water, in so moch * they suffred no mā to go in nor oute.

In the meane season came * Numenius (& they that had bene with him) from * citie of Rome, hauinge lettres wrytten vnto the kynges and prouinces, wherin were cōteyned these wordes: Lucius & Mayze of Rome sendeth greting vnto Ptolomy * kyng.

The ambassytours of the Jewes our frendes beyng sent from Symon the hys prest and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to renue the olde frendshipp, and bonde of loue, brought a chylde of golde weyeng a thousande pounce, which we were contente to receaue of them. Wherefore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynges and prouin-ces, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynst them, theyr cities ner cōtreces, nether to maintene their enemyes agaynst the.
If there be eny wycked personnes therfore, fled from their cōtre vnto you, deliuer the vnto Symon the hys prest, that he maye punish them accordynge to theyr awne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romaynes also vnto Demetrius * kyng, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces & to all regions: as Samsanes, to the of Sparta, Delo, Sidos, Silos, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Lycia, Alicarnassum, & to the Rhodes, to Scaselis, Coo, Sida, Arado, Gortina, Cnydus, to Cypres and to Cyren. And of euery lettre they sent a cōpy to Symon & hys prest and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kyng brought his host vnto Doza * seconde tyme to take it: where he made diuerse ordinaunce of warre, & kepte Triphon in, that he shuld not come forth. He sent Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to help him with gold, syluer and other plenteous geere: Penerthelesse, he wolde not receaue them, but brake all * couenaunt which he made wth Symō afore, & withdrew him self fro him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of hys vnto Simō, for to reason with him, saying: Ye withholde frome Joppa & Gaza (with the castell that is at Jerusalem) which are cy-ties of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed, & done greate euell in the lande, ha-uyng the dominacion in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherefore deliuer now * cities which ye haue taken, with * tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon without * borders of Jewry: Or els geue my syue tudret halentes of syluer, yee and for * harme that ye haue done in * cities & for the tributes of * same, other syue hundred halentes.
If no, we shall come and fyght agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, & whē he sawe the great wor-shipp and honoure of Symon in gold, syluer & so great plenty of ornaments: he marue-led, and tolde Symon as * kyng commaunded hym. Then answered Symon and sayd vnto hym: * As for vs, we haue nether take other mens lādes, ner withholde the, but onely oure fathers heritage, which oure ene-myes had vnyghtcously in possession a cer-tayne tyme. This heritage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou cōplaynest concernyng Joppa and Gaza, they dyd great harme to oure people and in oure lande, yet wyll we geue an. C. talentes for them.

Neuertheles Athenobius answered hym not one word, but turned agayne wrothfully vnto the kyng, & tolde him all these wordes, and the great dignite of Symon, with all that he had sene, and the kyng was very angrie. In the meane tyme fled Crithon by whype vnto Dithoisida. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captayne of the sec coast, & gaue him an host of fote men and horsmen, commaundynge him to remoue the host towarde Jewry, and to buylde vp the cytie of Cedron, to make vp the portes, and to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng hym selfe, he folowed vpon Crithon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and beganne to vere the people, to treade downe Jewry, to take the people prisoners, to slaye them, and to buylde vp Cedron: where he sett horsmen and other men of warre, that they myght come forth and go thozow the stretes of Jewry, lyke as the kyng had commaunded hym.

The xvi. Chapter.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hote to put to flight the sonnes of Symon & Ptolomeus & sonne of Abobus by letch Symon & his. ii. sonnes at a banquet. John killeth them that lye in waite for hys lyfe.

When came Jhon by from Gaza, and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebeus had done amonge theyr people. Vpon thys called Symon two of hys eldest sonnes, Judas and Jhon, and sayd vnto them: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer fro our youth vp vnto this daye, foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel, and God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel off tymes. And now for so moch as I am olde, be ye in steade of me & my brother, to go forth and fyght for oure people, & the helpe of God be with you. So he chose. xx. fighting men of the countre, with horsmen also, which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Modin.

In the moornyng they arose, and went in to the playne felde: and beholde, a myghty great host came agaynst them, both of fote men and horsmen. Now was there a water broke betwixte them, and Jhon remoued the host towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to goo ouer the water broke, he wente ouer fyrst hym selfe: and the men seinge this, folowed hym.

Then Jhon set his horsmen and fote men in ordre, the one by the other, for theyr enemies horsmen were very many. But when they blewe vpon the prestes trompettes, Cendebeus fled w his hoste, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunt gat them to theyr stronge holde. Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Jhon folowed still vpon the enemyes, tyll he came to Cedron which he buylde. The enemyes fled also vnto the towres that were in the felde of Azotus, and those dyd Jhon burne vp. Thus there were slayne. ii. M. men of them, and Jhon turned agayne peaceably into Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomey the sonne of Abobus made captayne: which because he had aboundance of syluer and golde (for he had married the daughter of Symon the prest) waxed proude in hys mynde, and thought to conquere the lande, ymagining falsly agaynst Symon and his sonnes, to destroye them. Now as Symon was goyng aboute thozow the cyties, that were in the countre of Jewry, and caring for the: he came downe to Jericho with Mathathias and Judas his sonnes, in the. Cxxxvii. yere in the. xi. moneth called Sabat. The Ptolomey the sonne of Abobus receaued the (but with disceate) into a stronge house of hys called Doch, whych he had buylde, where he made them a banquet.

So when Symon and hys sonnes were merry and had drōcken well, Ptolomey stode vp with hys men (whom he had byd there) and toke their weapons, entred into the banquet house, and slewe Symon with his two sonnes, and certayne of his seruantes. Soch great vnfaythfulnesse dyd Ptolomey in Israel, and recompensed euell for good. Then wrote this Ptolomey the same vnto kyng Antiochus, requyringe him, that he shuld sende hym an host to helpe him: and so shuld he deliuer hym the lande, with the cyties and tributes of the same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Jhon: and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him, and he shulde geue them syluer, golde and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sent other, to take it, & the Sanctuary.

Then ranne there one before, and tolde Jhon in Gaza, that his father & his brethren were slayne, & how that Ptolomey had sent to slaye hym also. When Jhon herde this, he was sore abashed, and layed handes of them that were come to destroye hym, and slewe them: for he knewe, that they went aboute to kyll hym.

As for other thynges concernyng Jhon: of hys warres, of hys noble actes (wherin he behaued hym selfe manfully) of the buyldinge of walles which he made, and other of his dedes: They are writen in the cronicles of hys presthode, from the tyme forth that he was made hys prest after hys father.

of the Machabees.

The fyrst Chapter.

An epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem sent vnto them which dwelt in Egypte, wher in they exhorte them to geue thanckes for the death of Antiochus. Of the tyme that was bydde in the prayse of Nehemias.

The brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem, and in the lande of Jewry, with vnto those brethren of the Jewes that are thozow out of Egypte: good fortune, health and peace.

God be gracys vnto you, and thyncke vpon his couenaunt that he made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob his sayntful seruantes: and geue you all soch an herte, that ye maye loue and serue him, pee and perfourme hys wyll withan whole herte and of a wyllynge mynde: he open poure hertes in hys lawe and in hys commaundementes, sende you peace: heare poure prayers, be at one with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here our prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raigned, in the. Clix. yere, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violēce that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after that Jason departed oute of the holy lande and kyngdome, they bzēt vp the portes, & shed innocent bloude. Then made we our prayer vnto the Lorde, and were hearde: we offred: and lyghted the candels, setting forth cakes and bred. And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth Casleu.

In the. Cxxxviii. yere, the people that was at Jerusalem and in Jewry, the counsell and Judas hym selfe, sent thys whollsome salutation vnto Aristobolus kyng Ptolomeys master, which came of the generaciō of the anoynted prestes: and to the Jewes that were in Egypte: In so moche as God hath deliuered vs from greute pears, we thanke hym hylpe. In that we resysted to myghtie a kyng. And why: he brought me out of Persis by heapes, to fyght agaynst vs and the holy cite. For as he was in Persis (namely, the Captayne with the greute host) he perished in the temple of Paneas, beyng disceaued thozow the deuice of Paneas prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there, Antiochus and hys frendes came thither, to receaue moch money for a dowry. So whē Paneas prestes had layed forth the money, he entred with a small company into the compasse of the temple, ad so they shut the temple.

Now whē Antiochus entred by opening the preynt inraunce of the tēple, the prestes stoned the captayne to death, hewed the in peces that were with hym, smote of theyr heades, and threwe them out. In al thynges God be praysed, whych hath deliuered the wycked into our handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe the purification of the temple vpon the. xxi. daye of the moneth Casleu, we thought necessary to certifie you therof: that ye also myght kepe the tabernacles feast daye, ad the daye of the fyre, whych was geuen vs when Nehemias offred, after that he had set vp the temple and the aulter. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto Persis, the prestes (whych then sought the honoure of God) toke the fyre pryncely fro the aulter, and byd it in a valley, where as was a depe dyke: and therein they kepte it, so that the place was vnknown to euery man. Now after many yeres when it pleased God that Nehemias shulde be sent from the kyng of Persia, he sent the chylders chyldren of those prestes (which had byd the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs they founde no fyre, but thicke water. The commaunded he them to drawe it vp, & to bring it hym, and the offerings withal. Now whē the sacrifices were layed on and ordred, the prest Nehemias commaunded to sprynckle them and the wod with water. When thys was done, ad the tyme come that the Sunne shone, which afore was byd in the cloude: there was a great fyre kyndled. In so moch that euery man marueled. Now all the prestes prayed, whyle the sacrifice was a makinge. Jonathas prayed first, and the other gaue answer.

And Nehemias prayer was after thys maner: O Lorde God maker of all thynges thou fearfull and stronge, thou ryghteous and mercyfull, thou that art onely a gracious kyng, onely lyberall, onely iust, Almyghty and euerlastyng, thou that deliuerest Israel from al trouble, thou that hast chosen the fathers and halowed them: receaue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel, preserue thyn awne porcion, and halowe it, gather those together, that are scattered abrode from vs: deliuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon the whych are despyed and abhorred; that the heathen maye knowe and se how that thou art our God: Punyshe them that oppresse, and proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place: lyke as Moses hath spoken.

And the prestes songe Psalmes of thankesgeuyng, so long as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was bzēt, Nehemias commaunded the greute stonnes to be sprynckled with the residue of the water. Which whē it was done, there was a rynde led a led a flammie of them also: but it was consumed thowoe & lyght, that shyned from the aulter. So when this matter was knowne, it was tolde & kynge of Persia, & in the place where & prestes, which were led awaye, had hys pyre, there appeared water in steade of pyre, and that Nehemias & his company, had purfied the sacrefices withall. Then the kynge consyderynge & ponderynge the matter diligently, made hym a temple to proue the thyng that was done. And when he founde it so in dede, he gaue the prestes many gyftes & diuerse rewardes, yee, he toke them with his awne hand and gaue them. And Nehemias called & same place Nephtar, which is as moch to saye as a clensynge: but many men call it Nepht.

The.ii. Chapter.

How Jeremy hyde the tabernacle, the Arke, and the aulter in the hill. Of the.ii. booke of Jason con- tained in one.

It is founde also in the wytynges of Jeremy the prophet, that he commaunded them which were caried awaye, to take pyre, * as it is sayde afore. * He commaunded them also, that they shuld not forget the lawe and commaundmentes of the Lorde, and that they shulde not erre in theyr myndes, when they se ymages of syluer and golde with theyr ornametes. These and soch other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, that they shulde not lett the lawe of God go out of theyr hertes.

It is wyrtten also, how the prophet (at the commaundment of God) charged them to take the tabernacle, & the arke w them: and he wente forth vnto the mountayne, where Moses clymed vp, * & sawe the herptage of God. And when Jeremy came there he founde an open caue, wherein he layed the tabernacle, the arke, & the aulter of incense, and so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowynge hym, to marcke the place, but they could not fynde it. Which when Jeremy perceaued, he reproued them, saying: As for & place, it shalbe vnkowne, vntyll the tyme & God gather his people together agayne, & receaue them vnto mercy. Then shal God shew them these thynges, & the maiesty of the Lorde shal appeare, * and & cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moses: and lyke as when Salomon despyred, that the place myght be sanctified, and it was shewed hym.

For he beyng a wyse man, handled honorably & wysely, offerynge vnto God in the halowynge of the temple, when it was finished. * And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lorde, the fyre came downe from heauen, & consumed & burnt offerynge: Euen so prayed Salomon also, * and the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt-offeringe. And Moses sayd: because the sin-offeringe was not eaten, therefore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the de- dycacyon (or halowynge) eyght dayes.

In the Annotations and wytynges of * Jeremy, were these thynges put also: and how he made a lybrary, and how he gathered out of all countrees the booke of the prophetes, of Dauid, the Epistles of the kyn- ges, and of the presentes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he lerned by experience of warre, and soche thynges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them all together, and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desyre to haue the same, sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are ab- oute to celebrate the purgification, we haue wyrtten vnto you. Therefore ye shal do wel, if ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, that the God (whych deliuered hys people, and gaue them al the herptage, kyngdome, presthode and Sanctuary * that he promysed them in the lawe) shal shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together fro vnder the heauē into his holy place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath clen- sed the place.

As concernynge Judas Machabeus and hys brethren, the purgification of the great temple, the dedication of the aulter, yee, and of the warres that concerne noble Antio- chus and * Eupator his sonne, of & hyppyn- ges that came downe from heauē vpon those, which manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole lande; droue awaye the ene- mies host, reconered agayne the temple, that was spoken of thowoe out all the worlde deliuered the cytye, doyng the best, that the lawe of the Lorde which was put downe, myght wyth all tranquylte be restored agayne vnto the Lorde, that was so mercy- full vnto the. As touchynge Jason also of Cyren, we haue vndertake compendiously to bring into one boke, the thynges that were comprehended of hym in pye. For we consyderynge the multitude of the booke, and howe harde it shulde be for them that wolde medle with stozies & actes (ad that because of so diuerse matters) haue vndertake so to comprehend the stozies: that soch as are dis- posed to reade myght haue pleasure & pa- ssume therein: and that they whych are dili- gent in soche thynges, myght the better thincke vpon them: yee and that whosoever reade them, myght haue profyt therby.

Neuerthelesse, we oure selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortning of it haue taken no smal labour, but great diligence, watchynge and traunple. Lyke as they

as they that make a feast, wolde sayne do other men pleasure: Euen so we also (for ma- ny mens sakes) are very well cōtēt to take the labour, where as we maye shortly com- prehende, the thynges that other men haue truly wyrtten.

For he & buyldeth an house anewe, must proude for many thiges, to & whole buyl- dyng: but he that paynteth it afterwarde, seketh but only what is comly, mete & con- ueniet to garnish it wythall. Euen so do we also in lyke maner. And why? he that begi- neth to wyrtte a stozie for & pyre, must wyth his vnderstandynge gather the matter to- gether, set hys wordes in orde, and diligēt- ly seke out of euery parte: But he that after warde will shorten it, vseth few wordes, & toucheth not the matter at the largest. Let thys be sufficient for a prologe, now wyll we begine to shewe the matter: for it is but a folysh thyng to make a longe prologe, & to be shorte in the stozie it selfe.

The.iii. Chapter.

Of the honour done vnto the temple by the kynges of the Gentyles. Symon uttereth what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sent to take them awaye. He is strecken of God, & healed at the prayer of Onias.

What tyme as the holy cyte was inhabited i all peacc & wealth, and whē the lawes were yet ve- ry well kepte. (For so was it or- dained by Onias & hys prest & other godly me & were enemies to wycked- nesse) It came therto, * that euen the kyges & princes the selues dyd the place great wor- shyppe, & garnished the temple with greate gyftes: In so moch that Seleucus kynge of Asia of his awne rentes, bare all the costes belongynge to the seruice of the offerynge. Then * Simon of & tribe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of & temple, laboured to worcke some myscheke i & cite: but & hys preste resisted hi. Neuerthelesse when he myght not ouer- come Onias, he gat hym to * Appolonius & sone of Cherla (whych the was chefe Lord i Celosyria and Phenices) and tolde hym, & the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innu- merable money, & how that the comō goo- des (whych belonged not vnto the offeryn- ges) were excedinge greate also: yee & how it were possible, that all these myght come vnder the kynges power.

Now when Appolonius had shewed the kynge of the moneye, as it was tolde hym: & hys called for Heliodorus his steward, & sent hym with a commaundement, to bring hym the same money. Immediately Heliodo- rus toke hys iourney, but vnder a coloure, as though he wolde go thowoe Celosyria and Phenices to viled & cyties, but hys pur- pose was to fulfyll the kyges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, ad was louny- gly receaued of the hys prest into the cyte: he tolde what was determynd concernynge the moneye, and shewed the cause of hys co- ming: he asked also, if it were so i dede. The hys prest tolde him, that there was soch money layed vp for the vpholdinge of wyd- dows and fatherlesse chylde, & how that a certayne of it belonged vnto hys can? Co bias a noble man: and that of al the moneie (whych & wycked Simon had bewrayed) there were. iiii. hundred talētes of syluer, & ii. hundred of golde: yee and that it were vn- possible for those mens meanynge to be dis- ceaued, that had layed vp the moneye in & place and temple (whych is had in worshyp thowoe the whole worlde) for the mainte- nance and honoure of the same. Wher vnto Heliodorus answered, that the kynge had commaunded hym in any wyse, to bypunge hym in the money.

So at the dape appoynted, Heliodorus entred into the temple to orde thys matter. But there was no small feare thowoe out & whole cytie. The prestes fell downe befo- re the aulter in theyr vestimētes, and called vnto heauen vpon hi, * whych had made a lawe concernynge stuffe geuen to kepe, that they shulde be safely preserued for soch as co- mitte the vnto keepynge. Then who so had looked the hys prest in the face, it wold haue greued hys herte: For hys countenance and the chaungynge of his coloure, declared the inwarde sorowe of hys myde. The mā was all in heynesse, and his body in feare: wher- by they that looked vpo hym, myght percea- ue & grefe of his herte. The other people al- so came out of theyr houses by heapes vnto & comon prayer because & place was lyke to come into confusyon. The worme came toge- ther thowoe & stretes, with heartye clothes aboute theyr brestes.

The vyrgyns also that were kepte i. rāne to Onias, some in the walles, other some lo- ked out of the wyndowes: yee they all helde vp theyr handes toward heauen, & prayed. A miserable thyng was it, to loke vpo the comen people, & the hys prest beyng in soch trouble. But they besought almighty God that the goodes whych were comytted vnto them, myght be kepte whole, for those & had deliuered the vnto theyr keepynge. Ne- uerthelesse the thyng that Heliodorus was determynd to do, that perfourmed he i the same place, he hym selfe personally beyng about the treasury with hys men of warre. But & spete of almighty God shewed him selfe opely, so that all they which presumed to obeie Heliodorus, fell thowoe the power of God into a greate fearfulness and drede.

* For there appeared vnto them an horse, w a terrible man sytting vpon hym, deckt in goodly arape, and the horse smote at Helio- dorus wyth hys fore fete. Now he that sat kkk vpon

upon y^e horse, had harnesse of golde vpon hi.
Moreover, there appeared. ii. sayre & beutyfull y^ege me in goodly aray, which stode by him, scourged hym of both the sydes, and gaue hym many strykes without ceasinge.

* ii. mac. b. c.

With that fell heliodorus sodenly vnto y^e grounde. So they toke hym vp, beuge com-passed aboute wyth greate darchnesse, & bare hym out vpon a bere. Thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre in to the sayde treasury, was borne out, where as no man myght helpe hym: & so the power of God was manifest and knowne. He laye styll domme also by the power of God destitute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayled the Lord, that he had shewed his power vpo his place ad temple, whych a lytle afore was full of feare & trouble: and that thozow the reuelacion of the almyghtie Lord, it was fylled wyth ioye and gladnesse.

The certayne of heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, that in all haste he wolde call vpon God, to graunte hi hys lyfe, whych was ge-uyng v^e the goost. So the hys prest considered the matter, ad lest the kyng shuld suspecte that the Jewes had done heliodorus some euell: he offered an healthofferynge for him. Now whē the hys prest had opteyned hys peticion, the same yonge men in y^e same clothing appeared, & stode besyde heliodo-rus, saye: Chancke Onias the hys prest, for* for his sake hath y^e Lord graunted y^e thy lyfe: therfore seing y^e God hath scourged the geue hym prayle & thākes, and shewe euery man hys myght & power. And whē they had spoke these wordes, they appeared nomore.

* Act. xxi. c.

So heliodorus offered vnto God, made great vowes vnto him, which had graunted him his lyfe, thāked Onias, toke his hoost & wete agayne to the kyng. Then testified he vnto euery man of the greate workes of God, that he had sene wth his eyes. And whē the kyng asked heliodorus who were me-te to be sent yet once agayne to Ierusalē, he sayde: yf thou hast any enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme, sende him thither, & thou shalt haue hym punyshed, yf he escape wyth his lyfe: for in that place (no doute) there is a speciall power & workig of God. For he y^e dwelleth in heauen, visiteth & defendeth y^e place: ad all that come to do it harme, he punysheth ad plageth them. Thys is now the matter concernynge heliodorus, & the kepyng of the treasury at Ierusalem,

The. liii. Chapter.

Simon reporteth euell of Onias. Jason bespyng the office of the hys prest corrupteth the kynges wordes.
The wycked intent of Jason.

* ii. mac. liii. a

His Symon now* (of whō we spake afore) beinge a betwayer of the money & of hys awne naturall contre, reported y^e worst of Onias: as though he had moued heliodorus vnto thys, & as though he had bene a bypinger by of euell. Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemye of y^e realme, that was so faythfull an ouerseer & defender of the cite & of his people: yee ad so feruent in the lawe of God. But whē y^e malice of Simō increased so farre, that thozow hys frendes there were certayne māslaughters comytted: Onias considered the parell that myght come thozow this stryfe, & how that Appoloni⁹ (namely the chefe Lorde in Celosyria & Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny, and Symons malice increased the same: he gat him to the kyng, not as an accuser of the cytelins, but as one that by hi self intended y^e comon wealt of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to ly-ue in peace, nether Simon to leaue off from his folyshnesse, except y^e kyng dyd loke ther to. But after the deeth of Selcucus, when Antioch⁹ (which is called the noble) toke y^e kyngdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hys prest: For he came vnto the kyng, and promised him thre hūdrēth & lx. talentes of syluer, & of y^e other rentes. lxxx. talentes. Besides this he promised him yet an. C. & l. yf he myght haue the scole of the chylde, & that he myght call them of Ieru-salem Antiochians. Which when the kyng had graunted, & he had gottē y^e superioryte, he begāne immediatly to draw his kynsmē to the custome of the heathen, put downe y^e thynges that the Jewes had set by of loue, by John y^e father of Eupolemi⁹ which was sent ambassitoure vnto Rome, for to make y^e bonde of frendshyppe & loue. He put downe all the Jewes & lyberties of the Jewes, & set by the wycked statutes. He durst make a fyghtynge scole vnder the castell, and set sayre y^ege men to lerne the maners of whores and brothels.

This was now y^e begynnyng of the heathenyssh & straunge conuersacyō, brought in thozow the vngacious & vhearde wyckednesse of Jason, which shulde not be called a prest, but an vngodly personne. In so moch that the prestes were now nomore occupied about the seruyce of the altier, but despyled the temple, regarded not the offrynges: yee gaue their diligence to lerne to fyght, to wraastle, to leape, to daunce, & to put at y^e stone not lettynge by y^e honour of y^e fathers, but lyked the glozy of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue periously, & were gredy to folowe they^e statutes, yee, they^e lust was in all thinges to be lyke the, which afore were they^e enemyes & destroyers. Now beit to do wyckedly agaynst y^e lawe of God shall not escape unpunished: but of this we shall speake here after.

What tyme as the* Olympiades sportes were playd at Cyzus (y^e kyng hys selfe

25 beinge presente) this vngacyō Jason sent wycked men, bearyng from them of Ierusalem (whych now were called Antiochians) iii. C. drachmars of syluer for an offerynge to Hercules. These had they^e carped them desyred vnder socha falschid, as though they shulde not haue bene offered but bestowed to other vles. Neuertheles, he that sent them, sent them to the intēt that they shulde be of fred vnto Hercules. But because of thole y^e were present, they were geuen as to the makyng of thypres. And Appoloni⁹ the sonne of Nesteus was sent into Egypte, because of the noble men of kyng Ptolomy Phylometor. Now when Antiochus perceaued, that he was put out from medlynge in y^e realme, he sought his awne profyte, departed from thence, came to Ioppa, & then to Ieru-salem: where he was honorably receaued of Jason, & of y^e cytle, & was brought in wyth torche lyght and wyth greate prayse: and so he turned his hoost vnto Phenices.

* ii. mac. liii. b

After. iii. yere Jason sent Menela⁹, the foresayde Simōs brother, * to beare y^e money vnto y^e kyng, & to bringe hym answer of other necessary matters. But he (whē he was prayled of the kyng for magnifyng of his power) turned y^e presthod vnto him selfe, layinge by. iii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So whē he had gottē comāundemētes from the kyng (he came haupnge nothyng y^e becometh a prest) but bearyng y^e stomach of a cruel tyrant, & y^e wrath of a wilde brute beest. * The Jason (which had disceued his awne brother) seinge that he him selfe was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites, & Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for y^e money y^e he had promised vnto y^e kyng, he dyd nothyng therin, when Sosstratus the ruler of the castell requyred it of him. For Sosstratus was y^e mā that gathered the customes: wherfore they were both called before y^e kyng. Thus was Menelaus put out of the presthode, & Lysmachus his brother came in his steade. Sostratus also was made Lord of y^e Cyziās.

* ii. mac. liii. b

It happened in the meane season, that y^e Charliās & Mallaciās made insurreccion, because they were geuen for a present vnto kyng Antiochus concubyne. Then came the kyng in all the haste, to styll them agayne, & to pacyfy y^e matter, leauynge Andronicus there to be his debyte as one mete therfore.
Now Menelaus supposing that he had gotten a ryght conuenient tyme, stole certayne vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue them to Andronic⁹ for a present: & some he solde at Cyzus and in the cyties therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a suertye, he reproveth him: but he kepte him in a Sanctuary beside Daphnis, that lieth by Antio-che. Wherfore Menelaus gat hi to Andro-nicus, & prayed hi y^e he wolde slaye Onias.

So whē he came to Onias, he couceled him craftely to come out of the Sanctuary ge-uyng hym his hande with an othe (how be it he suspecte hym) & then he slew Onias, wythout any regarde of ryghtuousnesse.

For the whych cause not only the Jewes, but other nacjons also toke indignacyō, & were displeased for the vngodly death of so godly a man.

And when the kyng was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayne of y^e Grekes wente vnto hym, cōplaynyng for the vngodly death of Onias. Yee An-tiochus him selfe was sorry in hys mynde for Onias, so that it pteped him, & he wepte, re-membryng his sobernesse & manerly beha-uoure. Wherfore he was so kyndled in hys mynde, that he comāded Andronicus to be strypped out of his purple clothige, & so to be led thozow out the cite: yee, & the vngacyō man to be slayne in the same place where he comitted his wickednes vpo Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded him his punyshment, as he had deserued. Now when Lysmachus had done many wycked dedes in the temple thozow the counsell of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrode: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysmachus: for he had carped out now moch golde.

So when the people arose, and were full of dyspleasure, Lysmachus armed. iii. M. vntyfftes to defende hym: a certayne tyranante beyng they^e captayne, which was gro-wen both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysmachus, some gat stones, some good stroge clubbes, & some cast athes vpo Lysmachus Thus there were many of the wounded, some beyng slayne, & al y^e other chaced awaye, But as for the wycked churchrobber hym selfe, they kylled hi besyde the treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a courte agaynst Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Cyzus, they made a complaynthe vnto him of Menelaus, concernyng this busynesse, and the ambassytours were thre.
But Menelaus wēt & promised Ptolomy, to geue hym moch money, yf he wolde persuade y^e kyng. So Ptolomy wēt to the hig into a courte (where as he was sett to coole hym) & brought hym out of y^e mynde. In so moch that he discharged Menelaus fro the accusacyōs, that not wythstandynge was cause of all myschefe: and thole poore men, ged innocent, them he condemned to death.

Thus were they soone punyshed, whych honorably. And so thorow þe couetousnesse of them that were in power. Menelaus remayned ityll in aucthorite, increasynge in malice, to the hurte of the citeisyns.

The. v. Chapter.

Of the synnes and tokens sene in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offence of Jason. The pursute of Antiochus agayn the Jewes. The spoilinge of the temple.

At the same tyme Antioch⁹ made hym ready to go agayne in to Egypte. The were there sene at Jerusalem. xl. dayes longe, horsme, runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whych had raymēt of golde, & speeres. There were sene also whole hostes of men weapened, and horses runnyng in an ordre, how they came together, how they helde forth theyr wyldes, how the harnessed men drew out theyr swordes, and shott their dartes.

The synne of the golden weapens was sene, and of all maner of armure. Wherefore euery man prayed, that those tokēs myght turne to good. Now when there was gone forth a falsse rumour, as though Antiochus had bene deed: Jason toke a. iiij. men, and came sodenly vpon the ctye. The citeisyns ran into the walles, at the last was the cite taken, & Menelaus fled into the castell.

As for Jason, he spared not his awne citeisyns in the slaughter, nether cōsidered he what greute euell it were, to destrope þe prosperite of his awne kynsmē: but dyd as one that had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of his frendes. For all this gatt he not the superiourite, but at þe last receaued cōfusiō for his malice. * and fled agayne lyke a vagabunde into the lāde of the Ammonytes.

Finally, for a rewarde of his wyckednesse he was accused before Aretha the kynge of the Arabias. In somoch that he was sayne to fle from ctye to ctye, beyng deppled of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, & an abhominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of his awne natural countre and of the ctye) he was dyspūen into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put many out of theyr awne natyue land, perpyshed fro home hym self. He went to Lacedemō, thynckinge there to haue gottē succoure by reason of kynred. And he that afore had casten many one out vnburyed, was thowen out hym selfe, no man mournynge for hym, ner puttyng him in his graue: so that he nether enioyed þe buriall of a straunger, nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

Now whē this was done, the kynge suspecte, that the Jewes wolde haue fallen from hym: wherefore he came in a greute dyspleasure out of Egypte, & toke þe ctye by violence. He commaunded his men of warre also, that they shuld kyl & not spare, but slaye downe such as withstode them, or clymed vpon the houses.

Thus was there a greute slaughter of yonge men, olde men, women, children and virgines. In. iiii. dayes were there slayne. lxxx. iiij. fourty thousande put in prison, and no lesse solde. Yet was he not content wth this but durst go into the moost holy tēple (Menelaus that traytoure to the lawes & to his awne natural countre, beyng his gyde) and with his wicked hādes toke the holy vessel, whych other kynges & ctyes had geue thither for the garnynginge & honour of þe place: them toke he in his hādes unworthely, & despyled them.

So madd was Antiochus, that he considered not, how that God was a lytle wroth for the synnes of them that dwelt in þe ctye, for the whych such confusiō came vpon that place. * And why? yf it had not happened the to haue bene lapped in many synnes, this Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had so denly bene punyshed, and shutt out for his presumpcion, * lyke as heliodorus was, who Seleucus the kynge sente to robbe the treasury. Neuertheles, God hath not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place become partaker of þe peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it enioye the wealth of the. And lyke as it is now forsake in the wrath of almyghty God, so when the greute God is reconcyled, it shall be sett vpon in hys worship agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a. iiij. and viii. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat hi to Antioche in all the haste, thynckynge in his pryde, that he myght make mē lāpe vpon þe drye land, and to go vpon þe see, soch an hys mynde had he. He left debytes there, to deere the people: At Jerusalem left he Philyppe a Whyrig, in maners more cruell the him selfe þe let him there: At Garpsim he left Andronic⁹ & Menelaus, which were more greuous to the ctye than the other. * Now as he was thus set in malice agayn the Jewes, he sent Apollonius an hated prynce, wth xxiij. C. commaunding him to slaye those þe were of perfect age, and to sell the women, maydens & childre. Whē he cam now to Jerusalem, he sayned peace, & kepte hym ityll vntill the Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded his mē to take them to their weapens (for the Jewes kepte holy daye) & so he slew all them that were gone forth to þe open place, runnyng here & there thorow the ctye wth his men weapened, and murthered a greute nōbre. * But iudas Machabe⁹ which was the tenth, fled into the wyldernes, led his lyfe there wth his company amonge wyld beasts and vpon the mountaynes, dwellyng dwellyng there and eatyng grasse, lest they shuld be partakers of the fylthynesse.

The. vi. Chapter.

Of the Jewes are compelled to leaue the lawe of God. The temple is despyled. The readers are monyshed that they shall not abhorre the aduersite wher wth þe Lord afflicteth them. The greuous payne of Eleazarus.

At longe after this, sent the king a messenger of Antioche, for to compell the Jewes, to alre the ordinaunces of the fathers and þe lawe of God, to despyle the temple that was at Jerusalem, & to call it þe temple of Jupiter Olympius: & that they shulde be in Gazarim, as those whych dwell at the place of Jupiter þe herberous. This wycked sedycion of þe vngodly was heuy vpon all the people: for the temple was ful of voluptuousnes, bybbyngge & bolling of the heathen, of rybaudes & harlottes together. The women went into the holy place, and bare in that was not laudfull. The aulter also was full of vnlaful thynge, whych þe lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbathes were not kepte, & other solempne feastes of the lāde were not regarded. To be playne, there durst no man be a knowne that he was a Jewe. In þe day of the kynge byth they were compelled pay force to offre: and when the feast of Bacchus was kepte, they were constrained to wecre garlandes of vyue, and so to go aboute the honour of Bacchus.

Moreouer thorow þe counsell of Ptolomi, there went out a commaundement in the nexte ctyes of the heathen, that they shulde intreate þe Jewes in lyke maner: namely, to compell them for to do sacryfice after þe lawes of the Gentiles: & who so wolde not, to put the to death. A pyteous thynge was it to se. There were. ii. women accused to haue circumcised theyr sonnes, whom when they had led rounde aboute þe ctye (the babes hanging at their byestes) they caste the downe headlonges ouer the walles. Some that were crepte in denes & had kepte the Sabbath were accused vnto Philyppe, & bent in the fyre: because that for the feare of God they kepte the commaundement so styfly, & wold not defende them selues. Now I beseeche all those whych reade this boke, that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersite: & iudge þe thinges (that are happened) for no destrucyō, but for a chastening of oure people. And why? Whē God suffreth not synners longe to folow theyr awne mynde, but shortly punyssheth the, * it is a token of his greute louyng kyndnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, þe suffreth not vs long to synne unpunished like as othervnacys, þe when þe daye of iudgemēt cometh, he maye punyssh them in the fulnes of theyr synnes. If we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer wythdroweth his mercy fro vs: & though he punyssh wyth aduersyte, yet doth he neuer forsake his people. But lett this that we haue spoken now wyth fewe wordes, be for a warnyng and exhortacyon of the heathen.

Now wyl we come to the declaryng of þe matter. Eleazar one of þe principall Scribes, an aged man & of a well fauored countenance, was constrained to gape wyth open mouth, & to eate swynes flesch. But he despyg rather to dye gloriously then to lyue wyth shame, offred hym selfe wyllyngly to þe martyrdome. Now when he saw þe he must nedes go to it, he toke it paciēty: for he was at a poynte wyth hym selfe, þe he wolde consent to no vnlaful thynge for any pleasure of lyfe. They þe stode by beyng moued wpyte (but not aryght) for the olde frendshyp of þe man, toke hym aspyde pryuelly, & prayed hym, that he wold let such flesch be brought hym as were laful to eate, & then to make a countenance, as though he had eaten of the flesch of the sacryfice lyke as the kynge commaunded, for so he myght be deliuered fro death: & so for the olde frendshype of the mā, they shewed hym this kyndnes.

But he beganne to consydre his discrete & honorable age, his noble and worthy full stock, & who þe fro his youth vphē had bene of an honest & good cōuersacyon: yee & how constantly he had kepte the ordinaunces and lawes comaūded by God, wherefore he gaue them this answer, & sayd: Yet had I rather fyrst be layed in my graue. * For it becometh not myne age (sayde he) in any wyse to dissemble, wherby many pōg personnes might thyncke, that Eleazar being. lxxx. yere olde & x. were now gone to a straunge lyfe: & so thorow myne pocrisy (for a lytle tyme of a trasptory lyfe) they myght be discaued: by this meanes also shuld I despyle myne age, & make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered fro the tormentes of men, yet shuld I not escape the hād of almyghty God, nether alpyue ner deed. wherefore, I wyl dye manfully & do as it becometh myne age. Wherby I maye paraduētūre leaue an exāple of stedfastnes for such as be yonge, yf I wyth a ready mynde & manfully dye an honest death, for þe most worthy & holy lawes.

When he had sayde these wordes, immediately he was drawn to þe torment. Now they that led hym & were mylde a lytle afore, beganne to take dyspleasure because of þe wordes þe he sayd: for they thought he had spokē them of an hys mynde. But when he was in his martyrdome, he mourned & sayd Thou (O Lord) which hast þe holy knowlege, knowest opely: that where as I myght be deliuered from death, I suffre these sore paynes of my body: but in my mynde I am wel content to suffre the because I feare the

Thus this man dyed, leaueinge the memorial of hys death for an example, not only vnto yonge men, but vnto all the people, to be stedfast and manly.

The. vii. Chapter.

The punishment of the. vii. brethren and of their mother.

A happened also, & there were. vii. brethren (wyth their mother) taken, & compelled by the kynge * against the lawe, to eate swyns flesh: namely wylscourges and lethyn whyppes. And one of them whych was the chiefe, sayde: what sekest thou, and what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs, we are ready rather to suffre death, then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kynge angrey, and bad heate cauldrons and brayn pottes. Whych when they were made hote, immediatly he commaunded the tonge of hym that spake fyrst, to be cut out, to pul the skynne ouer hys heade, to pare of the edges of hys handes and fete: yee and that in the syght of his mother & the other of hys brethren. Now when he was cleane marred, he commaunded a fyre to be made, & so (whyle there was eny breath in hym) to be fayed in the cauldron: In the which whyle he had bene longe payned the other brethren with their mother exhorted him to dye manfully, sayenge: The Lord God shall rewarde the treuth, and conforthe vs, lyke as Moses testifieth * & declareth in hys songe, sayenge: and he wyll haue compassyon on hys seruauntes.

So when the fyrst was deed after this maner, they brought the seconde to haue hit in derpsyd, pulled the skynne wyth the heare ouer hys heade, & asked hym, yf he wolde eate swyns flesh, or he were payned in the other membris also thowow out hys body. But he answered boldly, and sayde: I wyll not do it. And so was he tormeted lyke as the fyrst, and when he was euen at the geuyngc vpon the goost he sayde: Thou most vngreuous persone puttest vs now to death, but I kynge of the world shall rayse vs vp (which dye for his lawes) in the resurreccio of euerylastyngc lyfe.

After hym, was the thyrde had in derpsyd and when he was requyred, he put out hys tonge, and that ryght soone, holdyngc forth hys handes manfully, and spake wyth a stedfast fayth: These haue I of heauē, but now for the lawe of God I despyse them: for my trust is, that I shall receaue them of hym agayne. In so moch that the kynge and they whych were wyth hym, marueled at the yongemans boldnesse, that he nothyngc regarded the paynes.

Now when he was deed also, they vexed the fourth wyth tormentes in lyke maner. So whyle he was now at hys death, he sayed

It is better that we beynge put to death of men, haue oure hope and trust in God for he shall rayse vs vp agayne. * As for the, thou shalt haue no resurreccyon to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyfth, they tormeted hym. He looked he vnto the kynge, & sayde: thou hast power amonge men for thou art a mortall ma also thy selfe, to do what I wylt, but thynke not, that God hath forsaken oure generacyon. Abyde the, tarye still a whyle, and thou shalt see the great power of God, how he wyll punyssh the and thy selfe. After hym they brought the syxte, whych beyngc at the poynte of death, sayde, Be not disceaueid (whych) for this we suffre for our awne sakes, because we haue offēded our God, & therfore maruelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou, whych takest in hande to stryue agaynst God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one dape, and suffred it paciētly, because of the hope that she had in God: yee, she exhorted euery one of the in especyall, and that boldly & stedfastly wyth parfyte wysdome, wakyngc vpon her wyppis thought wyth a manly stomache, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell how ye came in my wōbe, for I neither gaue you brethren soule, nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the membris of youre bodys together, but the maker of the worlde, which fastyned the byrth of man, and beganne all thynges. Euen he also of hys awne mercy shall geue you breath and lyfe agayne, lyke as ye now regard not your awne selues for his lawes sake.

Now thought Antiochus that she had despyed hym, therfore he let her go wyth her reproues, & beganne to exhorte the yongest sonne (which yet was left) not only w wordes but swoze vnto hym wyth an ooth, that he shuld make hym a ryche and welthy man (yf he wolde forsake the lawes of hys fathers) yee, and that he shulde geue hym, whatsoeuer were necessary for hym. But when the yonge man wolde not be moued, for all these thynges, he called hys mother, & counceled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her wyth many wordes, she promysed hym that she shulde speake vnto her sone. So she turned her vnto hym (laughyngc the cruell tyrante to scoyne) & spake wyth a bolde voyce: O my sonne, haue pytie vpon me, that bare the ix. monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, norished the & brought the vp vnto this age.

I beseeche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen & earth and all that is therein, and cōsydere, that God made them and mans generacyon of naught: so shalt thou not feare this hangman, but suffre death stedfastly, lyke as

as

as thy brethren haue done: that I may receaue the agayne in the same mercy wyth thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speakyngc these wordes, the yonge man sayde: whom loke ye for? Wherfore do ye tarye? I wyll not obeye the kynges comaundement, * but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moses. As for thou that ymagynest all myschefe agaynst the Jewes, thou shalt not escape the hande of God, for we suffre these thynges, because of oure synnes.

And though God be angrey wyth vs a lytle whyle (for oure chastenyngc and reformatyon) yet shal he be at one agayne wyth his seruauntes. But thou. (O shamefull & most abhomyable persone.) Abyde not thy selfe thowow wayne hope, in beyngc so malycyous vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whych is almyghty, and seyth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffred a lytle payne, are now vnder the couenaunt of euerylastyngc lyfe: but thowow the iudgement of God, thou shalt be punished ryghteously for thy pryde.

As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I offre my soule & my body for the lawes of our fathers, callyngc vpon God, that he wyll soone be mercyfull vnto our people: yee and wyth payne and punishment * to make the graunte, that he only is God. In me now & in my brethren the wrath of almyghty God is at an ende, whych ryghteously is fallen vpon all oure people.

Then the kynge beyngc kyndled in anger, was moze cruell vpon him then vpon all the other, and toke indygnacyon, that he was so lyghtly regarded. So this yongeman dyed vndeuyled, & put hys trust still in the Lord. Last of all after the sones, was the mother put to death also. Let this now be ynough spoken, concernyngc the offerynges, and extreme cruellnesse.

The. viii. Chapter.

Judas gathereth together hys hoste. Alcanor is sent agaynst Judas. Judas exhorte hys souldiers to conuancie Alcanor is overcome. The Jewes geue thankes after they haue put their enemyes to flight, & buryngc the bodies vnto the fatherles and vnto the widowes. Alcanor speaketh vnto Antiochus.

When Judas Machabeus, and they that were wyth him, wente pryuely to the townes, called they the kynsfolkes & frendes together, toke vnto them all such as cōtymmed yet in the fayth and lawe of the Jewes and brought forth. vi. M. men.

So they called vpon the Lord, that he wolde haue an eye vnto hys people, whych was trodden downe of euery man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was despyled of the vngodly: to haue cōpassyon vpon the destruction of the cite, whych was shortly lyke to be layed waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto him: to remembre the most vngyghteous deathe of yonge innocent chyldre, the blasphemys also done vnto hys name, and to punyssh them.

* 1. Mac. ii. a.

Now when Machabeus had gathered this multitude together, he was to myghty for the heathen (for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the townes and ctytes vntowares, bent them, toke the most commodious places, and slewe many of the enemyes. But specially he made loch chafes by nyght, in so moch that hys manlynesse was spoken of euery where.

* 1. Mac. ii. b.

So when Philippe sawe that the man increased by lytle and lytle, & that the matter prospered wyth hym for the most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomey (which was a capytayne in Celosiria & Phenices) to helpe him in the kynges busynes. Then sent he Nicanor Patrocle (a speciall frende of hys) in all the haste, and gaue him of the comen sortc of the heathen no lesse then. xx. M. harnessed men, to rote out the whole generacyon of the Jewes, haupngc to helpe hym one Sorgias a man of warre, whych in matters concernyngc battayls, had great experiece. Nicanor ordned also the trybute (which the Romanaynes shulde haue had) to be geuen vnto the kynge out of the captiuyte of the Jewes, namely. ii. M. talentes. And immediatly he sent to the cities of the see coast, requyryngc them for to bye Jewes to be theyr seruauntes and bonde men, promysyngc to sell them lxxx. and ten for one talente: but he cōsydered not the wrath of almyghty God, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of this, he tolde the Jewes that were wyth hym of Nicanors cōmyngc. Now were there some of them fearful, not trustyngc vnto the ryghteousnes of God, and fled theyr waye.

But the other that remayned, came together, and besought the Lord, to deliuer the frō that wyched Nicanor, which had solde them or euer he came nye them: and though he wolde not do it for theyr sakes, yet for the couenaunt that he made wyth theyr fathers, and because they called vpon hys holy & glorious name. * And so Machabeus called hys men together, namely aboute. vi. M. exhorteingc the not to agree vnto their enemyes, * nether to be afraied for the multitude of their aduersaries commyngc agaynst them vngyghteously: but to fyght manly, cōsyderyngc the reprofe that they had done to the holy place without cause, how they had despyled and oppressed the ctyte, yee, and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. * For they vs, and all the worlde.

He exhorted them also to cal to remembraunce & helpe, that God shewed vnto the-yr fathers: * as whē there perished an. C. & lxxxv. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of the batayl that they had in Babylon agaynst the Gallacyans: how all the Macedonyans that came to helpe them, stode in feare: and how they beig but only vi. M. slewe an. C. & xx. M. thozow & helpe that was geuen them from heauē, wherby they also had receaued many benefytes.

Thozow these wordes the mē toke good herthes vnto them, ready to dye for the lawe and the countre. So he set vpon euery company a captayne, one of hys awne brethren: Simon, Joseph & Jonathan: geuyng eche one. xv. C. men. He caused also to reade the holy booke vnto them, & to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

* 1. mac. xiii. 6

* Then he hym selfe beyng captayne in the fore front of the battayll, buckled wyth Ricanor. And God was theyr helpe, in so moch that they slewe aboue lx. M. men & compen-died the more parte of Ricanoz hooft to fle, they were so wounded and feable. Thus they toke the money fro those that came to bye them, and folowed vpon the on euery syde.
But when the tyme came vpon them, they returned, for it was the Sabbath, and therfore they folowed nomore vpon them. So they toke theyr weapons & spoiles and kepte the Sabbath, geuyng thanckes vnto & Lorde, which had deliuered them that daye, and shewed the hys mercy. After the Sab-both * they distributed the spoiles to the sy-cke, to & fatherlesse and to wyddowes, and the retydue had they them selues wyth the-yrs. When thys was done, and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercifull Lorde to be at onc wyth hys ser-uautes.

Of those also that were wyth Timotheus and Bachides, which fought agaynst them they slewe. xx. M. wanne hys and strōge hol-des, and deuyded moos spoiles: euery geuyng an equal porcyon vnto & sycke, to & father-les, to wyddowes and to aged persons. And when they had dyligently gathered theyr weapons together, they layed the all in con-ueniente places, & the remnaunt of the spoy-les brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe also Bypharches & wycked personne, which was wyth Tymotheus, and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the than-kegeuyng at Jerusalem for the vyctory, they brēt those that had set fyre on & portes of & tēple: namely Calisthenes, whych was fled into an house: & so they gat a wo-thy rewarde for theyr wyckednesse. As for that most vngacious Ricanoz, whych had brought a thousande marchauntes, to bye the Jewes, he was thozow the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom he regarded not: in so moch that he put of hys glourious raymēt, fled by see, and came alone to Antioche, wyth greate shame and dyshonour, whych he gat thozow the destruction of hys hooft. Thus he that prompted the Romaynes to paye the theyr tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: beganne now to saye playnely, that God was the defender of the Jewes, & therfore not possible to wo-unde them, because they folowed the lawes whych God had made.

The ix. Chapter.

Antiochus imploring to spoyle Jerusalem is dyscomfited. As he persecuteth the Jewes, he is re-uersed of the Lorde. The fained repentance of Antiochus.

At the same tyme came Antiochus agayne wyth dyshonour out of Persys. For when he came to Persopolys, ad vndertoke to robbe the tēple and to subdue the cytie, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so moch that he and hys were fayne to fle wyth shame.

And so after that flyght, it happened that Antiochus came agayne wyth dyshonou-re. But when he came to Egbatana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Ricanor and Tymotheus. Now as he was anauisinge him selfe in his wrath, he thought he was able to auenge the injury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make ready hys charet, hastynge on hys iourney wythout ceasyn-ge, the iudgement of God prouokynge hym because he had spoken so proudly, & he wol-de come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israell, that seyth all thynges, smote hym wyth an inuysible plague, whych no man coude heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wodes, there came vpo hym an horrible payne of hys bowels, and a sore grefe of & armes.

And that was but ryght: for he had martyred other mens bowels wyth dyscuse and straunge tormentes, howbeit he wolde in no wyse ceasse from his malice. Vce, he was yet the prouder & more malicious agaynst the Jewes: But whyle he was commaundyng to make haste in the matter, it happened that he fel downe violently from the charer so that it broked hys body, and dyd hys greute payne.

And

And so he that thought he myght commaunde the floudes of the see (so proude was he beyonde the condycion of man) & to weye the hys mountaynes in a payre of balauce, was now brought downe to the grounde, & caried vpon an horlytter, knowlegynge the manysfeste power of God vpon hym: so that the wicked body of hys was full of wormes, whych in hys payne fell quicke out of hys flesh. In so moch that hys hooft was greued wyth the smell and styck of hym. Thus he that a lytle afore thought he myght reache to the starre of heauen, hym myght no man now abyde ner beare, for the vehemence of styncke.

* 1. mac. xiii. 10

Therfore, he beyng brought from hys great payde, beganne for to come to & knowledge of hym selfe: for the punisshment of God warned hym, and his payne increased euermore and more. And whē he hym self might not abyde hys awne styncke, he sayde these wordes: It is reaso to be obediēt vnto God, and that a man desyre not to be lyke vnto hym. Thys wycked personne prayed also vnto the Lorde, of whom he shulde haue op-tayned no mercy. And as for & cytie that he came vnto so hastily, to byrge it downe to the groude, and to make it a graue for deed men: now he desireth to deliuer it fre.

And as touchyng & Jewes, whom he had iudged not worthy to be buryed, but wolde haue cast them out for to be deuoured of the foules & wyld beasts, sayeng, that he wol-de haue destroyed both olde & ponge: Now he promysed, to make the lyke the cytelins of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promyse to garnyshe it with greute gifies, to increase the holy ornamentes, and of his awne rētes to beare the costes, and charges belonginge to the offeringes: pee, and that he wolde also become a Jewe him self, to go thozow euery place of the worlde, and to preach the power of God.

But when his paynes wolde not ceasse, (for & ryghteous iudgemēt of God was come vpo him) out of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a lettre of intercession, conterpyng these wordes: The kynge and prince Antiochus wiseth vnto & vertuous cytelins of the Jewes, moch health ad good prosperite.

If ye and poure chyldren fare well, and yf all thynges go after poure mynde: we ge-ue greute thankes. In my sycknesse also do I remembre you louyngly: for as I came out of Persia, and was taken wyth sore dy-sease: I thought it necessary to care for the comē wealth. Nether despayre I in my self, but haue a good hope to escape this sicknes.

But consyderinge that my father led an hooft sometyme in the hyper places, and the wed who shulde raygne after hym, that (yf there happened any cotrouersy, or eny harde thyng were declared) they in & lande myght knowe theyr chefe Lorde, that there shulde be no insurreccion: Agayne: when I ponde by my self, how that all the myghtie men and neyghbours roide about, are layd wyte, and loke but for oportynyte to do harme: I haue ordened that my sonne Antiochus shal raygne after me, whom I oft commended to many of you, when I was in the hyper kyn-domes, and haue wyrtten vnto him as it fo-loweth herafter. Therfore I praye you & re-quyre you, to remembre the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally, and in especiall (and that euery mā wylbe saythfull to me & my sonne) For I hope that he shal be of sober and louinge behauoure, & yf he folowe my deuyce, he shal be indifferent vnto you.

* 1. mac. xiii. 11

Thus, that murthurer & blasphemour of God was soe smytten: & lyke as he had in-treated other men, so he dyed a myserable death in a straunge countre vpon a moun-taine. And hys body dyd Philippe (& went wyth hym) carpe awaye: whych fearynge the sonne of Antiochus, wente into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

The x. Chapter.

Judas Machabees taketh the cite & the temple. He beginneth to shew & actes of Eupator. The Jewes fought agaynst the Idumeans: Timotheus inuadeth Jewry, wyth whom Judas fought battell. A. men appeare in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes. Timotheus is slayne.

Machabees now and his company (thozow the helpe of the Lorde) wanne the temple and the cytie agayne, destroyed the aulters and chappels that & heathen had buylded thozow the stretes: clenfed & temple, * made another aulter of byrche stone, and after two yeres they offered sacrifices, set forth the incense, the lyghtes and shewe byed. When that was done, they fell downe flat vpon the grounde, and besought the Lorde, that they myght come nomore into soch trouble: but yf they synned eny more agaynst hym, he hym selfe to chasten them wyth mercy, and not to come in the handes of those alcautes and blasphemous men.

* 1. mac. xiii. 12

Now vpon the same daye that & strau-gers poluted & temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was clenfed agayne: namely, * the. xxi. daye of the moneth called Cassiu. They kepte. viii. dayes in gladnesse lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles: remembyng that not longe afore, they helde the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in denes lyke beasts. And to the same token they bare grene bowes, byaun-ches and palmes, before him that had geuen them good fortune to clenfe his place. They agreed

* 1. mac. xiii. 13

agreed also together, and made a statute, p euery peare those dayes shoulde be solemnly kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

Now Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed, it is sufficiently tolde. Now will we speake of Eupator the sonne of that wycked Antiochus, how it happened wth him: & so with fewe wordes to comprehend the aduersyte that chaunced in the warres.
When he had taken in p^rkingdome, he made one Lysias (which had bene captayne of the host in Phenices and Syria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron, beyng a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to s^t in iudgement for loche w^oge as was done vnto them) vndertoke to deale peaceably wth them. For the whyche cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traytour (because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had comytted vnto him: and because he departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poploned hym selfe, and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernoure of the same places, he toke straungers and vndertoke oftymes to warre with the Jewes.
Moreouer, the Idumeans p^r helde the ströge holdes, receaued those that were dyscuen frö Jerusalem, and toke in hande to warre also
* But they that were wth Machabeus be sought and prayed vnto the Lorde, that he wolde be their helper: and so they fell into p^r stronge holdes of the Idumeans, and wanne many places by strength: Sochas came agaynst them they slewe, and kyllled nolesse of all together (then twetye thousande. Reuerthelesse some, no lesse then nyne thousande, were fled into twoo stronge towres, ha-uyng all maner of ordinaunce to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauing Symon, Josephus, zacheus, and those that were wth them (which were very many) wente to be-sege them, & to fyght where most nede was, Now they that were wth Symon, beyng led wth couetousnesse, were intreated for money, thozow certayne of those that laye in the towres: toke. lxx. M. drachmas: & let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened, he called p^r captaynes of the people together, accusinge those persones, p^r they had solde the b^reth^r for money, and let their enemyes go. So he slewe those traytours, and immediatly wete in hande wth the. ii. towres. And whē they had ordred the selues manly with their wea-pens and handes, they slewe in the two castels moe then twentye thousande.

* Now Timotheus whom p^r Jewes had ouercome afore, gathered a multitude of straunge people, brought an hoste also of hoismen of the Assyans, to wyne Jewry by strength. But when he drew nye, Machabeus & they p^r were wth hym * fell to they^r prayer, spynckled ashes v^o their heades, being gyrded wth bearrie cloth about their loynes, fell downe before the aulter, and besought the Lorde that he wolde be mercyfull to them, but an enemye vnto their enemyes, & to take parte agaynst their aduersaries, * accordyng as it is promysed in the lawe.

So after p^r prayer, they wete on further frö the cyte: and whē they came nye p^r enemyes, they prepared them selues agaynst them.

And by tymes in p^r moynyng at the b^rea-ke of the daye, both the hostes buckled together. * The one parte had the Lorde for their refuge, which is p^r geuer of prosperite strength and victo^ry. The other had a maly stomack which is a captayne of warre.

The battayll now beyng greate, * there appeared vnto the enemyes from heauen. v. men v^o hozbacks wth byrdels of golde, ledyng the Jewes, & two of them haupng Machabeus betwixte them, that kepte him safe on euery syde wth their weapons, but shot darteres and lightenynges vpon the ene-myes: where thozow they were confounded wth byndnesse & so soze afrayed, that they fell downe. There were slayne of fote men twentye thousande and fyue hundred, and fyre hundred hozsmen. As for Timotheus him selfe, he fled vnto Gazar a very stronge holde, wherein Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus and his company layed sege to it chearfully. iiii. dayes.

Now they that were wthin trustyng to the strength of the place, cursed and banned exccadyngly, and made great crakyng wth wycked wordes. Reuerthelesse, vpon the fyft daye in the moynyng. xx. yong men of Machabeus company, beyng let on fyre in their myndes (because of the blasphem) came mally vnto the wall, and wth bolde stomackes they and they^r other companyons clymmed v^o vpon the towres, vnder-takynge to set fyre vpon the portes, & to burne those blasphemous persones quicke Two dayes were they destroying p^r castell, whyche when they founde Timotheus (that was crept into a corner) they kyllled hym, & slew Cereas his brother in lyke maner with Appollophanes. When this was done, they songe psalmes, wth prayses and thankesgeyng vnto the Lorde, whyche had done so great thynges for Israel, and gyue them the victo^ry.

The. xi. Chapter.

* Lysias goeth aboute to ouercome p^r Jewes. Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Jewes. The letter of Lysias to the Jewes. The letter of kynge Antiochus vnto Lysias. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romaynes to the Jewes.

Not

At longe after this, Lysias p^r kynges stewarde & a kynsman of hys (whyche had the gouernaunce of hys matters) toke soze displeasure for p^r thynges that had happened: ad whē he had gathered. lxxx. M. men of fote wth all the hoste of p^r hoismen, he came agaynst the Je-wes, thynckynge to wyne p^r cytie, to make it an habitacyon for the heathen, * and p^r tēple wolde he haue to be an house of lucre, ly-ke as the other goddes houses of the heathē are, & to sell the prestes offyce euery peare: Not cōsidering the power of God, but was wylde in his mynde, * trustyng in p^r multitude of fote men, in thousandes of hozsmen, and in his. lxxx. Elephantes.

So he came into Jewry & then to Beth-sura (a castell of defence) lyng in a narrow place. v. furlonges from Jerusalem, & wāne it. Now when Machabeus and hys cōpany knewe that the stronge holdes were taken, * they fell to their prayers with wepyng & teares before the Lorde. And all p^r people in lyke maner besought him, p^r he wolde send a good angell to delouer Israel. Machabeus hym self was the fyrt that made him ready to the battayll, exhortyng p^r other that were wth hym, to icoperde the selues, & to helpe their b^reth^ren. And when they were goynge forth of Jerusalem together wth a redy & wyllyng mynde, * there appeared before the vpon hozbacke a man in whyte clothynge wth harnesse of golde, shakynge his speare.
Then they prayed the Lorde all together, which had shewed them mercy, & were comforted in their myndes: in somoch that they were ready, not only to fyght with men, but wth the most cruell beastes, pee & retourne thozow walles of yron.

Thus they wente on wyllyngly haupnge an helper frö heauen, and p^r Lorde mercyfull vnto the. They fell myghtely v^o their ene-myes lyke lyōs, brought downe. xi. M. fote men. xvi. C. hozsmē, put all p^r other to flight many of the beyng wounded, and some gat awaye naked. Pee Lysias hi self was fayne to fle shamefully, and so to escape. Reuerthelesse, p^r mā was not without vnderstanding, but cōsidered by hym self p^r hys power was mynded, and pōdred how the Jewes being defended by p^r helpe of Almighty God, were not able to be ouercome: wherfore he sent the worde, & promysed, p^r he wolde cōsente to all thynges which were reasonable, and to make p^r kynge their frēde. To p^r which prayer of Lysias Machabeus agreed, schyng in all thynges p^r comen wealth & whatsoeuer Ma-chabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Jewes, the kynge graunted it. For there were letters wthte vnto the Jewes from Lysias, conteynyng these wordes.
Lysias sendeth gretynge to the people of the Jewes. Ihon and Absalon whych were sent from you, deluiered me wth tynges, & requyred me to fulfyll the thynges concernyng the y^r earande. Therfore loke what might be graunted, I certified p^r kynge therof: & whatsoeuer was cōuenient. I agreed ther-to. If ye now will be saythfull in p^r matters I shall endeuer my selfe herafter also to do you good. As concernyng other thynges by euery article therof: I haue comytted the to poure messaungers, & to those whom I sent vnto you, to comē wth you of p^r same, fare ye well. In the. C. and. xlviij. peare, the. xxiii. daye of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

Now p^r kynges lettre cōteyned these wo^r-des. Kynge Antiochus sendeth gretige vnto his brother Lysias. For so moch as oure father, * is now deed, oure wyll is, that they which are in oure realme, lyue wthout eny insurreccion, & euery mā to be diligēt in hys awne matters. We vnderstāde also, p^r p^r Je-wes wolde not consent to oure father, for to be brought vnto p^r custome of the Gētyles, but styly to kepe their awne statutes: for p^r whyche cause they requyre of vs also, to lett them remayne styll by their awne lawes.

Wherfore, oure mynde is, p^r this people shalbe in rest: we haue concluded & determy-ned also, to restore them their tēple agayne: that they maye lyue accordyng to the vse & custome of their forefathers. Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore, p^r p^r sende vnto them and agre with the: that when they are certifyed of oure mynde, they maye be of good chere, and loke to their awne wealth.

And this was the lettre, that the kynge wrote vnto p^r Jewes: kynge Antiochus sendeth gretynge vnto the counsell and p^r other people of p^r Jewes: If ye fare well, we haue our desyre: as for vs, we are in good health.
Menelaus came and tolde vs, how & poure desyre was to come downe to poure people, whyche are wth vs.

Wherfore those that wyll come, we geue the frē lyberte, vnto the. xxx. daye of the mo-neth of April, p^r they maye vse p^r meates of p^r Jewes and their awne lawes, like as afore: & none of the by eny māner of wayes to haue harme, for thynges done i ignorance. Me-nelaus whō we haue set vnto you, shal comē wth you at large, fare ye wel. In the. Cxlviij. peare, the. xv. daye of the moneth of April.

The Romaynes also sent a lettre, cōteynyng these wordes: Quintus Memmius & Titus Manilius embassours of the Ro-maynes, sende gretinge vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lysias the kynge kynsman hath graunted you, we graunte you the same also. But as concernyng the thynges whyche he referred vnto the kynge, sende byther some with speede, and pōdred the matter diligently amonge your selues, that we we maye cast y^e best to youre profyte, for we must departe now vnto Antioche. And therfore write shortly agayne, y^e we maye knowe your minde: fare well. In y^e hundreth. xlviij. yere, the .xv. daye of the moneth of Aprill.

The .xii. Chapter.

Timotheus troubleth the Jewes. The Iepked dede of the Iepkes agaynst the Jewes. Judas is auenged of them. He setteth fyre on y^e gate of Iamnia. The pursute of the Jewes agaynst Timotheus. Timotheus is taken and let go unhurt. Judas pursueth Gorgias. Judas offering sacrifices for the dedd, sheweth the hope of the resurrection.

When these couenautes were made Lysias went vnto the kynge, & the Jewes tylded their grounde. But Timotheus, Apollonius y^e sonne of Cemei, Jerome & Demiofon y^e proude, Ricanoz y^e captayne of Cypers, & they that laye in those places: wolde not lett the Ipeue in rest & peace. They of Joppa also dyd euen soch a shamefull dede. They prayed the Jewes y^e dwelt amonge them, to go with their wyues & chylde into y^e thynnes whych they had prepared, and dyd wyth the, as though they had ought them no euill wyl. For so moch the as there was gone forth a general proclamacyon thozow the cytye because of peace, they colcted therto, & suspecte nothyng: but when they were gone forth into y^e depe, they drowned no lesse then .ii. C. of them.

Whē Judas knew of this cruell thewed vnto his people, he commaunded those that were with hi to make the ready, exhortyng them to call vpo God the ryghteous iudge: went forth agaynst those murthurers of his brethzen, set fyre in the haue by nyght, brent vnto the thynnes, and those that escaped from the fyre, he slewe with y^e swearde. And when he had done thys, he departed as though he wolde come agayne, and rore out all the of Joppa. But when he had gottē worde, that y^e Jamnites were mynded to do in lyke manner vnto y^e Jewes whych dwelt amonge the, he came vpon the Jamnites by nyght, & lett fyre on the haue wyth the thynnes: so that the lyght of the fyre was sene at Ierusalem vpon a .ii. C. and .xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone from thence ix. furlonges, in their iourney toward Timotheus. v. thousande men of fote and. v. hundredth horsmen of the Arabians, fought with him. So when y^e battell was earnest, & prospered wyth Judas thozow the helpe of God: the respydue of the Arabians beyng ouercome, besought Judas to be at one with them, & promysed to geue hym certayne pastures, and to do him good in other thinges. Judas thynkyng that they shulde in dede be profytable concernyng many thynge, promised them peate: wher vpon they shoke handes, and so they departed to their tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cytye, whych was very faste kepte with byrdes, fenced round aboute with walles, and byuerse kyndes of people dwellinge therein, called Caspin.

They that were within it, put soch trust in the strenght of the walles, & in their stoare of vitayles: that they were y^e slacker in their doynges, cursyng and reuyng Judas wth blasphemys, and speakyng soch wordes as it becommeth not. But Machabeus callynge vpon the great Prynce of the worlde (whych without any battayll rāmes, or ordynauce of warre, dyd cast downe y^e walles of Jericho, in y^e tyme of Josue) fell manfully vpo y^e walles, toke the cyte, (& thozow the helpe of the Lord) made an exceedyng greate slaughter: In so moch y^e lake of two furlonges brode whych laye therby, semed to flowe wyth the bloude of the slayne.

Then departed they from thence. vii. C. & L. furlonges, and came to Taraca vnto the Jewes that are called Tubianei. But as for Timotheus, they coude not get him there: for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed from thence, and had left certayne men in a very strong holde. But Dosithus & Sosipater, whych were Captaynes with Machabeus, slewe those y^e Timotheus had left in the house of defence, euen .x. M. men. And Machabeus prepared him with the. vi. M. men y^e were aboute hym, set the in ordre by companyes, and wete forth agaynst Timotheus, whych had wyth hym an. C. & .xx. M. men of fote. ii. M. and. v. C. horsmen.

When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas comyng, he sent y^e women, chylde and the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion. (For it coude not be wōne, & was hard to come vnto, the wayes of y^e same places were so narrow) & whē Judas cōpany came first in syght, y^e enemyes were smytten with feare, thozow the ptesence of God, whych seyth all thynge: In so moch y^e they sleynge one here, another there, were rather discōfited of their awne people, & and wounded wth strokes of their awne sweardes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpo them, punishyng those vngodly, & slewe. xxx. M. men of the. Timotheus also him self fell into y^e handes of Dosithus and Sosipater, whō he besought with many prayers, to let hym go with his lyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers & brethze iⁿ pteson, whych (yf they put hi to death) myght be disapointed. So whē he had promysed faythfully to deliuer the agayne accordyng to y^e cōdicion made, they let hym go wythout harme, for the health of the brethze. And when Judas had slayne. xxv. M. he wente from Carnion.

Now after y^e he had chased awaye & slayne his enemyes, he remoued y^e hoste toward Ephyra a stroge cytye, wherin dwelt many diuerse people of the heathen, & the stronge pounge men kepte the walles, defendyng the myghtely.

mightely. In this cytye was moch ordynauce and prouision of darter. But whē Judas and his cōpany had called vpon Almyghty God (whych wyth hys power breaketh the strenght of the enemyes) they wāne the cytye, and slewe. xxv. M. of the, y^e were within from thence wente they to the cytye of the Scythias, whych lyeth. vi. C. furlonges frō Ierusalem. But when y^e Jewes whych were in the cytye testified, that the cytelys deale lounyngly with them, pee, and increated them kynoly in the tyme of their aduersyte, Judas and hys cōpany gaue them thāckes, bespyng them to be freddy still vnto them: and so they came to Ierusalem the hye feast of the weekes beyng at hande. And after the feast of pentecost they went forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernoure of Idumea, wyth iii. M. men of fote & .iii. C. horsmen. Whych when they met together, it chaunced a fewe of y^e Jewes to be slayne. And Dosithus one of y^e Bachenors a myghty horsmā toke hold of Gorgias, & wolde haue take him quyk. But an horsman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote of his arme, so y^e Gorgias escaped & fled into Moza. When they now y^e were of Gorgias side, had foughten longe & were weary: Judas called vpo the Lorde, that he wolde be their helper, & captayne of the felde: and with that, he beganne with a manly voyce to take vpo a longe of prayse, & a crye: In so moch y^e he made the enemyes afrayed, and Gorgias mē of warre toke their flight. So Judas gathered his hoste, & came into y^e cytye of Ddolla. And when the seuen daye came vpon the, they censed them selues (as the custome was) & kepte the Sabbath in y^e same place. And vpon the daye folowynge, Judas & his cōpany cam to take vpo the bodies of the that were slayne, and to bury the in the fathers graues. Now vnder the cotes of certayne Jewes whych were slayne, they founde Jewels that they had taken out of y^e temple & from the Idols of the Jamnites: whych thynge is folowynge the Jewes by lawe. Then euery man sawe, y^e this was the cause, wherfore they were slayne.

And so euery man gaue thāckes vnto y^e Lorde for hys ryghteous iudgement, whych had opened the thynge that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto the prayers, and besought God, y^e the lawe whych was made, myght be put out of remēbrance. Besydes that, Judas exhorted y^e people earnestly, to kepe the selues from soch synne: for so moch as they sawe before their eyes: y^e these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so moch y^e he brought together two thousande drachmas of syluer, whych he sent vnto Ierusalem, that there myght a sacrifice be offred for the mysdede. In the whych place he dyd well and ryght: for he had some consideracyon & ponderyng of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought that they, whych were slayne, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vayne, to make eny vowe or sacrifice, for the, that were dedd. But for so moch as he sawe, that they whych dye in the fauoure & beleue of God, are in good rest and ioye, he thought it to be good & honozable for a recōcilyng, to do the same for those whych were slayne, that the offence myght be forgotten.

The .xiii. Chapter.

The comyng of Eupator into Jherozep. The death of Menelaus: Machabeus going to sepyt agaynst Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto praye. He killeth .xliiij. thousande men in the tentes of Antioche. Jherozepus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus recapneth frendship with the Jewes.

Judas knewe gatt y^e Judas knowledge, y^e Antiochus Eupator was comyng with a greate power into Jherozep, & Lysias the steward and ruler of his matters with him hauinge an. C. and. x. M. men of fote. v. M. horsmen. xliiij. Elephantes, and. iii. C. charrettes. Menelaus also ioyned him self with them (but with greate dyscreete) and spake fayre to the kynge, not for eny good of y^e cōtre, but because he thought to haue bene made some greate man of auctozite. But y^e kynge of kynge moued Antiochus mynde agaynst thys vngodly personne, & Lysias infourmyd the kynge, & that this Menelaus was y^e cause of all myschefe: so that the kynge commaunded to take him, and (as the maner of the is) to put hym vnto death in the same daye.

There was also in the same place a tower of L. cubytes hye, heapped with ashes: but aboue it was so made, that mē myght lōke downe on euery syde. Wher into the kynge comaunded that shamefull person to be cast amonge the ashes, as one that was cause of all vngaciousnesse. And reaso it was that the vntyrist shulde dye soch a death, and not to be buryed: for he had done moch myschefe vnto the aulter of God (whose fyre & ashes were holy) therfore was it right, y^e he hym selfe also shulde be destroyed wyth ashes.

But the kynge was wood in hys mynde, and came to the we him selfe more cruell vnto the Jewes, then hys father was. Whych when Judas perceaued, he comaunded the people to call vpon y^e Lord nyght and daye: that he wolde now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alwaye: For they were afrayed to be put from their lawe, from their natural countre and from the holy temple: and not to suffre the people (whych a lytle whyle afore beganne to recouer) to be subdued agayne of the blasphemous nacyns.

So when they had done thys together, & besought the Lord for mercy, wyth wepyng and fastyng the dayes longe, flatt vpon the grounde: Judas exhorted them, to make make them selues ready. But he and the elders together deuised, to go forth fyrst with their people, afoze the kynge brought hys hoost into Jewry, and afoze he beleged pcytic, & to commytte the matter vnto God.

Wherfore he ascribed the power of all thynges vnto God the maker of the worlde exhorteinge his people to fight manfully (ye, euen vnto death) for the lawes, the temple, the cite, their awne natyue countre, and to defende the citesyns: and set his hoost before Wodpn. He gaue them also that were wyth him, a token of the victorie of God, chosinge out the malpest yongemen, wente by nyght into the kynges pauplyd, slewe of the hoost xliiii. M. men, & the greatest Elephantes, wyth those that latt vpon them.

Thus when they had brought a greatescare and rumour amouge p tentes of the enemyes, & all thynges went prosperously wyth the, they departed in the breake of the daye, God beinge their helper and defender. Now whē the kynge perceaued the manynesse of the Jewes, he wente aboute to take the stronge places by craft, and remoued his hoost vnto Bethsura, which was a well kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chased awaye, hurte, and discomfited.

And Judas sent vnto the that were in it such thynges as were necessary. In p Jewes hoost also there was one Rhodocus, whych tolde the enemyes they secretes: but they sought hym out, & whē they had gotte hym, they put hi in prison. After this dyd p kynge comē with the that were in Bethsura, toke truce with them, departed, and stroke a battail wyth Judas, whych ouer came hym.

But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whom he had left to be ouersee of his busynesses at Antioche) beganē to rebel agaynst him, he was accompanied in his mynde: so p he pelde hym self to the Jewes, & made the an othe, to do whatsoeuer they thought ryght.

Now when he was reconcyled wyth the, he offered, made moch of the tēple, gaue grete gyftes vnto it, embraced Machabeus, makinge hym captayne and gouernour from Ptolomays vnto the Serrenes.

Neuerthelesse when he came to Ptolomays, p people of the cytie were not content with the bonde of frendshyppe: for they were afrayed, that he wolde breake p couenaut. Then wente Lysias vp into the seate, and enfourmed the people, shewed the the cause why, and pacified the. So he came agayne to Antioche. This is now the matter concernynge the kynges iourney, and his returne.

The xliiii. Chapter.

Whē the moxon of the Roide, Demetrius sendeth Ricanoz to kepe the Jewes. Ricanoz maketh a compact with the Jewes, whych he yet breaketh through the moxon of the kynge. Ricanoz commaundeth Razis to be taken. The boldnes of Razis.

After the yeaeres was Judas in fourmed, how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a greates power and shyppes, thorow the hauens of Tripolis, to take certayne commodious places and countrees, agaynst Antiochus & his captayne Lysias. Now Alcimus (which had bene hys prest, & wyllfully despyled him self, in the tyme of the myrtynge) seynge, p by no meanes he coulde be helped, ner haue any moze intraiue to the aultare: he came to kynge Demetrius in the hūdzeth and one & fyftye yeaere, presentynge vnto hym a crowne of Golde, a palme & an olyue tree: which (as mē thought) belonged to the temple, and p daye he helde his tonge. But when he had gotten oportynite for his madnesse, Demetrius called him to coucell, and asked hym, what thynges or counceils p Jewes leane vnto? He answered: The Jewes that be called Asidei (whose captayne is Judas Machabeus) mayntayne warres, make insurreccyons, and will not let the realme be in peace.

For I beynge depnyed of my fathers honoure (I meane the hys presthode) am come hyther: partly because I was faithfull vnto the kynge, and partly because I sought p profyt of the cytelyns. And why? all oure people, thorow the wickednesse of them, are not a litle troubled. Wherfore I beseeche the (O kynge) consydre all these thynges diligently, and then make some prouision for p lande & the people, accorpyng to the kyndnesse that thou hast offred vnto the. For as longe as Judas hath the vpperhāde, it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupnge euell wyll at Judas, sett the kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynst hi. * Whych immediatly sent Ricanoz (ruler of the Elephantes) a captayne, into Jewry, commaundyng him, to take Judas him selfe alpye, but to slaye the p were with hym, and to make Alcimus hys prest of p great tēple.

Then the heathen which fled oute of Jewry from Judas, came to Ricanoz by flockes, thynckinge the harme and decapē of the Jewes to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes herde of Ricanozs commynge, and the gathering together of the heathen: they speckled the selues with earth, & besought hym, which made them hys people, and cuer defended his awne porcion with euident tokens, that he wolde preferue them styll. So at the commaundemēt of the captayne, they remoued fro thece, & came to a towne called Pellaſan. And Symō Judas brother fell in hāde w Ricanoz, but thorow p sodayne commynge of the enemyes, he was afrayed.

Neuertheles, Ricanoz bearinge the manlynes of them that were wyth Judas, & the bolde

bolde stomackes that they had to fyght for these naturall countre, durst not proue the matter with bloudsheddyng. Wherfore he sent Possidonius, Theodocius & Mathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduilement there vpo and the captayne shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde: to haue peace. And they apoynted a daye to lye vpo these matters quyetly among them selues, the stoles also were brought and set forth. Neuerthelesse, Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in couenient places, lest there shulde sodenly arys any euell thorow the enemyes. And so they comoned reasonably together.

Ricanoz, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, ordered him selfe not vnreasonably, but sent awaye the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer wyth hys herte, & fauoured him. He prayed hym also to take a wyfe, and to bypunge forth chyldren. So he maryed, lyued in rest, and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceauinge the loue that was betwyrt them, and how they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, & tolde him that Ricanoz had taken straunge matters in hande, and ordered Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges succelloure. Then the kynge was sore displeased, & thorow p wycked accusacyons, which Alcimus made of Ricanoz, he was so prouoked, that he wrote vnto Ricanoz, sayinge: that he was very angrye for the frendshyppe and agreement, whych he had made w Machabeus. Neuertheles he commaunded him in all the haste, that he shulde take Machabeus prisoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

Whych letters whē Ricanoz had sene, he was at hys wyttē ende, & sore greued, p he shulde breake the thynges wherin they had agreed: specially, seynge Machabeus was p mā, p neuer dyd him harme. But because he myght not wythstande the kynge, he sought oportynite to fulfil his commaundemēt. Notwithstanding when Machabeus sawe that Ricanoz beganne to be churlysh vnto him, & p he intreated him moze roughly then he was wonte, he perceaued p such vnkynndnes came not of good, and therfore he gathered a few of hys men, & withdore we him self fro Ricanoz. Whych whē he knewe that Machabeus had manfully presented him, he came into p great and most holy tēple: and commaunded p prestes (which were doyng thei vsuall offerings) to deliuer him p mā. And whē they sware p they coulde not tel where p mā was, whē he sought, he stretched out his hāde, & made an othe, sayinge: If ye wyll not deliuer me Judas captiue, I shall remoue thys tēple of God ito p playnefelde, I shall breake downe p aultre, & consecrate this tēple vnto to Bachus. After these wordes he departed. Then the prestes lyft vp their handes towarde heauen, & besought hym p was euer p defender of their people, sayinge: Thou O Lorde of all, whych hast nede of nothyng, woldest p the tēple of thy habitacyon shulde be amouge vs. Therfore now O most holy Lorde, kepe thys house euer vndefyled, whych lately was clesed. Now was there accused vnto Ricanoz, one Razis an Alderman of Jerusalem, a louer of the whole cyte, & a man of good repute: whych for p kynde herte p he bare vnto p people, was called a father of p Jewes. This mā oft tymes, whē the Jewes were mynded to kepe the selues vndefyled, defended & delpyered the, beynge content stedfastly to spede his body and his lyfe for hys people.

So Ricanoz wyllynge to declare p hate that he bare to the Jewes, sent fyue hūdzeth men of warre to take him: for he thought, p he gat him, he shulde brige p Jewes in grete decapē. Now when p people beganē to rushe i at his house, to breake p dores, & to set fyre on it: he beinge now take, wolde haue defended him self with hys swearde: chosynge rather to dye manfully, then to pelde hym self to those wicked doers: & because of his noble stocke, he had rather haue bene put to extreme cruelte. Not wythstanding what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, & p multitude fell in violently betwyrt p dores: he ranne boldly to the wal, & cast him self downe manfully amouge the heape of them, which gaue soone place to his fall, so p he fel vpo hys belly. Neuertheles, while there was yet breath within hym, he was kyndled in hys mynde, & whyle his bloude gushēd out exceddingly (for he was very sore wounded) he rāne thorow the myddest of the people, and gat hym to the toppe of a rocke. So when his bloude was now gone, he toke out his awn bowels w both his hādes, & threwe the vpon p people callynge vpon p Lord of lyfe & spete to rewarde him this agayne, and so he dyed.

The xv. Chapter.

Ricanoz goeth aboute to come vpo Judas on p Sabbath daye. The blasphemie of Ricanoz. Machabeus espyndunge vnto p Jewes p bispon, boldnes thei heretes. The prayer of Machabeus. After the holde of Ricanoz is ouercome, Machabeus commaundeth both his heed and hys handes to be cut of and hys tounge to be geuen vnto folwes.

Now when Ricanoz knewe p Judas was in the countre of Samaria, he thought wythall his power to stryke a felde wyth him vpon a Sabbath daye. Neuerthelesse the Jewes p were compelled to go wyth hym, sayde: O do not so cruelly and vnkynndly, but halowe the Sabbath daye, and worshippe him that seyth all thynges. For all thys, yet sayd the vngreacyous personne: * Is there a myghtie one in heauē, that commaunded the Sabbath daye daye to be kepte: And when they sayde: yet the lviunge God, the myghtie Lord in heauen * commaunded the seuenth daye to be kepte, he sayde: And I am myghty vpon earth, to commaunde them for to arme them selues, and to perfourme the kynges bulynesse. Notwithstandinge he myght not haue hys purpose.

Micanor had deuyled wyth great pryde to ouercome Judas, & to byrnye awaye the victory. But Machabeus had euer a fast confidence and a perfecte hope in God, that he wolde helpe hym, & exhorted hys people, not to be afrayed at the cominge of the heathen: but alwaye to remember the help that had bene shewed vnto them from heauē, & to be sure now also, that almyghty God wolde geue them the victory. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes, putting them in remembraunce of the battayls that they had stricken afore, and made them to be of a good corage.

So when their hartes were plucte vp, he shewed them also the disceatfulnesse of the heathen, and how they wolde kepe no couenaunt nor othe. Thus he weapened them not wyth the armour of wynde and speare, but wyth wholsome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed the a dreame also, wherthorowe he made them all glad, whych was thys: he thought that he sawe Onias (whych had bene hys prest, a vertuous and lounge man, sad and of honest couersacion, well spoken, & one that had bene excerpced in Godlynes from a chylde) holdyng vp hys handes towarde heauen, and prayenge for his people. After this there appeared vnto him another man, whych was aged, honozable and glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of the brethzen, and of the people of Israell. This is he that prayeth moch for the people and for all hys cyte: Jeremy p prophete of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde out hys ryght hande, and gaue vnto Judas a swerde of Golde, saynge: Take this holy swerde, a gyfte from God, wherwith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israell.

And so they were well comforted thorow the wordes of Judas, and toke corage vnto them, so that the yonge men were determined in their myndes to fyght, & to byde styll at it: In so moch p in the thynges whych they toke in hande, their boldnesse shewed p same, because the holy cyte and the temple were in parell: for the whych they toke more care, then for their wyues, chyldezen, brethzen and kynfolkes. Agayne, they that were in the cyte, were most carefull for those whych were to fyght. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgement of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes drew nye, the host bernge set in araye, the Elephantes and howe smel every one standyng in hys place. Machabeus considered the comyng of the multitude, the ordynaunce of dyuerse weapons, the cruclenes of the beastes, and helde vp his handes towarde heauen, calling vpon the Lorde p doth wonders, * whych geneth not the victory after the multitude of weapons and power of the host (but to the that please hym) accordyng to hys awne wyll. Therefore in hys prayer he sayd these wordes, O Lorde, * thou p dydest sende thyne Angell in the tyme of Ezechiah kyng of Iuda, and in the holte of Sennacherib slewest an hundred foure score & fyue thousand: sende now also thy good angell before vs (O Lorde of heauens) in the fearfulness and drede of thy myghtie arme, that they whych come against thy holy people to blasphem them, maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. The Micanor & they that were with hym, drew nye wyth shawmes and songes: but Judas and hys company wyth prayer and callynge vpon God.

With their handes they smote, but wyth theyr hartes they prayed vnto the Lorde, & flew no lesse then xxxv. M. me: For thorow p present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of, & were turnynge agayne with ioye, they vnderstode that Micanor hym selfe was slayne wyth the other. When they gaue a greateshout and a crye, prayynge the Almighty Lord with a loude voyce. And Judas (whych was euer ready to spende hys body & lyfe for hys cytelyns) commaunded to smite of Micanors head, with hys arme & hande, & to be brought to Ierusalem. When he came t. ere, he called all the people, & the prestes at p auter wyth those that were in the castell, & shewed the Micanors head, and his wycked hande, whych he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He cauled p tonge also of p vn godly Micanor to be cut i lytle peces, & to be cast to the foules, & the cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

So every man gaue thanckes vnto the Lord, saynge: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vnderpiled.

As for Micanors head, he hanged it vp vpon the hye castell, for an euidēt & playne token of p helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holy, namely the xiii. daye of the moneth Adar, whych in p Sytyans language is called the nexte daye before Marchochus daye. Thus was Micanor slayne, and from that tyme forth the Jewes had the cyte in possessio: And here will I now make an ende.

to Dauid, are fourtene generacyons. And fro Dauid vnto the captiuyte of Babylon, are fourtene generacyons. And from the captiuyte of Babylon vnto Christ, are fourtene generacyons.

The byrth of Jesus Christ was on this wyse. ¶ When his mother Mary was maryed to Joseph (before they came to dwell together) she was founde with chylde by the holy ghoost. Then Joseph her husbunde (because he was a ryghteous man, and wolde not put her to shame) he was mynded pruely to departe from her. But whyll he thus thought, beholde, the aungell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym in slepe, saying: Joseph, thou sonne of Dauid: feare not to take vnto the Mary thy wyfe. For that which is conceaued in her, cometh of the holy ghoost. She shall byrnge forth a sonne, and thou shalt call hys name Jesus. For he shall saue his people from theyr synnes.

All this was done, þat it might be fulfilled, which was spokē of the Lorde by þe prophet, saying: Behold, a mayd shall be with chylde, & shall byrning forth a sonne, & they shall call his name Emanuel, which ysa man interpret, it is as moch to say as God with vs. ¶

And Joseph as he awoke out of slepe, dyd as the angel of the Lorde had bydden hym: and he toke hys wyfe vnto hym, & knewe her not, tyll she had brought forth her fyrst begotten sonne, and called his name Jesus.

The. ij. Chapter.

The tyme and place of Christes byrth. The wyse men offre theyr presentes. Christ flyeth into Egypte, the yonge chylde is slayne, Christ turneth into Galilee.

¶ Jesus was bozne at Beth A lea a cytie of Jewry, in the tyme of Herode the kynge. Beholde, there came wyse men fro the east to Ierusalem, saying: Where is he that is bozne king of Jewes? For we haue sene hys starre in the east, and are come to worshippe hym.

When Herode the kynge had hearde these thynges, he was troubled, and all the cyte of Ierusalem with hym. And whan he had gathered all the chiefe prestes and scribes of the people together, he demaunded of them, where Christ shulde be bozne. And they sayd vnto hym: At Bethleem in Jewrye. For thus it is wyrtte by the prophet: And thou Bethleem in the lande of Juda, art not the leest among the princes of Juda. For oute of the thal there come vnto me the captayne, that shall gouerne my people Israel.

¶ Then Herode (whē he had pryncely called the wyse men) he enquyred of the diligentlly what tyme the starre appered, & he had them go to Bethleem, & sayd: Good your waye thi ther, & searche diligently for y^e childe. And whē ye haue founde him, bring me word agayne, that I maye come and worshyp hym also.

¶ Whē they had heard y^e kyng, they departed: and lo, the starre which they sawe in the east, wēt before thē, tyll it came, & stode ouer the place, wherin the chylde was. Whē they sawe the starre, they were excedyng glad: and went into the house, and found the chylde with Mary his mother: & fel downe flatt and worshipped hym, and opened their treasures & offered vnto hym gyftes, golde, franchincense, & myrr. And after they were warned of God in slepe (that they shuld not go agayne to Herode) they returned to their awne countre another waye.

¶ Whē they were departed, behold, the angel of the Lord appered to Joseph in slepe saying, aryle, & take the chylde and his mother, and fye into Egypt: and be thou there tyll I bringe the worde. For it wyll come to passe that Herode shall seke the chylde, to destroye hym. So whan he awoke, he toke the chylde and hys mother by night, and departed into Egypt, and was there vnto the deeth of He-rode, that it myght be fulfilled, which was spoken of y^e Lord by the prophete, sayenge:

* out of Egypt haue I called my sonne.
¶ Then Herode whā he sawe y^e he was mocked of y^e wyse mē, he was excedyng wroth, & sent forth mē of warre, & slue all y^e chylderen that were in Bethleem, and in all y^e coastes, (as many as were two yere olde or vnder) accordyng to the tyme, whych he had diligently knowe out of the wyse men.

¶ Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by the prophete Jeremy: where as he sayd:

* in Rama was there a voyce herde: lamen-tacyon, weping, and great mourninge. Rachel weping for her chylde, & wolde not be cōforted: because they were not.

¶ But when Herode was deed: beholde, an angel of the Lord appered in a slepe to Joseph, in Egypte, sayenge: aryle, and take the chylde of hys mother, and go into the lande of Israell. * for they are deed which sought the chylde to slay. And he arose, and toke the chylde and hys mother, & came into the land of Israell. But when he hearde that Archelaus dyd raygne in Jewry, in the rowme of his father Herode, he was afrayde to go thither. Notwithstandinge, after he was warned of God in a slepe, he turned a syde into y^e parties of Galile, and went and dwelt in a cyte which is called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophetes: he shalbe called a Nazarete.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

¶ The baptyme, preachyng and offce of John, and howe Christ was baptised of hym in Iordane.

¶ In those dayes came John y^e Baptist, preachyng in the wyldernes of Jewry, and sayeng: Repēt of the life that is past, for the kingdome of heauen is at hand. * For this is he, of whom the Prophete saye spake, which sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes, prepare ye the waye of the Lord: & make hys pathes streygth. Thys John had hys rayment of camels heer. * And a gyrdell of a skynne about hys loynes. * His meate was locustes and * wyld hony. ¶ Then went out to hym Jerusalem and all Jewrye, and all the regyon rounde about Iordan, and were baptised of hym in Iordan, confessyng their synnes.

¶ But when he sawe many of the Pharises and Saduces come to hys baptyme, he sayd vnto them: * O generation of vyppers, who hath taught you to fle from the venge-aunce to come? Bring forth therfore the fru-tes that belong to repentance. And be not of such mynde that ye wolde saye win your selues: we haue Abraham to oure father.
For I saye vnto you: that God is able to bring to passe, that of these stones ther shall ryse vp chylde, vnto Abraham. ¶ Euen now is the axe also put vnto the roote of the trees: so that * euery tree which bringeth not forth good frute, is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

¶ I baptise you in water: vnto repētun-ce: but he y^e shall come after me is myghtyer then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to be-are. He shall baptise you with the holy ghost and with fyre: * whose fan is in hys hand, & he wyll purge hys floore, & gather his wheat into the barne, but wyll burne the chaffe wth vniquencheable fyre.

¶ Then cometh Jesus from Galile to Jordan vnto John: to be baptised of hym.
But John forbade hym, sayenge: I haue nede to be baptised of the: and comest thou to me? Ies^{us} answered & said vnto him: Let it be so now. For th^{us} it becometh vs to fulfill all righteousnesse. ¶ Then he suffered hym. And Jesus when he was baptised, came straight waye out of the water. And lo: heuen was open vnto him: and he sawe y^e syete of God descendyng lyke a doue, and lyghtyng vpon hym. And loo, there came a voyce from heauen sayenge: * Thys is my beloued sonne, in whō I am well pleased.

commaunde, that these stones be made bread:
But he answered and sayde: it is wyrtten, * man shall not lyue by bread onlye, but by euery worde y^e proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

¶ Then the deuyl taketh hym vp into y^e holy cytie, & setteth hym on a pynacle of the te-ple, and sayeth vnto him: yf thou be the sonne of God, cast thy selfe downe headlig. For it is wyrtten: * he shall geue hys angels charge ouer the, & with their handes they shal holde the vp, lest at any tyme thou dash thy fote agaynst a stone. And Iesus sayde to hym: it is wyrtten agayne: * Thou shalt not tempte the Lord thy God.

¶ Agayne, the deuyl taketh hym vp into an exceedyng hye mountayne, and sheweth hym all the kyngdomes of the world, and the glory of the, and sayeth vnto hym: all these will I geue the, yf thou wilt fall downe, & wor-shyppe me. ¶ Then sayeth Iesus vnto hym Auoide Satan. For it is wyrtten: * Thou shalt worshyp the Lord thy God, and hym onely shalt thou serue.

¶ Then the deuyl leaueth him, and behold,
* the angels came, & ministered vnto him.

¶ Whē Iesus had heard * that John was taken, he departed into Galyle, and left Nazareth, and went and dwelt in Capernaum: whych is a cytie vpon the see coast; in y^e borders of zabulō & Neptalim: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, sayeng: * The lāde of zabulō & Nepta-lim, by the waye of the see beyonde Iordan, Galile of the Gentils: the people which sitt in darkenesse and in the shadowe of death, sawe great light: & to thē which sat in the region & shadowe of death, is the light sprōg vp.

¶ From that tyme, Iesus began to pre-che, and to saye: * repent, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande.

¶ As Iesus walked by the see of Galile he sawe two brethren: Symon, which was called Peter, & Andrew his brother, castyng a net into the see (for they were fishers) ad he sayth vnto them: folowe me, and I wyll make you: * (to become) * fishers of men. And they streygth waye lefte the nettes, and folowed hym.

¶ And whā he was gone forth fro thē, he sawe other two brethren, James y^e sonne of zebede, & John his brother, in y^e shipp wth zebede their father, mending their nettes, & he called them. And they immediatly * lefte the shyp and they^r father, and folowed hym.

¶ And Iesus went about all Galile, teachyng in their synagoges, & preachyng the gospel of the kyngdome, and healing all maner of syknes, & all manner of discaise amōge the people. And hys fame spreed abroade throughout al Siria. And they brought vnto him all syk people y^e were taken with dy-uers diseases and gryppynge, and them that were possessed with deuyls: and those which were lunatyke, & those that had the palsey: & he healed thē. * And ther folowed hym great multitudes of people, from Galile, & and from the ten cytes, and from Jerusalem, and from Jewry, and from the regions that lye beyonde Iordan.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

¶ In thys chapter and in the two nexte folowynge is conteyned the most excellent and louynge sermō of Christ in the mount: whych sermō is the very hepe that openeth the vnderstandynge into the lawe. In thys first chapter, therpā he preacheth of the. iij. beatitudes of blessinges, of mannaugher, wrath and anger: of aduourty, of liberyng, of sufferynge wronge and of loue, euen toward a mans enemyes.

¶ When he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountayne, and whē he was sett, hys discyples came to hi: and after that he had opened hys mouth, he taught thē, sayenge: * Blessed are the poore in spyte, for they^r is the kyngdome of heaue. * Blessed are they that mourne, for they shall receaue comfort. Blessed are y^e meke: for they shall receaue the inheritaunce of the earth. Blessed are they which * hunger and thyrst after righteousnes: for they shal-be satisfied. Blessed are y^e merciful: for they shall obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in berte: for they shall se God. Blessed are the peace makers: for they shalbe called the children of God. Blessed are they which suffre persecucion for righteousnes sake: for they^r is the kyngdome of heauen. * Blessed are ye, when men recuyle you, and persecute you, and shall falsly say all maner of euyl sayenge against you, for my sake. * Reioyse & be glad for greate is your rewarde in heuen. ¶ For so persecuted they the prophetes, which were before you.

¶ Ye are the salt of the earth: * But yf y^e salt haue lost the saltnes, what shalbe seasoned therwith? It is thence forth good for nothyng, but to be cast out, and to be troden downe of men. Ye are the light of the world.
A cytie that is set on an hyll cannot be hyd,
* nether do men lyght a candell, and put it vnder a busshell, but on a candelltyck, and it geneth light vnto all that are in y^e house. Let your light so shyne before men. * That they maye se your good workes, & gloryfy your father, which is in heauen.

¶ Thynke not y^e I am come to destroye the lawe, or the prophetes: no, I am not come to destroye, but * to fulfill. For truly I saye vnto you: * tyll heauen and earth passe, one iott or one tyle of the lawe shal not scape, tyll all be fulfilled.

¶ Whosoever therfore breaketh * one of these leest commaundementes, and teacheth men so, he shalbe called the leest in the kyngdome of heauen. But whosoever doeth and teacheth, the same shalbe called greate in the kyngdome

kyngdome of heauen. X

X For I saye vnto you: except your righteousnesse excede the righteousnesse of the scribes and pharisees, ye cannot entre into the kyngdome of heauen.

X Ye haue heard that it was sayd vnto the of olde tyme. * Thou shalt no kill: whosoever killeth, shall be in daunger of iudgement. But I say vnto you: that whosoever is angry with his brother (vnadvisedly) shall be in daunger of iudgement. And whosoever saye vnto his brother, Racha, shall be in daunger of a counsell. But whosoever sayeth thou foole, shall be in daunger of hell fyre.

Therefore, yf thou offrest thy gyfte at the altar, and there remembrest that thy brother hath ought agaynst the: leaue ther thyne offeringe before the altar: * go thy waye fyrst, and be reconciled to thy brother, and then come, and offere thy gyfte. X

X * Agree with thynne aduersary quiclype whyles thou art in the waye with him, lest at any tyme the aduersary deliuer the to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the minister, and then thou be cast into prison. Verely, I say vnto the: thou shalt not come out thence, till thou haue payed the vtmost farthyng.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of olde tyme. * Thou shalt no comitt adoutrye. But I say vnto you: that whosoever loketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath commytted adoutrye with her all ready in his hert.

X Yf thy ryght eye hynder the, plucke hym out, and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perylthe, then yf thy whole body shuld be cast into hell. And yf thy ryght hande hynder the, cutt hym of, and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perylthe, then that all thy body shuld be cast into hell. X

It is sayd, whosoever putteth awaye his wyfe, * lett hym geue her a letter of the deuozement. * But I say vnto you: that whosoever doth put awaye his wyfe (excepte it be for fornicary) causeth her to breake matrimony. And whosoever marryeth her that is deuozed committeth adoutrye.

Agayne, ye haue hearde how it was sayd to them of olde tyme: * thou shalt not forswear thy selfe, but shalt perfourme vnto y Lord those thinges that thou swearest.

X But I say vnto you: sweare not at all: neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by the earth, for it is his fote stole: neither by Ierusalem, for it is the cytie of the great king: neither shalt thou sweare by thy heed, because yf I canst not make one heare whyte or blacke. But your communicacyn shall be, ye, ye, nay, nay: For whatsoeuer is added more then these, it cometh of euyll.

Ye haue hearde that it is sayd: * an eye for an eye: and a toth for a toth. But I saye vnto you, yf ye resist not euell. But * who-soeuer geue the a blowe on the ryght cheke, turne to hym the other also. And yf any man wyll sue the at the law, and take awaye thy coate, let him haue thy clooke also. And whosoever wyll copell the to go a myle, go with him twayne. Geue to him that asketh, and froghym that wolde borrowe, turne not thou awaye.

X Ye haue heard that it is sayde, * thou shalt loue thynne neyghbour, and hate thynne enemy. But I saye vnto you: loue your enemies. * Blesse the that curse you. * Do good to them that hate you. * Praye for the which hurt you and persecute you, that ye maye be the chyldre of your father which is in heauen: for he maketh his sonne to aryse on y euell, & on y good, & sendeth rayne on y iust & on y vniust. For * yf ye loue the which loue you: what reward haue ye? Do not the publicans also euen the same? And yf ye make moche of your brethren only, what singular thinge do ye? Do not also the publicans lyke wyse? * ye shall therfore be perfecte, euen as your father which is in heauen is perfecte. X

The. vi. Chapter.

Make heade, yf ye geue not your almes in the sight of men, to the intent that ye wold be sene of them. Or els ye haue no rewarde with your father which is in heauen.

Therefore, whā thou geuesth thynne almes, let not trowpetes be blowe before the, as yf hypocrites do in the synagoges and in the stretes: for to be prayled of men. Verely, I saye vnto you: they haue their rewarde. But when thou wyllt geue almes, let not thy left hande knowe what thy ryghte hande doth, that thynne almes maye be in secreete: and thy father which seeth in secreete, shall rewarde the openly. X

And when thou prayest * thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they vse to stand prayeng in the synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, that they maye be sene of men. Verely, I saye vnto you: they haue theyre rewarde. But when thou prayest * entre into thy chamber, & when thou hast shut thy doore praye to thy father which is in secreete: & thy father which seeth in secreete, shall rewarde the openly. X

But when ye praye * vable not moch, as the heathen do: for they thynke it will come to passe, that they shall be herd for their moch babylnges sake. Be not ye therfore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges thinges ye haue neade of before ye aske of hi: after this maner therfore praye ye.

X Our father which art in heauen, halo-wed be thy name. Lett thy kyngdome come. Thy will be fulfilled, as well in earth, as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure daylye bread. And forgeue vs oure dettes, as we forgeue oure detters. And leade vs not into temptacyon: but deliuer vs from euyll. For thynne is the kyngdome and the power, and the glorie for euer. Amen. Therefore, * yf ye forgeue other me theyre trespasses, your heu-ly father shall forgeue you. (your trespasses.) But yf ye wyll not forgeue men theyre trespasses, nomore shall your father forgeue you your trespasses.

X Moreover, * when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces, that it maye appeare vnto men, how that they fast. Verely, I saye vnto you, they haue theyre rewarde. But thou, when thou fastest, anoynte thynne heed, and wash thy face, that it appere not vnto men, how that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is in secreete: and thy father which seeth in secreete, shall rewarde the openly.

Lave not vp for your selues treasure vpon earth, where the rust and mothe doth corrupte, and where theues breake through, and steale. * But lave vp for you, treasures in heauen, where neither rust nor mothe doth corrupte, and where theues do not breake through nor steale. For where your treasure is, there will your hert be also. X

X The light of the body is the eye. Wherefore, yf thynne eye be single, all thy body shall be full of light. But and yf thynne eye be wicked, all thy body shall be full of darknesse. Wherefore, yf the lyght yf is in the be darknes, how greate is that darknes?

X No man can serue two masters. For ether he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els leane to the one, and despyse the other: ye cannot serue God and Man. Therefore I saye vnto you: * be not carefull for your lyfe, what ye shall eat or drinke, nor yet for your bodye, what rayment ye shall put on. Is not the lyfe more worth then meat: and the body more of value then rayment? Behold, the foules of the ayer: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor cary into the barnes: and your heuently father feedeth the. Are ye not moch better then they?

X Whyche of you (by takynge carefull thought) can adde one cubyte vnto his stature? And why care ye for rayment? Consydre the lycies of the felde, how they growe. They labour not, neither do they spyne. And yet I saye vnto you, that euen Salomon in all his royalte was not arrayed lyke one of these. Wherefore, yf God so cloth the grasse of the felde (which though it stande to daye, is to morow cast into yf fornasle) shall he not moch more do the same for you, O ye of lytle fayth?

Therefore, take no thought, saying: what shall we eat, or what shall we drynke, or wherwith shall we be clothed: after all these thynges do the gentyls seke. For your heuently father knoweth, that ye haue neade of all these thynges. But rather seke ye fyrst y kyngdome of God, and the righteousnesse therof, and all these thinges shall be ministred vnto you. X

Care not then for the morow, for the morowe daye shall care for it selfe: sufficient vnto the daye, is the trauayle therof.

The. vii. Chapter.

The forbyddeth foolysch and rasche iudgment, repro- ueth hypocryse, exhorteth vnto praye, wryeth to be ware of false prophetes and wylyth the hearers of his woide to be doers of the same.

Judge not, that ye be not iudged. (condempne not, and ye shall not be con- demned.) * For as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. * And with what measure ye meate, with the same shall other men measure to you. * Why seest thou a mote in thy brothers eye, but con- siderest not the beame that is in thynne awne eye? Or how sayest thou to thy brother, * Brother, suffre me, I wyll plucke oute a mote out of thynne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thynne awne eye. Thou hypocrite, fyrst cast oute the beame out of thynne awne eye, and then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the mote out of thy brothers eye.

Geue not ye that whych hysh holp vnto dogges, nether cast ye your pearles before swyne, lest they treade the vnder their fete & the other turne agaynst you, & al to rent you.

Alke, and it shall be geuen you: * Seke, & ye shall fynde: knocke, and it shall be opened vnto you. For whosoever asketh, receaueth: and whosoever seeketh, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shall be opened. Is there any man amonge you, which (yf his sonne aske bread) wyll offer him a stone? Or yf he aske fishe, will he profer him a serpent? If ye then (whan ye are euell) can geue your children good gyftes, how moch more shall your father which is in heauen, geue good thynges, yf ye aske of hym?

Therefore, * whatsoeuer ye wolde y men shulde do to you: do ye euen so to them also. For this is the lawe and the prophetes.

* Enter in at the strayne gate: for wyde is the gate, and broad is the waye that lea- deth to destruction: and many there be which go in ther at. For strait is the gate, and nar- rowe is the waye, which leadeth vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it. * Beware of false prophetes, which come to you in she- pes clothynge, but in wardly they are rane- X nyng wolues. Ye shall knowe them by theyr frutes.

* Luke. vi. g. * Do me gather grapes of thornes? or figges of thistles? Eue so euery good tree bringeth forth good frutes. But a corrupte tree, bringeth forth euell frutes. * A good tree can not byynge forth bad frute: nether can a bad tree bring forth good frutes. * Euery tree byynge forth good frute, is hewen downe, and cast into fyre. Wherefore, by their frutes ye shall knowe them.

* Mat. xiii. b. * Not euery one sayth vnto me, * Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kyngdome of heauen: but he that doth the wyl of my father, which is in heauen. * (Ye shall entre into the kyngdome of heauen.) * Many wyl saye to me in y daye: Lord, Lord, haue we not prophesied thowow thy name? * And thowow thy name haue cast out deuyls? And done many miracles thowow thy name? And then wyl I knowledge vnto them. I neuer knewe you.

* Mat. xiii. b. * Departe from me, ye that worcke iniquyte. * For whosoener heareth of me these wordes, & doth the same, I wyl lye hym vnto a wyse man, which buylt his house vpon a rock: and a shower of rayne descended, & the floudes came, & the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that house, & it fell not, because it was grounded on the rocke. And euery one y heareth of me these wordes, & ad doth them not, shalbe likened vnto a folysh mā, which built his house vpon sande: and a shower of rayne descended, and the floudes came, and the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that house, and it fell, and greute was the fall of it.

* Mar. ix. c. * And it came to passe, that whē Iesus had ended these saynges, the people were astonnyed at his doctryne. * For he taught them as one hauinge power, ad not as the scribes.

The viij. Chapter.

* Chryst cleareth the leper, healeth the captaynes seruant, and many other dyseases, healeth Peters mother in lawe, stylyth the see and the wynde, and dryeth the deuels out of the possessed into the swyne.

* Lu. ix. b. * Mat. ix. b. * When he was come downe fro the mountayne, moche people folowed hym. And beholde, * there came a leper, and worshypped him sayng: Master, yf thou wylt, thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth his hande, and touched him sayenge: I wyl, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leprosy was clenfed. And Iesus sayeth vnto hym: se thou tell no man * but go, & shewe thy selfe to the prest: and offre the gyfte (that Moyses commaunded to be offred) for a witnes vnto them.

* Luke viii. a. * And when Iesus was entred into Capernaum, ther came vnto him a Centurion, and besought him, sayenge: Master, my seruant lyeth at home sycke of the palsy, and is greuously payned. And Iesus sayth whan I come vnto hym, I wyl heale hym. The Centurion answered, & sayd: Syr, I am not worthy, that thou shouldest come vnder my rofe: but speake the word only, and my seruant shalbe healed. For I also my self am a man subiect to the aucthoryte of another, and haue souldyers vnder me, and I saye to this man: go, & he goeth: and to another come, and he cometh, & to my seruant do this, and he doeth it. When Iesus herd these wordes, he marueled: and sayde to them that folowed him. Verely, I saye vnto you: I haue not founde so greatesayth in Israhell. I saye vnto you y many shall come from the east, and west, and shall rest with Abraham and Isaac and Iacob in the kyngdome of heauen: but the chylidren of the kyngdome shalbe cast out into vtter darcknes: there shalbe weping and gnashyng of teth. And Iesus sayde vnto the Centurion: go thy waye, and as thou beleuest, so be it vnto the. And his seruant was healed in the selfe same houre.

* And whē Iesus was come into Peters house, he sawe his wyues mother lyeinge in bed, and sycke of a feuer. And he touched her hande, and the feuer left her: and she arose, & minystrid vnto them.

When the euen dyed on, they brought vnto him many that were possessed with deuils. And he cast out the spytes with a worde, ad healed all that were sycke, that it myght be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esay y prophete, when he sayth: * He toke on hym oure infirmytes, and bare oure sycknes.

Whē Iesus sawe moche people about hy, he commaunded that they shulde go vnto the other syde of the water. And a certayne scribe (whan he was come) sayde vnto him: * Master, I wil folowe the whither soeuer thou goest. And Iesus sayeth vnto him: the foxes haue holes, and the byrdes of the ayer haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to reeste his head. And another of the nobber of his disciples sayd vnto him: * Master, suffer me first to go and bury my father. But Iesus sayde vnto hym: folowe me, and let the deed burye theyr deed.

* And whan he entred into a shyp, his disciples folowed him. And beholde, * there arose a greute tempeste in the see, in so moche that the shyppe was couered with waues, but he was a slepe. And his discyples came to hym, and awoke hym, sayenge: Master, saue vs, we perishe. And he sayth vnto the: why are ye fearful, O ye of lytle faith? The he arose * and rebuked the wyndes and the see, and there folowed a greute calme. But the men marueled, sayinge: what maner of man is this, that both wyndes and see obey hym?

* And whē he was come to y other syde, in to the countre of the Gergesites, ther met him two two possessed of deuylles, which came out of the graues, and were out of measure scarce, so that no man might go by that waye. And beholde, they cryed out sayinge: * O Iesu sonne of God * what haue we to do with y? Art thou come hyther to torment vs before the tyme? And ther was a good waye of ffo them * a heerd of many swyne, fedynge. So, the deuyls besought him, sayinge, yf thou cast vs out, suffer vs to go oure waye into the heerd of swyne. And he sayde vnto them: go poure wayes. Then wēt they out, and departed into the heerd of swyne. And beholde, the whole heerd of swyne was carried headlynge into the see, and perished in the waters, Then they that kepte the, fledd, and wēt their wayes into the cytie, and tolde euery thynge, and what had fortunied vnto the possessed of the deuyls. And beholde, the whole cytie came out to mete Iesus: and when they sawe him, * they besought him y he wolde departe out of their coastes.

The ix. Chapter.

* He healeth the pallye, calleth Matthew from the custom, answereth for his discyples, healeth the woman of the bloody yssue, helpeth Iairus daughter, geueth y blynde men theyr syghte, maketh a domme man to speake, and dryeth out a deuill.

* And as Iesus passed forth from thence, he sawe a mā (named Matthew) syttinge at the receate of custome, and he sayeth vnto him: folow me. And he arose, & folowed him. And it came to passe as Iesus sat at meace in his house: beholde, many publicans also and synners that came, sat downe with Iesus and his disciples.

And when y Pharises sawe it, they sayde vnto his disciples: why eateth poure master with publicans and synners? But when Iesus heard that, he sayde vnto them. They that be stronge, nede not the phylisyon, but they that are sicke. Soo ye rather and learne what y meaneth. * I wyl haue mercy, and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the ryghtewes, but synners to repentaunce.

* Then came the disciples of John vnto him, sayng: * why do we and the pharises fast, for the most parte: but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayde vnto the: can the bydegromes chylidren mourne as long as the bydegrome is with them? But the dayes wyl come, when the bydegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. No man putteth a pece of new cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he awaye the pece from the garmēt, and the rent is made worse. Nether do men put new wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, and the wyne runneth out, and the bottels perishe. But they putt new wyne into new bottels, and both are saued together.

* Whyle he thus spake vnto the, * beholde, ther came a certayne ruler, & worshipped him, sayng: my daughter is eue now diseased, but come and laye thy hand vpon her, & she shall lyue. And Iesus arose, ad folowed him, and (so dyd) his disciples. * and beholde, a woman which was diseased with an yssue of bloude twelue yeres, came behynde him, ad touched the hēme of his vesture. For she sayde within her selfe: yf I may touche but euen his vesture onely, I shalbe safe. But Iesus turned him aboute, and whan he sawe her, he sayde. Daughter, be of good comforte, thy faith hath made the safe. And the woman was made whole, euen that same tyme.

* And when Iesus came into the rulers house, and sawe the minstrels, ad the people making a noyse, he sayde vnto the: get you hence, for y mayde is not deed * but slepeth. And they laughed him to scozne. But whan the people were put forth, he wēt in, and toke her by y hande, & (and sayde: damsell, arise.) and y damsell arose. And this noyse went abroade into all that lande.

And whan Iesus departed thence, two blynde men folowed him, cryng & sayng: O thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on vs. And when he was come into the house, the blynde came to him. And Iesus sayeth vnto them: Beleue ye, that I am able to do this? They saye vnto him: Lord, we beleue. Then touched he their eyes, sayng: * accordynge to poure sayth be it vnto you. And their eyes were opened. And Iesus charged them sayng. Se that no mā knowe of it. But they, whan they were departed, spreed abroade his name in all that lande.

* At that tyme Iesus answered and sayde: I thanke the O father, Lord of heauen & erth, because thou hast hid these thiges from the wyse and prудēt, and hast shewed them vnto babes, verely father, euen so was it thy good pleasure. * All thynges are geuen ouer vnto me of my father. * And noman knoweth the sonne but the father: nether knoweth eny man the father, saue the sonne, and he to whom soeuer the sonne will open him.

Come vnto me all ye that laboure: and are laden, and I will ease you. * Take my yock vpon you, and lerne of me, for I am meke & lowly in herte: and ye shall synde rest vnto your soules. For my yocke is easy, * and my burden is light.

The xij. Chapter.

¶ The disciples plucke the eares of corne, healeth, the dyed hande, helpeth the possessed that was blinde and domine, and sheweth who is hys brother, sister and mother.

¶ That tyme Iesus wet on the Sabboth dayes * thozowe the corne, and hys disciples were an hongred, and beganne to plucke the eares of corne, and to cate. But when the Pharises sawe it, they sayde vnto hym: Beholde, thy disciples do that which is not lawfull (for them.) to do vpon the Sabboth daye. But he sayde vnto them. Haue ye not read what Da-uid dyd, whē he was an hongred, & they that were with him? * How he entred into the house of God, and did cate the shewe brea-des which were not lawfull for hym to cate, nether for them which were with hym, but but onely for the prestes? Or haue ye not read in the lawe, how that (on the Sabath dayes) the prestes in the temple breake the Saboth, and are blamelesse? But I saye vnto you: that in this place is one greater then the temple. Wherefore, if ye wylt what this meaneth * I require mercy, & not sacrifice: ye wolde not haue condemned innocentes.

And he departed thence * and went into their synagoge: and beholde, ther was a man which had his hande dried vp. And they asked hym, sayinge * is it lawfull to heale vpon the Saboth dayes? that they myght accuse him. And he sayde vnto them: which of you will it be, that shall haue. * a shepe, and yf it fall into a pytte on the Saboth daye, wyl he not take it and lyft it out? Howe moch more then is a man better then a shepe? Wherefore, it is lefull to do a good dede on the Saboth dayes. Then sayeth he to y^m mā: stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth: And it was restored vnto health, lyke as the other.

Then the Pharisees wēt out, and helde a counsell agaynst him, how they myght destroye him. But when Iesus knewe it, he departed thence, and moche people folowed him, and he healed the all, and charged them, that they shuld not make him known: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet, which sayeth: * Beholde, my childe, whom I haue chosen, my beloued, in whom my soule deliteth. I wyl put my sprete vpon him, and he shall shewe iudgement to the gentyls. He shal not streyue ne crye, nether shall eny man heare his voyce in the stretes, a broked rede shall he not breake, and smokyng flax shall he not quēche, till he sende forth iudgement vnto victorie, & in his name shall the gentyls trust.

Then was brought to him a blynd & dōme mā, y^e was vexed with a deuyl, & he healed him, in somoch, that the blynd and dōme, both spake and lawe. And all the people were amazed, and sayde: Is not this that sonne of Dauid? But when the Pharisees hearde it, they sayd. This felow dryueth the deuyls no other wyse out, but by the helpe of Belzebub the chefe of the deuyls.

But whan Iesus kne we their thoughtes he sayde vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuided agaynst it selfe, shal be brought to naught. And euery cite or house deuyled agaynst it selfe shal not stande. And yf Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuided agaynst him selfe. How shall then his kyngdome endure? Also, yf I by y^e helpe of Belzebub cast out deuyls, by whose helpe do poure chyldren cast them out? Therefore, they shal be your iudges. But yf I cast out y^e deuyls by the sprete of God: then is y^e kyngdome of God come vnto you:

And euery cite or house deuyled agaynst it selfe shal not stande. And yf Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuided agaynst him selfe. How shall then his kyngdome endure? Also, yf I by y^e helpe of Belzebub cast out deuyls, by whose helpe do poure chyldren cast them out? Therefore, they shal be your iudges. But yf I cast out y^e deuyls by the sprete of God: then is y^e kyngdome of God come vnto you:

Or els * how can one enter into a strong mans house, and spoyle his Jewels, excepte he fyrst bynde the stronge man, and then spoyle his house? He that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he y^e gathereth not with me, scattereth abroad. Wherefore, I saye vnto you, all manner of synne and blasphemy shal be forgiven vnto men * but the blasphemy agaynst the sprete, shall not be forgiven vnto men. * And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shal be forgiven hym. But whosoever speaketh agaynst the holy gost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this worlde, nether in the worlde to come: * Either make the tree good, and his frute good, or els make the tree euill, and his frute euill. * For the tree is known by his frute. * O generation of vipers, how can ye speake good thinges, when ye poure selues are euill? * For out of the abundance of the hert, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of y^e good treasure of the hert, byngeth forth good thynges. And an euill man, out of euill treasure, byngeth forth euill thynges. But I say vnto you, of euery y^eddell worde that men shall haue spoken, they shall geue accountes in the daye of iudgement. * For out of thy wordes thou shalt be iustified: and out of thy wordes thou shalt be condemned.

Then certayne of the Scribes and of the Pharisees asked him sayng. * Master, we wylle a sygne of the. But he answered and sayde to them. * The euill and aduoutherous generation * seeketh a signe and ther shall no sygne be geuen to them, but the signe of the Prophet Jonas. * For as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nightes in the whales belly, so shall the sonne of mā be thre dayes and thre nightes in the herte of y^e erth. The men of ninie shall ryle in the iudgement with this nacion, & condēne it, because they amended at the preachyng of Jonas. Beholde, here is one greater then Jonas. * The quene of the south shall rise in the iudgement with this generation, and shal condēne it: for she came from the vtmost partes of the worlde to heare y^e wysdome of Salomon. And behold, in this place is one greater then Salomon.

When the vnclene sprete is gone out of a man, he walketh throughtout drye places, sekynge rest, and findeth none. Then he saith: I will retourne into my house, from whence I came out. And when he is come, he fyndeth it empty, and swept, and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh vnto him seuen other spretes worse then him selfe, and so entred he in, and dwelleth there. And the ende of that man is worse then the beginning. Euen so shall it be also, vnto this froward generation.

Whyle he yet talked to the people: * beholde his mother and his brethzen stode without, despyng to speake with him. Then one sayde vnto him beholde, * thy mother and thy brethzen stande without, despyng to speake with the.

But he answered, & sayde vnto him that had tolde him. Who is my mother? or who are my brethzen? And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, & sayd. * beholde my mother and my brethzen. For whosoever doth y^e will of my father which is in heauen, y^e same is my brother, syster, and mother.

The xiiij. Chapter.

The parable of the sowe, of the tares, of the tares, of the leuen, of the treasure hid in the felde, of the perles, and of the nett.

The same daye wēt Iesus out of the house, * and sat by the see syde, and moche people were gathered together vnto him, so gretly y^e he went, and sat in a shippe, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thynges to the by similitudes, sayinge: Beholde, the sower went forth to sowe. And whan he sowed, some seds fell by the wayes syde, and the fowles came, and deuoured them vp. Some fell vpon stony places, where they had not moche erth, and anon they spronge vp, because they had no depnesse of erth: and when the sonne was vp, they caught heat, & because they had no rote, they wyddered awaye. Agayne, some fell amonge thornes, and the thornes spronge vp & choked them. But some fell into good ground, & brought forth frute: some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let him heare.

And the disciples came, & sayde vnto him. Why speakest thou to the by parables? he answered and sayde vnto them: * it is geuen vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauē, but to them it is not geuen.

For whosoever hath, to him shall be geuen: and he shall haue abundaunce. But whosoever hath not: from him shal be taken awaye euē that also which he hath. Therefore speake I to them by similitude: for they seinge, se not: and hearinge, they heare not: nother do they vnderstand. And in the is fulfilled the prophetic of Esaias, which sayth: * with the eares ye shall heare, and shall not vnderstand and seinge ye shall se, and shall not perceaue. For these peoples hertes is waxed grosse, and their eares are dull of hearinge, and they close their eyes, lest at any tyme they shuld se with their eyes, and heare with their eares, & shuld vnderstand with their herte, & be conuerted, that I also myght heale them.

But blessed are poure eyes, for they se: & poure eares, for they heare. Truly I saye vnto you, * that many prophetes & righteous men haue despyred to se those thinges which ye se, & haue not sene them: & to heare those thinges which ye heare, and haue not hearde them. * Heare ye therfore y^e similitude of the sower. Whā one heareth y^e word of the kyngdome, & vnderstandeth it not, then cometh y^e euill man, & taketh awaye that which was sowne in hys hert: this is he, which was sowne by the waye syde. But he that receaued the sowe which was cast into stony places, y^e same is he that heareth the worde, and anon withiope receaueth it, yet hath he no rote in hym selfe, but dureth for a season: for whā tribulacyon or persecucion happeneth because of the worde, by and by he falleth. He also that receaued sowe into y^e thornes, is he y^e heareth the worde: and the care of this worlde, and the dispaytfulnes of ryches, choke vpon the worde, and so is he made vnfrutefull. But he that receaued sowe into y^e good ground is he that heareth the worde, and vnderstandeth it: which also beareth frute, & bringeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde.

Another similitude put he forth vnto the, sayinge: * The kyngdome of heauen is likened vnto a man, which sowed good seed in his felde. But whyll men slept, his enemye came, & sowed tares among the wheate, & went his waye. But when the blade was sprōg vp, and had brought forth frute, there appeared the tares also. So the seruautes of the housholder came, and sayde vnto him. Syr, bydest not thou sowe good seed i thy felde: fro whence then hath it tares? he sayde vnto them, the enuious man hath done this. The seruautes sayde vnto him: wylt thou then that we go, and weede them vp? But he sayde, nay, lest while ye gather vp the tares ye plucke vp also the wheate with them, let bothe growe together untill the harvest, and in tyme of harvest, I wyl saye to the reapers gather ye fyrst the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to be brent: but gather the wheate into my barne.

Another parable put he forth vnto the, sayinge. * The kyngdome of heauē is lyke to a grayne of mustard seed, which a man toke & sowed in his felde, which is the leest of all seedes. But when it is growne, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tree: so that the byrdes of the ayer come, and make theyr nestes in the braunches ther of.

Another similitude spake he vnto them: * The kyngdom of heauē is lyke vnto leuē, which a woman taketh and hydeth in thre peckes of meale, tyll all be leuened.

All these thynges spake Iesus vnto y^e people by similitudes, & with out a parable spake he nothyng vnto the: that it myght be fulfilled, which was spokē by y^e prophet, that sayth * I will open my mouth in parables: I wyl will speake forth thynges which haue bene kepte secreete fro þe begynning of þe world.

 Mar. iiii. c.* When the people were sent away, then came Iesus into þe house.  And his disciples came vnto him, saying: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the felde. He answered and sayd vnto them. The soweth the good seed, is þe sonne of man. The felde is the world. And the chyldren of the kyngdome, they are the good seed: the tares are the chyldren of the wycked: the enemye that soweth them, is the deuyl. The haruest is the ende of the world: the reapers be þe Angells. Eue as the tares therfore, are gathered & brent in the fyre: so shall it be in þe ende of this world.*

 Apo. xiiii. d.*  The sonne of man shall sende forth his Angells, & they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and the which do iniquite: and shall cast them into a furnes of fyre. There shall be waylinge & gnasyng of teth. * Then shall the righteous shine as the Sonne in the kyngdome of their father. Who soeuer hath eares to heare, let him heare.*

 Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto treasure hid in the felde, the which a man hath found and hydd: ad foriove therof goeth & selleth all þe he hath, & byeth þe felde.*

 Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a marchaunt man, sekynge goodly pearles, which whē he found one precious pearle, went & sold all that he had, & bought it.*

 Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a nett, þe was cast into þe see & gathered of all kynde: (of fyshes) which whē it was full me drew to land, & sat downe & gathered þe good into vessels, but cast þe bad awaye. So shall it be at the ende of þe world. The angelles shall come & seuer þe bad fro amōge the good, & shall cast the into a furnace of fyre: there shall be wayling & gnasyng of teth.*

 Iesus saiet vnto the: haue ye vnderstande all these thynges: They saie vnto him: yea. Lorde. Then sayde he vnto them. Therfore eueri scribe which is taught vnto the kyngdome of heauen, is lyke vnto a mā that is an housholder, which byrnyngeth forth out of his treasure, thynges newe and olde.*

 And it came to passe that whē Iesus had finished these similitudes, he departed thence: And whan he came into his awne cōuntry, he taught them in their synagoges, in so moche, þe they were astōned and sayde: whē ce cometh this wysdome and powers vnto him? * Is not this the carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren, James and Ioses and Simon and Judas? And are not all his systers with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges? And they were offended at hym. Iesus sayde vnto them: * A prophete is not without honoure, saue in his awne cōuntry, and in his awne house. And he did not many mira-* cles there, because of thei vnbelefe.

The xiiij. Chapter.

 Iohn for then and heided. Chyldredeth fynethou: lunde men with v. lounes and two fshes, and appeareth by nyght vnto his disciples vpon the see.*

 That tyme * Herode the tetrarcha heard of þe fame of Iesu, & sayde vnto his seruantes: this is John þe Baptist. He is risen fro the deed, & therfore are miracles wrought by hi. For Herode * had taken John, & hold hi, & put him in prison because of Herodias, his brother Philipps wyfe. For Iohn sayd vnto him: * It is not lawfull for þe to haue her. And when he wolde haue put hym to death, he feared þe people, * because they counted him as a prophet.*

 But whē Herodes * byrth daye was kepte, the daughter of Herodias daunsed before the, & pleased Herode. * Wherefore he promysed with an othe, that he wolde geue her whatsoeuer she wolde aske. And she beyng instructed of her mother before, sayde: geue me here John Baptistes heed in a platter.*

 And the kyng was soz. Neuerthelesse, for the othes sake, & them which sate also at the table, he commaunded it to be geue her: & sent tourmentours, & behedded John in the prison and his heed was brought in a platter & geue to þe damsell, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came & toke by his body, and buried it: went, and tolde Iesus.*

 Whē Iesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shyppe vnto a desert place, out of the waye. And when þe people had harde therof, they folowed him on fote and left the cyties.*

 And Iesus went forth, & sawe moche people, and was moued with mercie toward them, and he healed of them thos that were sycke.*

 And when þe euen drew on, his disciples came to him, saying: this is a deserte place, & þe houre is now past, let þe people departe, that they maye go into the townes, and bye the vytylles. But Iesus sayde vnto the: They haue no nede to go awaye. Geue ye them to eate. They saie vnto him: we haue here but v. lounes and two fshes. He sayde: byrnyng the hyther to me. And he comaunded the people to syt downe on the grasse, & he toke the v. lounes & the ij. fshes, and lyft vp his eyes toward heauen & blessed. And whan he had brokē the, he gaue the lounes to his disciples, & his disciples gaue the to the people.*

 And they dyd all eate, ad were suffysed. And they gathered vp (of the fragmentes that remayned.) xij. basketesfull. And they that dyd eate, were aboute. v. M. mē, besyde women and chyldren.*

 And streyght waye Iesus made his disciples to get vnto a shyppe, and to go before him vnto þe other syde whill he sent the people awaye. And when the people were sent awaye, he wēt vp into a mountayne to praye* to praye alone. And whē night was come, he was there him selfe alone. But þe shyppe was now in þe myddes of þe see, & was toost wyth waues, for it was a contrary wynde. And in the fourth wathe of þe nyght, Iesus wēt vnto the walkynge on þe see. And whē þe disciples sawe hym walkynge on the see, they were troubled, sayinge: it is some spryte, & they cryed out for feare. But streyght waye, Iesus spake vnto them, sayinge: be of good cheare, it is I, be not a frayd.

 Peter answered hym, and sayde: Lorde, yf it be thou, byd me come vnto þe on þe water. And he sayde, come. And when Peter was come downe out of the shyppe, he walked on the water, to go to Iesus. But whē he sawe a myghty wynde, he was a frayd. And when he beganne to syncke, he cryed sayinge: lorde saue me. And immediately Iesus streched forth his hand, & caught him, & sayd vnto hi: O thou of lytell fayth, wherefore dydest thou doubt? * And whan they were come into þe shyppe, the wynde ceased.*

 Then they that were in þe shyppe, came and worshypped hym, sayinge: of a truthe thou art the sonne of God. And when they were gone ouer they came into the lande of Genesareth. And when the men of the place had knowledge of him, they lēt out messengers into all that cōuntry rounde about the coast & brought vnto him all that were sycke, & besought hym, y they myght touche the hemme of his vesture only. And as many as touched it were made safe.*

The xv. Chapter.

 Chyffe excuseth his disciples, & rebuketh the scribes & pharises for they grekyng goddes commaundement thow their awne tradicions. The thyng that goeth into the mouth defyleth not the man. He defuureth the womā of canaanis daughter, healeth the multitude, & wylh. viij. lounes & a few lyele fshes fedeth. iiii. M. men, besyde women & chyldren.*

 Then * came to Iesus Scribes and Pharises (whyche were come from Jerusalem) saying: why do thy disciples transgresse the tradicion of the elders: for they washe not theyr handes whē they eate bread. But he answered & sayde vnto them: why do ye also transgresse the commaundement of God, because of poure awne tradicion: For God commaundeth sayinge: * honoure father and mother, and he that curseth father or mother: let hym dye the death. But ye saie: euery one shall saie to his father and mother: * what gift so euer shulde haue come of me, the same is turned vnto thy profyt: & so shall he not honoure his father or his mother. And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte, because of poure awne tradicion. Ppocrites, full well dyd I saie prophesie of you, sayig: * This people draweth nye vnto me with theyr mouth, and* honoureth me with lyppes, howbeit, their hertes are farre from me: but in vayne do they serue me, teachynge the doctrines and preceptes of men.

 And he called the people to him, and sayd vnto them: heare and vnderstande. That which goeth into the mouth, defyleth not the man: but that which cometh out of the mouth, defyleth the man.*

 Then came his disciples, and sayde vnto him: knowest þe not, that þe pharises were offended at this sayinge? But he answered and sayd. Euery plātē which my heauenly father hath not planted, shall be plucked vp by the rotes. Let the alone, they be þe blynde leaders of þe blynde. If the blynde leade the blynde, both shall fall into the dyche.*

 Then answered Peter & sayd vnto him: declare vnto vs this parable. Iesus sayde: are ye also yet without vnderstandinge? do not ye yet vnderstāde, y whatsoeuer I speak in at the mouth, goeth into þe bely, & is cast out into the draught? But those thynges which procede out of þe mouth, come forth fro þe hert, & they defyle þe man. For out of þe herte procede euill thoughtes, murders, breakynge of wedlocke, whordōs, theftes, fallsewitnesse, blasphemies. These are þe thynges, which defyle a mā. But to take meate wth vnwaschen hādes, defileth not a mā.*

 And Iesus went thence, & departed into the coastes of Tyre and Sydon. & beholde, a woman of Canaan (which cam out of the same coastes) cryed vnto him, sayinge: haue mercy on me o Lorde, þe sonne of Dauid: My daughter is piteously vexed wyth a deuyl. But he answered her nothing at all, & his disciples came, and besought him, sayinge: sende her awaye, for she crieth after vs. But he answered, & sayde: I am not set * but vnto þe lost shepe of þe house of Israel.*

 Then cam she, & worshypped him, sayinge: lorde, helpe me. He answered and said: it is not mete, to take þe chyldrens bread, and to cast it to dogges. She answered & sayde: truthe Lorde, for the dogges eate of þe crumbs, which fall from their masters table. Then Iesus answered and sayde vnto her. O woman, grete is thy faith, be it vnto the, euen as þe wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.*

 And Iesus went awaye from thence, and cam nye vnto the see of Galile, & went vp into a mountayne, & sat downe there. And moche people came vnto him, bringynge wth them those þe were lame, blind, deafe, mapmed, ad other many: & cast them downe at Iesus fete. * And he healed the: in so moche, þe people wondered, whan they sawe þe domme speake, & mapmed to be whole, the lame to walke, and the blynde to se. And they glorified the God of Israel.*

 Then*

The Gospell.

* Mar. viii. a * Then Jesus called his disciples vnto him, & sayde: I haue compassyō on the people, because they continue with me now. iiii. dayes, & haue nothing to eate: & I will not let the departe fasting, lest they miscarry by the waye. And his disciples saye vnto him: whence shal we get so moche bread in the wyldernes, as to suffise so greute a multitude? And Jesus sayeth vnto the: howe many loanes haue ye? And they saye: seuen, & a fewe lytle fysshes. And he commaunded the people to syt doune on the grounde: and toke the seuen loanes, & the fysshes: & after he had geue thākes, he brake them, and gaue to his disciples, & the disciples gaue the to the people. And they dyd all eate, and were suffysed. And they toke vp (of the broken meate that was left) seuen baskettes full. And yet they dyd eate were. iiii. M. men. besyde wme & chylde. And he sent awaye the people, and toke shyppe, & came to the parties of Magdala.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The Pharises requyre a token. Jesus warneth his disciples of the Pharises doctrine. The confession of Peter. The keyes of heauen. The saythfull must beare the crosse after Christ.

* Mar. viii. b * He Pharises also w the Saduces, came and tēpted him & desyred him. He wolde shewe them a sygne from heuen. He answered and sayde vnto them: whan it begynneth to drawe toward eue, ye saye, it wyl be fayre wether, for the skye is reed. And in y moynynge: It wyl be foule wether to daye, for the skye is glomyng reed. O ye pharises, ye can discerne the outward apperance of the skye: but can ye not discerne the sygnes of the tymes? The frowarde & aduoutrous nacyon requyret h a sygne, and there shall no sygne be geuen vnto it, but the sygne of the Prophet Jonas. And he lefte them, and departed.

23 And when his disciples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgottē to take bread with the. Then Jesus sayde vnto them. Take hede and beware of the leuen of the Pharises & of the Saduces. And they thought in the selues sayig: we haue taken no bread w vs. Which whā Jesus vnderstode, he sayd vnto them: O ye of lytell faith, why take ye thought within your selues, because ye haue brought no bread? Do ye not yet perceaue, nether remember those. v. loanes, whē there were. * v. M. me, & how many baskettes toke ye vnto? Ne ther the. vii. loanes whē there were. iiii. M. me: & how many baskettes toke ye vnto? how happeneth it ye do not vnderstande, that I spake it not vnto you cōcernyng bread, ye shulde beware of the leuen of the Pharises, & of the Saduces? Then vnderstode they, how that he had not the beware of the leuen of breed: but of the doctrine of the Pharises, and of the Saduces.

When Jesus came into the coastes of the cite which is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples sayinge: whom do men saye I the sonne of mā am? They sayde: some saye I thou art John Baptist, some Ielpas, some Ieremias, or one of the prophetes. He sayeth vnto them: but whom saye ye I am? Simon Peter answered & sayde: Thou art Christ the sonne of the lyuynge God. And Jesus answered, & sayde vnto hym: happy art thou Simon the sonne of Ionas, for fleche & bloud hath not opened that vnto I: but my father which is in heuē. And I saye also vnto the: thou art Peter: & vpon this rocke I wil bylde my cōgregation. And I gates of hell shal not preuaile agaynst it. And I wil geue vnto the, the keyes of the kyngdō of heuē. And whatsoeuer thou byndest in erth, shall be bounde in heuē: & whatsoeuer thou loofest in erth, shalbe lowsed in heuē.

Then charged he his disciples, that they shulde tell no man, ye was Jesus Christ. From the tyme forth began Jesus to shewe vnto his disciples, how that he must go vnto Ierusalem, & suffer many thinges of the elders, & the prestes, & Scribes, & must be kylled, and be raysted agayne the thyrde daye. And when Peter had take him asyde, he began to rebuke him, sayinge: master, fauer thy selfe, this shal not happē vnto the: but he turned him aboute, and sayde vnto Peter: go after me Satan, thou byndest me: for thou sauncest not the thiges that be of God, but those that be of men.

Then sayde Jesus vnto his disciples: If eny man wil folowe me, let hi forsake him selfe & take vnto his crosse, & folowe me. For whoso wil saue his lyfe, shal lose it. Whoso doth lose his lyfe for my sake, shal fynde it. For what doth it profet a mā, if he wyne all the whole world: & lose his awne soule? Or what shal a man geue to redeme his soule agayne with all? For the sonne of man shall come in the gloze of his father, w his āgels: & then shall he rewarde euery man accordyng to his dedes. Verely I saye vnto you, ther be stōdng here, which shal not tast of deeth, tyll they se the sonne of mā come in his kyngdome.

The. xvii. Chapter.

The transfiguration of Christ. He healeth the lunatike, & payeth tribute.

After. vi. dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James and John his brother, and bringeth them vp into an hye mountaine out of the waye, and was transfigured before them: & his face dyd shyne as the sonne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght.

And beholde, there apere vnto the Moses & Elias talkyng wth hym. The answered Peter, and sayde vnto Jesus, Lorde, here is good beinge for vs. If thou wylt, let vs make here. iij. tabernacles: one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, behold, a bright cloude shadowed the. And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude whych sayd: this is my beloued sonne: in who I deelyte: heare hym. And when the disciples hearde these thynges, they fell on the faces: & were sore afrayed. And Jesus came & touched them, & sayd: aryse, & be not a frayd. And when they had lyft vp they eyes they sawe no man saue Jesus onely.

And whan they came downe fro the mountayne, Jesus charged the sayinge: shew ye vnto no mā, vntyll the sonne of man be ry sen agayne fro the deed. And his disciples asked him, sayig: why then saye the Scribes, & Elias muste fyrst come? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Elias trulye shal fyrst come, and restore all thynges. But I saye vnto you, I Elias is come already, & they knewe hi not: but haue done vnto hym whatsoeuer they lusted. In lykewyse shal also the sonne of mā suffre of the. Then the disciples vnderstode, he spake vnto the of John Baptist. And whē they were come to the people, ther came to him a certayne mā knelyng downe to him, & sayeng: Master, haue mercy on my sonne, for he is lunatike & sore vexed, for oft tymes he falleth into the fyre, & oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, & they coulde not heale hi. Jesus answered & sayd: O faythles & croked nation: how longe shall I be with you? how longe shall I suffre you? bring hym hyther. And Jesus rebuked the deuyll, & he departed out of hi. And the chylde was healed euen the same tyme.

Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly & sayde: why could not we cast hym out? Jesus sayd vnto the: Because of your vnbelefe. For verely I saye vnto you: if ye haue sayth as a grayne of musterd seed, ye shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue hence to ponde pte, and it shall remoue: nether shal eny thinge be vnpowable vnto you. Howbeit this kynde goeth not out, but by prayer and fastinge. While they were occupied in Galilee Jesus sayde vnto them: it wyl come to passe the sonne of man shalbe betrayed into the handes of men, and they shal kyl him and the thyrde daye shal he ryse agayne. And they were excedyng soze.

And when they were come to the ctye of Capernaū, they wnt to receaue tribute money, cam to Peter, & sayd: Dost thou master paye trybute? he sayeth: yee. And when he was come into the house, Jesus preuēted hym sayig: what thinkest thou Simon? of who do the kynges of the erth take trybute or toll,

Of the chyldezen, or of straungers? Peter sayeth vnto hym: of straungers. Jesus sayeth vnto him: Then are the chyldezen fre: not with stōdng, lest we shuld offende the, go thou to see, & cast an angle, & take the fyrst cometh vp: & whē thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt fynde a peece of twentie pence: that take, & geue it vnto them for me & the.

The teacheth his disciples to be humble & harmeles: to auoyde occasyons of euill: & one to forgyue anothers offence.

The same tyme came the disciples vnto Jesus, sayinge: who is the grea test in the kyngdō of heauen? Jesus called a chylde vnto hym, & set him in the myddes of them, & sayd: Verely I saye vnto you: except ye turne, & become as chyldezen, ye shall not enter into the kyngdō of heauen. Whosoever therfore humbleth him selfe, as this chylde, the same is the grea test in the kyngdō of heauen. And whoso receaueth such a chylde in my name, receaueth me. But whoso doth offende one of these lytle ones whych beleue in me: it were better for hym, that a myllstone were hāged aboute his necke, & that he were drowned in the depth of the see. Wnto the world because of offences. Necessary it is that offences come: But wnto the mā, by whom the offence cometh.

Wherfore if thy hande or thy fote hinder the, cut him of & cast it from the. It is better for the to enter into lyfe halt or maymed, rather then thou shuldest hauinge two hādes or two fete be cast into euerlastyng fyre. And if thyne eye offende the, plucke it oute, and caste it fro the. It is better for the to enter into lyfe w one eye, rather then hauinge two eyes to be cast into hell fyre. Take hede: that ye despyse not one of these lytelones. For I saye vnto you, in heauē their angels do alwayes beholde the face of my father, whych is in heauē. For the sonne of mā is come to saue that whych was lost. How thynke ye? If a man haue an hūdred shepe, & one of the be gone astray, doth he not leaue nyntye & nyne in the mountayns, & goeth & seeketh the was gone astray? And if it happē he fynd it, verely I saye vnto you: he reioyseth more of the shepe then of the nyntye & nyne which wēt not astray. Ene so it is not the wyll of your father in heauen, ye one of these lytelones shulde perishe.

Wherfore if thy brother trespass agaynst the, go & tell hym his faute betwene hym & the alone. If he heare the, thou hast won thy brother: But if he heare the, then take yet wth the one or two, & in the mouth of two or iij. witnesses, euery matter may be stablished. If he heare not the, tell it vnto the congregacyon. If he heare not the congregacyon let him be vnto ye as an heathen mā & as a publicā. Verely I saye vnto you: whatsoeuer ye bynde on erth, shalbe bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye lose on erth, shalbe lowsed lowed in heauē. Agayne I saye vnto you yf two of you agree in erthe vpon eny maner a thynge, whatsoeuer they desyre: they shall haue it of my father which is in heauē. For where two or thre are gathered together in my name, there am I in myddes of the.

Then came Peter to hym, & sayde: Lorde howe oft shall I forgene my brother, yf he synne agaynst me: & yll seuen tymes: I saye vnto the: vntill seuen tymes: but seuen tymes seuen tymes. ¶ Therefore is the kyngdō of heauen lykened vnto a certayne mā y was a king, which wolde take aountes of hys seruautes. And whē he had begō to reckē, one was brought vnto him, whych ought him ten thousand talents, but forasmuch as he was not able to paye, his Lorde commaunded him to be solde, & hys wyfe & chyldren, & all y he had, and payment to be made. The seruaunt fell downe, & besought him, saying: Syr, haue pacience w me, and I wyll paye the all. Then had the Lorde ptye on that seruaunt, & lowsed hym and forgane hym the det.

So the same seruaunt, went out, & fōnde out of hys felowes which ought him an hundred pence: & he layed handes on hym, & toke hi by the throte, saying: paye y thou owest. And his fellowe fell downe, & besought hym saying: haue pacience w me, & I wyll paye y all. And he wolde not, but went, & cast hym into prison, tyll he shulde paye the det. So, whē his felowes sawe what was done, they were very sorry, and came, & tolde vnto their Lorde all that had happened. Then his Lorde called hym & sayd vnto hym: Thou vngreuous seruaunt, I forgane the all that det, whan thou desyrest me: shuldest not thou also haue had compassion on thy fellowe, euen as I had ptye on the? And hys Lorde was wrooth, & deliuered him to the iaylers, tyll he shuld paye all y was due vnto hym. So ylike wyse shall my heauēly father do also vnto you yf ye frō poure hertes, forgene not euery one his brother thes trespasses. **¶

¶ And it came to passe that when Jesus had fynished these sayynge, he gat hym from Galile, & came into the coastes of Jewry beyonde Jorda, & moche people folowed hym, & he healed them there.

The Pharises also came vnto him tēptynge him, & saying vnto him: Is it lawfull for a man to make a deuozement w his wyfe for any maner of cause? He answered & sayd vnto the: haue ye not red, how y he which made mā at y begynnynge made the mā & woman: & sayd, for thys cause shall a man leaue father & mother, & shall cleue vnto hys wyfe, & they twayne shalbe one fleshe. Wherefore now, they are not twayne, but one fleshe. Let not man therfore put a sinder, y whych God hath coupled together. They saye vnto hym: why dyd Moses then comaunde to geue a testimōnall of deuozement, & to put her awaye? He sayde vnto the: Moses (because of the hardnes of poure hertes & suffered you to put awaye poure wyfes: But frō y beginnyng it was not so. * I saye vnto you: whosoeuer putteth awaye his wyfe (except it be for fornicacion) & marieth another, breaketh wedlocke. And whoso marieth her whych is deuozed, doeth commyt aduoutry.

Hys disciples saye vnto him: yf y mater be so betwene man & wyfe, then is it not good to mary. He sayd vnto them: all men cannot cōprehend this saying: * saue they to whom it is geue: for ther are some chaste whych are so bozne out of their mothers wōbe. And ther are some chaste, which be made chaste of mā. And ther be chaste, which haue made the selues chaste for y kyngdome of heuē sake. He that can cōprehēde it, let him cōprehēde it. * The were there brought vnto hym pounge chyldre, that he shuld put hys hādes on the, & praye. And y disciples rebuked them. But Jesus sayde vnto them: suffre the chyldren & forbid them not to come vnto me: for of such is the kyngdō of heauē. And whē he had put hys handes on them, he departed thence.

And beholde, one came, & sayd vnto him: * good master, what good thynge shall I do that I maye haue eternall lyfe? He sayd vnto hi: why callest thou me good? (* the is none good but one, & y is God. But yf y wilt entre ito lyfe, kepe the comaundementes. He sayeth vnto hym. Whych? Jesus sayde: * Thou shalt not comit manslaughter. Thou shalt not comyt aduoutrye: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false witness: honoure father and mother: * and y shalt loue thyne neybour as thy selfe. The pōnge man sayeth vnto hi: All these thynges haue I kepte frō my youth vp: what lacke I yet? Jesus sayd vnto hym, yf thou wilt be perfecte: go & sell (all) that y hast, & geue to y poore, & shall haue treasure in heauē, & come & folow me. But when the pounge mā herde y saying, he wēt awaye sorry. For he had grete possessyons.

Then Jesus sayd vnto his disciples: Were ly I say vnto you: * it shalbe harde for the ryche to enter into the kyngdō of heauē. And agayne I saye vnto you: it is easier for a camel to go throughe the eye of a needle, the for the ryche to enter into the kyngdome of God. Whē the disciples hearde this, they were exceedingly amased, saying: who than cā be saued? But Jesus behelde them, and sayd vnto them: wth men this is vnpossyble: * but w God all thynges are possyble.

* Then answered Peter, & sayd vnto him: Beholde

Of S. Matthew.

Jo. r.

¶ Beholde: we haue forsake all, and folowed the, what shall we haue therfore? Jesus sayd vnto the: verely I saye vnto you: that when the sonne of man shall syt in the seate of hys maiestye, ye y haue folowed me i the regencyon: * shall syt also vpo. xij. scales, & indige the xij. trybes of Israel. * And euery one that forsaketh house, or brethzen, or systers, or father, or mother, or wyfe, or chyldren, or landes, for my names sake, * shall receaue an hundred folde, & shall inheret euerylastynge lyfe. * But many that are fyrst, shalbe last and the last shalbe fyrst.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a man, y is an housholder, whych went out early in the mornynge to hyer labourers into hys vyneyard. And whan the agreement was made wth the labourers for a peny a daye, he sent them into hys vynearde. And he went out about the thirde houre, & sawe other stādpyng ydell in y market place, & sayde vnto the: go ye also into the vynearde: & whatsoeuer is ryght, I wyll geue you. And they went thery wāye. Agayne, he went out about the fyfte & nyne the houre, & dyd lyke wyse. And about the eleueth houre he wēt out, & fōunde other standynge ydell, & sayd vnto the: why stande ye here all the daye ydell? They saye vnto hym because no man hath hyred vs. He sayeth vnto the: go ye also into the vynearde: & whatsoeuer is ryght, that shall ye receaue.

So, when euen was come, the Lorde of the vynearde sayeth vnto his steward: call y labourers, & geue them their hyer, begynnynge at y laste vntill y fyrst. And whā they dyd come, y cam about y eleueth houre, they receaued euery mā a peny. But whan the fyrst came also, they supposed y they shuld haue receaued more, & they lyke wyse receaued euery mā a peny. And when they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst y good mā of the house, sayynge: These last haue wrought but one houre, & y hast made the equal vnto vs, which haue bozne y burthen & heat of y day.

But he answered vnto one of the & sayde: frende, I do the no wronge: dydest thou not agre w me for a penny? Take that thine is & go thy wāye: I wyll geue vnto thys last, euen as vnto the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as me lysteth w myne awne goodes? Is thyne eye cupll, because I am good? * So y last shalbe fyrst, & the fyrste shalbe last. For many be called, but fewe be chosen. **¶

* And Jesus going vp to Ierusalem, toke the xij. disciples as yde in the waye, & sayd vnto them: * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, & the sonne of mā shalbe betrayed vnto

the chiefe prestes, & vnto the scribes, & they shall condemne hym to deeth, & shall deliuer hym to the gentyls, to be mocked and to be scourged, and to be crucified: and the thyrde daye he shall ryle agayne.

* He came to him the mother of zebedes chyldren, w her sonnes, worchypynge him & desyring a certayne thynge of hi. And he sayeth vnto her, what wilt thou? She sayde vnto him: Graunte, y these my two sonnes may syt, the one on the ryght hāde, and the other on the lefte, in thy kyngdome.

But Jesus answered & sayde: * Ye wot not what ye aske. Are ye able to dryncke of y cuppe that I shall dryncke of: & to be baptised w y baptyme, y I am baptised w? They saye vnto him: we are. He sayde vnto them: ye shall dryncke in dede of my cup: & be baptised w y baptyme that I am baptised wth. But to syt on my ryght hande & on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shall chaunce vnto the, y it is y prepared for of my father. **¶

* And when y ten heard this, they disoyned at the two brethre: But Jesus called the vnto him, & sayde: * ye knowe that the princes of the nations haue dominio ouer them. And they that are great men, exerceyse auctoryte vpo them. It shal not be so amōge you. But whosoeuer wyll be greate amōge you, let him be poure minister: and whoso will be chiefe amōge you, let him be poure seruaunt: euen as the sonne of mā cam, not to be ministered vnto, but to minister, & to geue his lyfe a redemption for many. **¶

* And as they departed frō hiericho, moch people folowed hi. And beholde, two blynde men sittynge by the way syde, when they heard that Jesus passed by, they cried sayynge: Lord thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on vs. And the people rebuked them, because they shulde holde their peace. But they cried the more sayynge: haue mercy on vs. Lord thou sonne of Dauid. And Jesus stode still, and called them, & sayde: what wyll ye that I shall do vnto you? They saye vnto him: Lorde, that oure eyes maye be opened. So Jesus had compassio on them, and touched their eyes, & immediatly their eyes receaued syght. And they folowed him.

¶ And whan they drew nye vnto Ierusalem, and were come to Bethphage, vnto mounte Olyuete: then sent Jesus two disciples, saying vnto the: Go into the towne that lyeth ouer agaynst you, and anone ye shall fynde an asse bound, and a colte with her: loose them, & brynge them vnto me.

The Gospel,

me. And pfernd mā sape ought vnto you, say pe: the Lorde hath neade of them: & streyght waye he wyl let the go. All this was done, & it might be fulfilled which was spokē by the prophete, saying. * Tell ye the daughter of Sion: behold, thy kynge cometh vnto y, meke, syttinge vpon an asse & a colte, the sole of the asse vndē to the yocke. The discyples wēt & dyd as Ies^s comaunded the, & brought the asse, & the colte, & put on the their clothes, & sett hi therō. And many of the people spred their garmentes in y waye. Other cut doune brāiches fro y trees, & strawed the i y waye.

And after, the people y wēt before, & they y came after, cryed saying: Hosanna to the sonne of David. * Blessed is he y cometh i the name of y Lorde. * Hosanna in y hyst. * And whē he was come to Ierusalem, all y citie was moued, saying: who is this? And the people sayd: this is Iesus, the Prophet of Nazareth (a cyte) of Galile. And Iesus went into the tēple of God, & cast out all the y folde & bought in the temple, & ouerthrew the tables of y mony changers, & the seates of them that solde dones, & sayd vnto them: It is wrytē: my house shall be called y house of prayer. But ye haue made it a denne of theues. And the blynde & the halt came to him in the temple, & he healed them.

When the chiefe prestes & scribes sawe y wonders that he dyd, & the chylde cpyng in the temple (saying: Hosanna to the sonne of David) they disdayned, and sayd vnto him: hearest thou what these saye? But Iesus saith vnto them why not: haue ye neuer redde. * Out of the mouth of babes & suckelinges thou haste ordeyned prayse. And he lefte them, and went out of the cytie vnto Bethanie, & had his abydinge there.

In the moynynge as he returned into y cytie agayne, he hūged: & whā he had spyd a fygge tree i the waye, he came to it, & founde nothyng therō, but leaues onely, & sayde vnto it: Neuer frute growe on the hēce forwarde. And anone y fygg tree widdered a waye. And when hys discyples sawe it, they marueled, saying: how soone is y fygge tree widdered a waye? Iesus answered, and sayd vnto the: Verely I saye vnto you: yf ye haue sayth & dout not, ye shal not onely do this that is happened vnto y fygge tree: but also yf ye shal saye vnto this mountayne, remoue, & cast thy selfe into the see, it shalbe done.

And all thinges whatsoeuer ye aske i praye (yf ye beleue) ye shal receaue them. * And when he was come in to y tēple, the chiefe prestes & the elders of the people came vnto him (as he was teachinge) & sayde: By what auctorite doest thou these thynges? & who gaue the thys power? Iesus answered & sayde vnto the: I also wyl aske of you a certayne thyng, which yf ye tell me, I in ly-ke wyse will tell you by what auctorite I do these thinges. The baptisme of Iohn: whence was it: fro heauen or of mē? And they thought amonge them selues, saying: yf we saye fro heauen, he wyl saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue him? But yf we shall saye of men, then feare we the people. * If or all men holde Iohn as a prophet. And they answered vnto Iesus & sayde: we cannot tell. And he sayd vnto the: nether tell I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges. * What saye ye to this? * A man had two sonnes, & cam to the fyrt, & sayde: sonne, go & worke to daye i my vineyarde. He answered & sayde, I wyl not, but after ward, he repēted, & went. The cam he to the secōde, & sayd lyke wise. And he answered, & sayd: I wyl, & wēt not. Whe ther of the twayne dyd y wyl of the fater? And they saye vnto him: the fyrt. Iesus sayeth vnto the: verely I saye vnto you, the publicans & harlotes go into the kyngdō of God before you. For Iohn cam vnto you by the waye of ryghte wylnes, and ye beleued hym not: but publicans & harlotes beleued hym. And ye (whan ye had sene it) were not moued afterwarde wyth repentaunce, that ye myght haue beleued hym.

Herke another symillitūde. * Ther was a certayne man an housholder, whych plātēd a vineyarde, & hedged it rounde about, & made a wynepresse in it, & bilt a tower, & let it out to husbandmen, & wēt into a straung coultre. And when y tyme of y frute drew neare, he sent his seruantes to the husbandmen y they myght receaue the frutes of it. And y husbandmen caught his seruantes, & bet one, killed another, & stoned another. Agayne, he sent other seruantes, moe then the fyrt: & they dyd vnto the lyke wyse. But last of all, he sent vnto the his awne sonne, saying: they wyl stande in awe of my sonne. But whē y husbandmen sawe the sonne, they sayd amonge them selues: * This is the heyre: come, let vs kyll him, & let vs enioye his inheritaunce. And they caught hym, & thrust hym out of y vineyarde, & slewe him. When the Lorde therfore of the vineyard cometh, what wil he do vnto those husbandmen? They sayd vnto hi: For as moch as they be euell, he will cruellye destroye the, & will let out his vineyard vnto other husbandmē, which shal deliuer hym the frute in due seasons. Iesus sayeth vnto the: dyd ye neuer reade in y scriptures? The stone whych the bylders refused, the same is become the heade of the corner: thys is y Lorde doinge, & it is meruelous in youre eyes. Therfore saye I vnto you, y kyngdō of God shalbe taken fro you, and geuen to a nation, whych shal bynne forth the frutes therof. And whosoever falleth on this stone, shalbe broken in peces: but on whosoever it falleth it shal all to greynd hym. And when the chiefe these prestes and pharises had hearde hys parables, they perceaued, that he speake of them. * And they went about to laye handes on him: but they feared the people, because they tooke him as a prophet. * And Iesus answered, & spake vnto the agayne by parables and sayde.

The xxij. Chapter.

The marriage of the kynges sonne. Trybute to be geuen to the Emperour. Christ cōfute the opynion of the Saduces concernyng the resurreccyon, & answereth the scribe vnto hys questyon.

The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a man that was a kyng, whych made a mariage for hys sonne & sent forth his seruantes, to call them that were byd to the weddinge, & they wolde not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruantes sayinge: Tell the whych are byddē: behold, I haue prepared my dynner: my oxen & my fatlynges are kyllēd, & all thynges are ready, come vnto y mariage. But they made lyght of it, & wēt their wayes: one to his serme place, another to hys marchaundise, & the remaunt toke his seruantes, & intreated the shamefully ad slewe them. But when the kyng hearde therof, he was wroth, & sent forth his men of warre & destroyed those murtherers, and bzēt vp the y cytie.

Thē sayd he to his seruantes: y mariage in dede is prepared. But they whych were bydden, were not worthy. So ye therfore out into y hys wayes: & as many as ye fynde byd the to the mariage. And the seruantes went out into the hys wayes, & gathered to gether all, as many as they coude fynde, both good & bad, & the weddinge was furnished with gesses. Then the kyng came in, to se the gesses, & whan he spyd there a mā, whych had not on a weddinge garment, he sayd vnto hym: frēde, how camest thou in hyther not hauyng a weddinge garment? And he was euē spechlesse. Then sayd y kyng to the ministers: take & bynde him hand and fote, & cast hym into vtter darchnes: there shal be wepyng & gnasyng of teth. For many be called but few are chosen.

Then went the pharises, & toke counsell how they myght tagle hi in his wordes. And they sent out vnto hym the y discyples wyth herodes seruantes, sayinge: * After, we knowe that y art true, & teachest the waye of God truly, nether carest y for eny man, for thou regardest not the outward apperaunce of mē. Tell vs therfore: how thynkest y: Is it lawfull y trybute be geue vnto Cesar or not? But Iesus perceauyng they wychednes, sayde: Why tēpte ye me ye hypocrites? Shewe me y tribute mony. And they toke hi a peny. And he sayde vnto the: whose is this ymage & superscripcion? They saye vnto him, Cesar. Thē sayd he vnto the: Geue therfore vnto Cesar, y thynges whych are Ce-sars: & vnto God, those thynges are Gods. * When they had hearde these wordes, they marueled, & left hym, & went they waye.

The same daye came to him the Saduces (which saye y there is no resurreccion) & asked him sayinge: * After, Moses sayde: that yf a man dye hauyng no chyld, hys brother shulde mary hys wyfe, & reyse vp seed vnto his brother. Ther were with vs seue brethren: & the fyrt married a wyfe, & deceased wout yssue & lefte his wyfe vnto his brother. Lyke wyse, the secōde & y thyr, vnto y leuenth. Laste of all y womā dyed also. Therfore, in y resurreccion, whose wyfe shal she be of the seue? For they all had her. Iesus answered & sayde vnto the: ye do erre, not knowinge the scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurreccyon, they nether mary, nor are maryed but are as the Angels in heauen.

But as touchyng the resurreccyon of the deed: haue ye not red that which is spokē vnto you of God, whych sayth: I am the God of Abraham & the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob? God is not a God of deed, but of lyuinge. And when y people heard this, they were astonnyed at his doctryne.

But whē the pharises had heard, y he had put the Saduces to silence, they came together, & one of the which was (a doctour of lawe) asked him a question, tēptyng him, & saying: * After, which is the greaeste comaundemēt in the lawe? Iesus sayd vnto hym: Thou shalt lone y Lorde thy God wyth all thy herte, and wyth all thy soule, & wyth all thy mynde. This is the fyrt & greaeste comaundemēt. And the secōde is lyke vnto it. Thou shalt loue thyne neybour as thy self. In these two commaundementes hange all the lawe and the prophetes.

Whyle the pharises were gathered together, Iesus asked the, saying: what thynke ye of Christ: whose sōne is he? They saye vnto him: the sonne of David. He sayde vnto them: how then doeth David call hym Lorde sayinge: The Lorde sayd vnto my Lorde: syt y on my ryght hande tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stooles. If David then, call him Lorde, how is he the his sonne? And no mā was able to answer him anpe thing: nether durste eny man from that daye forth aske him any moe questions.

The xxij. Chapter.

Christ cōfute the pharises, scribes and hypocrites, & prophesyeth the destruction of Ierusalem.

Then spake Iesus to the people, and to his discyples, saying: * The scribes and the pharises syt in Moses seate. All therfore whatsoeuer they byd you obserue, that obserue ad do: but do not ye after they workes: for they saye, and do not. * Yee, they bynde together heuy burthens ad greuouse to be borne, & laye them on mennes shoulders:

Shoulders: but they the selues wyl not heare at the with one of their fingers. All they worckes do they for the intent, & they maye be sene of me. They set abroad their phylacteries, & make large & borders of their garments, & loue the vppermoste seates at feastes, & to syt in the chiefe place in counceils, & gretynge in the markett, and to be called of men, Rabbi.

* But he not ye called Rabbi. For one is your master, euen Chryst, and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father vpon earth, for one is your father which is in heauen. Neither be ye called masters, for one is your master, euen Chryst. He that is greatest amonge you, shall be your seruaunt. But whosoever exalteth himselfe: shall be brought lowe. And he that humbleth himselfe, shall be exalted. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes & Pharisees, ye hypocrites, for ye shutt vp the kyngdome of heauen before men: ye nether go in your selues, nether suffer ye them that come, to enter in.

¶ Wo be vnto you Scribes and Pharisees, ye hypocrites: for ye compasse see and lande, to make one proselyte: & when he is become one, ye make hym two folde moare the chyld of hell, then ye your selues are.

¶ Wo be vnto you ye blynde gydes, for ye saye: whosoever doth sweare by the temple: it is nothyng: but whosoever sweareth by the golde of the temple, he is gyltye. Ye foolles & blinde: for whether is greater: & gold, or the temple that sanctifyeth the gold? And whosoever sweareth by the aultre, it is nothyng, but whosoever sweareth by the gyft that is vpon it, he is gyltye. Ye foolles & blynde for whether is greater: the gyft: or & altare that sanctifieth & gyft. Whoso therefore sweareth by the aultre, sweareth by it, and by all thinges that are there on. And whoso sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, & by hym that dwelleth therin. ¶ And he that sweareth by heauen, sweareth by the seate of God, and by hym that sitteth thereon.

¶ Wo vnto you Scribes and pharisees, ye hypocrites: for ye make cleane the utter syde of the cuppe, & of the platter: but within they are full of byrberry and excelle. Thou blynde Pharise, cleanse fyrst that which is w in the cup & platter, that the outersyde of the maye be cleane also.

* Wo vnto you Scribes & pharisees, ye hypocrites: for ye are lyke vnto painted sepulchres which in dede appeare beautifull outwarde but are wythin full of deed mens bones & of all fylthyness. Euen so ye also, outwardlye appere ryghteous vnto men: But wythin, ye are full of faynednesse and iniquyte.

* Wo vnto you Scribes and Pharisees, ye hypocrites: ye buyde the tombes of the Prophetes, and garnyshe the sepulchres of the ryghteous, & saye: yf we had bene in & dayes of our fathers, we wolde not haue bene parteners wyth them in the bloude of the Prophetes. And so ye be wytnesses vnto your selues, & ye are the chyldren of them whych kylled the prophetes. Fulfyll ye lykwysse the measure of your fathers. Ye serpentes, ye generacio of vipers, how wyl ye scape the damnacyon of hell?

* Wherefore beholde: I sende vnto you Prophetes & wyse men, & scribes, and some of them ye shall kyll & crucifye: & some of the shall ye scourge in your synagoges, & persecute the from cytie to cytie: & vpon you maye come all & ryghteous bloude whych hath bene shedd vpon the erthe, fro the bloude of ryghteous. ¶ Abel, vnto & bloude of zachary sonne of Barachias, whom ye slewe betwene the temple & altare. Verely I saye vnto you: all these thynges shall come vpon this generacio. ¶ O Ierusalem, Ierusalem, thou kyllest the prophetes, & stonest them which are sent vnto the: how often wolde. ¶ I haue gathered thy chyldren together, euen as the henne gathereth her chyckens vnder her wynges, & ye wolde not? Beholde: your house is left vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: ye shall not se me hence forth, tyll that ye saye & blessed is he, that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

¶ And Iesus went out, & departed from the temple: & his discyples came to hym, for to shewe him the byldynges of the temple. Iesus sayde vnto them: See ye not all these thynges? Verely I saye vnto you: ther shall not be here lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be destroyed.

¶ And as he sat vpon mount Olmete, his disciples came vnto him secretly, saying: Tell vs: whē shall these thynges be: & what shall be & tokē of thy comyng & of the ende of the worlde? And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto the: take hede, & no man deceaue you. For many shall come in my name, sayinge: I am Chryst: & shall deceaue many. Ye shall heare of warres, & tybings of warres: be not troubled. For all these thynges must come to passe

Of S. Matthew,

Ho. xij.

¶ passe, but the ende is not yet. ¶ Nacion shall ryse agaynst nacion, and realme agaynst realme: and ther shall be pestilence, & hunger, and erthquakes in all places. All these are the begynnynge of sorowes.

* Then shall they put you to trouble, and shall kyll you: & ye shall be hated of all nacions for my names sake. And then shall many be offended, & shall betraye one another, & shall hate one another. And many shall falle: & shall aryse, & shall deceaue many. ¶ And because iniquite shall haue the vpper hand, & loue of many shall abate. ¶ But he that endureth to the ende, the same shall be safe. ¶ And this Gospell of the kyngdome shall be preached in all the worlde, for a wytnes vnto all nacions, and then shall the ende come.

¶ When ye therfore shall se the abhominacion of desolaciō (that was spokē of by Daniel & prophet) stande in the holy place: who-so readeth it let hi m vnderstande. ¶ Then lett them whych be in Ierowp, fflye into the mountaynes. And let hym whych is on the house toppe, not come downe to set eny thinge out of his house. ¶ Neither let him whych is in the felde, retorne backe to fetch his clothes. ¶ Wo shall be in those dayes to the & are w chyldre, & to the & gene sucke. But praye ye that your flight be not: in the winter, nether on the Saboth daye. ¶ For then shall be great tribulacions: suche as was not sens & beginning of the worlde to this tyme, nor shall be. ¶ Except those dayes shulde be shortened, there shulde no fleshe be saved: but for the choysen sake, those dayes shall be shortened.

¶ Then yf eny man saye vnto you: lo here is Chryst, or there: beleue it not. ¶ For there shall aryse false Chrystes, and false prophetes: and shall shew great miracles, & wonders. In so moche (that yf it were possible) & verie electe shuld be deceaued: beholde, I haue tolde you before. ¶ Wherefore, yf they saye vnto you: beholde, he is in the desert, go not ye forth: beholde, he is in & secret places, beleue it not. ¶ For as the lyghnyng cometh out of the East, & appereth into the west: so shall the comyng of the sonne of man be.

¶ For wheresoeuer a deed karkas is, euen thether wyl & Egles also be gathered together. ¶ Immediately after the tribulacions of those dayes, shall & sonne be darkened: & & moone shall not geue her lyght, and & starres shall fall from heauen, & the powers of heauen shall be moued. And then shall appere & token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shall all & kyndes of the earth mourne, and they shall se & & sonne of mā comyng in & clowdes of heauen, wyth power & greates glorie. And he shall sende his Angels w the greates voyce of a troppet, & they shall gather together his chosen, from the foure wyndes: euen from the hyghest partes of heauen, vntyll the endes ther of.

* Learne a similitude of the fygge tree: When hys braunches is yet tender, & the leaues sprōg, yeknowe that sommer is nye. So lykwysse ye, when ye se all these thynges, be ye sure that it is neare, euen at the doores. ¶ Verely I saye vnto you: this generacio shall not passe, tyll all these thynges be fulfilled: heauen & earth shall passe, but my wordes shall not passe. But of that daye and houre & knoweth no man, no not the angels of heauen, but my father onely.

* But as & dayes of Noe were, so shall also the comyng of the sonne of man be. ¶ For as in the dayes (that went before the flood) they dyd eate and dryncke, mary, and were maryed, euen vntyll the daye that Noe entered into the chyppe, and knewe not tyll the flood came and toke them all awaye: So shall also the comyng of the sonne of man be. ¶ Then shall two be in the felde, the one receaued, & & other refused: & two women shall be greynyinge at the myll, the one receaued & the other refused. ¶ Watch therfore, for ye knowe not what houre your lord will come.

¶ Of this yet be sure, that yf the good mā of & house knew what houre & & these wolde come: he wolde surely wathe, & not suffer his house to be broken vp. ¶ Therfore, be ye also ready, for in such an houre as ye thynke not: wyl the sonne of man come. ¶ Who is a faythfull & wyse seruaunt, whom his Lorde hath made ruler ouer his household, to geue them meate i season. ¶ Blessed is that seruaunt whō hys Lorde (whē he cometh) shall fynde so doinge: Verely I saye vnto you, that he shall make hym ruler ouer all hys goodes. ¶ But yf that euill seruaunt saye in hys herte, my Lorde wyl be long a comyng (and so begynne to synke his felowes, yee, and to eate & dryncke wyth the drōcken) the same seruantes Lorde shall come in a daye when he lokeeth not for hym, and in an houre that he is not ware of, & shall he we him i pecces, & geue hym his porcyon wyth hypocrites: there shall be wepyng and gnashynge of teth.

¶ The ten vyrgyns, the talents deliuered to the seruaunts, and of the generall iudgement.

¶ There shall & kyngdō of heauen be like vnto ten vyrgyns, which toke their lāpes, & went to mete & bydgrome. ¶ But fyue of the were foolyshe, & fyue were wise. ¶ They & were folyshe, toke their lampes, but toke none oyle w the. ¶ But & wyse toke oyle w the i their vessels wth & lāpes also. ¶ Whyle the bydgrome tarped, they all slombred & slept. ¶ And euen at midnyght, there was a crye made: beholde, the bydgrome cometh, go out to mete hym. ¶ The all those vyrgyns arose, & prepared they layes. So the folysse sayde vnto the wyle: geue vs of poure oyle: for oure lampes are gone out. But the wyle answered, sayi-ge: not so, lest ther be not pnowgh for vs and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, & by for your selues. And whyll they wēt to bye, the bydgrome came: & they that were ready wēt in with hym to the marriage, & the gate was shut vp. Afterwarde came also y other virgins, saying: * Lorde, Lorde, open to vs. But he answered & sayd: verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. Watche therfore: for ye knowe nether the daye nor yet the houre wherein the sonne of man shall come.

I* Lyke wise as a certein mā ready to take his iorney to a straunge countre, called his seruauntes, & deliuered vnto them hys goodes. And vnto one he gaue. v. talentes, to another. ii. & to another one: to euery man after his habilitie, & streight waye departed: Then he y had receaued the fyue talentes, went, & occupied w the same, & wanne other fyue talentes. Lyke wise also, he y receaued two, gaped other two. But he that receaued that one, went & dygged in the erth, and hid his Lorde's money. After a longe season, the Lorde of those seruauntes came, and reckened wyth them. And so he that had receaued fyue talentes came, & brought other fyue talentes, sayi-ge: Sir, thou deliueredst vnto me fyue talentes: beholde, I haue gaped with the fyue talentes moo: his Lorde sayde vnto him: well thou good and faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thinges, I wyll make the ruler ouer many thinges: entre thou into the ioye of thy Lorde. He also that had receaued two talentes, came and sayde: Sir, thou deliueredst vnto me two talentes: beholde, I haue wone two other talentes with them: his Lorde sayd vnto him: well good & faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thinges. I will make the ruler ouer many thinges: Entre y into the ioye of thy Lorde.

Then he whych had receaued the one talent, came, & sayd: Sir I knewe the y thou art an harde man: reaping where thou hast not sowē, & gathering where thou hast not strawed, and therfore was I afraid, & wēt, and hyd thy talent in the erth: lo, there thou hast y thine is. his lord answered & sayd vnto him thou euill & slowthfull seruaunt, thou knewest, y I reape where I sowed not, & gather, where I haue not strawed: y oughtest therfore to haue deliuered my money to the exchaungers, & then at my commynge shulde I haue receaued myne a wne with vantage.  *Mat. xiii. c.

When the eue was come, he sate doune wyth the twelue. And as they dyd eate, he sayd: Verely, I saye vnto you, that y one of you shal betraye me. And they were excedyng sorrowfull, and beganne euery one of them to saye vnto him: Lorde, is it I? he answered and sayde: he that dyppeth hys hande with me in the dishe, the same shal betraye me. * The sonne of man truly goeth, as it is written of him: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for y mā, if he had not bene borne. Then Judas whych betrayed hi, answered, and sayd: master, is it I? he sayde vnto him: y hast sayd. Whan they were eatyng, Jesus toke bread, and whā he had geue thankes, he brake it, & gaue it to y disciples, & sayd: * Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke y cup, & thāked, and gaue it the, sayi-ge: drinke ye all of this. For this is my bloud (whych is of the new testament) that is shed for many, for y remission of synnes. hpe prestes, and smote of his care. The sayd Jesus vnto him: put vp thy swearde into his sheath.

* For all they that take the swearde, shall perishe with y swearde. Thinkest thou that I cannot now praye to my father, and he shall geue me? (euen now) more then twelue Legions of angels? But how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled: for * this must it be. In that same houre sayde Jesus to the multitude: * ye be come out as it were vnto a thefe, with swerdes and stauces, for to take me. I sat daylie with you, teachinge in the temple, and ye toke me not. * But all this is done, that the scriptures of the prophetes myght be fulfilled. * Then all the disciples forsoke hi, and fled. And they toke Jesus, & led him to Cayphas y hpe Preste, where the Scribes and Elders were assembled. But Peter folowed him a farre of, vnto the hpe prestes palace: & went in, and sate with the seruauntes, to se the ende.

* The chiefe prestes and the elders, and all the counsell, sought false witness agaynst Jesus (for to put hym to deeth) but founde none: pce, when many false witness came, yet founde they none. At the last came two false witness, and sayde: This fellowe sayde. * I am able to destrope y temple of God, & to buylde it agayne in thre dayes. * And the chiefe preste arose, & sayd vnto him: answerest thou nothyng? Why do these beare witness against the? But Jesus helde hys peace. * And the chiefe preste answered and sayde vnto him: I charge the by the lyvinge God, y thou tell vs, whether thou be Christ the sonne of God. Jesus sayeth vnto hym, thou hast sayd. Neuerthelesse I saye vnto you * here after shall ye se the sonne of man syttynge on y right hande of power, and comingyn in the cloudes of the skye.

* The y hpe preste ret his clothes, sayinge: he hath spoken blasphemye. what nede we of enymoo witnesses? Beholde, now ye haue hearde his blasphemye: what thike ye? They answered, and sayde: he is worthy to dye.
* Then dyd they spytt in his face, & buffeted him with fistes. And other smote him on hys face with the palme of their handes, sayinge: tell vs thou Christ, who is he that smote the?

Peter sat with oute in the palace. And a dāsell came to him, sayinge: Thou also wast with Jesus of Galile: but he denyed before the all, saying. I woot not what thou sayest.
Whē he was gone out into the porche, a nother wenche sawe him, and sayde vnto them that were there: This fellowe was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denyed with an othe: (sayeng.) I do not knowe the mā. And after a whyle, came vnto him they (y stode by) and sayde vnto Peter. * surely art thou one of the, for thy speache be wyapeth the. Then beganne he to curse and to sweare, that he knewe not the mā. And immediatly * the cocke crew. And Peter remembred the worde of Jesu, which sayde vnto him: before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thre tyme: and he went out, and wepte bytterly.

The xxvij. Chapter.

Chap. xxvij. Judas hangeth hym selfe. Christ is crucified amonge the tres. He dyeth and is buryed, watchmen kepe the grave.

When y moynynge was come, all the chiefe prestes ad the elders of the people helde a counsaile agaynst Jesus, to put him to deeth, ad brought him bounde * and delyuered him vnto Pon-cius Pilate the debite.

Then Judas (which had betrayed him) seyng that he was cōdemyned, repented him selfe, and brought agayne the thirtie plates of syluer, to the chiefe prestes ad elders, sayinge: I haue synned, betrayinge the innocent bloud. And they sayd: what is that to vs?
Se thou to that. And he cast downe the syluer plates in the temple, and departed * and went and hanged hym selfe.

And the chiefe prestes toke the syluer plates and sayd: it is not lawfull for to put them into the treasure, because it is the pryce of bloud. And they toke counsell: and bought w them a potters felde to bury straungers in.
Wherfore y felde is called * Beldema, that is y felde of bloud, vntyll this daye. Then was fulfilled, that which was spoken * by Jeremy the Prophet, sayinge: * and they toke thirtie syluer plates, the pryce of him y was valued, who they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and gaue them for the potters felde, as the Lorde apoynted me. * Jesus stode before the debite, and the debite asked him, sayinge: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Jesus sayeth vnto him: Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chiefe prestes & elders, he answered nothyng. Then sayeth Pilate vnto him: hearest thou not, how many witnesses they laye agaynst the? * and he answered him to neuer a worde: in so moch that the debite marueyled greatlye.

* At that feast, the debite was wonte to delyuer vnto the people a prisoner, whom they wold desier. He had then a notable pre-soner, called Barrabas. Therfore, when they were gathered together, Pilate sayd:
* whether will ye that I geue loofse vnto you? Barrabas, or Jesus, whych is called Christ? For he knewe y for enuie they had delyuered him.

When

When he was set downe to geue iudge-ment, his wyfe sent vnto him sayinge: haue y nothi ge to do with y iust mā. For I haue suffered many thinges this daye in my slepe because of him. * But the chiefe prestes and the elders perswaded the people, y they shulde askē Barrabas, ad destrope Jesus. The debite answered, and sayde vnto the: whether of the twayne, will ye, that I let loofse vnto you? They sayd: * Barrabas. Pilate sayde vnto them: * what shall I do then with Jesus whych is called Christ? They all sayd vnto him: let hi be crucified. The debite sayde: what euill hath he done? But they cryed the more, sayinge: let him be crucified. When Pilate sawe y he coulde preuaile nothyng, but that more busyness was made, he toke water, and walsched hys handes before the people, sayinge: I am innocent of the bloud of this iust person, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayd * his bloud be on vs, and on oure chyldren. * Then let he Barra-bas loofse vnto them, and scourged Jesus, and delyuered him to be crucified.

* Then the soudeours of the debite toke Jesus in the comen hall, and gathered vnto him al the company. And they stripped him, and put on him a purpill robe, and platted a croune of thornes and put vpon his heed, ad a rede in his ryght hande: and bowed y knee before him: & mocked hi, sayinge: haile, kyng of the Jewes: and whan they had spytt vpo him, they toke the rede, and smote him on the heed.

And after that they had mocked him, they toke the roabe of him agayne, and put hys awone rayment on him, & led him awaye to crucifye him. And as they came out, * they founde a mā of Tyzen (named Simon) him they cōpelled to beare his crosse. * And they came vnto the place which is called Golgotha (y is to saye, a place of deed mēs sculles) and gaue hym veneger to drinke myngled with gall. And when he had tasted therof, he wolde not drinke.

When they had crucified him, they parted his garmentes, & dyd cast lottes: y it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet. * They departed my garmentes amonge them: and vpon my vesture dyd they cast lottes. And they sate and watched him there, and * set vp ouer his heed the cause of hys deeth, wyrtten: This is Jesus the kyng of the Jewes. * Then were there two theues crucified with him, one on the ryght hande, and another on the lyfte.

* They that passed by, reuyled him, wag-ginge their heades, and sayinge: thou that destroyst the temple of God and dydest bylde it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. * If thou be the sonne of God, come downe from the crosse. Like wyse also y hpe prestes, mockig him with y Scribes and elders sayde: he saued other, him selfe can he not saue. If he be y kyng of Israel: let him now come downe fro the crosse, & we will beleue him. * He trusted in God, let him delyuer him now, yf he wyl haue him: for he sayde, I am y sonne of God.

The theues also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his tethe.

* fro y syxte houre was there dercknes ouer all the lande vnto the nyynth houre. And about the nyynth houre, Jesus cryed, wyth a loude voyce, sayinge: Eli, Eli lama sabath-thany. That is to saye: * my God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? Some of them y stode there, whē they herde y, sayde: This man calleth for helias. And streyght waye * one of them ranne, and toke a sponge, and whan he had fylled it full of veneger, he put it on a rede, and gaue him to drinke. Other sayde, let be: let vs se whether helias will come, & delyuer hi. Jesus, whan he had cried agayne w a loude voyce, yelded vp y goost.

And beholde, y vayne of the temple dyd rent in to two partes, from the toppe to the bottome, and the earth dyd quake, and the stones rent and graues dyd open: and many bodies of saintes which slept, arose, & went out of the graues after his resurreccyon, and came in to the holy cytic, and appeared vnto many. * When the Centurion and they that were with him watchinge Jesus, sawe the erth quake, and those thinges which happened, they feared greatly, sayig: Truly, this was the sonne of God.

* And many women were there (beholdinge hym a farre of) whych folowed Jesus fro Galile, mynstringe vnto him. Amonge which was Mary Magdalen, and Mary y mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of zebedes chyldren. When y euen was come * there came a riche man of Aramathia named Ioseph, which also was Jesus disciple.
He went to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commaunded the bodye to be delyuered. And whan Ioseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a cleane lynnen cloth, and layed it in hys newe tombe, whyche he had hewen out, euen in the rocke, and rolled a greate stone to the doze of the sepulchre & departed. And there was * Mary Magdalene and the other Mary syttynge ouer agaynst the sepulchre. The nexte daye that foloweth * the daye of preparinge, the hpe prestes and Pharises came together vnto Pilate, sayeng: Syr, we remembre, that this deceauer sayde whyle he was yet aliv.

* After thre dayes I wyll arylse agayne. To maunde therfore that the sepulchre be made sure vntyll the thre daye, lest hys disciples come, & steale him awaye and saye vnto the people: he is ryfen from the deeth, & the last errour shalbe worse then the fyrst. Pilate

The Gospell.

The Gospell of

S. Marke.

The fyrst Chapter.

The office of John the baptist, the baptyme of Christ, his sayngs, his preachynge, and the callinge of Peter, Andrew, James & John, Christ healeth the ma with the vncleane spirite, helpeb Peters mother in lawe, and clenseth the leper.

The begynnynge of the Gospell of Jesu Christ the sonne of God, as it is written in the prophetes, * behold, I sende my messenger before thy face which shall prepare thy way before the.

The voyce of a cryer in the wilderness: * prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, & make his pathes straight. * John dyd baptysme in the wyldernes, and preached the baptyme of repentance, for the remission of synnes. And all the lande of Jewrie and they of Jerusalem, went out vnto hym, and were all baptised of him in the ryuer Jordan, confessynge their synnes.

* John was clothed with camilles hery, and was a gerdyll of a sayn about his lynes. And he dyd eate locustes and wild: hony, & preached sayinge. * he that is stronger then I, cometh after me, whose sholacher I am not worthy to stoupe downe, and vnloose, I haue baptysed you wyth water: but he shall baptysme you with the holy goost.

And it came to passe in those dayes, * Jesus cam fro Nazareth, of Galile: * and was baptysed of John in Jordan: And asone as he was come vp out of the water: * he sawe heauē open, & the sprete descended vpon him lyke adoue: And ther came a voyce from heauen. * Thou art my deare sonne in whom I deulte.

And immediatly * sprete droue him into wilderness: and he was there in p wyldernes. xl. dayes, and was tempted of Satan, & was with wilde beastes. * And the angels minystrd vnto hym. After that John was taken * Jesus came into Galile: * preachynge the Gospell, of p kyngdō of God, & sayinge. the tyme is come, & the kyngdom of God is at hand: * repent, and beleue the Gospell.

* As he walked by the see of Galile, he sawe Simon & Andrew his brother, casting nettes into p see, for they were fishers. And Jesus sayde vnto them: folowe me, & I will make * you to become fpyshers of men. And straight waye, they forsoke their nettes, & folowed him. And when he had gone a lytell further thence, he sawe James the sonne of zebede, & John his brother, which also were in the shyppe, mendynge their nettes. And anone he called them. And they leet their father zebede ther zebede in the shyp wyth the byred seruauntes, and folowed hym.

* And they came into Capernaum: and streyght waye on the Saboth dayes, he entred into the synagoge, & taught. And they were astonnyed at his learnynge. * For he taught them as one that had auctorite, & not as the scribes.

* And there was in their synagoge a man vexed with an vncleane spirite, and he cryed sayinge: Alas, what haue we to do with the thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the what thou art euē that holy one of God. And Jesus rebuked hym sayinge: holde thy peace, and come out of the man. And whan the vncleane spirite had toarne him, & cryed with a loude voyce, he came out of him. And they were all amazed, in so much that they demaunded one of another amonge them selues sayinge: what thyng is this? What newe doctrine is this? For with auctorite comāded he the foule spirites, and they obeyed hym. And immediatly his fame spred abroad through out all the region borderinge on Galile.

And forth with, whā they were come out of the synagoge * they entred into p house of Symon and Andrew, wyth James and John. But Simons mother in lawe laye sycke of a feuer. And anone they tell him of her. And he came, & toke her by the hande: & lifte her vp: & pmediatly p feuer forsoke hyr, & she mynistrd vnto the. And at euen when p sonne was downe, they brought vnto him all that were dysleasid, and them that were vexed with deuyls. And all the cytie was gathered to gether at p doze, & he healed many that were sycke of dyuers diseases, & cast out many deuyls, & suffered not the deuyls to speake, because they knewe him.

And in the mornynge very early, Jesus (whan he was rylen vp) departed, and wēt out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with hym, folowed after hym. And when they had founde him, they saye vnto him: all men seke for the. And he sayd vnto them: let vs go into the next townes, that I maye preach there also: for therfore am I come. And he preached in their synagoges, in all Galile, and cast the deuyls out.

* And ther came a leper to him, beseechynge hym, and knelyng downe, and sayeg vnto him, p thou wilt, thou cannest make me cleane. And Jesus had compassion on hym, & puth forth his hande, touched hym, & sayeth vnto him: I wyll, be thou cleane. And asone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosy departed fro him, and he sent him awaye forth with, and sayeth vnto hym. * Se thou saye nothyng to any mā: but get the hence, & we thy selfe to the pzeaste, and offer for thy clensinge, those thinges whych Moses commaunded, for a witnesse vnto them. But he (asone as he was departed) beganne to tell many thinges, and to publyshe the sayenge: in so much that Jesus coulde nomore openly entre into the cytie, but was with out in desert places. And they came to hym from euery quarter.

The ij. Chapter.

The healeth the man of the p lyse, calleth Leui the customar, eateth wyth open synners, and cures the dysyples.

After a fewe dayes also, he entred into Capernaum agayne, and it was noyfed p he was in the house. And anone many were gathered together, in so much that now there was no roome to receaue them, no not so moche as about the doze. And he preached the worde vnto them. * And they came vnto him, bringynge one sycke of p palyse whych was borne of fowre men. And when they coulde not come nye vnto him for pzeale, they vncouered the rofe of the house that he was in. And whē they had broken vp the rofe, they dyd (wyth coardes) let downe the bed wherin the sycke of the palyse laye. When Jesus sawe their fawth, he sayde vnto the sycke of the palyse: * sonne thy synnes be forgiven the.

But ther were certayne of the scribes spyttynge there, & thynkyng in their hertes: why doth he speake thus blasphemys? * who can forgene synnes, but God onely? And immediatly when Jesus perceaued in his spete, that they so thought wyth in them selues, he sayeth vnto them: why thynke ye soch thinges in youre hertes? Whether is it clayer to saye to the sycke of the palyse: thy synnes be forgiven the: or to saye, arise, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power in earth to forgene synnes, he spake vnto the sycke of the palyse: I saye vnto the: * arise, and take vp thy beed, and get the hense vnto thyn house. And immediatly he arose, toke vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so much that they were all amazed, & glorified God, sayinge: we neuer sawe it on this fallpon.

* And he went agayne vnto the see, & all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe Leui the sonne of Alphe, spyttynge at the recepte of custome, and sayde vnto hi: folowe me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that whan Jesus late at meate in his house, many publicans and synners late also together at meate wyth Jesus and his disciples. For there were many, p folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharises sawe him eate with publicans and synners, they sayde vnto his disciples: how happeneth it, that he eateth & dryncketh wyth publicans and synners,

¶ And he entred agayne into the synagoge, and ther was a ma there whych had a wythred hande. And they watched hym, whether he wolde heale hym on the Sabbath daye, that they myght accuse hym. And he sayde vnto the man whych had the wythred hande: aryse, and stāde in the middes. And he sayth vnto them, whether is it lawfull to do good on the Sabbath dayes, or to do euill? to saue lyfe, or to kyll? But they helde their peace. And whan he had looked round aboute on them, wyth anger, mournynge on the byndnes of their hertes, he sayeth to the mā, stretch forth thine hande. And he stretched it out. * And hys hande was restored, euen as whole as the other. ✠

* And the Pharisees departed, & dreyght waye gathered a councell (with them that belonged to herode) agaynst hym, that they myght destroye him. But Iesus answered wth his disciples to the see. * And a greete multitude folowed hym from Galile: and from Iurie, and from Ierusalem, and from Idumea, and from beyonde Iordane, & and they dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a greete multitude of mē: whych (whē they had herde what thinges he dyd) came vnto hym.

For he had healed many, in somoch that they preased vpon him, for to touch him, as many as had plagues. And when the vncleane spetes sawe him, they fell downe before him, & cryed, sayinge: thou art the sonne of God. And he stravelly charged them, that they shuld not make him knowne.

¶ And he went vp into a mountayne, & called vnto hym whom he wolde, and they came vnto him. * And he ordeyned the twelue that they shuld be with him, and y^e he myght sende the forth to preach: & that they myght haue power to heale synnfullnes, & to cast out deuyls. And he gaue vnto Symon to name, Peter. And he called James the sonne of zebede and Iohn, James brother, and gaue the to name Boanarges, whych is to saye, the sonnes of thonder. And there gathered together vnto him moch people, so greatly that he entred into a ship, & ad sat in the see, and all the people was by the see syde on the thore. And he taught them many thinges by parables, and sayde vnto them in his doctrine: Herken to: beholde, * there went out a sower to sow. And it fountuned as he sowed, that some fell by y^e waye syde, and the fowles of the ayre came, and deuoured it vp: Some fell on stony grounde where it had not mocherth: and immediatly sprāge vp, because it had not depth of erth: but as sone as the sonne was vp, it caught heat: & because it had not rotyng, it wydded awaye.

¶ And some fell amonge thornes, & y^e thornes grew vp, and choked it, and it gaue no frute. And some fel vpon good grounde, and dyd yelde frute that sprong vp, and grewe, and brought forth, some thyrty folde, and some fyrty folde, and some an hundred folde. The. v. Chapter.

Christe deliuereth the possessed from the vncleane spete: the woman in from the bloudye issue, and raiseth the captaynes daughter.

And they cam * ouer to the other syde of the see into the countre of p Sadarenites. And when he was come out of the shippe, immediatly there met hym out of the graues a man possessed of an vncleane spete, whych had hys abydinge amonge the graues. And no man coulde bynde him: no not with cheynes, because that when he was often boinde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the chaynes a sundre, and brake the fetters in peces, neither coulde eny man tame hi. And alwayes, nyght and dape he was in the mountaynes and in the graues, cryeng and beatyng hym selfe wyth stones. But when he had spyed Iesus a farre off, heranne, and worshipped hym, and cryed with a loude voyce and sayde: what haue I to do wyth the? Iesus thou sonne of p moost hyest God: I requyre the in the name of God that thou tozmet me not. for he sayd vnto hym: come out of the man thou foule spete. And he asked hym: what is thy name? And he answered and sayde vnto hym: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayd hym instantly, that he wolde not sende them awaye out of the countre.

But ther was there nye vnto the mountayns * a greate heerd of swyne fedynge, & all p deuyls besought him, sayinge: sende vs in to the heerd of swyne, that we maye enter into the. And anone Iesus gaue them leaue. And the vncleane spetes went out, and entered in to p swyne. And p heerd was caried headlyng into the see. They were allmost .ij. and were drowned in p see. And p swyne herdes fled, and tolde it in the cytie, and in the felde. And they went out for to se, what had happened: & came to Iesus, and sawe him p was vexed with the fende & had p Legion, spt, both clothed and in his ryght mynde, and they were afrayed. And they p sawe it tolde them, how it had happened to him that was possessed wyth the deuyl: & also of p swyne.

And they beganne to praye hym, that he wolde departe out of their coast. * And when he was come into the shippe, he p had the deuyl, prayed hym, that he myght be w him. howbeit, Iesus wolde not suffre hym, but sayde vnto him: go to thyne awne house and to thy frendes, and shewe the how great thynges the Lorde hath done for p, and how he hath had compassyon on the. And he departed, & beganne to publyshe in the ten cytys, how greate thynges Iesus had done for hym, and all men dyd merueyle.

And when Iesus was come ouer agayne by shippe vnto the other syde, moch people gathered vnto him, and he was nye vnto the see. * And beholde, ther came one of the rulers of p Synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he sawe him, he fel downe at his fete, and besought hym greatly, sayinge: my daughter lyeth at poynt of deeth, I pray the come, and laye thy hande on her, that she maye be safe and lyue. And he wet with hym, & moch people folowed him, & thrōged hym.

* And ther was a certen woman, which had bene diseased of an ysue of bloude. xij. yerres, and had suffred many thynges of many physycions, & had spent all p she had, & felle none amendement at all, but rather was worste, and worste. Whē he had herde of Iesus, he came in p preasse behinde him, & touched his garment. For he sayde: yf I maye but touch his clothes, I shall be whole. And streyght waye the fountayne of her bloude was dryed vp, & she felt in her body, that she was healed of that plage.

And Iesus immediatly felynge in hi selfe, that vertue proceeded fro him, tourned him aboute in the preasse, and sayde, who touched my clothes? And hys dyscyples sayde vnto him: p seest the people thrust p, and askest, p who dyd touch me? And he looked round about for to se her that had done thys thyng. But the woman fearing and trebling (knowyng what was done wyth in her) came, and fell downe before him, & tolde him all the truth. And he sayd vnto her: Daughter * thy fayth hath saued the: go in peace, and be whole of thy plage.

* Whyll he yet spake, ther came fro the ruler of the Synagoges house, certayne which sayd: thy daughter is deed: why distepest p? & waster any further? Allone as Iesus heard the worde that was spoken, he sayde vnto the ruler of p Synagoge: be not afrayed, onely beleue. And he suffred no man to folowe him, save Peter, and James, and John the brother of James. * And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagoge, and sawe the wondryng: and them that wepte and wayled greatly, and went in, and sayde vnto the: why make ye this a doo, and wepe? The damosell is not deed, but slepeth. And they laught him to scozne. But he put them all out, and taketh the father and the mother of the damosell, and them that were wyth him, and entreth in where the damosell laye, & taketh the damosell by the hande, & sayeth vnto hyr: Tabita, cumi: whych is (yf one do interprete it) damosell, I saye vnto p: aryse. The. vi. Chapter.

Christe sendeth hys Apostles to heale them that were diseased. Of John & Herode. Of the. v. loues and. ij. spes. And of the walkyng on the see.

And he departed thence, & cam into hys awne countre, and hys dyscyples folowed hym. And when the Sabboth dape was come, he beganne to teache in the synagoge. And many that hearde hym were astonyed, and sayd: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wysdome is thys that is geuen vnto hym: and suche vertues p are wrought by hys handes? Is not thys the carpenter Marpes sonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Juda & Symon? & are not hys sisters here wyth vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus sayd vnto the: * a Prophet is not despysed, but i hys awne countre, and amonge hys awne kynne, and in his owne household. And he coulde there shewe no myracle, but layde hys handes vpo a fewe sycke folcke, and healed them, and merueyled, because of theyr vnbelefe.

* And he went aboute by the townes that laye on euery syde, teaching. * And he called the twelue, and beganne to sende them forth two & two, and gaue the power agaynst vncleane spetes. And commaunded the, that they shuld take nothing in their iorney: & saue a rodde onely: no scrippe, no bread, no money i theyr pourse, but shuld be shod w sandals. And that they shuld not put on two cootes. And he sayde vnto the: whersoener ye entre i to an house, there abide, tyll ye departe thence. * And whosoener shall not receaue you nor heare you, whē ye departe thence, shake of y duste that is vnder youre fete, for a witness vnto them. * I sape verely vnto you: it shalbe easier for zodom & Gomor in the dape of iudgement, then for that cytie. * And they wet out & preached, that men shuld repent: & they cast out many deuyls: & annoynted many p were sycke wyth oyle, and healed them.

* And kynge Herode hearde of hym (for hys name was spred abroade) and he sayde: John Baptyste is rylen agayne fro p decd, & therfore myacles are wrought by hi. Wether sayd it is helyas: some sayd: it is a prophet, as one of the Prophetes. But when Herode hearde of hym, he sayde: it is John whom I beheaded, he is rylen from deeth agayne. * For Herode hym selfe had sent forth men of warre, and layed handes vpon John, and boide hym, & cast hym into prelson for Herodias sake, hys brother Phylippes wyfe (because he had maryed her). For John sayde vnto Herode. * It is not lawfull for p to haue thy brothers wyfe. Herodias layd wayte for hym, and wolde haue kylled him, but she coulde not. For Herod feared John, knowig that he was a iust mā & an holy: & gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he dyd many thynges, and hearde hym gladly.

And when a couenient dape was come, p Herode on hys * byrth dape, made a supper to p lordes hys captayns, & chefe estatcs of Galile: & whā p daughter of the same Herodias cam in, & daunced, & pleased Herode & the that sate at bourde also: the kynge sayde vnto p damosell: aske of me what thou wilt, and I wyll geue it the. * And he swore vnto hyr: whatsoeuer p shalt aske of me, I wyll geue it p, euen vnto p one halfe of my kynge-dome. And she went forth, & sayde vnto her mother: what shall I aske? she sayd: John Baptistes head. And she cā i streyght waye wyth haste vnto p kynge. & asked, sayinge: I wyll, p thou geue me by and by in a charger, the heed of John Baptyst. And p kynge was forp: howbeit for hys othes sake, and for theyr sakes whych sate at supper also, he wolde not cast her off. And immediatly the kynge sent the hangman, and commaunded hys head to be brought in. And he went, and beheaded hym in the prelson, and brought his head in a charger, and gaue it to the damosell, and the damosell gaue it to her mother. And when hys dyscyples hearde of it, they came, and toke vp hys body, and layed it in a graue.

And the Apostles gathered the felues together vnto Iesus, and told hym all thynges both what they had done, and what they had taught. And he sayd vnto the: * come ye alone out of p waye into the wyldernes, & rest a whyle. For there were many commers, and goers, and they had no leasure so moch as to eate. * And he went by ship out of the waye into a deserte place. And the people spyed the when they departed: & many knewe hym, & rānc a fote thither out of all cyties, and cam thither before the, and came together vnto hym. And Iesus wet out & sawe moche people, & had cōpassyon on the, because they were lyke shepe, not hauinge a shepheard. And he beganne to teach the many thynges.

* And when p dape was now farre spent, hys dyscyples came vnto hym, sayinge: thys is a deserte place, and now the tyme is farre passed, let them departe, that they maye go into the countrey round about, and into the townes, & bye them bread: for they haue no thyng to eate. He answered and layd vnto them, geue ye them to eate. And they sayde vnto hi: Shall we go & bye two hundred pennyworth of bread, & geue the to eate? he sayde vnto the: * how many loaves haue ye. So they loke. And whē they had searched, they sayd: fyue & two fylfhes. And he comaunded them, to make them all fyt doune by cōpanyes vpo the grene grasse. And they late doune here arowe and there arowe, by hundreides ad by fyfties. And whā he had taken the fyue loanes and the two fylfhes, ad loked vp to heauen, he blessed and brake the loanes, and gaue them to hys discyples, to set befoze the: & the two fylfhes deuided he amōg them all. And they all dyd eate, and were satysfied. And they toke vp twelue baskettes full ther of, ad of the fylfhes. And they that dyd eate, were about fyue thousand men.

Ec fyue and

* And streyght waye he caused his discyples to go into the thyppe, and to go ouer the see befoze vnto Bethsayda, whyle se set a waye the people. * And as lone as he had sent them awaye, he departed into a mountayne to pray. * And whē eue was come, the thyppe was in the myddes of the see, and he alone on the lande, & he sawe them troubled in rowynge, for the wynde was cōtrary vnto them. And aboute the fourth watch of the nyght, he came vnto them, walkynge vpon the see, ad wolde haue passed by the. But whē they sawe hym walkynge vpo the see, they supposed it had bene a spete, & cryed out: for they all sawe hym, and were afrayed. And anone he talked wpyth them, and sayd vnto them: be of good cheare, it is I, be not afrayed. * And he went vp vnto them into the thyppe, & the wynde ceased, & they were fore amaled in the felues beyōde measure, and marueyled. For they remembred not of the loanes, because their herte was blynded.

And whan they were ouer the water, they came into the lande of Genezareth & due vnto the haue, And as lone as they were come out of the thyppe, streyght waye they knewe him, and ranne forth throug out all the regyon rounde about, & began to cary about in beddes those that were sycke, when they heard that he was there. And whyther soeuer he entred, into townes, cytyes, or vyllages, they layde the sycke folkes in the streetes, & prayed hym that they myght touche, & it were but the hēme of hys vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe.

The vij. Chapter.

The discyples & the people with vnyuersal hands. The comaundment of God is transgressed by manye tradicions. Of the woman of Syrophenicia. Of the Sabbath.

And the Pharyses came together vnto hym, & dyuers of the Scribes whych came fro Jerusalem. And when they sawe certayne of his discyples eate bread wpyth comen (that is to saye, with vnyuersal) hands, they complayned. For the Pharyses and all the Jewes, excepte they wash their handes ofte, eate not, obseruyng the tradicions of the elders. And when they come fro the market, except they washe, they eate not. And many other thynges there be, whych they haue taken vpon the to obserue, as the waschyng of cuppes and cruses, and, brasen vessels, and of tables.

Then asked hym the Pharyses & Scribes: why walke not thy discyples accordyng to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but eate bread wpyth vnyuersal handes? He answered & sayd vnto the: well prophelyed Elayas of you, ypocrytes, as it is wyrtten: * Thys people honoreth me wpyth theyr lippes, but theyr herte is farre fro me: howbeit, iwayne do they serue me, teachyng the doctrines ad comaundemētes of me. For ye laye the comaundment of God aparte, & obserue the constitucyōs of me, as the washinge of cruses & of cuppes, ad many other such lyke thynges ye do.

And he sayde vnto the: well, ye cast a syde the comaundemēt of God, to mayntayne poure a wne constitucyōs. * For Moyses sayd: honoure thy father & thy mother: & whoso curseth father or mother, let him dye the death. But ye saye: a mā shall saye to father or mother, Corban: whych is: what gyfte soeuer cometh fro me, shalbe for thy profyt. And so ye suffre him no more to do ought for hys father or his mother, and make the word of God of none effecte, throug poure a wne constitucyon whych ye haue ordeyned. And many such thynges do ye.

And whan he had called all the people vnto hym, he sayde vnto the: herken vnto me, euery one of you, and vnderstande. * There is no thyng wpyth out a man that can defyle him, whē it entreth into him: but the thynges whych proceade out of a man, those are they that defyle the man. If eny man haue cares to heare, let hym heare. And when he came in to the house awaye from the people, his discyples asked him of the similitude. And he sayd vnto the: are ye also so greatly wpyth out vnderstandinge? Do ye not yet perceaue, what soeuer thyng come from wout, entreth in to a mā, it can not defyle hi, because it entreth not into his herte but into the bely: & goeth out into the draught, pourgyng out all meates?

And he sayde: that whych cometh out of a man defyleth the man. For from wpyth in, euen out of the herte of men proceade euyl thoughtes, aduouty, fornicacyon, murder, theft, couetousnes, fraude, deceyte, vncleynes, a wycked eye, blasphemyes, pryde, folyshnes: all these euyl thynges come fro w in, and defyle a man. * And from thence he rose, & went into the borders of Tyre & Sidon: & entred into an house, & wolde that no mā shuld haue knowe. But he could not be hyd. For a certayne woman (whose daughter had a foule spete) as soone as she heard of hym, came, and fell at hys fete. The woman was a Greke out of the nacyn of Syrophenicia, & she besought besought him, that he wolde cast out the deuyll from her daughter. But Iesus sayd vnto her: let the chylidren fyrst be fedd. For it is not mete, to take the chylidrens bread, and to cast it vnto whelpes. She answered & sayde vnto hym: euen so lord, & neuerthelesse, the whelpes also eat vnder the table of the chylidrens cromes. And he sayde vnto her: for thys sayinge go thy waye, the deuyll is gone out of thy daughter. And when she was come home to her house, she founde that the deuyll was departed, and her daughter lyng on the bedd.

* And he departed agayne fro the coastes of Tyre and Sidon, and came vnto the see of Galile theozow the myddes of the coastes of the tencyties. * And they brought vnto him one that was deaffe ad had an impediment in hys speche, and they prayd hym to put his hande vpo him. And when he had taken hym asyde from the people, he put hys fyngers into hys eares, and dyd spyt, & touched hys tonge, and loked vp to heauen, and syghed, and sayde vnto hym: Ephata, that is to saye, be opened. And stryght waye his eares were opened, and the string of his tounge was lowed, and he spake playne. * And he comaunded the, that they shulde tell no man. But the more he forbade them, so moch the more a greate deale they published, sayng: he hath done all thynges well, he hath made both the deaffe to heare, and the dome to speake.

The miracle of the seuen loaves. The Pharyses alke a sygne. The leuen of the Pharyses. The blynde receaueth hys sight.

And those dayes * whē ther was a very great company, and had no thyng to eate. Iesus called his discyples to him, and sayde vnto them: I haue compassion on the people, because they haue nowe bene w me thre dayes, and haue nothing to eate: and yf I sende the awaye fastyng to theyr a wne houses, they shall faynt by the waye. * For diuers of them came from farre. And his discyples answered hym: where shulde a man haue bread here in the wyldernes to satysfy the? And he asked them: how many loaves haue ye? They sayde: seuen. And he comaunded the people to fyt doune on the grounde. And he toke the seuen loaves, & whan he had genen thanckes, he brake, and gaue to hys discyples, to set befoze them. And they did set them befoze the people. And they had a fewe small fylfhes. And whan he had blessed, he comaunded them also to be sett befoze them. And they dyd eate, and were satisfied. And they toke vnto the broken meate that was left seuen baskettes full. And they that dyd eate: were about foure thousande.

And he sent them awaye.

And anone he entred into a thyp with his disciples, and came into the parties of Dalmanutha. * And the Pharyses came forth, and beganne to dispute with hym, sekynge of hym a sygne from heauen, tēptyng hym. And whan he had syghed in hys spete, he sayeth: why doth thys generacyon seke a sygne? Verely I saye vnto you, there shall no sygne be geuen vnto thys generacyon. And he left them, and went into the ship agayne, and departed ouer the water.

And they had forgotten to take bread w them, nether had they in the thyp with them more then one loafe. And he charged them, saying. * Take hede, beware of the leuen of the Pharises, and of the leuen of herode. And they reasoned amonge them selues sayenge: We haue no bread. And Iesus knewe it, and saith vnto the: why take ye thought, because ye haue no bread: perceaue ye not yet nether vnderstande? Haue ye poure hert yet blynded? Haue ye eyes, and se not: and haue ye eares, and heare not? Do ye not also remēbre? * When I brake fyue loanes among fyue thousande men, how many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye vp? They saye vnto him, twelue. * When I brake seuen among foure thousand, how many baskettes of the leauynge of the broken meate toke ye vp? They sayd: seue. And he sayd vnto the: how happeneth it that ye do not vnderstande?

* And he came to Bethsayda, and they brought a blinde man vnto hym, and desired hym to touche him. And he caught the blynde by the hand, and lead him out of the towne: and whan he had spyt in his eyes, ad put his handes vpo him, he asked him yf he sawe ought. And he loked vp, & sayd: I se the men: for I perceaue the walke, as they were trees. After that, he put hys handes agayne vpon hys eyes, and made hym se. And he was restored, and sawe euery man clearly. And he sent him home to his house, sayng: nether go into the towne, ner tel it to eny in the towne.

* And Iesus went out, & hys discyples in to the townes that longe to the cytie called, Cesarca Philippi. And by the waye he asked his disciples, sayng vnto the: whom do me saye yf I am? And they answered: some saye, that thou art John baptist, & some saye, he lias. Agayne, some saye, that that thou arte one of the nobre of the pphetes. And he sayde vnto them: but whom saye ye yf I am? Peter answered & sayth vnto him: * thou art very Christ. And he charged the, that they shulde tell no mā of him. And he beganne to teach the: how that the sonne of mā must suffre many thynges, and be reproued of the elders, and of the hye prestes, and scribes, and be kylled, & after thre dayes aryse agayne. And he spake that sayinge openly. And Peter toke hym afide, and began to chide him. But he turned about, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying: Go after me Satan. For thou sauerest not the thinges that be of God, but the thynges that be of men.

* And when he had called the people vnto hym with his disciples also, he sayde vnto them. Whosoever wyll folowe me, lett hym forsake him self, and take vpon hym the crosse, and folowe me. For whosoever wil saue his life, shall lose it. But whosoever shall lose his life, for my sake & the gospells, the same shall saue it. For what shall it profit a man, if he wyne all the world, and lose his awne soule: or what shall a man geue to redeme his soule with all agayne? Whosoever therfore shall be ashamed of me & of my wordes, in this aduoutrous and synfull generation: of hym also shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glorie of his father with the holy angels.

The ix. Chapter.

The transfiguration. The lunatyke dyshealed. The dysputacion who shulde be the greatest. Discourses are folowynge.

And he sayd vnto them: Verely, I saye vnto you: * Ther be some among thes that stande here, which shall not taste of death, tyll they haue sene the kyngdome of God come with power.

* And after sixe dayes Jesus taketh Peter and James, and John, and leedeth them vpon into an hye mountayne out of the waye alone: and he was transfigured before them. And his rayment byd shyne, and became very whyte, euens as snowe: so whyt as no fuller can make vpon the earth. And there appeared vnto the Elias with Moses. And they talked with Iesu. And Peter answered & sayth to Iesu: Master, here is good beyng for vs: let vs make also. iij. tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. For he wylt not what he sayd: for they were afraied. And there was a cloude that shadowed them. And a voyce came out of the cloude, saying: * This is my beloued sonne: heare hym. And sodenly whan they had looked rounde aboute, they sawe no man moze then Jesus onely with them.

* And as they came downe fro the hyll, he charged them, that they shuld tell no man those thynges that they had sene, tyll the sonne of man were rplen fro death agayne. And they kepte that sayeng with them, and demaunded one of another, what the rplyng from death agayne shulde meane. And they asked hym, sayinge: why then saye the scribes, that Elias must first come? he answered and sayd: vnto the: * Elias verely when he cometh fyrst, restozeth all thynges. And the sonne of man (as it is wryten of hym) shall suffre many thynges, & be sett at naught. But I saye vnto you, that Elias is come, and they haue done vnto hym whatsoeuer they wolde, as it was wryten of hym.

* And whā he came to his disciples, he sawe moch people about them, & the scribes dysputing w them. And streight waye all the people (whā they behelde hym) were amased, & ran to hym, & saluted hym. And he asked the scribes: what dispute ye amōg thes? * And one of the company answered, & sayde: Master, I haue brought vnto my sone, whych hath a dome sprete. And whensoeuer he taketh hym, he teareth hym, and he someth, and gnaweth with his teth, and pineth awaye. And I spake to thy disciples that they shuld caste hym out, and they coulde not.

He answereth him, and sayth: O faithles nation, how longe shall I be w you? how longe shall I suffice you? Bynge hym vnto me. And they brought hi vnto hym. And as sone as the sprete sawe hym, he tare hi. And he fell downe on the ground, walowing & foming. And he asketh his father: how longe is it ago: sene this happened hym? And he sayde: of a chylde: & oft tymes it hath cast hym into the fyre, & into the water, to destrope hym. But if thou canst do eny thing, haue mercy on vs and helpe vs. Jesus sayd vnto hym: if thou couldest beleue * all thynges are possyble to hym that beleueth. And streyght waye the father of the chylde cried with teares, sayeng, Lord, I beleue, helpe thou myne vnbelefe.

When Jesus sawe the people came runnyng together vnto him, he rebuked the foule sprete, saying vnto hym: Thou dome & deest sprete, I charge the come out of him, and entre nomoze into him. And the sprete (whā he had cried, & rent hym sore) came out of hym, and he was as one that had bene dead, in so moch that many sayd: he is deed. But Jesus caught his hand, and lyft him vp: and he rose. And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked hym secretly: why coulde not we cast hym oute? And he sayde vnto them: this kynde can come forth by nothing: but by prayer and fastynge.

* And they departed thens, & toke theyr iorney thozow Galile, and he wold not, that eny man shuld knowe it. For he taught his disciples, and sayd vnto them: * the sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the handes of me, and they shall kyl hym: and after that he is kylled, he shall aryse agayne the thyrde dawe. But they wylt not what he sayde, and were afraied to aske him. And he came to Capernaum. And whē he was come into the house, he asked the: what was it ye dysputed among your selues by the waye? And they helde their peace: for by the waye they had reasoned among them selues, who shuld be the cheffest. And when he was set downe, he called the twelve to hym, and sayd vnto the: if eny man desyre to be fyrst, the same shalbe last of all, and seruaunt to all. * And he toke a chylde, and set hym in the myddes of the: & when he had taken hym in his armes, he sayde vnto them: whosoever receaueth eny soche a childe in my name, receaueth me. And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth not me, but hym that sent me.

John answered hym, sayinge: * Master, we sawe one cast out denyis in thy name, & he foloweth not vs: ad we forbade hym, because he foloweth vs not. But Jesus sayde: forbyd him not. For * ther is no man whych (if he do a myracle in my name) can lyghtly speake euill of me. For he is not agaynst vs, is on oure parte. * Whosoever shall in my name geue you a cuppe of water to drinke, because ye belonge to Chryste, verely I saye vnto you: he shall not lose his reward.

* And whosoever shall offende one of these lytelos, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, if a myllstone were hanged aboute his necke, and he were cast into the see. * Wherefore if thy hande hynder the, cut it of. It is beter for the, to entre into lyfe maimed, then (haupnge two handes) to go into hell, into fyre that neuer shalbe quenched, where theyr worne dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And if thy fote be a hynderaunce vnto the, cut it of. It is beter for the to go halt into lyfe, then (haupnge two fete) to be cast into hell, into fyre that neuer shalbe quenched: where theyr worne dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. * And if thyne eye hinder the, plucke it out. It is beter for the to go into the kyngdome of God wyth one eye, then (haupnge two eyes) to be cast into hell fyre: where theyr worne dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out.

* Every man shalbe salted wyth fyre. * And euery sacrifice shalbe seasoned with salt. * Salt is good. But if the salt be vnseasony, what shall ye season ther wyth? haue salt in youre selues: and haue peace amonge youre selues, one wyth another.

The x. Chapter.

The deuocement. The chryche manne sheweth with Chryst. Of the sonnes of israhel. Warthymus the blynde man.

And whan he rose from thence, he went into the coastes of Turye thzough the regyon that is beyonde Jordan: And the people resorted vnto hym a frethe. And as he was wont, he taught them agayne. And the Pharyses came, and asked hym. Is it lawfull for a man to put awaye his wyfe: to proue hym. And he answered, and sayd vnto the: * what dyd Moses byd you do: and they sayde, Moses suffered to wryte a testimonall of deuocement, and to put her awaye. And Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: For the hardnes of your herte he wrote this precept vnto you. But at the fyrst creacyon. * God made them man and woman. Therfore shall a man leaue his father & mother, & byde by his wyfe, & they twayne shalbe one fleche. So then are they now not twayne, but one fleche. Therfore, what God hath coupled together let not man separate.

And in the house his disciples asked him againe of the same matter. And he sayeth vnto them. * Whosoever putteth awaye his wyfe, & marryeth another, breaketh wedlocke to her warde. And if a woman forsake her husband, and be marryed to another, she commytteth aduoutre. * And they brought chyl dren to hym, that he shulde touch them. And his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus sawe it, he was dyspleased & sayd vnto them: Suffer the chyl dren to come vnto me, forbyd them not. For of such is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you, whosoever doth not receaue the kyngdome of God as a childe, he shal not entre therein. And whā he had taken the vpon in his armes, he put his handes vpon them, and blessed them.

* And when he was gone forth into the waye, ther came one runnyng and kniled to hym, & asked hym: * good master, what shal I do, that I maye enheret eternall lyfe? Jesus sayde vnto hym: why callest thou me good? There is none good, but one, which is God. Thou knowest the comaundementes: bycaus he not matrimony: kyll not: scale not, beare no false wytnes: defraude no man: honoure thy father and mother. He answered ad sayd vnto hym: Master, all these I haue obserued from my yowth. Jesus behelde hym, and fauoured hym, and sayd vnto hym: one thyng thou lackest. * So thy waye. Sell that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folowe me. And he took vpon hym the crosse vpon his shulders. But he was dyscorted because of that sayinge, and went awaye mournyng for he had great possessyons.

And whā Jesus had looked rounde aboute, he sayde vnto his disciples. * How vncaspe shall they haue money: entreit to the kyngdome of God. And the disciples were astonnyed at his wordes. But Jesus answereth againe, & sayeth vnto the: chyl dre, how harde is it for the, that trust in money, to entre into the kyngdome of God? It is easer for a camel to go thzow the eye of an nedle, then for the chryche to entre into the kyngdome of God. And they were astonnyed out of measure, sayinge betwene them selues: who then can be saued? Jesus looked vpon them, and sayd. With me it is vnpossible, but not with God: for * with God all thynges are possyble.

And Peter began to saye vnto hym: Lo: * we haue

But Jesus sayd vnto them: Ye wote not what ye aske: Can ye dryncke of the cup, that I dryncke of: and be baptysed wylth the baptyme, that I am baptysed with? And they sayde vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayde vnto them: ye shall in dede dryncke of the cup that I dryncke of: ad wylth þe baptyme that I am baptysed wylth all, shall ye be baptysed in: but to syt on my ryght hande & on my lyfte hande, is not myne to geue, but it shall happe vnto them, for whom it is prepared.

But he cryed the more a greates deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode styll, ad commaunded hym to be called: And they called þe blynde, sayinge vnto hym: Be of good comferte: ryse, he calleth the. And he threwe a waye hys cloke, and rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blynde sayde vnto hym: Master, that I myght se. Jesus sayde vnto hym: go thy waye, thy fayth hath saued the. And immediately he receaued hys sight, & folowed Jesus in the waye.

After two dayes was Easter, and the dayes of sweetebreed. And y^e hye Priestes ad y^e Scribes sought, how they myght take hym by craft, & put him to deeth. But they sayde: not in the feast daye, lest any busynes arysle amonge the people. And whan he was at Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, euen as he sate at meate, ther cam a woman hauyng an alabaster boxe of oymntment, called Marde, that was pure and costly: & she brake the boxe, & powred it on his heed. And Iesus sayde: lett her alone, why trouble ye her: she hath done a good worke on me. For ye haue poore w^{ch} you all wayes: & when soeuer ye wyl, ye maye do them good: but me haue ye not alwayes. She hath done y^e she coude: she came a fore hande, to anoynt my body to y^e buryng. Merely I saue vnto you: wheresoeuer this Gospell shalbe preached thowout the whole worlde: this also that she hath done, shalbe rehearsed in remembrance of her.

And Judas Iscariot, one of y^e twelve went awaye vnto y^e hye Priestes, to betraye him vnto them. When they herde that, they were glad, and promysed that they wolde geue hym money. And he sought, how he myght conveniently betraye him.

And the fyrste daye of sweetebreed, when they offered Pasche, his disciples sayd vnto hi: where wylt thou that we go & prepare, that thou mayest cate the Pasche. And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, & sayeth vnto the: Go ye into y^e cite, & ther shal mete you a man bearing a pitcher of water, folowe hi. And whither soeuer he goeth in, saue ye to y^e good mā of y^e house, y^e master sayeth: where is the gress chābre, where I shall cate pasche with my disciples: And he wyl shewe you a grete parlour, paved and prepared: there make ready for vs. And his disciples went forth, and came into the cite, and founde as he had sayde vnto them: and they made ready the Pasche.

And whan it was now euenyde he came with the xij. And as they sate at borde & dyd cate Iesus sayde: Merely I saue vnto you: one of you (yeateth with me) shal betraye me. And they beganne to be forie, & to saye to him one by one: is it I? And another sayde:

Moreover, when ye se y^e abhominacion of desolacion (wherof is spoken by Daniel y^e prophet) stand where it ought not: lett hym y^e readeth vnderstand. Then lett the that be in Turpe, fflye to the mountaynes. And lett hym that is on the house toppe, not go downe into the house, nether entre therein, to fetch eny thing out of his house. And lett hym that is in the felde, not tourne backe agayne vnto the thinges which he left behynde him, for to take his clothes with him. Wo shall be then to them that are with chylde, and to them that geue sucke in those dayes. But praye ye that poure flyght be not in the winter. For ther shalbe in those dayes suche tribulacion, as was not from the begynnyng of creatures (which God created) vnto this tyme, nether shalbe. And excepte that y^e Lord shuld shortē those dayes no fleshe shulde be saued. But for the electes sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened those dayes.

And then, y^e eny man saue to you, lo he is Christ: lo, he is there, beleue not. For falsse Christes & falsse prophetes shal rylse, & shal shewe myracles & wondrous, to deceaue y^e fit were possible, euen the electe. But take ye hede: behold, I haue shewed you all thinges before.

Moreover, in those dayes, after that tribulaciō, the sonne shal were darke, and the mone shal not geue her light, & the starres of heauen shal fall: & the powers which are in heauen, shal moue: & then shal they se the sonne of man commynge in the cloudes, w^{ch} grete power & glory. And then shal he sende his angels, & shal gather together his electe frō the fourre wyndes, from the ende of the erthe, to the vtremost parte of heauen.

¶ Learne a symilitude of the fygge tree. When his brautche is yet tender, and hath brought forth leaues, ye knowe, y^e somer is nere. So ye in lyke maner: when ye se these thynges come to passe: vnderstand, that he is nye euen at y^e doores. Merely I saue vnto you, that thys generaciō shal not passe, tyll these thinges be done. heauen and erth shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. But of that daye & tyme knoweth no man: no not y^e Angels which are in heauen: & nether the sonne him selfe: saue the father only.

¶ Take hede, watche & praye, for ye knowe not when the tyme is. As a mā which is gone into a straunge contrey, & hath left his house, and geuen his substaunce to his seruantes, and to euery man his worke, and commaunded the porter to watche. Watche ye therfore, for ye knowe not whē the master of the house will come, at euen, or at mydnyght, whether at the cocke crowyng, or in y^e dawnyng: lest y^e he come sodenly, he finde you slepyng. And that I saue vnto you, I saue vnto all. watche.

The. xij. Chapter.

The ende of the worlde. The daye and the houre is vnknewen.

And as he went out of the temple, & one of his disciples sayde vnto hym: Master. se what stones, and what byldynges are here. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Seest thou these grete byldynges: There shal not be left one stone vpon another, that shal not be thowen downe. And as he sate on mounte Olyuete, ouer agaynst the temple, Peter, and James, and John, and Andzew, asked hym secretly: tell vs, when shal these thynges be? And what is the sygne when all these thynges shalbe fulfilled? And Iesus answered them, and began to saue: take hede, lest any mā deceaue you. For many shal come in my name sayynge: I am Christ, and shal deceaue many.

When ye shal heare of warres, and tydinges of warres, be ye not troubled. For soch thynges must nedes be: But the ende is not yet. For ther shal nacyō arylse agaynst nacyō, and kyngdome agaynst kyngdome. And ther shalbe ceth quakes in all quarters, and famylment shal ther be, and troubles. These are y^e begynnynges of sorowes. But take ye hede to poure selues. For they shal byngne you vnto the counsels, and into the synagoges, and ye shalbe beaten: yee, and shalbe brought before rulers and kinges for my sake, for a testimoniall vnto the. And the Gospell must fyrste be published amonge all nacyns.

¶ But whē they leade you and present you, take ye no thought, nether ymagin afozehande what ye shal saue: but what soeuer is geuen you in the same houre, that speake. For it is not ye y^e speake, but the holy ghoost. The brother shal deluyce vnto the brother to deeth, and the father the sonne: and the chylzen shal rylse agaynst the father & mothers, and shal put them to deeth. And ye shalbe hated of all men for my names sake. But whoso endureth vnto the ende, the same shalbe safe.

In the resurreccyon therfore when they shal rylse agayne: whose wyse shal be of the? For seuen had her to wyse. And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: Do ye not therfore erre, because ye vnderstande not the scriptures, nether the power of God: For whē they shal rylse agayne frō deeth, they nether marry, nor are marryed: but are as the angels, whych are in heauē. ¶ And whā ther came one of the Scribes, and had hearde them disputynge to gether (and perceaued that he had answered them well) he asked hym: whych is the fyrst of all the commaundementes? Iesus answered him, the fyrste of all the commaundementes is: heare O Israell: The Lorde oure God, is Lorde onely: And thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God with all thy hert, & wyth all thy soule, and wyth all thy mynde, and with all thy strength. This is the fyrste commaundement. And the seconde is lyke vnto thys: Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe. Ther is none other commaundment greater then these.

And the Scribe sayde vnto him: well master, thou hast sayd the truthe, for ther is one God, & ther is none but he. And to loue hym wyth all the herte, and wyth all the mynde, & wyth all the soule, & wyth all the strength: and to loue a mans neyghbour as hym selfe, is a greater thyng, then all burt offerynge and sacrifices. And when Iesus saue y^e he answered discretly, he sayde vnto hym: Thou art not farre from the kyngdome of God. And no man after that, durst aske hym any questyon.

And Iesus answered & sayde, teachynge in the tēple: how saue the Scribes y^e Christ is the sonne of Dauid: for Dauid him selfe inspyred w^{ch} y^e holy goost, sayd: The Lorde sayde to my Lorde, syt on my ryght hande tyll I make thynne enemyes thy fote stole. Dauid hi selfe calleth hi Lorde: & how is he then his sonne? And moche people hearde him gladly.

And he sayde vnto them in his doctrine: be ware of the Scribes, which loue to go in lōge clothynge: & loue salutaціōs in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregacyōs, ad the vppermost roundes at feastes: whych deuoure wydowes houses, ad vnder a pretence, make longe prayers. is it? He answered & sayd vnto them: It is one of the xij. euen he that dyppeth wyth me in the platter. The sonne of mā trulye goeth as it is wyrtten of him: but wot to that man by whom the sonne of mā is betrayed. Good were it for that man, if he had neuer bene bozne.

* And as they dyde eate, Iesus toke bread: and whan he had geuen thanks he brake it, and gaue to the, and sayde: Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke the cup, & when he had geuen thanks he toke it to them, & they all dranke of it. and he sayde vnto the: This is my bloude of the newe Testamēt, whych is shedd for many. Clerely I saye vnto you: I wyll dryncke nomore of the frute of the vyne: vntyll that daye, that I drinke it newe in the kyngdome of God. * And when they had sayde grace: they went out to mount Oliuete.

And Iesus sayeth vnto the: All ye shal be offended because of me this nyght. For it is wyrtten: * I wyll smyte the shepheard, & the shepe shal be scattered: But after that I am rysen agayne, I wyll go into Galyle before you. Peter sayde vnto him: And though all men be offended, yet wyll not I. But he spake more vehemently: no, yf I shulde dye with the, I wyll not denye the: I lyke wyse also sayde they all.

* And they came into a place which was named Gethsemani. And he sayeth to his disciples: Syt ye here, whyle I go alyde, and praye. And he taketh wyth him Peter & James & John, & began to waxe abashed, & to be in an agonye, & sayeth vnto them: * My soule is heuy, eue vnto the deeth, tarye here and wathe. And he went forth a lytle & fell downe flat on the grounde, & prayed: that yf it were possible, the houre myght passe fro him. And he sayde: * Abba father, all thynges are possible vnto the, take awaye this cup from me. Neuerthelesse, not that I will: but that thou wilt, be done.

And he cam & founde the slepyng, & sayeth to Peter: Simon, sleepest thou? Couldst not thou wathe one houre? wathe ye, & praye, lest ye entre into temptacion, the sperte trulye is ready, but the flesch is weake. * And agayne he went asyde, & prayde, and spake the same wordes. And he returned, & founde the a slepe agayne. For their eyes were heuy: neither wist they, what to answer him. And he came the thirde tyme & sayde vnto the: slepe hengs forth, and take youre ease, it is ynough. The houre is come, beholde, the sonne of mā is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse vp, let vs go. Lo, he that betraeth me, is at hande. * And immediatly whil he yet spake, cometh Judas (which was one of the twelue) & with him a greate number of people wyth sweardes and staves from the hye prestes and scribes & elders. And he that betrayed him, had geuen the a generall token, saying: whosoener I do kysse, that same is he: take him & leade him a waye warly. And as sone as he was come, he goeth streight waye to him, & sayeth vnto him: Master, Master, & kysed him: And they layde their handes on him, and toke him. And one of the that stode by, drew out a swearde, and smote a seruauit of the hye preste, & cut of his eare.

And Iesus answered & sayd vnto them: * ye be come out as vnto a shepe w sweardes & w staves, for to take me. I was daylye w you in the tēple, teachinge, & ye toke me not: but these thynges come to passe, that I scrip-tures shuld be fulfilled. * And they all forsoke him, & ranne awaye. And there folowed him a certayne younge man, clothed in lynnen vpon bare, & the yongmen caught him, & he lefte his linnen garment, & fled from the naked. * And they ledd Iesus awaye to the hyest preste of all & with him come all the hye prestes, & the elders, & the scribes. And Peter folowed him a greate waye of (euen tyll he was come into the palace of the hye preste) and he sat with the seruantes, and warmed him selfe at the fyre.

* And the hye prestes & all the counsell sought for witness agaynst Iesu, to put hym to deeth, & founde none: for many bare false witness agaynst hym, but their wytnesses agreed not together. And ther arose certayne, and brought false witness agaynst hym, sayinge. We herde him saye: * I will destroye this temple that is made wyth handes, and wyth in thre dayes I wyll buyde another, made without handes. But yet their wytnesses agreed not together.

* And the hye preste stode vp amongst them, and asked Iesus, sayinge: answerest thou thinge? how is it that these beare witness agaynst the? But he helde his peace, & answered nothing. Agayne * the hyeste preste asked him, & sayde vnto him: Art thou Christ the sonne of the blessed? And Iesus sayd: I am.

* And ye shall se the sonne of man sytting on the ryght had of power, & commyng in cloudes of heauen. Then the hye preste rent his clothes, & sayd: what nede we eny further of wytnesses? Ye haue heard blasphemie, what thinke ye? and they all condemned hym to be worthy of deeth. And some began to spit at him, & to couer his face, & to beate hi with fistes, & to saye vnto him, Areade: And the seruantes boffeted him on the face.

And as Peter was beneth in the palace ther cam one of the wēches of the hyest preste: * when she sawe Peter warminge hym self, she loketh on hym, & sayeth: wast not thou also,

The xv. Chapter.

Of the passion, death, and burfall of Christe.

And anone in the dawninge * the hye prestes helde a counsell w the elders & the scribes, & the whole congregacion, & bounde Iesus, & ledde him a waye, & deliuered him to Pilate. And Pilate asked him: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? And he answered, & sayd vnto hym: thou sayest it. And the hye prestes accused him of many thynges. So Pilate asked hi agayne, sayinge: * Answerest thou nothing? Beholde, how many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesus yet answered nothing, so that Pilate merueyled.

At that feast Pilate dyd delyuer vnto the a prisoner: whom soeuer they wolde desyre. And ther was one that was named Barababas, whych laye bounde with them that made insurreccyon: he had commytted murder. And the people called vnto him, and began to desyre him, that he wolde do, accordynge as he had euer done vnto them. Pilate answered them sayinge: Will ye that I let lowse vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? For he knewe, that the hye prestes had delyuered him of enuy. But the hye prestes moued the people, that he shulde rather delyuer Barababas vnto them.

Pilate answered agayne, and sayde vnto them: * What wyll ye then that I do vnto him, who ye call the kyng of the Jewes? And they cryed agayne: crucifye him: Pilate sayd vnto the, what euill hath he done? And they cryed the moare feruentlye: Crucifye hym: And so Pilate wyllinge to content the people, * let lose Barababas vnto them & delyuered vp Iesus (whan he had scourged hym) for to be crucified.

And the souldyers ledd him awaye into the comen hall, and called together the whole multitude, & they clothed him with purple, & they platted a crowne of thornes, & crowned him withall, & beganne to salute him: Hail kyng of the Jewes. And they smote hym, on the heed w a rede and dyd spitt vpon hym & bowed their knes, & worshipped hym.

And whē they had mocked him, they toke the purple of hym, & put his awne clothes on him, & ledde hym out, to crucifye him. * And they compellid one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (the father of Alexander and Rufus) whych came out of the felde, to beare his crosse. * And they brought him to a place named Golgotha (whych is yf a man interpret it: the place of deed mens sculles) and they gaue him to drinke, wyne mingled wyth myre, but he receaued it not.

And when they had crucified him * they parted his garmentes, castinge lotes vpon them, what euery man shulde take. And it was aboute the thirde houre, & they crucified him. And the tittle of his cause was wyrtte: The kyng of the Jewes. * And they crucified with him two theues. yf one on the right hande, & the other on his lyfte. And the scripture was fulfilled whych sayeth: * he was counted amonge the wycked.

* And they that went by, rayled on hym: wagging their heedes, & ad saying: A wretcheth thou that destroyest the temple, and byldest it in thre dayes: saue thy selfe, & come downe from the crosse. Lyke wyse also mocked hym the hye prestes amonge them selues with the scribes & sayde, he saued other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Christ the kyng of Israell descende now fro the crosse, that we maye se, & beleue. And they that were crucified with him checked him also.

* And whē the syxte houre was come, darcknes arose ouer all the erth, vntyll the nyynth houre. And at the nyynth houre Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, sayinge: Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani: whych is (yf one interpret it) * my God, my God why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stode by, when they hearde that, sayd: beholde, he calleth for Helias. * And one ran, and fylled a sponge full of veneger, and put it on a rede, & gaue him to drinke, sayinge: let him alone, let vs se, whether Helias wyll come and take hym downe.

But Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, & ad gaue vp the goost. * And the bayle of the temple dyd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the bottome. * And when the Centurion (whych stode before him) sawe, that he so cryed, and gaue vp the goost, he sayde: truly this man, was the sonne of God. * Ther were also women a good waye of, beholdinge him: amonge whom was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James the lytle: & of Ioses, & Mary Salome * (whych also when he was in Galyle had folowed him & ministered vnto him) and many other women, whych came vp with him vnto Ierusalem.

And now when the euen was come (because it was ues: who shall rolle vs awaye the stone frō the doore of the sepulchre? And when they loked, they sawe how that the stone was rolled awaye, for it was a very greate one. And they wēt into p sepulchre, and sawe a younge man sittynge on the ryght syde, clothed in a longe white garment, & they were afraied.

* And he sayeth vnto them, be not afraied: ye see Iesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is rysen, he is not here. Beholde the place where they had put hi. But goo your waye, and tell his disciples, & Peter, that he not. * After that, appeared he vnto two of them in a straunge fygure, as they walked, & went in to the country. And they went & tolde it to the remnaunt. And they beleued not these also.

* Afterwarde he appeared vnto the eleuen as they sate at meate: and cast in their teth their vnbelefe, and hardnes of herte: because they beleued not them which had sene that he was rysen agayne frō the deed. And he sayde vnto the: * Goo ye into al the worlgo before him in the spyte & power of * he-lias to tourne the hertes of the fathers to the chylde, and the vnbeleuers to the wy-rdome of the iuste men, to make readye a perfekte people for the Lorde.

And zacharyas sayde vnto the angell: by what token shall I knowe this? For * I am olde, and my wyfe well strycken in yeres.
And p angell answered, and sayd vnto him.
I am Gabriel, that stande in the prestens of God, and am sent to speake vnto the: and to shewe the these glad tydinges. And beholde it shall come to passe, that thou shalt be domme, ad not be habyle to speake, vntill the daye that these thynges be performed, because thou beleuest not my wordes, which shall be ful-fylled in their season.

And the people wayted for zacharyas, ad merueyled that he taried in the temple. And when he came out, he coulde not speke vnto them. And they perceaued, that he had sene a visyon in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned speechlesse.

And it fortunēd, that as sone as the dayes of his office were out, he departed into his awne house. And after those dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceaued, & hid her selfe fyue monethes, sayinge: Thys wyfe hath God dealte with me, in the dayes wherin he hath looked on me, to take from me my rebuke amonge men. And in the fyrt moneth the angell Gabriel was sent from God vnto a cyprie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a virgin spoused to a man, whose name was Ioseph, of the house of Dauid, ad the virgins name was Mary. And the angell went in vnto her, and sayde. Haille full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed art thou amonge women.

When she sawe him, she was abashed at his sayinge: and cast in her mynde, what maner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her: feare not Mary: for thou hast foude grace with God. Behold, * thou shalt conceaue in thy wombe, & beare a sonne, & * shalt call his name Iesus. He shall be greate, & shall be called the sonne of the hyest.

And the Lorde God shall geue vnto him the scate of his father Dauid ad * he shall raygne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and * of his kyngdome there shall be none ende.

Then sayde Mary vnto the angell: How shall this be, seyng I knowe not a mā? And the angell answered, & sayde vnto her. The holy goost shall come vpon p, and the power of the hyest shall ouer shadowe the. Therfore also that holy thyng which shall be borne, shall be called the sonne of God. And be-holde, thy cosyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceaued a sone in her age. And this is her fyrt moneth, which was called barre: for * with God shall nothinge be vnpossible. And Mary sayde: beholde the hande mayden of p Lorde, be it vnto me according to thy worde, & And the angell departed from her.

And Mary arose in those dayes, & wēt into the mountayns with haste into the cyprie of Iewrie, and entred into the house of zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortu-nēd, that whan Elizabeth heard: the saluta-cyon of Mary, the babe sprāge in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy ghost, & cried with a loude voyce, and sayde: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that p mother of my Lorde shulde come to me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutiō sounded in myne ea-res, the babe sprang in my wombe for ioye.
And blessed art thou that hast beleued: for those thynges shall be performed, which were tolde the from the Lorde. And Mary sayde.

* My soule magnifieth the Lord. And my sprete hath reioyled in God my sauour.
For he hath looked on the lowe degre of hys hande mayden: for lo: now from hence forth shall all generacions call me blessed. Because he that is myghty, hath done to me greate thynges, & holpe is his name. And his mercy is on the that feare him, from generacion to generacion. He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered the that are prou-de in the ymaginacyon of their herte. * He hath putte downe the myghty from theyr seates, and exalted them of lowe degre. He hath fylled the hongrye with good thynges: and sent awaye the ryche emptye. He hath helped hys scruaunt Israel, in remembraun-ce of hys mercy.

* Euen as he promysed to oure fathers, Abraham, and to his seede for euer. And Mary abode with her aboute a .iiij. monethes, ad retourned agayne to her awne house.

* Elizabeths tyme came that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne.

howe the Lorde had shewed greate mercy vpon her, and they reioysed with her.

And it fortuneth that in y^e eighth dape, they came * to circuncyse the chylde: and called his name zacharias, after y^e name of hys father. And his mother answered and sayde: not so but he shalbe called John. And they sayd vnto her: Ther is none in thy kynred, that is named with this name: And they made sygnes to his father, howe he wolde haue be called. And he asked for wytyng tables, and wrote, saying: his name is John. And they marvelled all. And hys mouth was opened immediately, & his tonge also, & he spake, and prayesed God. And feare came on all the that dwelt nye vnto them. And all these saynges were noysed abroade throughout all y^e hyll countre of Iurie: and all they that herde the layde them vp in their hertes, saying: What manner of chylde shall this be? And the hande of the Lorde was with him:

And his father zacharias was filled with the holy goost, and prophesied sayinge:

Prayled be the Lord God of Israel, for he hath visited and redeemed his people: And hath rayled vp * an horne of saluacion vnto vs, in the house of his seruaut Dauid.

Euē as he promysed by the mouth of his holy prophetes, which were sens the worlde began. That we shulde be saued frō oure enemies, and from the hande of all that hate vs.

That he wolde deale mercifully with oure fathers, and remember his holy couenaunt.

* And that he wolde performe the othe, which he sware to oure father Abraham, for to geue vs.

* That we deliuered oute of the handes of oure enemies, might serue him with out feare, all the dayes of oure lyfe, in such holynes and rightewesnes as are accept befoze hi And thou chylde shalt be called the Prophet of the hiest: for thou shalt go befoze the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes: to geue knowlege of saluacyon vnto his people for the remission of synnes. Through the tender mercy of oure God, wherby the daye springe from an hye hath visited vs.

* To geue light to the y^e late in darcknes & in the shadowe of deathe, to gyde oure fete into the waye of peace. And the childe grewe and waxed strong in sperte, and was in wilderness, tyll the daye came, when he shulde thewe him selfe vnto the Israelites.

The seconde Chapter.

The birth and circumcission of Christ. How he was receaued into the temple, how Simeon and Anna prophesied of him, and how he was founde in the temple amonge the doctours.

And it chaunced in those dayes: that ther went oute a commaundement from Augustus the Emperour, y^e all the worlde shulde be taxed. And thys taxing was the fyrst, & executed when Syrenius was leftenaunt in Syria. And euery man went vnto his awne cytie to be taxed. And Ioseph also ascended frō Galile, out of a cytie called Nazareth, into Jewry: vnto * the cytie of Dauid, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lynage of Dauid, to be taxed with Mary his spoused wyfe, which was with childe.

And it fortuneth that while they were there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she broughte forth her fyrst begotten sonne, & wrapped him in swadlinge clothes, and layde him in a manger, because ther was no rowme for the in the ynn.

And ther were in the same region shepherdes, watchynge and kepyng their flocke by night. And lo, the angell of the Lorde stode harde by them, and the brightnes of the Lorde shone rounde aboute the, & they were soze afrayed. And the angell sayde vnto the: Be not afrayed. For beholde, I bringe you tydings of greate ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is borne this dape in the cytie of Dauid, a sauoure which is Christ y^e Lord. And take this for a sygne: ye shall fynde the childe wrapped in swadlinge clothes, & layed in a māger. And streyght waye ther was with the angel a multitude of heauenly sowdysers, prayng God: & sayinge: Glory to God on hye, and peace on the erth. & vnto men a good wyll.

And it fortuneth, as sone as y^e angels were gone awaye from them into heauē, * The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now enū vnto Bethlehem, and se this thing that we heare saye is happened, which the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came as hast, & founde Mary ad Ioseph & the babe layde in a manger. And when they had sene it, they published abrode the sayinge, which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that hearde it, wondred at those thynges which were tolde the of the shepherdes. But Mary kepte all those saynges, and pondered them in her hert. And the shepherdes retourned, prayng and lauding God for all the thynges that they had herde and sene, enū as it was tolde vnto them.

* And whē the eyght dape was come y^e the childe shulde be * circuncised * his name was called Iesus * which was named of y^e Angell, befoze he was coeined iⁿ y^e wōbe.

* And when the tyme of their purificaciō * (after the lawe of Moyses) was come, they brought him to Hierusalem, to present him to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde * euery man chylde that fyrst openeth y^e matrix, shalbe called holy to y^e Lord) and to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payze of turtle doves, or two yonge pigions. And beholde, ther was a man in Hierusalem

Of S. Luke.

No. xliii.

Hierusalem whose name was Simeō. And the same man was iuste & godly, & looked for the consolacion of Israel, and the holy goost was in him. And an answer had he receaued of the holy goost y^e he shulde not se deeth, excepte he fyrst sawe the Lordes Christ. And he came by inspiracion into the temple.

And when the father & mother brought in the chylde Iesus: to do for him after y^e custome of the * lawe, then toke he him vp in his armes, & sayd: Lorde, & now letteth y^e thy seruaut departe in peace, accordynge to thy promes. For myne eyes haue sene * y^e saluacion: which thou hast prepared befoze the face of all people * A lyght to lighten y^e gentyls, & the glory of thy people Israel.

* And his father & mother: meruylled at those thynges, whych were spoken of hym. And Simeon blessed them, and sayde vnto Mary his mother: beholde, this chylde is sett to be y^e fall and vprysing agayne of many in Israel, & for a sygne which is spokē agaynst. And mozeouer, y^e the swearde of all peace thy soule that the thoughtes of many hertes maye be opened.

And ther was a Prophetesse, one Anna, y^e daughter of Phanuel of the trybe of Aser: which was of a greate age, & had lynyed with an husbāde. vii. yeres from her virginite, And she had bene a wedowe aboute. iiii. scoze & liii. yere, which departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastinges and prayers nyght & dape. And she came forth y^e same houre, and prayled the Lorde, & spake of him, to all the that looked for redempcyon in Hierusalem.

And whan they had perfourmed all thynges accordynge to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to their awne citie Nazareth. And * the chylde grewe, and waxed stronge in sperte, & was fylled with wysdome, & the grace of God was vpon him.

And his father & mother went to Hierusalem euery yere * at the feaste of easter. And when he was. xii. yere olde, they went vp to Hierusalem after the custome of the feaste dape. And when they had fulfilled the dayes: as they returned home, the chylde Iesus a bode styll in Hierusalem, & hys father & mother knewe not of it: but they supposyng him to haue bene in the cōpany, came a dayes iorney & sought him amonge their kynnsfolke & acquaintaunce. And when they founde him not, they went backe agayne to Hierusalem, and sought him. And it fortuneth that after. iij. dayes, they founde him in the temple, syttinge in the middes of the doctours, hearing them, & posyng them * And all that hearde him, were astonyed at his vnderstanding & answers.

And when they sawe him, they marueyled. And his mother sayde vnto him: sonne, why hast thou thus dealt with vs? Beholde, thy father & I haue sought the, forowge. And he sayde vnto the: how is it y^e ye sought me? Wist ye not, that I must goo aboute my fathers busynes? And * they vnderstode not that sayinge which he spake vnto them. And he wet downe wth them, & came to Nazareth, & was obedient vnto them. But his mother kept all these saynges together in her hert. And Iesus prospered in wysdome & age, and in fauoure, with soo many men.

The iij. Chapter.

The preaching, baptyme, and presentment of John. The baptyme of Christ, and the calling of the generation of the fathers.

And the fyftene yere of the raygne of A Cyberus the Emperoure, Pontius Pylate beyng leftenaunt of Jewrie, and * Herode beyng tetrach of Galile, and his brother Philip tetrach of Iturea & of the region of the Traconites, & Lyfaniath the tetrach of Abylene (whē Anna and Cayphas were the hye prestes, y^e worde of the Lorde came vnto John the sonne of zacharias in the wyldernes. And he came in to all the coastes aboute Jordan, preaching * y^e baptyme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtte in the boke of y^e wordes of Esayas the prophet, sayenge: * The voyce of a cryar in wilderness: prepare ye y^e waye of the Lord, make his pathes strayght. Euery valley shalbe fylled, & euery mountayne & hyll shalbe brought lowe. And thynges that be croked, shalbe made streyght: & y^e rough wayes shalbe made playne: & all fleshe shall se the saluacion of God.

And he sayde he to the people, that were comen forth to be baptyled of him. * Dye generation of vyppers, who hath taught you to fye from the wrath to come? Brynging forth therfore due frutes of repentance, & begyn not to saye wyth in youre selues: we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you. God is able of these stones to reyse vp chyldezen vnto Abraham. Now also is the axle yde vnto the rote of the trees: * euery tree therfore which byngeth not forth good fruite, is he wen downe, & cast into the fyre.

And y^e people asked him, sayinge: * what shall we do then? he answered and sayeth, vnto the: he that hath two coates: lett him parte wyth hym that hath none, & he y^e hath meate, lett him do lyke wyse.

Then cam y^e publicans also to be baptised, & sayde vnto him: Master, what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them: requyre no more, then that which is appoynted vnto you.

The soudyours lyke wyse demaunded of him, sayinge: and what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them: hurt no man: nether trouble eny man wrongfully: and be content with youre wages.

The. iij. Chapter.

Iesus is led into the wilderness, and fasteth all the tyme of his temptation, ouercometh the deuill, goeth into Galile, preacheth at Nazareth & Capernaum: the Jewes despise hym, the deuill knowlege hym, he cometh to Peters house, healeth his mother in lawe, & doth greates myracles.

Iesus beyng full of the holy goost, & returned from Iordā and * was led by the sprete into wilderness, and was. xl. dayes tempted of the deuyll. And in those dayes dyd he eate nothyng. And when they were ended, he afterwarde hon-gred. And the deuyll sayde vnto him: yf thou be the sonne of God commaunde this stone that it be bred. And Iesus answered hym, sayng: It is writen: man shall not lyue by bred only, but by euery worde of God.

And the deuyll toke him into an hye mo-untayne, and shewed him all the kyngdoms of the worlde, euen in the twyncklyng of an eye. And the deuyll sayde vnto him: all this power will I geue the euery whyle, & yf glory of them: for they are deliuered vnto me, and to whomsoever I wyl, I geue it. Yf therfore wylt thou fall downe before me & worship me, they shalbe all thine. Iesus answered and sayde vnto him: hence from me Satan.
For it is writen: * Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

And he carped him to Ierusalem, and set him on a pynacle of the temple, and sayd vnto him: Yf thou be the sonne of God, cast thy selfe downe from hence. For it is writen:
* he shall geue his Angels charge ouer the,
to kepe the, and in their handes they shal beare the vp, that thou dalst not thy fote agaynst a stone. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto hym, it is sayd: * thou shalt not tempte the Lord thy God. And as sone as all the tentacion was ended, the deuill departed from hym for a season.

Of S. Luke.

For. v.

* And Iesus returned by the power of the sprete, into Galile, and there went a fame of him thowow out all the region. And he taught in theyr synagoges and was comen-ded of all men.

* And he came to Nazareth where he was nourled and (as bys custome was) he went into the synagoge on the Saboth daye, and stode vp for to reade. And there was deliue-red vnto hym the boke of the prophete Esayas. * And when he had opened the boke, he foude the place, where it was wyrtten. * The sprete of the Lord vpon me, because he hath annoynted me: to preach the Gospell to the poore he hath sent me: to heale the broken harted, to preach deliuerance to the captiue, & syght to the blynde: frely to set at liberte the that are bzoled, and to preach the acceptable yeare of the Lord.

And he closed the boke, and gaue it agayne to the mynyster, and satte downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagoge, were fastened on him. And he began to saye vnto them: Thys daye is thys scripture fulfilled in your eares. And all bare hym wylnes: and wondred at the gracious wordes, which proceeded out of of hym mouth, & ad they sayde: Is not thys Iosephs sonne?

And he sayd vnto them: Ye wyl vterly saye vnto me this prouerbe: Phisicion, heale thy selfe. * Whatsoeuer we haue heard done in Capernaum, do the same here lyke wise in thyn awne countre. And he sayde: I crely I saye vnto you: * No prophete is accepted in hym awne countre.

But I tell you of a treuth: * many wed-dowes were in Israel in the daies of helias when heauen was shut thre yeres and fyre monethes, when greates famynment was throughtout all the lande, and vnto noone of the was helias sent, saue into Sarepta besydes Sidon, vnto a womā that was a we-dowe. * And many lepers were in Israel in the tyme of helyseus the prophete: & none of the was clesed, sauyng Naaman the Syriā.

And all they in the synagoge (when they herde these thinges, were filled with wrath: and rose vp, and thrust him out of the cyte, & led him euē vnto the edge of the hyll (where on the cytie was bylte) yf they myght cast him downe headlyng. But he departed, and went bys waye euen thowow the myddes of the. * And came downe to Capernaū, (a cytie of Galile) and there taught them on the saboth dayes. * And they were astonyed at his doctryne: for his preaching was with power. * And in the synagoge there was a man which had an vncleane sprete of a de-uyll, and cryed with a loude voyce, sayenge: let me alone, what hast thou to do with vs, thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroie vs? I knowe the what thou art, euē the holy of God. And Iesus rebuked him, sayinge: holde thy peace, and come out of hym.

And whan the deuyll had thowen hym in the myddes, he came out of him, and hurt hi not. And feare cam on the all, and they spake among them selues, sayenge: what maner a thing is thys? For with auctorite & power he commaundeth the foules spretes, and they come oute: And the fame of hym was spred abrode thowowe out euery place of the coun-tre rounde aboute. * And

* And whan he was rylen vp & come out of the synagoge, he entred into Simons house. And Simons mother in lawe was taken with a great feuer, and they made intercession to hym for her. And he stode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer, and the feuer left her.
And immediatly she arose, and mynistrad vnto them.

When the sonne was downe, all they that had syck, takē with diuers diseases, bzought them vnto hym: and he layde bys handes on euery one of the, and healed them. * And uyls also came out of many, crying & sayng: thou art Christ the sonne of God. And he rebuked the, and suffered them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Christ.

As sone as it was daye, he departed, and went into a desert place, & the people sought him, and came to hym, and kept hym that he shulde not departe from them. And he sayde vnto them: I must preach the kyngdome of God to other cyties also: * for therfore am I sent. And he preached in the synagoges of Galile.

The. v. Chapter.

Christ preacheth in the synagoge. The disciples forsake all, and folowe hym. He cleseth the leper: healeth th: man of the palsy, calleth Mattheu the customer, and caryeth with open synners.

It came to passe that (whā y people pressed vpon him, to heare the word of God) he stode by the lake of Genezareth: * and sawe two shyppes stande by the lake syde, but the fisheremen were gone oute of them, and were washyng their nettes. And he entered into one of the shyppes, (which pertey-ned to Simon) and prayed him that he wold thrust oute a lytell from the lande. And he satte downe, and taught the people out of the shyp. When he had leste speakyng, he sayde vnto Simon: Launche out into the depe, & ad let synne youre nettes to make a draught.
And Simon answered, and sayd vnto hym: *
After, we haue laboured all night, and haue taken nothyng.ouerthesse, at thy commaundement I wyl lose forth the net. And whē they had this done, they felosed a greates multitude of fyshes. But theyr net brake, & they beckened to theyr felowes (which were in the other shyp) that they shulde come, and helpe helpe them. And they came: and fylled both the shypes, that they soncke agayne.

When Simon Peter sawe thys, he fell downe at Iesus knees, saying: Lord, go fro me, for I am a sinful man. For he was asto- nyed & all y were with hym, at the draught of fyshes which they had taken: and so was also James and John the sonnes of zebede, which were parteners with Symon. And Iesus sayde vnto Symon: feare not, from hence forth thou shalt catche men. And they brought the shypes to lande, *and forsoke all, and folowed hym.  Mat. xiii. d. * Mat. xiii. a. mar. f. b.*

* And it fortuneth that whan he was in a certen cytie: behold, ther was a man ful of le- prosy, & when he had spyed Iesus, he fell flat on hys face, and besought hym, sayng: Lord, yf thou wylt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth his hand, and touched him saying: I will, be thou cleane. And immediat- ly the leprosy departed fro hym. And he char- ged him, y he shuld tell no man: but go (saith he) *and shewe thy selfe to the preste, & offer for thy cleansyng accordyng, as Moyses com- maunded, for a wytnes vnto them.  Mat. xiii. a. mar. f. b. * Leut. xiii. a.*

But so moch the more went there a fame abrode of hym, and moch people came toge- ther to heare, & to be healed of hym fro theyr infirmityes. And he kepte hym oute of the waye in the wildernesses, and gaue him selfe to prayer.

* And it happened on a certen daye: that he taught: and ther sate the Pharises and do- ctours of lawe, which were come out of all the townes of Galile and Jewye, and Je- rusalem. And the power of the Lord was pre- sent, to heale the. * And behold, men brought in a bed, a man which was takē with a pal- sic: and they sought meanes to bring him in, and to laye him before hym. And when they coude not fynde on what syde they myghte bring hym in (because of the prease) they wēt vp on the toppe of the house & let him downe thowowe the tplyng, bed and all, euen in the myddes before Iesus. But whē Iesus perceaued their thoughtes, he answered, and said vnto them: What thyncke ye in your hertes? Whether is easier to saye thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye: ryse vp, and walke. * But y pe maye knowe that the sonne of mā hath power to forgene synne on earth, he sayd vnto the sycke of the palsy: I saye vnto y: arise, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thy house. zed, and they gaue the glozy vnto God. And were fylled with feare, saying: We haue sene straunge thynges to daye.  Mat. ix. a. mar. ii. b.*

* And after this, he went forth, and sawe a publican named Leuy, syttinge at the re- cepte of custome, & he sayd vnto him: folowe me. And he left all, and rose vp, and folowed him: And Leuy made hym a greate fcaste in his awne house. And ther was a great com- panye of publicans and of other that sate at meate, with them. * And the scribes and pha- rises murmured against his disciples, sayng: Why do ye eate and dryncke with publicans and sinners? And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: They that are whole, nede not the phisicion: but they that are sycke. I came not to call the ryghte wes, but synners to re- pentance.  Mat. ix. a. mar. ii. b. * Mat. ix. a. mar. ii. b. * Mat. ix. a. mar. ii. b. * Mat. ix. a. mar. ii. b.*

And they sayde vnto hym: * Why do the disciples of John fast often, and praye, & the disciples of the pharises also: but thynccate and dryncke? he sayde vnto them: * Can ye make the chylde of the wedding fast, whyle the byrdgrome is with the? he spake also vnto them a similitude. No man putteth a pece of a newe garment, into an old vesture, for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe, and the pece that was takē out of the newe, agreeth not with the olde. And no man powreth newe wyne into olde bottels. For yf he do, the newe wyne wyl burst the bottels, and runne out it self, and the bottels shall perishe. But newe wyne must be put in to newe bottels, and both are preserved. The. vi. Chapter.

¶ It happened on the sabbath, that he went thro- row the corne felde, and hys discy- ples plucked the eares of corne, and dyd eate, and rubbed them in theyr handes. And certayn of the pharises said vnto them: Why do ye that, which is not lawfull to do on the Sabbath dayes? And Iesus answe- red the, and sayde: * Haue ye not redde what Dauid dyd, when he him selfe was an hun- gred, and they which were with hym: howe he went into the house of God, and dyd take and eate the shew * bread, and gaue also to them that were with hym: which are not lawfull to eate, but for the * prestes only? The vii. Chapter.

When he had ended all hys sayenges in the audiece of y people, * he entered into Capernaum. And a certē Centurions seruaut which was deare vnto hym laye syck, and was in parell of death. And whan he heard of Iesu, he sent vnto him the elders of the Jewes, beseechinge him that he wold come, & heale his seruante. And whā they came to Iesus, they besought hi instātly, saying: he is worthy that thou shuldest do this for hym. For he loueth oure nation, and hath buylt vs a synagoge. And Iesus went with them.

25 And whan he was now, not farre frō the house, the Centurion sent frendes to hym, sayinge vnto hym: * Lorde, trouble not thy self: for I am not worthy: that thou shuldest enter vnder my roffe. Wherefore I thought not my self worthy to come vnto y: but saye thou the word, & my seruaut shalbe whole. For I also am a man set vnder power, and haue vnder me souldiers, & I saye vnto one go, and he goeth, & to another, come, & he cometh: and to my seruaut, do this, & he doth it. When Iesus heard thys, he meruayled at him, and turned hym about, and sayde to the people that folowed him: I saye vnto you, I haue not founde so great faith, no, not in Israhel. And they that were sent, turned backe home agayne and founde the seruaut whole that had bene sycke.

* And it fortunēd after this, y he went into a cytie which is called Naim, & many of his disciples went with him, and moch people. When he came nye to the gate of the cytie: behold, ther was a deed man carped out, which was the onely sonne of his mother, & she was a wedowe, & moch people of the cytie was with her. And when the Lorde sawe her, he had compassion on her, and sayde vnto her: wepe not. And he came nye, & touched the coffin: and they that bare him stode styl. And he sayde: Ponge man, I saye vnto the, aryse. And he that was deed, sat vp, & began to speake. * And he deliuered him to his mother. And ther came a feare on them al. And they gaue the glori vnto God, sayinge: * A great prophete is rysen vp amōg vs, & God hath visited his people. * And thys rumoz of him went forth throughout al Iury, and thozow out all the regions which lye rounde about.

And the disciples of John shewed him of all these thinges. * And John called vnto hi two of his disciples, & sent the to Iesus, saying: Art thou he that shuld come: or shall we looke for another? When the men were come vnto him, they sayde: John baptiste sent vs vnto the, saying: Art thou he y shulde come: or shall we wayte for another? And in that same houre he cured many of their infyrmites and plagis, and of euill spretes, and vnto many y were blynd he gaue sight. And he answered, & sayd vnto them: Go your waye and bring worde agayne to John, what thinges ye haue sene & heard, how y * the blynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clesed, the deafe heare, the dead ryse agayne: to the pooze is y glad tydinges preached, & happy is he that is not offended at me.

* And whē the messengers of John were departed, he began to speake vnto y people concerninge John. What went ye out into y wilderness for to se: a rede shakē w the wind? But what went ye out for to se: A man clothed in soft raymēt? Behold, they which are gorgeously apparellled, and lyue delicatly, are in kynges courtes. But what wente ye forth to se: A prophete? Yee, I saye to you, & more then a prophete. This is he, of whom it is writen: * Beholde, I sende myne angel before thy face which shall prepare thy waye before y. For I saye vnto you, amōge wemēs childē, is ther not a greater prophete then John baptiste. Neuerthelesse, he tha is lesse, i y kyngdom of God is greater the he.

And all the people, and the publicās that heard him, & iustified God, and were baptised with the baptyne of John. But the pharisees and lawers despised the counsell of Gpd agaynst them selues, and were not baptised of hym.

And the Lorde sayd: * Wherunto shall I lyken the men of this generacion: and what thing are they like? They are like vnto children sitting in the market place, & cryēg one to another, and saying: We haue pyped vnto you, & ye haue not daused: we haue mourned to you, and ye haue not wepte. For John baptist came, nether eatyng bread, ner drynkyng wyne, and ye saye: he hath the deuyl. ¶ The sonne of mā is come, and eateth & dryketh, & ye saye: behold a gluttonous man, & an vnmeasurable dryncker of wyne, a frend of publicans and synners. And y wylsom is iustified of all her childzen.

* And one of the pharisees desired hym y he wolde cate with hym. And he went into the the pharisees house, and sat downe to meate. ¶ And behold a woman in that cytie (which was a synner) as sone as she knewe that Iesus sat at meat in the pharisees house, she brought an alabaster boxe of oymēt, & stode at his fete behinde hym wepyng, & began to washe hys fete w teares, and dyd wyppē the with y heares of her head, & kysled his fete, & anoynted them with the oymēt.

¶ When the pharise (which had biddē him) sawe, he spake within hym selfe, sayinge: If thys man were a prophete, he wolde surely knowe who, & what maner of womā thys is that touched hym, for he is a synner. And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto him: Simō, I haue some what to saye vnto the. And he sayd: master, saye on. There was a certayne lender which had two debtors, the one oughte fyue hūdzēd pence, and the other fyfety. Whē they had nothyng to paye, he forgauē them both. Tell me therfore, which of them wyll loue hym most? Simon answered and sayd: I suppose that he to whom he forgauē most. And he sayde vnto hym: Thou hast truly iudged.

¶ And he turned to the woman, & sayd vnto Simon: Seest thou this womā. I entered into thy house, thou gauest me no water for my fete: but she hath welshed my fete with teares, and wypped them with the heares of her head. Thou gauest me no kysse: but she, sence the tyme I came in, hath not ceased to kysse my fete. Myne head w oyle thou didest not anoynte: but she hath anoynted my fete with oymēt. Wherefore, I saye vnto the: many synnes are forgiven her, for she loued moch. To whom lesse is forgiven, the same doeth lesse loue. And he sayde vnto her: thy synnes are forgiven the. And they that sate at meat w him, began to saye within them selues. Who is this which forgiveueth synnes also? And he sayd to the womā: * Thy faith hath saued the. Go in peace. ¶

The viii. Chapter.

¶ Christ with hys apostles goeth frō towne to towne and preacheth, & weth ib: parable of the seide, telleth who ys hys mother, & hys brother. Ryleth the capyn of the see: deliuereth the possessed, & deliuereth the deuyls into the heerd of swyne: helpeyth the sycke woman, and Iayrus daughter.

And it fortunēd afterwarde, that he hym selfe also wente through oute cyties and townes: preachinge, and shewyng the kyngdome of God, and the twelue with hym. And also * certayne women, which were healed of euill spretes, and infirmytes. Mary which is called Magdalen (oute of whom wente seuen deuyls) and Joanna the wyfe of Chusa. Herodes steward, and Susanna, and many other, which minystred vnto hym of thyr substance. ¶ When moch people were gathered together, & d were come to him out of all cytes, he spake by a similitude. * The sower wente out to sowe hys seede: and as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde, & it was troden downe, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it vp. And some fell on stone, and as sone as it was sprōge vp, it withered awaye because it lacked moystnes. And some fell amonge thornes, and the thornes sprange vp with it, and choked it. And some fel on good grounde, and sprange vp, and bare frute, an hundred folde. And as he sayd these thinges, he cryed: he that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

* And his disciples asked hym sayenge: what maner of similitude is thys? And he sayd: vnto you is it geue to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of God: but to other by parables, y whē they se, they shuld not se: y whē they heare, they shuld not vnderstāde.

¶ The parable is this: * The seed is y worde of God. Those that are besyde the waye, are they that heare, then cometh the deuyl, and taketh awaye the worde out of their hertes, lest they shulde belue and be saued. They on the stones, are they which when they heare, receaue the word with ioye, and these haue no rotes: which for a whyle belue, and in tyme of temptacyon go awaye. And that which fell amonge thornes, are they which whan they haue heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and ryches, and voluptuous lyuinge, and brynge forth no frute. That which fell in the good grounde, are they, which with a pure and good herte heare the worde, and kepe it, and brynge forth frute thozow pacence. ¶

* A woman, whan he lyghteth a candell, couereth it with a vessel, or putteth it vnder a table, but setteth it on a candellsticke, that they which enter in, maye se the light. * Nothig is in secret, y shal not come abrode. Neither any thyng hydd, that shal not be knownen, and come to lyghte. Take hede therfore, howe ye heare. For whosoener hath, to hym shalbe geuen: * And whosoener hath not, from him shal be taken: euen that same which he supposeth that he hath.

¶ Then came to him his mother & his brethren, and coule not come at him for prease. And it was tolde hym, and sayde: Thy mother and thy brethren stande without, and wold se the. He answered and said vnto the: my mother and my brethren are these, which heare the worde of God, and do it.

¶ And it chaunced on a certayne dape, y he went into a shyp, and his disciples also, & he sayde vnto them: Let vs go ouer vnto the other side of the lake. And they laūched forth. But as they sayled, he fell a slepe: and there arose a storme of wynde in the lake, & they were fylled w water, and were in icopardy.

And they came to hym, and awoke hym sayping: Master master, we are loost. Then he arole, and rebuked the wynde and the teſpell of water, and they ceaſed, and it wered cal-me. And he ſayde vnto them: where is poure fayth? They feared, and wondred amonge the ſelues, ſaying: what (thynke ye) is this?
 for he commaundeth both the windes & water, and they obey hym. I And they ſayled vnto the regioe of the Gederenites, which is ouer agaynſt Galile.

And when he went out to land, ther met him out of the cytie a certayne man, which had a deuyll longe tyme, and ware no clothes, nether abode in eny house: but in graues. When he sawe Iesus, he crept, he fell downe befoze him, & wth a loude voyce sayde: * What haue I to do with the Iesus, þ^e sonne of the God moost hycht? I beseeche the tozmett me not: for he commaunded the foule sprete to come oute of the man. For ofte tymes he had caught hym, and he was bounde with chaynes, and kepte with fetters: and he brake the bondes, and was caried of the fende into wyldernes.

C And Iesus asked him saieing: What is thy name? And he sayde: Legion, because many deuyls were entred into hym. And they besought hym that he wolde not commaunde them, to go out into the depe. And there was there, an heard of many swyne, feeding on an hyll. And they besought him, that he wold suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them. Then went the deuyls out of the man, & entred into the swyne. And the heard rane heedlyng with violence into the lake, and were choked. When the herdmen sawe what had chaunced, they fled, and tolde it in the cytic & in the villages.

And they came out to se what was done: and came to Iesus, & founde the man (out of whom the deuyls were departed) sitting at the fete of Iesus: clothed, & in his right mynde, and they were afrayed. They also which sawe it, tolde them by what meanes he (that was possessed of the deuyl) was healed. And all þe multitude of the Sederenites, besought him, that he wold departe from thē: for they were taken with great feare. * And he gate him vp into the shyp, and returned backe agayne. Then the man (out of whom the deuyls were departed) besought hym that he myght be with hym. But Iesus sent him awaye, sayinge: Go home agayne to thyne awnc houle, and shewe what thinges soeuer God hath done for þe. And he wēt his waye, and preached thorow out all the cytie, what thinges soeuer Iesus had done vnto him.

And it fortuned that whē Iesus was come agayne, the people receaved hē. For they all wayted for him. * And beholde, there came a man named Jairus (& he was a ruler of the synagoge) & he fell downe at Ies^{us} fete praying him, & he wold come into his houle, for he had but one daughte onely, ypp a. xij. yeare of age, and she laye a dyng. But as he went, the people thronged hym.

* And a woman, hauing an issue of bloud xij. yeres (which had spent all her substance vpon phisicians, nether coulde be holpen of eny) came behynd him, & touched the hem of his rayment: & immediatly her issue of bloud stauched. And Iesus sayd: who is it þat touched me? Whe euery mā denyed, Peter (and they þat were wth hym) sayd: After, the people thrust the & vere the, & sayest thou who touched me? And Iesus sayd: Some body hath gone out of me. When the woman sawe that she was not hyd, she came trymblyng, and fell at his fete, and tolde hym befoze all the people, for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediatly. And he sayd vnto her: Daughter, be of good comforte.

* Thy fayth hath sauēd the, go in peace.

Whyle he yet spake, ther came one frō the rulers of the synagoges house, which sayd to hym: thy daughter is deed, deafe not y^e Master. But when Iesus hearde that worde, he answered the father of the damosell. * I feare not, beleeue onely, and she shalbe made whole. And when he came to the house, he suffred no man to go in with hym, saue Peter, James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maydē. Every body weept, and sorowed for her. And he said: Wepe not. The damosel is not deed, * but slepeth: And they laught hym to scoorne, knowyng that she was deed. And he thrust them all out, and caught her by the hand, and cryed, sayinge: Mayde, aryse. And her sprete came agayne, and she rose straight waye. And he commaunded to geue her meat. And the father & the mother of her were astonied. But he warned them, y^e they shuld tell no man what was done.

The. ix. Chapter. ✠

The sendeth out the twelve apostles to preache. He receiveth heart of hym. He feedeth. v. m. men wth. v. loaves and two fishes. the dyspyles con. se hym to be the sonne of God: he teaugeth wth hym self vpon the most. dyspurer the possessed. and teacheth his dyspyles to be lowly. They desire vengeance, but he reproueth them.

Iesus called the * twelve together, and gaue them power, and auctorite ouer all deuyles, ad that they might heale diseases. And he sent the to preache the kyngdome of God, * and to heale the syck. And he sayd vnto the. Take nothing to your iourney: nether staffe, nor scrippe, neither bread, * neither money, neither haue two coates. * And what soeuer house ye enter into, there abyde, and thence departe. And whosoever wyl not receaue receaue you, when ye go out of the cite, take of the very dust from youre fete, for a testimony agaynst them. And they departed and went thorow the tounes, preaching the gospell and healinge euery where. ⁊

* And herode the Tetrarch heard of al þ was done by him, & he douted, because that it was layde of some, that John was rylsen agayne from death: and of some, that helias had appeared, and of some, that one of the olde prophetes was rylsen agayne. And he-rode layde: John haue I beheaded: but who is this of whom I heare such thinges. And he desyred to se him.

And the apostles returned: & tolde him all b that they had done. * And he toke the, & wēt asyde into a solitary place nye vnto the cytie that is called Bethsaida. Which whā þ people knewe, they folowed him. And he recea-ued them, & spake vnto the of the kyngdome of God, & healed them þ had nede to be healed. And when the daye begāne to weare awaye, then came the .xij. and sayd vnto him: send the people awaye, that they maye go in to the townes and next villages & lodge, & dget meate, for we are here in a place of wyldernes. But he sayd vnto the: Geue ye the to eate. And they sayd: We haue no mo but .v. loaues and two fyshe, except we schulde go and bye meate for all this people. And they were about a .v. M. men. And he sayd to his disciples: Cause them to sit downe by fifties in a cōpanye. And they dyd so, and made the all to sit downe. And he toke the fyue loaues and the two fishes, and loked vp to heauen: and blessed them, and brake, and gaue to the disciples, to set before the people. And they all dyd eat, & were satisfyed. And there was taken vp of that remainyd to them, twelue baskettes full of broken meate.

* And it fortuned as he was alone praying; his disciples were with him, and he asked them sayeng: ¶ Who saue the people that I am: They answered, and sayd: John Baptist: Some saue helias, and some saue that one of the olde pphetes is rysen. He sayd vnto them: But who saue ye that I am: Simon Peter answered, & sayde: * thou art y^e Christ of God. And he warned and commaunded them that they shuld tell no man that thing, sayng: ¶ the sonne of man must suffre many thinges, & be reproued of the elders, and of the hye prestes, and scribes, & be slayne, and ryse agayne the thyrde daye.

And he sayd to them all, psony man will come after me, let him denye him selfe, & take v^p his crosse dayly, & folowe me. * For whosoever wyll saue hys lyfe shall lose it. But whosoever doth lose his lyfe for my sake, the same shall saue it. For what auuntageth it a mā, yf he wyne the whole worlde, and lose him selfe, or runne in damme-ge of hym selfe: For * who so is a haired of me, and of my wordes, of him shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in his maiestye, and in the maiestye of his father, and of the holy angels. I tell you of a treuth:

* ¶ There be some standinge here, which shall not tast of death, tyll they se the kyngdome of God.

* And it fortunēd ꝑ about an. viij. dayes after these sainges, he toke Peter and John and James, & went vp into a mountayne to praye. And as he prayed, the tassyon of hys countenaunce was chaunged, & his garmēt was whyte, & shone. And behold, there talked with him twomen which were Moyses and helias, ꝑ appeared in the maiesty, & spake of his departyng, which he shulde ende at Ierusalem. But Peter and they that were with him, were heuy with slepe. And when they awooke, they sawe his maiesty, and two men standinge with him.

* And it chaunced as they departed from him, Peter sayde vnto Iesus: After, it is good beyng here for vs. Let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for the, ad one for Moses, and one for helias (and wist not what he sayd.) While he thus spake, there came a cloude and ouershadowed the, and they feared when they were come into y cloude. And there came a voyce out of the cloude saying: * This is my deare sonne, & heare him. And as soone as the voyce was past, Iesus was founde alone. And they kept it cloose: & tolde no man in those dayes, any of those thinges which they had seene.

* And it chaunced that on the nexte daye (as they came downe from the hyll) moche people met him. And beholde, a man of the company cried oute, sayenge: After, I be-seche the behold my sonne, for he is all that I haue: and se, a sprete taketh him, and sodenly he cryeth, and ^{he knoocketh} ~~he~~ tereth hym, that he someth awayne, and with moch payne departeth from him, when he hath rent him, ad * I besought thy disciples to cast him out, & they coulde not, Iesus answered and sayde: O faythles, and croked nacion, howe longe shall I be with you: & shal suffre you: Wring thy sonne hither. As he was yet a comming, the fende rent him, and tare him. And Iesus rebuked the vncleane sprete, and healed the chylde, and deliuered him to his father. * And they were all amased at the myghtye power of God.

But whyle they wondered euery one at all thinges which he dyd, he sayde vnto hys disciples: Lett these sayinges sinke downe in to your eares. ffor it will come to passe: that *the sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the handes of men. + But they wist not what worde meant, and it was hyd from them, & they vnderstode it not. And they feared to Aske

as he him of that sayinge. And there entred a thought among them which of them shulde be the greatest. When Jesus perceaued the thought of their hertes, he toke a chylde, and set him hard by hym, & sayd vnto the: Who soeuer receaueth this childe in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me. For he that is lest among you all, the same shalbe greates.

And John answered, and sayde: Master, we sawe one castinge oute deuyls in thy name, ad we forbade him, because he foloweth not with vs. And Ies^s sayd vnto him: * For byd ye him not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is with vs.

And it fortuneth when the tyme was come that he shulde be receaued vp, he set hys face to go to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before him. And they went and entred into a cytie of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. And they wold not receaue him, because his face was as though he wold go to Jerusalem. When his disciples, James & John sawe this, they sayde: Lorde, wilt thou that we commaunde fyre to come downe fro heauen and consume them, euⁿ as * Elias dyd? Jesus turned about, and rebuked them, saying: ye wote not what maner spyt ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destroye mennes lyues, but to saue the. And they wet to another towne. * And it chaunced that as they were walking in the waye, a certayne man sayd vnto him: * I wyll folowe the whithersoever thou goo. Jesus sayde vnto him: foxes haue holes, ad byrdes of the ayer haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to laye his head.

And he sayde vnto another: folowe me. And the same sayde: Lorde, suffer me first to go and bury my father. Jesus sayde vnto hi: * Let the deed bury their deed: but go, and preach the kyngdome of God. And another sayde: Lorde, * I wyll folowe the: but let me first go byd them fare well, which are at home at my house. Jesus sayde vnto hym: No man that putteth hys handes to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of God.

The .x. Chapter.

¶ The sendeth the .lxx. before hym to preache, and geueth them a charge how to behaue them selues, prayeth hys heauynly father, and sheweth the scrpte that re- pted hym, and (by the example of the samaritan) sheweth who ys a mans neyghbour, Martha receaueth the Lorde into her house. Mary Magdalene ys dys- gent in hearng hys woide.

¶ After these thynges, the Lorde ap- poynted other .lxx. (and two) also, and sent them two and two before hym into euery cytie & place, why- ther he him selfe wolde come. Therefore sayd he vnto them: * the haruest is great, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therfore for lord of the haruest, to sende forth labourers into his haruest. So your wayes: * behold, I sende you forth as labbers among wolues. Weare no wallet, nether scryp, nor shoes, * si- lute no mā by the waye. * Into whatsoeuer house ye enter, fyrst saye: Peace be to thys house. And yf the sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon him: yf not, it shall turne to you agayne. And in the same house tarye still, eatyng and dryckyng soch as they geue: For the labourer is worthy of hys re- warde.

¶ Go not from house to house, & into what soeuer cytie ye entre, & they receaue you, cate soch thynges as are set before you, and heale the sicke that are therein, and saye vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come nye vpon you. * But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, & they receaue you not, go your wayes out into the stretes of the same, & saye: euen the very dust of youre cytie (which cleaueth on vs) do we wypp of agaynst you: Not withstanding, be ye sure of thys, that the kyngdome of God was come nye vpon you. I saye vnto you: yf it shalbe easier in that daye for zodome, then for that cytie.

¶ Wo vnto the Chorazin: wo vnto the Bethsaida. For yf miracles had bene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue bene done i you, they had (a greates whyle ago) repented of theyr synnes, lytting in heercloth and as- shes. Neuerthelesse, it shalbe easier for Tyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (which art exalted to heauen) shalt be thrust downe to hell. * He yf heareth you, heareth me: and he that despy- seth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth him that sent me.

¶ And the .lxx. turned agayne wiope, sayng: Lorde, euen yf very deuils are subdued to vs thowow thy name. And he sayd vnto them: * I sawe Satan (as it had bene lighthening) falling downe from heauen. * Behold, I ge- ue vnto you power, to treade on serpentis, and scorpionis, and ouer all maner power of the enemy, and nothing shull hurte you. Ne- uertheles, in this reioyse not, yf spretes are subdued vnto you: but reioyse, that * poure names are wyrtten in heauen.

¶ That same houre reioysed Jesus in the holy ghoist, and sayd: I thanke the, O father. * Lorde of heauen and earth, that thou hast byd these thynges from the wyse and prudēt, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. * All thynges are geuen me of my father. * No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: ad who the father is, but the sonne, & he to who yf sonne wyll shewe hym.

¶ And he turned to his disciples, and sayde secretly: * Happy are the eyes, which se yf thynges that ye se. For I tell you, that many prophetes prophetes and kinges haue desired to se tho- se thynges which ye se, and haue not sene the: and to heare those thynges which ye heare, and haue not hearde them.

¶ And behold a certayne lawper stode by, & tempted him, saying: * Master, what shall I do, to inheret eternall lyfe? He sayde vnto him: What is wrytten in the lawe? how re- dest thou? And he answered ad sayde: * loue the Lorde thy God, with all thy hert, & with all thy soule, & with all thy strength, & with all thy mynde: and thy neyghbour as thy sel- fe. And he sayde vnto him: Thou hast a swe- red right. This do, and thou shalt lyue. But he wyllinge to iustifie him selfe, sayde vnto Jesus: And who is my neyghbour?

¶ Jesus answered, & sayde, A certayne man descended from Hierusalem, & fell among theues, which robbed him of his rap- ment & wounded him, ad departed, leuyng him halfe deed. And it chaunced, that ther ca- me downe a certayne Preste yf same waye, & whē he sawe hi, he passed by. And lyke wyse a Leuite, whē he wet nye to yf place, came ad loked on hi, & passed by. But a certayne Sa- maritane, as he tozneyed, came vnto hym: ad when he sawe him, he had compassion on him & wet to, and boude vp his woundes, & pou- red in oyle & wyne, and set him on his awne beaste, and brought him to a comen ynn, ad made prouision for him. And on the morow, whē he departed, he toke out .ij. pēce, & gaue the to yf host, & sayd vnto hi. Take cure of hi & whatsoeuer yf spendest moare, whē I come agayne I will recopence the. Which now of these thre thyngest yf, was neyghbour vnto him yf fell among the theues? And he sayd: he that shewed mercy on him. Then sayde Ies^s vnto him: Go, and do thou lyke wyse.

¶ It fortuneth that as they went, he en- tred into a certayne towne. And a certayne womā named Martha receaued him into her house. And this woman had a syster called Mary, which also sate at Jesus fete, & heard his worde. But Martha was cōbzed aboute moche seruyng, & stode & sayde: Lorde, doest yf not care, that my syster hath left me to serue alone? Byd her therfore, yf she helpe me. And Jesus answered, & sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, & troubled about many thynges: verely, one is nedefull. Ma- ry hath cholen the good parte, which shall not be taken a waye from her.

The .xj. Chapter.

¶ He teacheth his disciples to praye, dyspueth out a deuyl, & rebuketh the blasphemous Pharisees. They requyre sy- gnes & tokens. He eateth with the Pharisees, & reppoueth the pporcys of the Pharisees, scrupes and pporcetes.

¶ Ad it fortuneth as he was pray- inge in a certayne place: whē he ceased, one of his disciples sayde vnto hym: Lorde, teache vs to praye, as John also taught hys disciples. And he sayde vnto them: when ye praye, saye. * O our father which art i hea- uen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy will be fulfilled, euen in erth also as it is in heauen. Dure dayly breed geue vs this dape. And forgeue vs our synnes: For euen we forgeue euery man that treapalet vs. And Leade vs not into temptacion But deliuer vs from euyl.

¶ And he sayd vnto them: * yf any of you shall haue a frend, & shall go to him at myd- night, and saye vnto him, frende: lende me thre loanes, for a frende of myne is come out of the waye to me, and I haue nothyng to set before him, and he within answerre, and saye: trouble me not, the dore is now shut, and my chyliden are with me in the chan- ber, I cannot ryse and geue the. I saye vnto you, though he wyll not arise and geue him, because he is his frende: yet because of his im- portunite he will rise, ad geue him as many as he nedeth. And I saye vnto you: * aske, and it shalbe geuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde: knocke, ad it shalbe opened vnto you. For every one yf asketh, receaueth: and he that seeketh, fyndeth: & to him yf knocketh, shall it be opened. yf yf sonne shall aske breed of eny of you that is a father, wyll he geue him a stone? Or yf he aske fysh, wyll he for- fysh geue him a serpent? Or yf he aske an egge, will he offer him a scorpion? yf ye then beyng euyl, can geue good giftes vnto you- re chyliden, how moch moare shall your fa- ther of heauen geue the holy spret to them, that desyre it of him.

¶ And he was castinge out a deuyl, and the same was domme. And whē he had cast out the deuyl, the dome spake, & the peo- ple wondred. But some of them sayde: * he casteth out deuyls thowowe Beelzebub the chefe of the deuyls. And other tempted him and requyred of him a signe from heauen. But he knowing their thoughtes, sayd vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuided agaynst it selfe, is desolate: and one house doth fall vpon another. yf Satan also, be denyded agaynst him selfe, how shall his kyngdome endure? Because ye saye, that I cast out de- uyls thowowe Beelzebub. If I, by the helpe of Beelzebub cast out deuyls, by whose hel- pe do poure chyliden cast them out. Therefo- re shall they be your iudges. But yf I, with the synger of God cast out deuyls, no doute the kyngdome of God is come vpon you.

¶ When a stronge man armed watcheth his house: the thynges that he possideth are in peace. But when a stronger then he cometh vpon him, and ouercommeth him, he taketh from him all his harness (wherin he trusted) ad deuiderh his goodes. he that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abrode.

* Mar. i. 10.

* When the vncleue spyte is gone out of a man, he walketh through drie places, sekyng rest. And when he fyndeth none, he sayeth: I will retorne agayne vnto my house, whence I came out. And when he cometh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he and taketh to him seven other spytes worse then him selfe: and they enter in, & dwell there. And the ende of that mā, is worse then the begynnyng.

And it fortuned that as he spake these thynges, a certayne woman of the company lyfte vph her voyce, and sayd vnto him. Happy is the wombe that bare the, and the pappes which gaue the sucke. But he sayde: Yee, happy are they that heare the worde of God and kepe it.

When the people were gathered thicke together, he began to saye. This is an euill nation. * they seke a sygne, and ther shall no sygne be geue them, but the sygne of Jonas the prophet. For as Jonas was a sygne to the Ninuytes, so shall also the sonne of man be to this nation. * The queene of the south shall ryle at the iudgement, with the men of this nation, and condemne them: for she came from the vttermoost partes of the erth, to heare the wisdom of Salomon. And behold a greater then Salomon is here. The me of Ninine shall ryle at the iudgement with this nation: and shall condemne them: for they were brought to repentance by the preaching of Jonas. And behold, a greater then Jonas is here.

* No man lyghteth a candell, and putteth it in a prey place, nether vnder a bushell: but on a candle stycke, that they which come in, maye see the light. * The lyght of the body is the eye. Therefore, when thyne eye is synge, all thy body also shall be full of lyght. But if thyne eye be euill, thy body also shall be full of darknes. Take hede therefore, that the lyght which is in the, be not darcknes. If all thy body therefore be cleare, hange no parte darcke: the shall it all be full of light, euen as when a candell doeth lyght the with brightnes.

And as he spake, a certayne Pharise sought him, to dyne with him, and Iesus went in, and sate doune to meate. When the Pharise sawe it, he marueled, that he had not fyrst welshed before dyner. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: * Now do ye Pharises, make cleane the out syde of the cup, and the platte: but youre inward parte is full of rauenynge and wyckednes. Ye foolles, dyd not he (that made that which is without) make that which is within also? Neuerthelesse, * geue alme of that ye haue, and behold, all thynges are cleane vnto you. * But wo vnto you Pharises, for ye tye the mynt ad rewe, and all manner erbes, and passe ouer iudgement and the lone of God. These ought ye to haue done, and yet not to leaue the other vndone.

* Wo vnto you Pharises: for ye loue the vppermost seates in the synagoges, and gretynges in the market. Wo vnto you scribes and Pharises, ye hypocrites, for ye are as graues which appeare not, and the me that walke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the laweers, and sayde vnto him: Master, thus saying thou puttest vs to rebuke also. And he sayde: * wo vnto you also ye laweers: for ye lade men with burthenes which they be not able to beare: and ye poure selues touche not the packes with one of youre fyngers. Wo vnto you: * ye buylde the sepulchres of the Prophets, and poure fathers kylled them, truly ye beare witness, that ye allowe the dedes of youre fathers: for they kylled them, and ye buylde their sepulchres. Therefore sayde the wisdom of God, * I will send them Prophets and Apostles and some of them they shall slaye and persecute: that the bloude of all Prophets (which is shed from the begynnyng of the worlde) maye be required of this generacion, from the bloude of Abel, vnto the bloude of Zachary, which perished betwene the altar and the temple. Verily I saye vnto you: it shall be required of this nation.

Wo vnto you laweers: for ye haue taken awaye the keye of knowledge, ye entred not in youre selues, ad them that came in, ye forbade. When he thus spake vnto them, the laweers and the Pharises began to wepe byr aboute him, and capciouly to aske him many thynges, layinge wayte for him, and sekynge to catche some thyng of his mouth, wherby they might accuse him.

The. xij. Chapter.

The leuen of the Pharises, shalpe conforteth his disciples agaynst persecucion, warneth them to beware of couetousnes by the similitude of a certayne ryche man, he wyll not haue them to hang vpon earthly thynges, but to watch, and to be ready agaynst his commynge.

So they gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (in so moche that they trood one another) he began to saye vnto his disciples: fyrst of all * beware of the leue of the Pharises which is hypocrysy. * For ther is nothyng couered, that shall not be vncouered: nether hyd, that shall not be knowen. * For what thynges ye haue spoken in darknes, shall be heard in the light. And that which ye haue spoken into the eare, euen in secrete places, shall be preached on the toppe of the houses. * I saye vnto you my frendes: be not afrayde of them that kyll the body, and after that haue no moare, that they can do. But I will shewe you, whom ye shall feare. Feare him, which after which after he hath kylled, hath power to cast ito hell. Yee, I saye vnto you: feare him. Are not fyue sparowes bought for two farthynges? And not one of them is forgotten of God. Also, euen the very heeres of pouce herd are all nombred. Feare not therefore: ye are moare of value then many sparowes.

I saye vnto you * euery one: whosoener confesseth me before men, him shall I sonne of man knowledge also before the angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men, shall be denied before the angels of God. * And whosoener speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shall be forgiven him. * But vnto him that blasphemeth the holy goost, it shall not be forgiven. When they bringe you vnto the synagoges, and vnto the rulers and officers, take ye no thought, how or what thyng ye shall answer, or what ye shall speake. For the holy goost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

One of the company sayde vnto him: Master, speake to my brother, that he deuide the inheritaunce with me. And he sayde vnto him: Man, who made me a iudge or a deuider, ouer you? And he sayde vnto them: take hede, and beware of couetousnes. For no mannes lyfe standeth in the aboundance of the thynges which he possesseth. And he put forth a similitude vnto them sayinge: The grounde of a certayne riche mā brought forth plentiful frutes, and he thought with in him selfe sayinge: what shall I do? because I haue no roune where to bestowe my frutes. And he sayd: This will I do. I will destroye my barnes, and bylde greater, and therein will I gather all my goodes that are growen vnto me: and I will saye to my soule: Soule * thou hast moche goodes layd vp in stooze for many yeres, take thyne ease: eate, drinke, be mery. But God sayd vnto him. * Thou folle, this nyght will they fetch awaye thy soule agayne from the. * The whose shall those thynges be, which thou hast prouided? So is it with him that gathereth riches to him selfe, and is not riche to warde God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therefore I saye vnto you. * Take no thought for youre lyfe, what ye shall eate: nether for the body, what ye shall put on. The life is moare then the meate, and the body is moare then rayment. Consider the rauens, for they neither sowe nor reape, which neither haue stooze house nor barne, and God feedeth them. * How moche are ye better then fethered foules?

* Which of you (with his takinge thought) can adde to his stature one cubit? If ye then be not able to do that thyng which is least: why take ye thought for the remnant? Consider the lylies how they growe: they labour not: they spyn not: and yet I saye vnto you, that Salomon in all his royaltie, was not clothed lyke one of these.

If God so clothe the grasse (which is to daye in the felde, and to morow is cast into the fornaice) how moche moare wyll he clothe you, O ye of litle fayth? And aske not ye what ye shall eate, or what ye shall drinke, nether clyme ye vp an hye: for all soche thynges do the hethen people of the worlde seke for. Poure father knoweth, that ye haue neede of soche thynges. Wherefore, * seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and all these thynges shall be ministred vnto you. * Feare not lytell flocke, for it is poure fathers pleasure, to geue you the kyngdome. * Sell that ye haue, and geue almes. And prepare you bagges, which were not olde, eue a treasure that faileth not in heauen, where no thefe commeth, nether moth corrupteth. For where poure treasure is, there will poure herte be also.

Let poure loynes be gird about, & your lightes brenning. * (in your handes) and ye poure selues lyke vnto men that wayte for the Lorde, when he will retorne from the wedding: that whan he cometh and knocketh they maye open vnto him immediatly. Happy are those seruantes, whom the Lorde (when he cometh) shall fynde wakinge. Verily I saye vnto you, that he shall gyde hym selfe and make them to syt downe to meate, and walke by, and minister vnto them. And if he come in the seconde watch, yee, if he come in the thirde watch, and fynde them so, happy are those seruantes. This vnderstand, that if the good man of the house knewe, what houre the thefe wolde come, he wolde suerly watch, and not suffer his house to be broken vp. * Be ye therefore ready also: for the sonne of man will come at an houre when ye thinke not.

Peter sayde vnto him: * Master, tellest thou this similitude vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lorde sayde: who is a faythfull and wise stwarde, whom his Lorde shall make ruler ouer his household, to geue them their due of meat in due season: * happy is that seruant, whom his Lorde when he cometh, shall fynde so doing. Of a trouth I saye vnto you, that he will make him ruler ouer all that he hath. But and if the seruant saye in his herte. * My Lorde will deferre his commynge (and shall beginne to smite seruantes and maydens, and to eate and drinke, and to be droncken) the Lorde of that seruant will come in a dape when he thinketh not, ad at an houre when he is not ware, and will hewe him in peces, ad geue him his rewarde with the vncleuers.

I am come to sende fyer on erth: & what is my desier, but yit were all ready kindled? Not withstandinge I must be baptysed w a baptisme: and how am I payned, tyll it be ended? Suppose ye, that I am come to sende peace on erth? I tell you naye, but rather dynnyon. For from hence forth ther shalbe fyre i one house deuided, thre agaynst two, and two agaynst thre. He sayde also to the people: when ye se a cloude ryse out of the west, straght waye ye saye: ther commeth a shower, and so it is. And when ye se the south wynde blowe, ye saye: it will be hote, ad it commeth to passe. The xiiij. Chapter.

Of the Galyleans whom Pylate slewe, and of those that dyed in Sylee. The synnitude of the fygge tre. Whyppe healeth the sycke woman. The parable of the mustarde seede and l:uen. Fewe entre into the kyngdome. Whyppe reioyseth Herode and Jerusalem.

There were present at the same season, certayne me that shewed him of the Galyleans, whose bloude Pylate had myngled with theyr awone sacryfye. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Suppose ye that these. Galyleas were greater synners the all the other Galyleans, because they suffred suche punishment? I tell you naye: but except ye repent: ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe. Or those xvij. vpon which the toure in Sylee fell, and slewe them, thynke ye, that they were synners aboue all men that dwelt in Jerusalem? I tell you naye: But excepte ye repent, ye all shall lyke wyse peryshe.

He tolde also this similitude: a certayne man had a fygge tree planted in his vineparde & he came and sought frute therof, and founde none. Then sayde he to the dyctator of his vineparde: beholde, this thre yere haue I come and sought frute in this fygge tree, and fynde none: cut it doune: why combyeth it the ground? and he answered & sayd vnto him: Lorde, let it alone this yere also, tyll I dygge rounde aboute it, and donge it, to se whether it will beare frute: ad yf it beare not then, after that shalt y cut it doune. And he taught in one of their synagoges on the Saboth dayes. And beholde, ther was a womā, which had a sprete of infirmite. xvij. yeres: and was bowed together, and coulde in no wyse lyste vpon her heade. Whē Iesus sawe her, he called her to him, and sayde vnto her woman, thou art deliuered from thy disease. And he layde his handes on her, and immediatly, she was made straght, ad glorified God. And the ruler of the synagoge answered with indignacion (because that Iesus had healed on the Saboth daye) and sayde vnto the people. Ther are fyre dayes in which men ought to worke, in them come, that ye maye be healed, and not on the Saboth daye.

But the Lorde answered him and sayde: Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the Saboth daye? lowse his oxe or his asse from the stall, and leade him to the water? And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satā hath bounde (lo. xvij. yeres) be lowsed from this bonde on the Saboth daye? And when he thus sayde, all hys aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes, that were done by him.

Then sayde he: what is the kyngdome of God like? or wherto shall I compare it? It is like a grayne of mustarde seede, which a man toke, and sowed in his garden: and it grewe and wexed a greafe tree, and the fowles of the ayre made nestes in the bzaunches of it.

And agayne he sayde: wher vnto shall I lyken the kyngdome of God? it is like leuen, which a woman toke, and hyd in thre peckes of meale, tyll all was leuened. And he went thowow all cities and townes, teachinge, and tozneyng towards Jerusalem. Then sayde one vnto him: Lorde, are ther few that be sauēd? And he sayde vnto him: stryue to enter in at y strayte gate: for many (I saye vnto you) will seke to enter in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is rypen vp, and hath shutt to the doze, and ye begynne to stonde without, and to knocke at the doze sayinge: Lorde, Lorde, open vnto vs, and he answer and saye vnto you. (I knowe you not whēce ye are) Then shall ye begyn to saye: we haue eaten & drōke in thy presence, & thou hast taught i oure stretes. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe you not you not whence ye are: departe from me all ye y worke iniquite. There shalbe wepyng & gnashinge of teth, when ye shall se Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, and all the Prophetes in y kyngdome of God, and ye poure selues thrust out. And they shall come fro the east and from the west, and from y north and from the south, and shall syt doune in y kyngdome of God. And beholde, there are last, which shalbe fyrst. And ther are fyrst, which shalbe last.

The same daye came there certayne of the Pharises, and sayde vnto him. get the out of the waye, and departe hence: for herode will kyl the. And he sayde vnto them: Go ye, and tell that foxe, beholde, I cast out deuyls and heale the people to daye and to morowe, and the thyrde daye I make an ende. Neuertheless, I must walke to daye and to morow, and the daye folowynge: for it cannot be that a Prophet perishe the eny other where, saue at Jerusalem.

Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest Prophetes, and stonest the that are sent vnto the: how ofte wolde I haue gathered thy chyldren together, as a byrde doth gather her yonge vnder her wynges, and ye wolde not: poure habitation is left vnto you desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me, vntyll the tyme come that ye shall saye: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde.

The xliij. Chapter.

Iesus eateth with the Pharisee, healeth the drooply vpon the Saboth, teacheth to belowly, telleth of the greafe supper, and warneth them that wyll folowe hym, to lape theyr accomptes before, what it wyll cost them. The last of the earth.

And it chaunced, that he went into the house of one of the chefe Pharysees to eate bred on a Saboth daye: and they watched hym. And beholde, ther was a certayne man before him which had the drooplye. And Iesus answered and spake vnto the lawers and Pharyses, sayinge: is it lawfull to heale on the Saboth daye? And they helde theyr peace. And he toke him and healed him, and let him go: and answered them, sayinge, which of you shall haue an asse or an oxe falle into a pytt and wyll not straght waye pull him out on the Saboth daye? And they coulde not answer him agayne to these thynges.

He put forth also a similitude to the gestes, when he marked how they pleased to y hyest rowmes, and sayde vnto them: When y are bydden of anye man to a weddinge, syt not doune in the hyest rowme, lest a more honorable man then thou be bydden of him, and he (that had him and the) come, ad saye to the: geue this man rowme, and thou then begynne w shame to take the lowest rowme. But rather when thou art bydden, go ad syt in the lowest rowme: that whē he that had the, commeth, he maye saye vnto the: be syt by hyper. Then shalt y haue worshipp in the presence of the that syt at meate with the. For whosoeuer exalteth him self, shalbe brought lowe. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shalbe exalted.

Then sayde he also to hym, that had desired him to dynner: When thou makest a dynner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy brethre, nether thy kynsmen ner thy ryche neyghbours: lest they also bydde the agayne, and a recompence be made the. But whē thou makest a feast, call the pooze, the feble, the lame, and the blynde, & thou shalt be happy, for they can not recompence the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurreccyon of the iust men.

When one of them (that sat at meate also) hearde these thynges, he sayd vnto him: happy is he that eateth bread in the kyngdome of God. Then sayde he vnto hi. A certayne man ordered a greafe supper, and had many, and sent his seruaunt at supper tyme, to lape to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now ready. And they all atōce beganne to make excuse. The fyrst sayde vnto him: I haue bought a farme, and I must nedes go, & se it, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyne pooke of oxen, and I go to proue them, I praye the, haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue married a wyfe, and therefore I cannot come. And the seruaunt returned and brought his master worde agayne therof.

Then was the good man of the house displeased, and sayde to his seruaunt: Soo out quickly into the stretes and quarters of the cytic, and bring in hyther the pooze, and the feble, and the halt and the blynde. And the seruaunt sayd: Lorde, it is done as thou hast commaunded, and yet there is rowme. And y Lorde sayd to the seruaunt: Go out vnto the hyc wayes and hedges, and compell them to come i, that my house maye be fylled, for I saye vnto you, y none of those men which were bydden, shall tast of my supper.

Ther went a greafe company with hym, and he turned, and sayd vnto them: If a man come to me, & hate not hys father and mother, and wyfe and chyldren, ad brethzen, and sytters, yee, and his awne lyfe also, he cannot be my discipule. And whosoeuer doth not beare his crosse, and come after me, cannot be my discipule.

Which of you disposed to buylde a toure, sytteth not doune before, and counteth the cost, whether he haue sufficient to performe it: lest after he hath layde the foundacyon, ad is not able to performe it, all that beholde it, begynne to mocke hym, sayinge: this man beganne to buylde, & was not able to make an ende?

And as sone as he cometh home, he calleth together his louers and neyghbours, sayinge vnto them: Reioyce with me for I haue founde my shepe, which was lost. I say vnto you, that like wyse shalbe in heauen ouer one synner that repenteth, more then ouer nynty and nyne iuste persons, which nedde no repentance. Ether what woman (hauynge ten grotes, yf she lose one) doth not light a candell, and swepe the housse, and seke diligently till she fynde it: And when she hath founde it, she calleth her louers and her neyghbours together, sayinge: Reioyce with me, for I haue founde the grote which I had lost. And he arose, & came to his father. * But whē he was yet a greete waye of, his father sawe him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kyssed him. And the sonne sayde vnto him: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen, and in thy syght, & am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father sayd to his seruauntes: brynge forth the best garment, and put it on him, and put a ryng on his hande, and shooes on his fete. And brynge hyther that fatt caulfe, and kylle it, and let vs eate and be mery: for this my sonne was deed, and is alpyue agayne, he was losse, and is founde. And they began to be mery. The elder brother was in the felde: and when he came and dreyne to the housse, he herde mynstrelsy & daunsynge, and called one of his seruauntes, and asked, what those thynges meate. And he sayd vnto him: thy brother is come, and thy father hath kylled the fatt caulfe, because he hath receaued him safe and sounde. And he was angry, and wolde not go in. Then came hys father out, and entreated him. He answered and sayde to his father: Lo, these many yeres haue I done the seruice, nether brake at any tyme thy commaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer a kyd, to make mery with my frendes: but as sone as this thy sonne was come (which hath deuoured thy goodes with harlots) thou haste for his pleasure kylled the fatt caulfe. And he sayde vnto him: Sonne, thou art euer with me, and all that I haue is thine: it was mete that we shulde make mery and be glad: for this thy brother was deed, and is alpyue agayne: and was losse, and is founde.

The parable of the wicked steward. Not one tyele of Gods wordes shal perishe. Of the ryche mā, and of poore Lazarus.

And he sayde also vnto his disciples. * Ther was a certayne ryche man, which had a steward, and the same was accused vnto hym, that he had wasted hys goodes. And he called him, and sayde vnto him: how is it, that I heare thys of the: Geue accomptes of thy stewardshyppe: For thou mayste be no longer steward. The steward sayde within him selfe: what shall I do: for my Master taketh awaye from me the stewardshyppe. I cannot bygge, and to begge I am ashamed. (and no man gaue vnto hym.) The dogges came also, and lycked his sores. And it fortuned, that the begger died, and was caried by the angelles into Abrahams bosome. The ryche man also dyed, and was buryed.

And beyng in hell in tormentes, he lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe Abraham a farre of, and Lazarus in hys bosome, and he cryed and sayde: father Abraham: haue mercy on me,

Of Zacheus, and the ten seruantes, to whiche sentences were deliuered. Chyrdeth to Jerusalem, and depeth ouer it.

And he entred in, & went thorow Hierico. And behold, ther was a man named zacheus, whych was a ruler amonge the publicans, and was ryche also. And he sought meanes to se Iesus, what he shuld be: and coude not for the prece, because he was lytle of stature. And he ran before, and clymed vp into a wyldc fygge tree, to se hi: for he was to come that waye. And when Iesus cam to the place, he looked vp, and sawe hym, and sayd vnto hym: zache, come downe atonce, for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came downe hastelye, and receaued hym ioyfully. And when they sawe it, they all grudged, sayinge: he is gone i to tary with a man that is a synner.

And zache stode forth, and sayd vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the poore: ad yf I haue done eny man wronge, I restore him foure fold. Iesus sayd vnto him: this daye is health happened vnto thys house, because that he also is become the chyld of Abraham: for the sonne of man is come to seke, and to saue that whych was losse.

As they hearde these thynges, he added therto a parable, because he was nye to Jerusalem, and because they thought, that the kyngdome of God shulde shortly appeare.

He sayde therfore: a certain noble mā went into a farre countre, to receaue hym a kyngdome, and to come agayne. And he called hys ten seruantes, and deliuered them ten pounde, sayinge vnto the: Occuype, tyll I come. But hys cytelens hated hym, & sent a messager after him, sayinge: we will not haue thys man to raygne ouer vs.

And it came to passe, that when he had receaued his kyngdome, he returned, & comaunded these seruantes to be called vnto hym (to whom he had geuen the money) to wete how moch euery man had done. Then came y first, sayinge: Lorde, thy pounde hath gayned te poude. And he sayd vnto hym: Well thou good seruant: because thou hast bene faythfull in a very lytell thyng, haue thou auctoryte ouer ten cyties. And another came, sayinge: Lorde, thy poude hath made fyue pounde. And to the same he sayde: be thou also ruler ouer fyue cyties.

And another came, sayinge: Lorde, beholde here is thy pounde, whych I haue kepte in a naphyn: for I feared the, because thou art a strypte man: thou takest vp that thou laydest not downe, so reapest that thou dyddest not sow. He sayeth vnto hym: Of thyne

The xviij. Chapter.

We teacheth to be seruent in prayer continually. Of the wharper & the publican. The kyngdome of God belongeth vnto chyldren. Chyrdeth and bereth the rule and promysse reward vnto all soch as suffre losse for hys sake, and folowe hym. The blynde man is restored to hys sight.

And he put forth a parable vnto them, signifying that men ought all wayes to praye ad not to be wery, sayinge: Ther was i a certayne cytie a iudge, which feared not God, nether regarded mā. And ther was a certayne wedowe in the same cytye, and she came vnto hym, sayinge: auenge me of myne aduersary. And he wolde not for a while. But after warde he sayd within him selfe: though I feare not God, nor care for man, yet because thys wedowe is importune vpon me, I wyll auenge her, lest she come at the last and rayle on me. And the Lorde sayde, heare what the vnyrghtwes iudge sayeth. And shal not God auenge his electe, which crye daye and nyght vnto him, yee, though he deferre them? I tell you that he wyll auenge them, & that quickly. Neuerthelesse, whē the sonne of mā cometh, shal he fynde fayth on the erth?

And he tolde this parable, vnto certayne which trusted in them selues that they were perfecte, and despyssed other. Two men went vp into the temple to praye: the one a pharise, and the other a publicā. The wharper stode and prayed thus with hym selfe: God, I thanke the, that I am not as other men are, extorsioners, vniuste, aduouters, or as this publicā. I fast twyle in the weke. I geue tythe of all that I possesse. And the publicā stondyng a farre of, wolde not lyfte vp his eyes to heauen, but smote vpon hys brest, sayinge: God be mercyfull to me a synner. I tell you: thys man departed home to hys house iustified, more then the other. For euery one that exalteth him self, shal be brought lowe: And he that humbleth him selfe, shal be exalted.

They brought vnto him also yong chyldren, that he shulde touche them. When hys dysciples sawe it, they rebuked them. But Iesus (whan he had called them vnto hym) sayde: Suffre chyldren to come vnto me, ad forbyd them not. For of soch is the kyngdome of God. Merely I saye vnto you: whosoever receaueth not the kyngdome of God as a chyld, shal not enter therein. And a certayne ruler asked him, sayinge: good māster, what ought I to do, to obtayne eternall lyfe? Iesus sayd vnto him: why callest thou me good?

me good? None is good, saue God onely. Thou knowest the comaundementes: Thou shalt not commit aduoutry: Thou shalt not kill: thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false wytnes: honoure thy father & thy mother. And he sayde: all these haue I kept from my youth vp. Whē Iesus hearde that, he sayd vnto hym: Yet lackest thou one thyng. Sell all y thou hast, and distrybute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heaue, and come, folowe me. When he hearde thys, he was sorowful: for he was very ryche.

When Iesus sawe y he was sorowful, he sayde: wyth what difficulte shall they that haue mony, enter into the kyngdome of God? It is easer for a camell to go thorow a nedles eye, then for a ryche man to enter into the kyngdome of God. And they that hearde it: sayd. And who cā then be saued? And he sayde: The thynges which are vnpossyble to men, are possyble wyth God.

Then Peter sayde: Lo, we haue forsaaken all, and folowed the. He sayde vnto them: Merely I saye vnto you: ther is no man that hath forsaaken house, ether father or mother, ether brythren, or wyfe, or chyldren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) whych shal not receaue moch more in this worlde, and in the worlde to come, lyfe euerlastyng.

Iesus toke vnto him the twelue, & sayd vnto them: Beholde, we go vp to Jerusalem, and all shalbe fulfilled, that are wyrtten by the prophetes, of the sonne of man. For he shalbe deliuered vnto the gentylis, & shalbe mocked, and despytfully entreated, & spyttyd on: & when they haue scourged him, they wyll put hym to deeth, & the thyrde daye he shal aryse agayne. And they vnderstode none of these thynges. And this sayyng was hyd from them, so that they perceaued not the thynges which were spoken.

And it came to passe, that as he was come nye vnto hierico, a certayne blynde man satte by the waye syde, beggynge. And when he hearde the people passe by, he asked what it meant. And they sayde vnto hym, that Iesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayinge: Iesu thou sonne of dauid, haue mercy on me. And they whych went before, rebuked hym, that he shulde holde his peace. But he cryed so moch the more: thou sonne of dauid, haue mercy on me. And Iesus stode styll, and comaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And when he was come neare, he asked hym, sayinge: what wilt thou that I do vnto the? And he sayde: Lorde, that I maye receaue my syght. And Iesus sayd vnto hym: receaue thy syght: thy fayth hath saued the. And immediatly he receaued his syght, and folowed hym, prayssynge God. And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue prayse vnto God.

that he passed thorow samaria ad Galile. And as he entred into a certayne towne, they met him ten mā that were lepers. Whych stode a farre of, and put forth theyr voyces and sayde: Jesu master, haue mercy on vs. When he sawe the he sayd vnto them: Go, & shewe youre selues vnto the prestes. And it came to passe, that as they went, they were clesed. And one of them, when he sawe that he was clesed, turned backe agayne, & with a loude voyce prayssed God, and fell downe on hys face at hys fete, and gaue hym thanks. And the same was a samaritane. And Iesus answered, & sayde: are ther not ten clesed? But where are those nyne? Ther are not founde that returned agayne, to geue God prayse, saue only this straunger. And he sayd vnto him: aryse, go thy waye, thy fayth hath made the whoale.

When he was demaunded of the pharises, when the kyngdome of God shulde come, he answered them and sayd: The kyngdome of God shal not come with waytyng for, nether shal they saye. Lo here, or lo there. For beholde the kyngdome of God is within you.

And he sayde vnto the disciples: y dayes wyll come, whē ye shal desyre to se one daye of the sonne of man, and ye shal not se it.

And they shall saye to you: Se here, se there. So not after them, nor folowe them: for as the lyghtenyng that apereth out of the one parte that is vnder heaue, & thyneth vnto the other parte which is vnder heauen, so shal the sonne of man be in hys dayes.

But first must he suffre many thynges & be refused of this nation.

And as it happened in y dayes of Noe: so shal it be also in the dayes of the sonne of man. They dydeate & dryncke, they maryed wyues and were married, euen vnto that same daye that Noe went into the Arke: and the floude cam, and destroyed them all. Lyke wyse also as it chaunced in the dayes of Lot. They dydeate, they dryncke, they bought, they solde, they planted, they buylded: But euen the same daye that Lot went out of sodom, it rayned with fyre and bymstone from heauen, & destroyed them all. Euen thus, shal it be in the daye, when the sonne of man shal appere.

At that daye he that is on y house topp, and his stuffe in the house: let him not come downe to take it out. And let not him that is in the felde, turne backe agayne to y thynges that he lefte behinde. Remember Lottes wyfe. Whosoever wyll go aboute to saue his lyfe, shal lose it: and whosoever shal lose his lyfe, shal saue it. I tell you: in that night ther shalbe two in one bed, the one shalbe receaued, the other shalbe forsaaken: & two shalbe agrypnyng together: the one shalbe awne mouth, wyl I iudge the, thou cypyl seruaunt. Knewest thou that I am a strayte man, takyng by that I layde not downe, & reapynge that I dyd not Lowe? And wherfo re gauest not thou my money into the bakke, and at my comynge I myght haue requi red myne awne wyth vauntage?

And he sayd vnto them that stode by, ta ke from hym that pounce, and geue it hym that hath ten pounce. And they sayde vnto hym: Lorde, he hath ten pounce. For I saye vnto you, that vnto euery one which hath, shal be geuen. (And he shall haue abundaunce) & from him that hath not shal be taken awaye, euen that which he hath. Moreover, those myne enemys, (which wolde not I shuld ray gne ouer them) brynge hyther, and see them before me. And when he had thus spoken, he proceeded forth, takyng his iourney, to go vp to Ierusalem.

And it fortuneth, when he was come nye to Bethphage & Bethany, besydes y mouite which is called Olyuete, he sent two of his discyples sayinge: go ye into y towne, which is ouer agaynst you: Into the which aslone as ye are come, ye shall fynde an asses colte tyed, wheron yet neuer man sate. Loose him, and brynge hym hyther. And yf eny man aske you, why do ye loose him? thus shall ye saye vnto hym: the Lorde hath nedde therof.

They that were sent, went their waye, ad founde, euen as he had sayd vnto them. And as they were a lassyng the colte, the owners therof sayd vnto them, why loose ye the col te? And they sayde: for the Lorde hath nedde of hym. And they brought him to Iesus, and cast their raymet on the colte, and lett Iesus theron. And as he went, they spredde they clothes in the waye.

And when he was now come nye to hye goyng downe of the mounte Olyuete, the whole multitude of the discyples began to reioyce, & to prayse God with a loude voyce, for all the myracles that they had sene, say inge: * blessed be the kyng that cometh in the name of the Lorde: peace in heauen, and glory in the hyst. And some of y Pharyses of the company sayd vnto hym: * After, re buke the discyples. he sayd vnto them: I tell you, yf these holde theyr peace, * then shall the stones crye.

And when he was come neare, he be helde the cytie, and wept on it, sayinge: If thou haddest knowen those thynges which belonge vnto thy peace, euen in this thy dape, y woldst take hede. But now are they hydde from thyne eyes. For the dapes shall come vpo the, * that thy enemys also shall cast a banke aboute the, and compasse y rou de, and kepe the in on euery syde, and make the euen wyth the groude, and thy chyldren which are i the. And they shall not leaue in y one stone vpon another, because thou knowest not the tyme of thy viltacyon.

And he went into the temple, and beganne to cast out them that solde therin, and them that bought, sayinge vnto the: It is writte:
* my house is the house of prayer: but ye ha ue made it a den of theues. And he taught dayly in the temple. * But the hye prestes & the scribes and the chefe of the people wet aboute to destroye hym: & could not fynde what to do. For all y people stakke by hym, whan they hearde hym.

The xx. Chapter.

They aske Chyft one question, and he answereth them another. The parable of the vyneparde. Of the tyme to be geuen vnto Cesar, & how Chyft shal supporte the man ners of the Saduces.

And it fortuneth in one of those dapes (as he taught the people in the temple and preached the gospell) the hye pre stes and the scribes came together wyth the elders, & spake vnto him sayinge: * Tell vs: by what auctorite doest thou these thynges?
Either who is he, y gaue the this auctorite?
Iesus answered & sayd vnto the: I also will aske you one thyng, & answer me. The bay tyme of Iohn: was it fro heauen or of men?
And they thought wyth in them selues say inge: yf we saye fro heauen, he will saye: why then beleued ye hym not? But yf we saye: of men, all y people wyl stone vs. For they be perswaded, that Iohn is a prophete. And they answered, that they coulde not tell whence it was. And Iesus sayd vnto them: nether tell I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges.

Then began he to put forth to the people this parable: * A certayne man planted a vyneparde, and let it forth to husband men, and went hym selfe into a straunge countre for a greate season. And when the tyme was come, he sent a seruaunt to the husband men, that they shulde geue hym of the frute of the vineparde. And they bet hym, and sent hym, awaye emptye. And agayne, he sent yet ano ther seruaunt. And hym they dyd beat, and entreated hym shamefully, and sent hym a waye emptye. Agayne, he sent the thyrde al so, and hym they wouided, and cast hym out.
Then sayd the Lord of the vineparde: what shall I do? * I wyl sende my deare sonne: peraduenture they will stande in awe of hym, whan they se hym.

But when y husbandmen sawe hym, they thought within them selues, sayinge: this is the heyre, * come, let vs kyll hym, that the enheritaunce maye be oures. And they cast hi out of y vineparde, & kyllid hi. What shall the Lord of y vineparde therfore do vnto the?
he shall come, & destroye these husbandmen, & shall let out his vineparde to other. Whan they hearde this, they sayde: God forbid.

And he behelde them, and sayde: what is this then

thys then that is wyrtten: * the stone that the buylders refused, the same is become the heed of the corner: Whosoever doth stamble vpon y stone, shal be broken: but on whosoe uer it falleth, it wyl geinde him to powder.
And the hye prestes and the scribes the sa me houre wet about to laye handes on hym, * and they feared the people. For they percea ued that he had spoken this synilitude aga ynst them.

And they watched hym, & sent forth spies, which shuld saye the selues ryghteous me,
* to take him in his wordes, and to deliuer him vnto y power & auctorite of the debyte.
And they asked hym, sayig: Master, we kno we that thou sayest and teachest ryght, ne ther consyderest y the outward apparean ce of eny man, but teachest the waye of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue trybute vnto Cesar, or no? he perceaued the y crafti nes, and sayde vnto them: * why tempt ye me? Shewe me a peny. Whose ymage & su perscripcio hath it? They answered and say de: Cesar. And he sayde vnto the: geue then vnto Cesar, the thynges which belonge vn to Cesar: & to God the thynges that pertay ne vnto God. And they coulde not reprove his sayinge before the people: & they marua led at his answer, and helde their peace.

Then came to hym certayne of the Sa duces, * which denye that ther is eny resur rection. And they asked him sayinge: * Ma ster, Moyses wrote vnto vs, yf eny mannes brother dye hauing a wyfe, & he dye without chyliden, that then his brother shulde take his wyfe, and rayse vp seede vnto his bro ther. Ther were therfore seuen brethren, and the fyrste toke a wyfe, & dyed without chyl dren. And the seconde toke her, and he dyed chyldelesse. And the thyrde toke her: and in lykewile the residue of the seuen, and left no chyliden behynde them, and dyed. Last of all the womā dyed also. Now in the resurrecci on, whose wyfe of them shall she be? For se uen had her to wyfe.

Iesus answered and sayd vnto them. The chyliden of this worlde mary wyues, ad arc maryed: but they which shal be counted wor thy of that worlde and the resurreccion from the deed, do not mary wyues, nether are ma ryed, nor yet can dye eny more, For they are equall vnto the angels, and are the sonnes of God, in as moch as they are chyliden of y resurreccio. And that th: deed shall ryse agay ne: Moyses also therewith besides the bushe, whan he calleth: the Lord, the God of Abra ham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of deed, but of ly uynge. For all lyue vnto him. Then certay ne of the Pharises answered, and sayd: Ma ster, thou hast wel sayd. And after that durst they not aske him eny question at all.

And he sayde vnto them: * how saye they that Chyft is Dauides sonne? And Dauid hi selfe sayeth in the boke of y psalmes: * The Lorde sayde vnto my Lorde: yst thou on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemys thy foe stoe. Dauid therfore calleth hym Lorde: and how is he then his sonne?

Then in the audyence of all the people, he sayde vnto his discyples: * beware of y Scri bes, which wyl go in longe clothyng: & lo ue gretynge in the markets, and the hyest seates in the synagoges, and the chefe row mes at feastes, which deuoure wyddowes houses, saynyng loge prayers: the same shall receaue greater dampnacyn.

The xxi. Chapter.

Chyft commendeth the poore wyddow, telleth of the destruction of Ierusalem, of false teachers, of the tokens & troubles for to come, of the ende of the worl de, and of his awne comynge.

She behelde, * he sawe the ry che men, which cast in their offe rynges into the treasury. he sa we also a certayne poore wyd dowe, which cast in thyrther two mytes. And he sayde: of a trueth I saye vnto you, * that this poo re wyddow hath put in moare then they all.
For they all haue of theyr superfluyte ad ded vnto the offerynge of God: but she, of her peny hath cast in all the substance that she had.

And vnto some that spake of the temple, how it was garnysched with goodly stones and Jewels, he sayde. * The dapes wyl co me, in the which (of these thynges which ye se) there shall not be lefte one stone vpo ano ther, y shall not be thowowe downe. And they asked hym sayinge: * After, when shall the se thynges be, and what sygne wyl ther be whan such thynges come to passe?

And he sayde: * take hede, that ye be not deceaued. For * many shall come in my na me, and saye that they are Chyft: and the ty me draweth neare. Followe ye not the therfo re. But when ye heare of warres and sedici ons, be not afayed. For these thynges must first come to passe, but the ende foloweth not by and by. Then sayde he vnto them. * Na cion shall ryse agaynst nacion, & kyngdome agaynst kyngdome, and greate erthqua kes shal be in all places, and hunger, and pe stilence, & fearfull thinges. And greate sy gnes shall ther be from heauen.

But before all these, * they shall laye hades on you, and persecute you, deliuerynge you vp to the synagoges & into presons, & shall brynge you vnto kynges & rulers for my na mes sake. And this shall chaunce you for a te stimoniall. Be at a sure point therfore i your

The xxij. Chapter.

¶ This is betraied. They ate the easter lambe. The instructed of the sacrament. They stryue who shalbe greatest. he receyue them. He prayeth that synners upon the mount. They take hym & byngge hym to the hye prestes house. Peter denyeth hym thrise, and they byngge hym before the counsell.

He * feast of sweet bread due nye, which is called Easter, and the hye prestes, and scriybes sought how they myght kyll him, for they feared the people.

* Then entered Satan into Judas, whose syn name was Icarioth (which was of the nombre of the twelue) and he went his waye and comuned with the hye prestes and officers, how he myght betraie him to the. And they were glad & promysed to geue hym money. And he consented, and sought oportunityte to betraie hym vnto them, when the people were awaye.

* Then came the daye of sweete bread, whē of necessitye Passouer must be offered. And he sent Peter & John, sayinge: go & prepare vs the Passouer, that we maye eate. They sayde vnto him: Where wilt thou, y we prepare? And he sayd vnto the: Beholde, when ye entre into the cytie, ther shall a man mete you, bearynge a pytcher of water, hi folowe into the same house that he entred in, and ye shall saye vnto the good man of the house: The master sayeth vnto the: where is y gest chamber, where I shall eate Passouer w my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greate parloure paved. Ther make ready. And they went and founde as he had sayd vnto them, and they made ready the Passouer.

* And when the houre was come, he sate downe, & the xij. Apostles wyth hym. And he sayde vnto them: I haue inwardly desyred to eate thys Passouer wyth you, before that I suffre. For I saye vnto you: hence forth I wyll not eate of it any more, vntyll it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cup, and gaue thanks, and sayd: Take thys, and deuynge it amonge you. For I saye vnto you: I wyll not dryncke of the frute of the vyne, vntyll the kyngdome of God come.

* And he toke bread, and whan he had geuen thanks, he brake it, and gaue vnto the, sayinge: Thys is my body, whych is geuen for you. Thys do, in the remembraunce of me. Lykewyse also, when he had supped, he toke the cup, sayinge: Thys cup is the new testament in my bloude, whych is shedd for you.

¶ Pet beholde, y haue of hym that betrayeth me, is wyth me on the table. And trulye the sonne of man goeth, as it is apointed: But wo vnto that mā, by whom he is betrayed.
And they began to enquyre amonge them selues,

¶ selues, whych of them it was, y shulde do it.

* And ther was a stryfe amonge them, whych of them shuld seme to be the greatest.
And he sayde vnto them: the kynges of na-cyons raygne ouer them: and they that haue auctoryte vpon them, are called gracious lordes. But ye shall not be so. * But he that is greatest amonge you, shalbe as the younger: and he that is chiefe, shalbe as he that doth mynister. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meate, or he that serueth? Is not he y sitteth at meate? But I am amonge you, as he y mynistreth. Ye are they, whych haue bydden wyth me in my temptacions.
And I apoint vnto you a kyngdome, as my father hath apointed to me: that ye maye eate and dryncke at my table in my kyngdome, & y sit on seates, iudgyng the twelue tribes of Israell.

¶ And the Lord sayde: Symon, Simon, be-holde, Satan hath desyred to synne you, as it were wheate: but I haue prayed for the, that thy fayth faile not. And when thou art conuerted, strength thy brethren. And he sayde vnto hym: * Lord, I am ready to go wyth the into prison, and to deeth. And he sayd: I tell the Peter, the cocke shall not crowe thys daye, tyll thou haue thysse denyed that thou knewest me.

¶ And he sayde vnto them: * when I sent you wythout wallet and scrippe and shoes lacked ye any thyng? And they sayde, no.
¶ Then he sayde vnto them: but now he that hath a wallet, let hym take it vp, and lykewyse hys scrippe. And he y hath no swerde, let hym sell hys coate, and bye one. ¶ For I saye vnto you, that yet the same whych is wrytten, must be performed in me: * euen among the wycked was he reputed. For those thynges whych are wrytten of me, haue an ende. And they sayde: Lord, beholde, here are two swerdes. And he sayde vnto them: it is ynough.

* And he came out, and went (as he was wonte) to mounte Olyuete. And the discyples folowed hym. And when he came to the place, he sayd vnto them: * praye, lest ye fall into temptacion.

¶ And he gate hym selfe from them, about a stones cast, and kneled downe, ad prayed, sayinge: Father, yf thou wylt, remoue thys cup from me. Neuerthelesse, * not my wyll, but thyne be fulfilled. And ther appeared an angell vnto hym from heauen, confortyng hym. And he was in an agoyne, and prayed the longer. And hys sweate was ly-ke dryppes of bloud, trycklynge downe to y grounde. And whan he rose vp from prayer and was come to hys discypples, he founde them slepyng for heynesse, and sayde vnto them: why slepe ye? Ryse, and praye, lest ye fall into temptacion.

* Whyll he yet spake: beholde, ther came company, and he that was called Judas one of the twelue, went before them, and presed nye vnto Iesus, to kysse hym. But Iesus sayde vnto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of man wyth a kysse? Whē they which were about hym, sawe what wolde folow, they sayde vnto him: Lord, shall we symte with swerde. * And one of the smote a seruant of the hye preste, & stroke of his ryght eare. Iesus answered & sayde: suffre ye thus farre forth. And whan he touched hys eare he healed hym.

¶ Then Iesus sayde vnto the hye prestes and rulers of the temple and the elders, whych were come to hym. Ye be come out, as vnto a thefe, wyth swerdes and stanes.
When I was dayly wyth you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes agaynst me.
But thys is euen poure very houre, and the power of darcknes. ¶ Then toke they hym, and ledde hym, and brought hym to the hye prestes house. But Peter folowed a farre of.

¶ And when they had kyndled a fyre in the myddes of the palace, and were set downe together. * Peter also sate downe amonge them. But whan one of the wenches behel-de hym, as he sate by the fyre (and looked vp on hym) she sayde: thys same felow was also wyth hym. * And he denyed hym, sayinge: woman: I knowe hym not. And after a ly-tell whyle, another sawe hym, ad sayd, thou art also of them. And Peter sayd: mā I am not. And about the space of an houre after, another affyrmed, sayinge: verely thys felowe was wyth hym also, for he is of Galile.
¶ And Peter sayde: mā I wote not what thou sayest. And immediatly whyll he yet spake, y cocke crew. And the Lord tournd backe, and looked vpon Peter. * And Peter remembered the worde of the Lord, how he had sayd vnto hym: befoze the cocke crowe, thou shalt deuynge me thysse. And Peter went out, and wepte byttrely.

¶ And the mā that toke Iesus, mocked him, and smote him: and whā they had blyndfol-ded him, they stroke hym on the face, & asked hym, sayinge: arte thou who is it that smote the?
And many other thynges despytfullpe sayd they agaynst hym.

¶ And as sone as it was daye, the elders of the people and the hye prestes and scriybes, came together, and ledde hym into the ir counsell, sayinge: art thou very Chryst? tell the same is nye. ¶ Then let them which are in Ierusalem, fye to the mountaynes. And let the whych are in the myddes of it, departe out.

¶ And let not them that are in other countrey-es, enter therein. For these be the dayes of vegeance, that all thynges which are wrytten, maye be fulfilled. ¶ But wo vnto them that be with chylde, & to them that geue sucke in then shal they se the sonne of man come in a cloude with power and greate glozy. ¶ When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and lyfte vp youre heades, for your redemption draweth nye.

* And he shewed them a symilitude: be-holde the fygge tree, and all the trees, when they shoot forth their budde, ye se and knowe of youre a wintre selues, y sommer is then nye at hand. So lykewyse ye also (when ye se these thynges come to passe) be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nye. ¶ Verely I saye vnto you: this generacion shal not passe, tyll all be fulfilled. ¶ Heauen and erth shal passe: but my wordes shal not passe.

* Take hede to your selues, lest at anye tyme youre hertes be overcome with surfet-tyng and dronkenness and cares of thys lyfe, and so the daye come vpon you vnwares.
¶ For as a snare shal it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole erth. * Watch ye therfore continually, and praye, that ye maye escape all these thynges that shal come, and that ye maye stande befoze the sonne of man.

¶ In the dupe tyme, he taught in the temple: and at nyght, he went out, and abode in

The. xxiij. Chapter. ✠

Jesus is brought before Pilate and Herode. The women make lamentacion for hym. He prayeth for hys enemyes, forgiveth the thefe upon hys right hand, and dyeth on the crosse, and is buryed.

*Mat. xxvii. a
*Mar. xv. a.
*John. xviij. c.

And y whole multitude of the arose, ad led hym vnto Pilate. And they begane to accuse him, sayinge: we founde thys felowe peruerteringe the people, and forbyddynge to paye tribute to Cesar: sayinge, that he is Chryst a kynge. And Pilate apposed him, sayinge: art thou the kynge of the Jewes? he answered hym, and sayde: thou sayest it. Then sayde Pilate to the hie Priestes, and to the people: I fynde no faulte in this mā. And they were the more fawne, sayinge: he moueth the people, teachinge thow out all Jewry, and beganne at Galile, euen to thys place.

When Pilate hearde mencyon of Galile, he asked, whether the man were of Galile. And asone as he knewe that he beloged vnto Herodes Iurisdiccyon, he sent him to Herode, whych was also at Jerusalem at that tyme. And whē Herode sawe Jesus, he was exccadynge glad, for he was desyrus to se hym of a longe season, because he had hearde many thynges of hym, and he trusted to haue sene some myracle done by hym. Then he questyoned with him many wordes. But he answered hym nothyng. The hie Priestes & Scribes, stode forth, accused hym straitly. And Herod wyth hys men of warre, despyfed hym: and whan he had mocked hym, he arrayed hym in whyte clothynge, ad sent hym agayne to Pilate. * And the same daye Pilate and Herod were made frendes together. For before, they were a variaunce.

And Pilate called together y hie Priestes and the rulers, and the people, and sayde vnto them: ye haue brought thys mā vnto me, as one that peruertereth the people. And beholde, I examyn hym before you, and fynde no faulte in thys man, of those thynges where of ye accuse hym: No nor yet Herode. For I sent you to hym: and lo, nothyng worthy of deeth is done to hym. I wyll therfore chaste hym, and let hym losse. * For of necessity, he must haue let one losse vnto them at the feast.

And all the people cryed at once, sayinge: awaye wyth hym, and deliuer to vs Barabaz: (whych for a certayne insurreccyon made in y eptie and for mozt her, was cast in prison) Pilate spake agayne to them wyllynge to let Jesus losse, But they cryed, sayinge: Crucifye hym, Crucifye hym. he sayde vnto the y thyrd tyme: What euill hath he done? I fynde no cause of deeth in him. I wyll therfore chaste him, & let him go. * And they cryed wyth loude voyces, requyring that he myght be crucifyed. And the voyces: of the and of the hie Priestes preuailed.

And Pilate gaue sentence, that it shuld be as they requyred * and he let losse vnto the, hym that (for insurreccyon & mozt her) was cast into prison, whom they had despyed, and he deliuered vnto them Jesus, to do w hym what they wolde. * And as they ledde hym awaye, they caught one Symon of Syzen, comynge out of the felde: and on hym layde they the crosse, that he myght beare it after Jesus.

And there folowed hym a greate company of people, and of women * whych bewayled and lamented hym. But Jesus turned backe vnto them, and sayd: Ye daughters of Jerusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for youre selues, and for youre chyldren. For beholde, the dayes wyl come, in the whiche they shall saye: * happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and the pappes which neuer gaue sucke. Then shall they begynne to saye to the moztaynes: fall on vs: and to the hylles, couer vs. For yf they do thys in a grene tree, what shalbe done in the drye?

And ther were two euill doers ledde w hym to be slayne. * And after that they were come to the place (which is called Caluary) ther they crucifyed him, & the euill doers, one on the ryght hande, and the other on the lefte. Then sayd Jesus: father forgeue them, for they wote not what they do. * And they parted his raymēt, and cast lottes. And the people stode, and behelde.

And the rulers mocked him wyth them, saying: he saued other men, let him saue him selfe, yf he be very Chryst, the chosen of God. The soudyers also mocked hym, and came, and offred hym veneger, and sayd: yf thou be the kynge of y Jewes, saue thy selfe. * And a superscripcyon was wyrtten ouer hym, w lettres of Greke, & Latin, ad hebreu: This is the kynge of the Jewes.

And one of the euill doers whych were hāged, rayled on him, sayinge: If y be Chryst, saue thy selfe and vs. But the other answered * & rebuked him, sayinge: Fearest thou not God, sayng thou art in the same damnacyon? We are ryghtously punyshed, for we receaue accordynge to oure dedes: But thys man hath done nothyng amysse. And he sayde vnto Jesus. Lorde, remember me, when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: Merely I saye vnto the: to daye shalt thou be wyth me in Paradyse.

* And it was about the syxte houre. And ther was darcknes ouer all the earth, vntyll the nynt houre, and the sonne was darckned.

darckned. * And the bayle of the temple dyd rent, euen thowow the myddes. And whan Jesus had cryed with a loude voyce, he sayd: Father, into thy handes I comende my sprete. And when he thus had sayd, he gaue up the goost. * When the Centurion sawe what had happened, he glorifyed God sayinge. Merely, this was a righteous mā. And all the people y came together to that syght, & sawe the thynges whych had happened, smote they bzettes, and returned. And all hys acqumtance * and the women that folowed hym from Galile, stode a farre of, beholdynge these thynges.

And beholde * ther was a mā (named Joseph) a counsellour, and he was a good man and a iuste: the same had not consented to the counsell & dede of them, whych was of Aramathia, a cyprie of the Jewes, whych same also wayted for the kyngdome of God: he went vnto Pilate, and begged the boddie of Jesus, and toke it downe and wrapped it in a linnen clooth, and layed it in a sepulchre that was hewen in stone, wherein neuer man before was layed. * And that daye was the preparynge of the Sabboth, and the Sabboth due on. The women that folowed after, whych had come wyth hym from Galile, behelde the sepulchre, and how his body was layed. And they returned and prepared swete odoures and oyntmentes: but rested the Sabboth daye, accordynge to the commaundement.

The women come to the graue, whych appeared vnto the two dyscyples that go towards Emmaus, stoneth in the myddes of all hys dyscyples, openeth theyr vnderstandinge in the scripures, geueth them a charge, and ascendeth up to heauen.

At vpon the fyrst daye of the Sabbothes, very early in the mornynge, they came vnto the sepulchre, and brought the swete odoures whych they had prepared, and other women wyth them. And they founde the stone rowled awaye from the sepulchre, and they went in: but founde not the body of the Lorde Jesu. And it happened, as they were amazed therat, Beholde, two men stode by them in shynynge garmentes. * And as they were afrayde, and bowed downe theyr faces to the erth, they sayde vnto them: why seke ye the lyuynge amonge the deed? he is not here: but is rylen. Remember, how he spake vnto you, whē he was yet in Galile, sayinge: that the sonne of man must be deliuered into the handes of synfull men, and be crucifyed, and the thyrde daye ryse agayne.

And they remēbred hys wordes, & returned from the sepulchre, & tolde all these thynges vnto those cleuen, & to all the remnaunt. * It was Mary Magdalen, & Joanna, and

Then arose Peter and ran vnto the sepulchre, and looked in, and sawe the linnen clothes layde by them selfe, and departed, wonderynge in hym selfe at that whych had happened. ✠

* And beholde, two of them went that same daye to a towne (called Emmaus) which was from Jerusalem about thre score forlonges, and they talked together of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunced, that whyle they communed together and reasoned, Jesus hym selfe due neare, * and went wyth them. But theyr eyes were holden, y they shulde not knowe hym. And he sayde vnto them: What maner of communycacions are these that ye haue one to another, as ye walke, and are sabb? And the one of them (whose named was Cleophas) answered, and sayde to hym: art thou onely a strainger in Jerusalem, and hast not knowen the thynges whych haue chaunced there, in these dayes? he sayde vnto them: what thynges?

And they sayd vnto hym: of Jesus of Nazareth, whych was a Prophet, myghty in dede and worde before God and all the people: and how the hie Priestes, ad oure rulers deliuered hym to be condemned to deeth: & haue crucifyed hym. But we trusted that it had bene he whych shuld haue redeemed Israel. And as touchynge all these thynges, to daye is eue the thyrde daye, that they were done.

* Pee, and certayne women also of oure company made vs astonnyed, which came early vnto the sepulchre, and founde not hys body: and came, sayinge, that they had sene a visyon of angels, whych sayd that he was alvyue. And certayne of the whych were wyth vs, went to the sepulchre, and founde it eue so as the women had sayde: but hym they sawe not.

And he sayde vnto them: O fooles & slowe of herte, to belue all that the Prophetes haue spokē. * Dought not Chryst to haue suffered these thynges, and to enter into hys glory? And he begā at Moses, and all the Prophetes, & interpreted vnto them in all scripures whych were wyrtten of hym. And they due nye vnto the towne, whych they wēt vnto. And he made, as though he wold haue gone further. And they * constrained hym sayinge: abyde wyth vs, for it draweth towardes nyght, and the daye is farre passed. And he went into tary wyth them.

The euergladyng birth of Chyrd, and how he became man. The testymony of John. The cal-lyng of Andrew, Peter &c.

In the begynnyng was the worde, and the worde was wyth God: and God was the worde. The same was in the begynnyng wyth God.

All thinges were made by it, & wythout it, was made nothyng that was made. * In it was lyfe, and the lyfe was the lyght of men, and the lyght shyneth in darcknes, and the darcknes comprehended it not.

There was sent from God a man, whose name was John. The same came as a wytnes to beare wytnes of the lyght, that all men through hym myght beleue. * He was not the lyght: but was sent to beare wytnes of the lyght. That lyght was the true lyght, whych lyghteth euery man that cometh into the worlde. He was in the worlde, and the worlde was made by hym: and the worlde knewe hym not.

He came amonge hymen, and hymen receaued him not. But as many as receaued hym * to them gaue he power to be the son-nes of God: euen them that beleued on hym name: whych were borne, not of bloude nor of the wyll of the fleshe, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

And the same worde became fleshe, and dwelt amonge vs: * and we sawe the gloze of it, as the gloze of the onely begotten sonne of the father, full of grace and trueth. * In

* John beareth wytnes of hym, and cryeth sayinge: Chys was he of whome I spake: which though he came after me, went before me, for he was before me. * And of hym fulnes haue allwe receaued, euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moses, but grace & trueth came by Iesus Chyrd.

No man hath sene God at any tyme.
The onely begotten sonne, whych is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared hym. *

And chys is the recoorde of John: when the Jewes sent prestres and Lenites fro Jerusalem, to aske hym, what art thou? And he cōfessed & denyed not, & sayde playnly. I am not Chyrd. And they asked him: what then?
* art thou helyas? And he sayeth: I am not. * Art thou that prophete? And he answered no. Then sayde they vnto hym: what art thou, that we maye geue an answer to them that them that sent vs. What sayest thou of thy selfe? He sayde: I am the voyce of a crier in the wilderness, make strayght the waye of the Lorde, * as sayde the prophete Esaias.

And they whych were sent, were of the Pharysees: And they asked him, & sayde vnto him: why baptisest thou then, if thou be not Chyrd, nor helyas, nether that prophete?
John answered the sayinge: I baptise with water: but there standeth one amonge you, whom ye knowe not, he it is which though he came after me, was before me, whose sholatchet I am not worthy to vnloose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordan: where John dyd baptise. *

The nexte daye, John seeth Iesus co-minge vnto hym, and sayeth: beholde the lambe of God, whych taketh awaye the syn-ne of the worlde. Chys is he of whome I sayd: After me cometh a man, whych went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe him not: but that he shuld be declared to Israell, therefore am I come baptysinge with water.

And John bare recoorde, sayinge: I sawe the sperte descende from heauen, lyke vnto a dove, & abode vpon him, and I knewe hym not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same sayde vnto me: vpon whom thou halt se the sperte descende, and tary styll on hym, the same is he whych baptiseth wyth the holy goost. And I sawe, and bare recoorde, that he is the sonne of God. *

The nexte daye after, John stode agayne, & two of his disciples, ad he behelde Jesus as he walked by, & sayeth: beholde the lambe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake, and they folowed Iesus. And Iesus turned about, and sawe them folowe hym, & sayeth vnto them: what seke ye? They sayd vnto hym: Rabbi (whych is to saye of one interprete it after) where dwellest thou?
He sayeth vnto them: come & se. They came, & sawe where he dwelt: & abode with hym the dawe. For it was about the tenth houre.

One of the two whych hearde John speake, and folowed him, was Andrew Simon Peters brother. The same founde hym brother Simon fyrst, and sayeth vnto him: we haue founde Messias (whych is by interpretaciō, annoynted) and brought him to Iesus. And Iesus behelde hym, ad sayde: thou art * Simon the sonne of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas: which is by interpretaciō a stone.

The dawe folowyng, Iesus wolde go into Galile, and founde Philip, and sayeth vnto him: folowe me * Philip was of Bethsai-da the cite of Andrew and Peter. Philip founde Nathanael, and sayeth vnto him: We haue founde hym, of whome Moses in the lawe ad the prophetes dyd wyte, Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathanael sayd vnto hi: can there any good thyng ge come out of Nazareth? Philip sayeth vnto him: come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comyng to him, & sayeth of him: Beholde a ryght Israelyte, in whom is no gyle. Nathanael sayeth vnto him: where knowest thou me? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Before that Philip called the, when thou wast vnder the fygge tree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayd vnto him: Rabbi, thou art euen the very sonne of God, thou art the kynge of Israel. Jesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Because I sayde vnto the, I sawe the vnder the fygge tree, & beleuest. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto him: Ve-rely, verely, I saye vnto you: hereafter shall ye se heauen open, & the angels of God ascendyng & descendyng ouer the sonne of man.

Chyrd turneth the water into wyne, and dyeth the byres & selles out of the temple.

And the thyrde daye, was ther a marriage in Cana a cytie of Ga-lile, & the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called: & his disciples vnto the marriage.
And when the wyne fayled, the mother of Iesus sayeth vnto him: they haue no wyne.
Iesus sayeth vnto her: woman * what haue I to do wyth the, myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayeth vnto the ministris: whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you, do it. And ther were standyng there, syre waterpots of stone after the maner of the purifyng of the Jewes, contaynyng two or thre fy-tyngs a pecc.

Iesus sayeth vnto the: fylle the water pots with water. And they fylled the vp to the brim. And he sayeth vnto them: drawe out now, & beare vnto the gouernour of the feaste.
And they bare it. When the ruler of the feaste had tasted the water that was turned vnto wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but the ministris whych drew the water knewe) he callech the byrgdegome, ad sayeth vnto hym: Euery man at the begynnyng doth sett forth good wyne, and when men be droncke, then that whych is worse. But thou hast kept the good wyne, vntill now.

Chys begynnyng of myracles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galile, and shewed hym gloze, & his disciples beleued on him. * After this he wote downe to Capernaum, he & his mother, and his bretheren, and his disciples, and there continued not manye dayes.

And the Jewes after was euen at hade, and Iesus went vp to Jerusalem, & foude syttinge in the temple, those that solde oxen and shepe and doves, & chaungers of money. And when he had made (as it were) a scourge of linal coardes, he droute them all out of the temple.

out of the temple, with the shepe & oxen, and powred out the chaungers money, and ouerthrew the tables, & sayde vnto the that solde doves: haue these thinges hence, & make not my fathers house an house of marchaundise: And his disciples remembred it & is wrytten: *the zeile of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

*Mat. xxi. b.

Then answered & Jewes and sayde vnto him: what token shewest thou vnto vs, seinge that thou dost these thynges? Iesus answered & sayde vnto them: *destroie this temple, and in thre dayes I wyl reare it vp. Then sayde & Jewes: xlvj. yeres was this temple a byldynge: & wylt thou reare it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of his body. A sone, therefore as he was ryen from deeth agayne, his disciples remembred that he thus had sayde. And they beleued the scripture, & & wordes which Iesus had sayde.

*Mat. xxi. f.

When he was in Ierusalem at Easter in & feast daye, many beleued on his name, wher they sawe his myracles whych he dyd. But Iesus dyd not comit him selfe vnto them, because he knewe all men, and neded not, that eny man shuld testifie of him. *for he knewe what was in man.

The communicacion of Christ with Nicodemus The doctrine and baptisme of John, and what wyl nesse he beareth of Christ.

NHer was a mā of the Pharises named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jewes. *The same cam to Iesus by nyght, and sayde vnto him: Rabbi, we knowe that thou arte a teacher come from God: for no man coulde do suche myracles as thou doest, except God were w him. Iesus answered & sayd vnto hi: Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, except a mā be borne from aboue, he cannot se the kyngdom of God. Nicodemus sayeth vnto hym: how can a man be borne whē he is olde? can he enter into hys mothers wombe and be borne agayne? Iesus answered *verely, verely, I saye vnto the: except a man be borne of water & of the sprete, he cannot enter into the kyngdom of God, *that whych is borne of the fleshe, is fleshe, and that which is borne of the sprete, is sprete. sawe him lye, and knewe that he now longe tyme had bene dysleasid, he sayeth vnto him: Wylt thou be made whole? The sycke man answered hym: Syr, I haue no man when Iesus sayeth vnto hym: ryse, take vp thy bed, & walke. And immediatly the man was made whole, and toke vp his bed, and walked. And the same daye was the Sabboth. The Jewes therfore sayde vnto hym that was made whole: It is the Sabboth daye, it is not lawfull for the to cary thy bed.

He answered them: he that made me whole, sayde vnto me: take vp thy bed, and walke.

Then asked they hym: what man is that, whych sayd vnto y^e, take vp thy bed & wal-ke? And he that was healed, wist not who it was. For Iesus had gottē him selfe awaye, because that ther was pceace of people in that place.

*Afterwarde, Iesus founde him in the temple, and sayde vnto him: beholde, thou art made whole, synne nomore, lest a worse thinge happen vnto the. The man departed & tolde the Jewes, that it was Iesus, whych had made hym whole. *And therfore the Jewes dyd persecute Iesus, and sought the meanes to slea him, because he had done these thynges on the Sabboth daye. And Iesus answered them.

*My father worketh hitherto, and I worke. Therfore, the Jewes sought the more to kyl him, not onely because he had broken the Sabboth: but sayde also that *God was his father and made hym selfe equall with God.

Then answered Iesus, & sayde vnto the:
verely, verely, I saye vnto you: the sonne can do nothige of him selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoener he doeth, that doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth y^e sonne, and sheweth hym all thynges that he hym selfe doeth. And he will shewe hi greater workes the these, because ye shuld mar-uaile. For lykwys as the father rapeth vp the deed, and quykeneeth the, euen so the sonne quykeneeth whom he wyl. *Nether iudgeth the father eny man: but hath com-mytted all iudgement vnto y^e sonne, because that all men shuld honoure the sonne euen as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father whych hath sent hym. Verely, verely I saye vnto you. *He that heareth my worde, & beleueth on him that sent me, hath euera-sting lyfe, and shall not *come into damnacion: but is scaped from deeth vnto lyfe.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: y^e houre shall come, & now it is, whē y^e deed shall heare y^e voyce of the sonne of God. And they that heare, shall lyue. *For as the father hath lyfe in hym selfe, so lykwys hath he geuen to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, because he is the sonne of man. *Marnaple not at this: for the *houre shal come, in y^e which, all that are in the graues, shall heare his voyce, and shall come forth: they that haue done good, vnto the resurreccion of lyfe: and they that haue done euill, vnto the resurreccion of damnacion.

*I can of myne awne selfe do nothing. As I heare, I iudge, and my iudgmēt is iust, because I seeke not myne awne wyll, but y^e wyll of the father whych hath sent me.

my wytnes

my wytnes were not true. Ther is another y^e beareth witnes of me: & I am sure, that the wytnes whych he beareth of me, is true.

*He sent vnto John, & he bare wytnes vnto y^e trueth. But I receaue not the recorde of man. Nether thesle, these thynges I saye that ye myght be safe. He was a burnynge, & a thynninge lyght, & ye wolde for a season haue reioyled in his lyght. *But I haue greater wytnes, then the wytnes of John: *For to fynysh, y^e same workes that I do, beare wytnes of me, y^e the father hath sent me. And y^e father him selfe whych hath sent me: *hath borne witnes of me. Ye haue not hearde his voyce at eny tyme nor sene his shape, his word haue ye not abydinge in you. For who he hath sent, him ye beleue not.

*Search the scriptures, for in them ye thinke ye haue eternall lyfe: & they are they whych testify of me. And yet wyl ye not come to me, that ye myght haue lyfe. I receaue not praye of men. But I knowe you, that ye haue not y^e loue of God in you. I am come wyl ye receaue: how ca ye beleue, whych re-ceae honoure one of another, & seke not the honoure that cometh of God onely?

Do not thyncke that I wyl accuse you to my father. Ther is one y^e accuseth you: euen Moses in who y^e trust. For had ye beleued Moses, ye wolde haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But ye ye beleue not his wy-tinges: how shall ye beleue my wordes?

The. vi. Chapter.

Iesus fedeth fyue thousand men departeth awaye that they shuld not make hym kynge, and reproved the fleschly hearers of his worde. The carrell are offended at hym.

After these thynges *Iesus went hys waye ouer the see of Galile whych is the see of Tiberias: & a greate multitude folowed him, because they sawe his myracles whych he dyd on them that were dysleasid. And Iesus went vp into a mountayne, & there he sate with his disciples. And easter, a feast of y^e Jewes was nye. * * * When Iesus then lyfte vp his eyes, and sawe a greate cōpany come vnto him, he sayeth vnto Philip: whence shall we bye bread, that these maye eate? This he sayd to p^rone hym: for he him selfe knewe, what he wolde do.

Philip answered him: two hundred peny worth of bread are not sufficient for them, y^e euery man maye take a lytell. One of his disciples (Andrew, Simon Peters brother) sayeth vnto him: There is a lad here, whych hath fyue barley lones and two fyshes: but what are they amonge so many? And Iesus sayde: Make y^e people syt downe. Ther was moch grasse in y^e place. So the men sate do-wne in nobre, about fyue thousand. And Jesus toke the bread: And whan he had geuen thankes, he gaue to the disciples, and y^e disciples to the that were set downe: And lyke wys of the fyshes as moch as they wolde:

When they had eaten ynough, he sayeth vnto his disciples: gather vp y^e broken meate whych remayneth: y^e nothyng be lost. And they gathered it together, and fylled twelue bassettes with the broken meate of the fyue barly loaves: whych broken meate remayned vnto them that had eaten. Then those men (when they had sene the myracle that Iesus dyd) sayd: this is of a trueth: y^e same prophete, y^e shulde come into the worlde.

Whē Iesus therfore perceaued, y^e they wol-de come, & take hym vp to make hym kynge, *he departed agayne into a mountayne him selfe alone.

*And when euen was now come, his disciples wet downe vnto the see, & gat vp into a shippe, and came ouer the see vnto Capernaum. And it was now darcke, and Iesus was not come to them. And y^e see arose with a greate wynde that blew. So when they had rowen about a. xvj. or. xxx. furlonges, they sawe Iesus walkyng in the see, & drawing nye vnto the shippe, & they were afrayed. But he sayeth vnto them: It is I, be not afrayde. Then wold they haue receaued him into the shyp, & immediatly the shyp was at the lande whyther they went.

The daye folowynge whan the people (whych stode on the other syde of the see) sa-we, y^e ther was none other shyp there, saue that one wher ito his disciples were entred, & that Iesus went not in with his disciples into y^e shyp: but that his disciples were gone awaye alone (howbeit, ther cā other shyppes fro Tiberias nye vnto the place, where they dyd eate bread), after that the Lord had geuen thankes) when the people therfore sa-we that Iesus was not there, nether his disciples, they also toke shyping, & came to Capernaum, sekyng for Iesus.

And when they had founde hym on the other syde of the see, they sayde vnto hym: Rabbi, whē camest thou hither? Iesus answered them, and sayde: verely, verely I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe y^e myracles but because ye dyd eate of the loaues, and were fylled.

risheth, but for that whych endureth vnto euerastringe lyfe, whych meate the sonne of man shal geue vnto you. For y^e hym hath whom he hath sent, They sayde therfore vnto him: what sygne shewest thou then, that we maye see, and beleue the: What doest thou worke? Durc fathers dyd eate Manna in the desert as it is wyrtte: he gaue the: breed from heauen to eate. Then Iesus sayde vnto the: verely, verely I saye vnto you: Moyses gaue you not that breed from heauen: * but my father geueth you the true breed from heauen. For the breed of God is he, whych cometh downe from heauen, and geueth lyfe vnto the worlde.

Then sayd they vnto him: Lord, euermore geue vs this breed. And Iesus sayd vnto them: I am the breed of lyfe. He that cometh to me shall not hunger: and he that beleueth on me shall neuer thirst. * But I sayde vnto you: that ye also haue sene me, and yet ye beleue not. All that the father geueth me shall come to me: and he that cometh to me, I cast not awaye. For I came downe from heauen: * not to do that I will, but that he will, whych hath sent me. And this is the fathers will whych hath sent me, that of all whych he hath geuen me, I shall loose nothinge: but rayse them vp agayne at the last daye. And this is the will of him that sent me: that euerp one whych seeth the sonne * and beleueth on him, haue euerlasting lyfe. And I wyll rayse him vp at the last daye. The Jewes the murmured at him, because he sayd: I am the breed (sayde) whych came downe from heauen. And they sayde: * Is not this Iesus the sonne of Ioseph, whose father & mother we knowe? How is it the he sayeth, I came downe from heauen? Iesus answered & sayd vnto them. Murmur not amonge youre selues. * * No man can come to me, except the father which hath sent me, drawe hym: And I wyll rayse hym vp at the last daye. It is wyrtten in the Prophetes: * and they shalbe all taught of God. Euerp man therfore that hath heard, and hath learned of the father, cometh vnto me. * Not that eny man hath sene the father, saue he which is of God: the same hath sene the father.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that putteth his trust in me, hath euerlasting lyfe. I am that breed of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eate Manna in the wyldernes, & are deed: This is that breed, whych cometh downe from heauen, that a man maye eate therof, & not dye. I am that lyuinge bread, whych came downe from heauen. If eny man eate of this bread, he shall lue for euer. * And the breed that I will geue, is my fleshe, whych I will geue for the lyfe of the worlde.

The Jewes therfore stroue amonge them selues, sayig: how ca this felowe geue vs the fleshe of his, to eate? Then Iesus sayde vnto them: * Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, except ye eate the fleshe of the sonne of man, and drinke his bloude: ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso eateth my fleshe & dryncketh my bloude, hath eternall lyfe, & I wyll rayse him vp at the last daye. * For my fleshe is meate in dede: and my bloude is drinke in dede. He that eateth my fleshe & dryncketh my bloude, dwelleth in me and I in him. As the lyuinge father hath sent me, and I lue for the father: Euen so he that eateth me, shall lue by the means of me. This is the breed, whych came downe from heauen: not as youre fathers dyd eate Manna, & are deed: he that eateth of this breed, shall lue euer.

These thinges sayd he in the synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therfore of his disciples (wher they had herde this) sayde: this is an harde sayinge: who can abyde the hearinge of it? Iesus knewe in him selfe, that his disciples murmured at it, & he sayd vnto them: Doth this offende you? What and ye shall see the sonne of man ascende vp thither where he was before? It is the sprete that quykkeneth, the fleshe profiteth nothinge. The wordes that I speake vnto you, are sprete and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Iesus knewe from the begynninge, which they were, that beleued not, & who shulde betraye him: And he sayd: therfore sayde I vnto you: that * no man can come vnto me, except it were geuen vnto hym of my father.

From thyme many of his disciples went backe, and forsoke him, and walked nomore with hym. Then sayde Iesus to the twelue: wyll ye also goo awaye? Then Simon Peter answered him: Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou haste the wordes of eternall lyfe * and we beleue and are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the lyuinge God. Iesus answereth the: haue not I chosen you twelue, and * one of you is a deuyll? He spake of Judas Iscariot the sonne of Simon. For he it was, that shuld betraye hym, beyng one of the twelue.

After these thinges, Iesus wet about in Galile: for he wolde not go aboute in Jewry because that the Jewes sought to kyll hym. The Jewes feast of tabernacles was at hande. Hys brethren therfore sayde vnto him: get the hence, and go into Jewry, that thy disciples also maye see thy workes that thou doest. For his brethren beleued not in him. Then Iesus sayde vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but youre tyme is all waye ready. The worlde cannot hate you. * But me it hateth: because I testify of it, that the workes therof are euill. Sope vp vnto this feast, I will not go vp yet vnto this feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. whā he had sayde these wordes vnto them he abode styll in Galile. But as sone as his brethren were come, then wet he also vp vnto the feast, not openly: but as it were pruely. Then sought him the Jewes at the feast, & sayde: * where is he? And moche murmuringe was ther of him amonge the people. For some sayde: * he is good, other sayde naye, but he deceaueth the people. How be it? no man spake openly of him, for feare of the Jewes.

Now whan halfe of the feast was done, Iesus went vp into the temple, and taught. And the Jewes marueyled, saying: How knoweth he the scriptures, seynge he neuer learned? Iesus answered them, & sayde: My doctryne hys not myne: but his that sent me. If eny man wyll be obedient vnto his wyll, he shall knowe of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my selfe. He that speaketh of him selfe, seketh his awne prayse. But he that seketh hys prayse that sent him, the same is true, & no vnrighthewesnes is in him.

Dyd not Moses geue you a lawe, & yet none of you kepeth the lawe? Why go ye about to kyll me? The people answered and sayde: thou haste the deuyll: who goth aboute to kyll the? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: * I haue done one worke, and ye all maruaile. Moses therfore gaue vnto you the circuncysion: not because it is of Moses, but * of the fathers: And yet ye on the Saboth daye, circuncyse a man. If a man on the Saboth daye receaue circuncysion without breakeynge of the lawe of Moses: dysdayne ye at me, because I haue made a man euerp whit whoale on the Saboth daye? * Iudge not after the vter aperaunce, but iudge with a ryghtewes iudgement.

Then sayde some of them of Ierusalem: is not this he, whom they go about to kyll? But lo, he speaketh boldly, and they saye nothinge to him. Do the rulers knowe in dede, that this is very Christ? Howbeit * we knowe this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

Then cryed Iesus in the temple (as he taught) saying: ye both knowe me, and whence I am ye knowe. And I am not come of my selfe: but he that sent me is true, whom ye knowe not. But I knowe him. * (And yet I saye that I knowe hym not, I shalbe a lyer lyke vnto you, but I knowe hym) for I am of hi, & he hath sent me. * The they sought to take him: but no man layde handes on him, because his houre was not yet come. * Many of the people beleued on hym. * I sayde: when Christ cometh, will he do moore myracles the these, that this man hath done?

The Pharisees hearde that the people murmured suche thinges concerning him. * And the pharisees and hye prestes * sent ministres to take him. The sayde Iesus vnto the: Pet am I a lytell whyle with you, and then go I vnto him that sent me. Ye shall seke me, and shall not fynde me: * & where I am, thither can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes amonge them selues: whither wyll he go, that we shall not fynde him? Wyll he go amonge the gentyls (whyche are scattered abroade) and teach the gentyls? What maner of saying is this that he sayd: ye shall seke me, & shall not fynde me: and where I am, thither can ye not come?

In the last daye, that great daye of the feast Iesus stode, and cryed, sayinge: * If eny man thyrst, lett him come vnto me, & drinke. He that beleueth on me (as sayeth the scripture) out of his belly shall flowe ryuers of water of lyfe. But this spake he of the sprete, whych they that beleue on him, shulde receaue. * For the holy goost was not yet there, because Iesus was not yet glorified.

Many of the people therfore (wher they hearde this saying) sayd * of a truth this is a prophet: but other sayde: this is Christ. But some sayde: shal Christ come out of Galile? * Sayeth not the scripture, the Christ shall come of the seed of Dauid: and out of the towne of Bethleem where Dauid was? So was ther dissencion amonge the people because of him. And some of the wolde haue taken him but no man layde handes of him. The came the ministres to the hye prestes and Pharisees. And they sayed vnto them: why haue ye not brought hi? The ministres answered: neuer man spake as this man doeth. The answered the Pharisees: are ye also discaued? Doth eny of the rulers or of the Pharisees beleue on him? But this comen people whych knowe not the lawe, are cursed. Nicodemus sayeth vnto them (* he that came to Iesus by nyght, & was one of the) Doth oure lawe iudge eny man, before it heare hi, and knowe what he hath done? They answered, and sayd vnto hi: art thou also of Galile? Search & loke, for out of Galile aryleth no prophete. And euerp man went vnto his awne house.

The viij. Chapter.

A woman is take in adoultre, whiche delpurereth her. The freedom of such as followe Christ, whom they accuse to haue the deuill withyn hym, and go aboute to stone hym.

Iesus went vnto mount olyuete, and early in the mornynge he came agayne into the temple, and all the people cam vnto hym, & he saie do wne, & taught them. And the scribes & pharisees rised brought vnto hym a woman taken in aduoutry: & whā they had set hir in the myd-des, they laye vnto hym: Master, thys woman was taken in aduoutry, euen as the dede was a doing. * Moses in the lawe commāded vs, that sucde shulde be stoned. But what sayest thou? This they sayde to tempt him that they myght accuse him. But Iesus stouped downe, and with his synger wrote on the grounde. So, whan they contynued askynge him, he lyste him selfe vp, and sayde vnto them: let him that is amonge you without synne, cast the fyrst stone at her. And agayne he stowped downe, & wrote on the groude. And as sone as they hearde this, they wet out one by one, beginning at the eldest.

 And Iesus was lefte alone, & the woman standynge in the myddes. When Iesus had lyste vp him selfe, and sawe no man, but the woman, he layde vnto hir: woman, where are those thyne accusars? hath no man condemned? She sayde: No man, Lord. And Iesus sayde. Neither do I condemne the.
 Go and * synne no more. ¶

¶ Then spake Iesus agayne vnto them, saying: * I am the lyght of the worlde. he þ foloweth me, doth not walke i darchnes but shall haue þ light of lyfe. The Pharises therfore sayde vnto him: thou bearest recorde of thy selfe, thy recorde is not true. Iesus answered, & sayde vnto them: though I beare recorde of my selfe, yet my recorde is true: for I knowe whence I came, and whither I go. But ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go. Ye iudge after þ fleshe. ¶ Iudge no man. And yf I iudge, my iudgement is true. For I am not alone: but I & the father that sent me. * It is alio wyrtten in poure lawe, that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that beareth wytnes of my selfe, & the father that sent me, beareth wytnes of me. Then sayde they vnto him: where is thy father? Iesus answered: ye nether knowe me, nor yet my father: If ye had knowē me, ye shulde haue knowē my father also. These wordes spake Iesus in the tresury as he taught in the temple, and no man layde handes on hym * for his houre was not yet come. ¶

Then sayde Iesus agayne vnto them: ✠ I go my waye, & * ye shall seeke me, & shall dye in youre synnes. Whyther I go, thither can ye not come. The sayde the Jewes: will he kyll him selfe, because he sayth: whyther I go, thither can ye not come? And he sayde vnto them: ye are from beneth, I am from aboue. Ye are of this world, I am not of this world, I sayd therfore vnto you, that ye shal dye in youre synnes. For * yf ye beleue not that I am he, ye shall dye in youre synnes.

Then sayd they vnto him. who arte thou?
And Iesus sayeth vnto them: Euē the very same thing that I speake vnto you. I haue many thinges to saye, and to iudge of you: Pee, & he that sent me, is true. * And I speake in the world, those thinges, which I haue hearde of hym. howebeit they vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then sayd Iesus vnto them: when ye haue lyft vp an hye the sonne of man. then shall ye knowe, & I am he, and that I do nothinge of my selfe: but * as my father hath taught me, euen so I speake these thinges: and he that sent me, is wth me. The father hath not left me alone, for I do all wayes those thinges that please him. ¶ As he spake these wordes, * many beleued on him.

✠ Then sayde Iesus to those Jewes, which beleued on him: If ye continue in my worde, then are ye my very disciples, and ye shall knowe the trueth: and the trueth shall make you free. They answered him: We be Abrahams seed, and were neuer bōde to eny man: how sayest thou then: ye shalbe made *fre?

Jesus answered the: verely, verely I saye vnto you, that whosoener comitteth sinne, is the seruaunte of sinne. And the seruauant abydeeth not in the house for euer: But the sonne abydeeth euer. If the sone therfore shal make you fre, then are ye fre in dede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seed: but ye seke meanes to kill me, because my worde hath no place in you. I speake that which I haue seene with my father: and ye do that, which ye haue seene with youre father. They answered and sayde vnto him: Abraham is oure father. Jesus sayeth vnto them: If ye were Abrahams children, ye wolde do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kylle me, a man that hath tolde you the trueth which I haue heard of God: this dyd not Abraham. Ye do the dedes of youre father: Then sayde they to him: we were not borne of fornicacion. We haue one father, eue God. Jesus sayd vnto the: yf God were youre father, truly ye wolde loue me. For I proceeded forth, and came fro God. Nether came I of my selfe, but he sent me: Why do ye not knowe my speaker? Euen because ye can not abyde the hearing of my worde.

Ye are of youre father & deuyll, and the lustes of youre father will ye serue. * He was a murthrer from the beginninge and abode not in the trueth, because there is no trueth in him. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his owne. For he is a lyar, and & father of the same thing: And because I tell you the trueth, therfore ye beleue me not.

✠ Which of you rebuketh me of synne? If I saye the trueth, why do not ye beleue me? * he that is of God, heareth Goddes wordes. Ye therfore hearethem not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes the Jewes, and sayd vnto him: Saye we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and * hast the deuyll? Ies^{us} answered: I haue not the deuyll: but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonored me. I seke not myne awne prayse: ther is one that seketh, and iudgeth.

¶ Verely verely, I saye vnto you: p̄ a man kepe my saying, he shall neuer se deeth. Then sayd the Jewes vnto him: Now knowe we that thou hast the deuyll. Abraham is deed, and the prophetes, and thou sayest: p̄ a man kepe my saying, he shall neuer taste of death.
Art thou greater then our father Abraham, which is deed: and the prophetes are deed.
Whom makest thou thy selfe?

Jesus answered: If I honour my selfe, myne honour is nothinge. It is my father y honoureth me, which ye saye, is your God, & yet ye haue not known hym: but I knowe him. And yf I saye, I knowe him not, I shal be a lyar lyke vnto you. But I knowe him, and kepe his sayinge.

Your father Abraham was glad to see a day: * and he sawe it, & reioysed. Then sayd the Jewes vnto him: thou art not yet .l. yere olde, and hast thou sene Abraham: Iesus sayd vnto thē: Merely verely, I saye vnto you: ycr Abraham was bozne, * I am. * Then toke they vp stones, to cast at hym: But Iesus hyd him selfe, and * went out of the temple. R

The. ix. Chapter. ✠

Christ maketh the man to be that was borne blinde.

As Iesus passed by, he sawe a man, which was blynde from hys byrth. And his discyples asked him sayinge: Master, who dyd synne, this man, or hys father and mother, that he was bozne blynde? Iesus answered: Neither hath this man sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the worckes of God shulde be shewed in hym. I must worcke the worckes of hym that sent me, whyle it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worcke. As longe as I am in the worlde. * I am the lyght of the worlde.

5 Allone as he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made claye of the spittle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, & sayd vnto him: Go, wesch the in the pole of Siloe, which (by interpretaciō) is a siloche to sape as, sent. He went his waye therfore, and washed, & came agayne, seinge: So the neyghbours and they þ had sene him before (how þ he was a begger) said: is not this he that sat and begged? Some sayd: this is he.
 Agayne, other sayd: ¶ (No, but) he is lyk hym.

The hym selfe sayde: I am euen he. Ther-foze sayde they vnto hym: Howe are thyne eyes opened? he answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the pole Shiloe, and was he. And whan I went & welshed, I receaued my syght. Then sayd they vnto him: where is he? he sayde: I cannot tell.

They brought to the pharises, hym that a lytell befoze was blynde: and it was the * Sabbath daye, when Iesus made y claye, and opened hys eyes. Then agayne the pharises also asked hym, howe he had receaued his syght. He sayd vnto them: he put claye vpon myne eyes, and I wasshed, and do se.
Therefore sayd some of the pharises: thys mā is not of God, because he kepeth not the Sa-both daye. Other sayde: * howe can a man y is a synner, do such myracles? And ther was a stryfe amonge them. They spake vnto the blynde mā agayne: What sayst thou of him, because he hath opened thyne eyes? He sayd:
* He is a prophete.

But the Jewes byd not beleue of the mā (how that he had bene blynde, and receaued hys syght) vntyll they called the father and mother of him that had receaued hys syght.
And they asked them, saying: Is thys poure sonne, whō ye saye was bozne blynde? how doth he now se then? his father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe, that thys is oure sonne, and that he was bozne blynde: but by what meanes he now seeth, we cānot tell. Or who hath opened his eyes, cannot we tell he is olde ynough, aske him, let hym answer for hym selfe. Suche wor-des spake hys father and mother, because they feared the Jewes. For the Jewes had conspired all ready, that yf eny man dyd con-fesse that he was Christ, * he shulde be excomunicat out of the synagoge. Therefore sayd hys father and mother: he is olde ynough, ask him.

Then agayne called they the man y was blynde, and sayd vnto hym: Seue God the praysse: we knowe that thys man is a synner. he answered therfore, and sayde: Why-ther he be a synner oz no, I cannot tell. One thyng I am sure of: that where as I was blynde, now I se. Then sayde they to hym agayne: What dyd he to the? how opened he thyne eyes? he answered them: I tolde you yet whyle, and ye dyd not heare. Wherefore wold ye heare it agayne? Wylle ye also be his disciples? Then rated they hym, & sayd: We y hys disciple. We are Moses disciples. We are sure, y God spake vnto Moses. As for this felowe, we knowe not fro whence he is.

The man answered, and sayde vnto the:
this is a maruelous thing, that ye wote not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes: For we be sure, þe God heareth not synners. But yf eny man be a wor-shipper of God, and obedient vnto his wyl, him heareth he. Sence the world begā was it not hearde, that eny man opened the eyes Jff of one of one that was borne blynde: If thys man were not of God, he coulde haue done nothing. They answered, and sayd vnto hym: thou art al together borne in synne, and dost thou teach vs? And they cast him out.

G Jesus heard that they had excommunicate hym: and when he had founde hym, he sayde vnto hym: doest thou beleue on the sonne of God? he answered ad sayd: Who is it Lord that I myght beleue on him? And Jesus said vnto him: Thou hast sene him, * and he it is that talketh with the. And he sayd: Lord, I beleue, and he worshipped hym. A And Jesus sayd vnto him: I am come vnto iudgement into this worlde: that they which se not, myght se: and that they which se, might be made blynde. And some of the pharises which were with him, hearde these wordes, and sayd vnto him: are we blynde also? Jes sayd vnto them: I saye vnto you, if ye were blynde, ye shulde haue no synne. But now ye saye: we se, therfore your synne remaineth.

Chapter. x.

Chryst ys the true shepheard, and the doze of the shepe he telleth the treuth, and therfore the Jewes take vp stones to cast at hym and call his preaching blasphemie, and go about to take hym.

I Erly verely, I saye vnto you: he p entreth not in by the doze into the shepefolde, but clymeth vp some other waye, the same is a thefe and a murthurer. But he that entreth in by the doze, is the shepheard of the shepe: to hym the porter openeth, & the shepe heare hys voyce, and he calleth his awne shepe by name, and leadeh the out. And when he hath sent forth his awne shepe, he goeth befoze them, and p shepe folow him: for they knowe his voyce. A straunger will they not folowe, but wyll flye from him: for they knowe not the voyce of straungers. Thys prouerbe spake Jesus vnto them. But they vnderstode not what thinges they were, which he spake vnto the.

23 Then sayd Jesus vnto them agayne: Verely verely, I saye vnto you: I am the doze of the shepe. All (euē as many as came before me) are theues & murthurers: but p shepe dyd not heare them. I am the doze: by me yf any mā entre in, he shalbe safe, and shal go in and out, ad fynde pasture. A thefe cometh not but for to steale, kylle, and to destroye. I am come, that they might haue life, and that they myght haue it moze abundantly.

I am * p good shepheard. A good shepheard geueth hys lyfe for the shepe. A hyred seruaunt, and he which is not the shepheard (nether the shepe are his awne) seeth the wolfe comminge, and leaueth the shepe, and flieth, and the wolfe catcheth, and scattereth the shepe. The hyred seruaunt flyeth, because he is an hyred seruaunt, and careth not for p shepe. I am the good shepheard, * ad knowe my shepe, and am knowen of myne. As my father knoweth me, euē so knowe I also my father. And I geue my lyfe for the shepe: & other shepe I haue, which are not of thys fold. Them also must I bring, and they shall heare my voyce, and ther shalbe one fold and one shepheard. I therfore doth my father loue me, because I put my lyfe from me, that I myght take it agayne. No mā taketh it fro me: but I put it awaye of my self. I haue power to put it from me, and I haue power to take it agayne. Thys commaundement haue I receaued of my father. There was a dissencion therfore agayne amonge the Jewes for these sayinges, and many of them sayd: He hath the deuyl, and is madd: why heare ye hi? Other sayde: These are not the wordes of him that hath the deuyl. Can the deuyl open the eyes of the blynde?

And it was at Ierusalem the feaste of the dedicacyon, and it was winter: and Jesus walked in the temple, euē in Salomons porche. Then cam the Jewes roude about him, and sayd vnto him: Howe longe dost thou make vs doute? If thou be Christ, tell vs playnely. Jesus answered the: I tolde you, and ye beleue not. The workes that I do in my fathers name, they beare witnesse of me. But ye beleue not, because ye are not of my shepe. As I sayd vnto you: My shepe heare my voyce: and I knowe the, & they folowe me, and I geue vnto them eternall lyfe, and they shall neuer perishe, nether shall any man plucke them oute of my hande. My father which gaue them me, is greater then all, and no man is able to take them oute of my fathers hand. I and my father are one.

Then the Jewes agayne toke vp stones, to stone hym with all. Jesus answered them: many good workes haue I shewed you from my father: for which of them do ye stone me? The Jewes answered him, sayeg: For thy good workes sake we stone p not, * but for thy blasphemie, and because that p beynge a man, makest thy selfe God: Jesus answered them: Is it not wrytten in poure lawe * I sayde, ye are goddes? If he called them goddes, vnto whom the word of God was spoken (and the scripture canot be broken concernynge hym whom the father hath sanctified, and sent into the worlde) Do ye saye p I blaspheme * because I sayde, I am the sonne of God? If I do not the workes of my father, beleue me not. But yf I do, ad yf ye beleue not me, beleue the workes: that ye maye knowe and beleue, that the father is in me, and I in him.

Agayne they went about to take hym: & he escaped out of their hande, & wēt awaye agayne beyonde Iordan, into p place: where John befoze had baptised, and there he abode. And many resorted vnto him, and sayd: John

John dyd no myracle, but * all thynges that John spake of this man were true. And many beleued on him there.

Chapter. xi.

Chryst carseth Lazarus from death. The hye prestes and pharises gather a counsell agaynst hym. He getteth hym out of the waye.

21 Certen man was sick, named Lazarus of Bethania the towne of Mary, and her syster Martha. It was the t Mary * which anoynted Jesus with oyntment, and wyped his fete w her hear, whole brother Lazarus was sick. Therfore, his syster sent vnto him, saying: Lord, behold, he whom thou louest, is sicke. Whā Jesus herd p, he sayde: this infirmitie is not vnto death: but for the prayse of God, that the sonne of God * myght be praysed by the reason of it. Jesus loued Martha and her syster and Lazarus. Whā he had heard therfore, that he was sicke, he abode two dayes styll in the same place where he was.

Then after that, sayd he to his disciples: Let vs go into Ierowp agayne. Hys disciples sayde vnto hym: Master, the Jewes lately * sought to stone the, and wilt thou go thither agayne? Jesus answered: are there not xi. houres of the daye? If a mā walke in the daye, he stombleth not, because he seeth the light of this worlde. But yf a man walke in the nyght, he stombleth, because there is no lyght in him. This sayd he, and after that he sayd vnto them: our frēde Lazarus * slepeth: but I go to wake him out of slep. Then said his disciples: Lord, yf he slepe, he shal do wel ynough. Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death: but they thought, that he had spoken of the naturall slepe. Then sayde Jesus vnto them playnely. Lazarus is deed, ad I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, because ye maye beleue. Neuertheles, let vs go vnto hi. Then sayd * Thomas (which is called Dydymus) vnto the disciples: lett vs also go, p we maye dye with hym. Then went Jesus, and foude that he had lye in hys graue foure dayes already. Bethanie was nye vnto Ierusalem, about fyftene furlonges of, and many of the Jewes came to Martha & Mary to cōfōrte them ouer their brother. Martha asone as she heard that Jesus was comynge, went and met hym: but Mary sate styll in the house.

Then sayd Martha vnto Jē: Lord, * yf thou haddest bene here, my brother had not dyed: neuerthelesse, nowe I knowe that whatsoener thou askest of God, God wyll geue it the. Jesus sayth vnto her: Thy brother shall ryle agayne. Martha sayeth vnto hym: I knowe that he shall ryle agayne in p resurreccyon at the last daye. Jesus sayth vnto her: I am the resurreccyon and the * lyfe: * he that beleueth on me, ye though he were deed, yet shall he lyue. And * whosoener lyueth and beleueth on me, shall neuer dye: Beleuest thou this? She sayd vnto him: yee Lord, I beleue that thou art Christ p sonne of God, which shuld come into the worlde. And asone as he had so sayde, she wente her waye, & called Mary her syster secretly, saying: The master is come, and calleth for the. Asone as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came vnto him. Jesus was not yet come into the towne: but was in that place where Martha met hym. The Jewes then which were with her in the house and cōfōrte her, (when they sawe Mary that she rose vp hastily, and wēt out) folowed her, sayeng: She goeth vnto the graue, to wepe there.

Jes was, and sawe hym, she cometh nye vnto his fete, and sayth vnto him: Lord, * yf p haddest bene here, my brother had not bene deed. When Jesus therfore sawe her wepe (and the Jewes also weeping which came w her) he groined in the sprete, ad was troubled in him selfe, and sayde: Where haue ye layed him? They saye vnto him: Lord, come, and se. And * Jesus wept. Then sayd the Jewes Behold, howe he loued hym. And som of the sayde: coulde not he which * opened the eyes of the blynde, haue made also, that this man shulde not haue dyed? Jesus therfore agayne groined in him selfe, and came to the graue. It was a caue, and a stone layde on it.

named Caiphas (being the hye p[re]ste & same p[re]ce) sayd vnto them: Ye perceaue nothyng at all, nor consyder, that it is expedient for vs, that one man dye for the people, and not for all the people peryshe. Thys spake he not of him selfe, but beyng hye p[re]ste that same yere, he prophesied that Iesus shulde dye for the people, and not for the people onely, but that he shuld gather together i[n] one, the childre[n] of God, & were scattered abrode. * Then from that day forth they toke counsell together, for to put him to death.

Iesus therfore walked nomore openly among the Jewes: but went his waye thence vnto a countre nye to a wildernes, into a cytie which is called Ephraim, and there cōtynued w[ith] his disciples. * And the Jewes Easter was nye at hand, & many went out of the countre vnto Jerusalem before the Easter, to purify the selues. The sought they for Iesus, & spake among the selues, as they stode in the temple: * What thinke ye, sayng he cometh not to the feaste daye? The hye p[re]stes and pharises * had geuen a comaundement, yf eny man knewe wher he were, he shuld shewe it, that they myght take him. *

The xij. Chapter.

¶ Mary anoynteth Iesus fete. Judas murmureth Christ crucified her, and reporteth into Jerusalem.

When Iesus (syre dayes before Easter) came to Bethany, wher Lazarus had ben deed, whome he rayled from death. Ther they made hym a supper, and Martha serued, but Lazarus was one of them that late at the table w[ith] him. * Then toke Mary a poude of oynment (called Nardus, perfecte & d[ee]re) and anoynted Iesus fete, and wyped his fete with her hair, & the house was fylled with the odoure of the oynment. * Then sayd one of his disciples: (euen Judas Iscariot) Simons sonne, which after ward betrayed him) why was not this oynment solde for thre hundred pence, and geuen to the poore? This he sayd, not that he cared for the poore but because he was a thefe, & had the bagge, & bare that which was geue[n]. Then sayd Iesus: Let her alone, against the daye of my buryinge hath she kept this. For the poore all wayes shall ye haue with you, but me haue ye not allwaye.

¶ Noche people of the Jewes therfore had knowledge that he was ther. And they came not for Iesus sake onely, but yf they myght se Lazarus also * whome he rayled fro death. But the hye p[re]stes helde a counsell, yf they myght put Lazarus to death also, because yf for his sake many of the Jewes went a waye and beleued on Iesus. *

¶ On the next daye moche people that were come to the feaste, when they hearde that Iesus shuldc come to Jerusalem, toke braunches of palme trees, and went forth to mete hym, and cryed: Hosanna, * blessed is he that in the name of the Lorde, cometh kyng of Israell. And Iesus got a yonge asse, and late theron, as it is wyrtten: * feare not daughter of Syon, beholde, thy kyng cometh, sitting on an asses colte. These thinges vnderstode not his disciples at the fyrst: but when Iesus was glorified, then remembred they that soch thinges were wyrtten of him, and yf soche thynges they had done vnto hym. The people yf was with hym (when he called Lazarus out of his graue, & rayled hym from death) bare recoorde. Therfore mete hym the people also, because they hearde that he had done soche a miracle. The pharises therfore sayd among them selues: perceaue ye, howe we p[re]uayle nothing? beholde, * (all the whole) * wo[uld] be goeth after him.

* Ther were certen sickes amonge the, that came to worshipp at the feaste: the same cam therfore to Philip (which was of Bethsaida a cytie in Galile) and desyred hym, sayng: Syr, we wolde sayne se Iesus. Philip came and tolde Andrew. And agayne Andrew and Philip told Iesus. And Iesus answered them, sayng: * the houre is come, yf the sonne of man must be glorified.

* Clerely verely, I saye vnto you: except the wheat corne fall into the ground, & dye, it bydeth alone. If it dye, it byngeth forth moche frute. * He yf loueth hys lyfe, shall destroye it: and he yf hateth hys lyfe in thys world, shall kepe it vnto lyfe eternall. If eny man mynister vnto me, lett him folowe me: and * where I am, there shall also my minister be. Yf any man mynister vnto me, hym will my father honoure.

¶ Nowe is my soule troubled, & what shall I saye: Father, deliuer me from this houre: but therfore came I vnto thys houre. Father, glorify thy name. Then ca there a voyce from heaue, sayng: I haue both glorified it, & will glorify it agayne. The people therfore that stode by and heard it, sayde, that it thoundred. Other sayde: an angell spake to hym. Iesus answered and sayde: this voyce came not because of me * but for your sakes.

* Nowe is the iudgment of this worlde: * now shall the prince of thys worlde be cast out. And I (yf I were lyft vp from the erth) will drawe all men vnto me. Thys he sayde signifyinge, what death he shulde dye. The people answered hym: We haue heard out of the lawe, * that Christ bydeth euer, & how sayst thou: the sonne of man must be lyft vp? who is that sonne of man? Then Iesus sayd vnto the: yet a lytell whyle is the lyght with you. * Walke whyle ye haue lyght, lest the darknes come on you. He that walketh also in the darck, wote th not whyther he goeth whyle ye haue lyght, beleue on the lyght, yf ye maye be the children of the lyght. *

¶ These

¶ These thynges spake Iesus, and departed, and hid him selfe from them. But though he had done so many miracles before the, yet beleued not they on hym, that the sayinge of Esaias the pphet myght be fulfilled, which he spake: * Lord, who shal beleue our sayng? And to whos is the arme of the Lorde declared? Therfore could they not beleue, because that Esaias saith agayne: * he hath blynded their eyes, and hardened their hert, that they shuld not se with their eyes, & lest they shuld vnderstand with their hert, and shuld be conuerted, and I shulde heale them. Soch thynges sayd Esaias, when he sawe his gloze, & spake of him. Neuertheles, amonge the chefe rulers also, many beleued on hym. But (because of yf pharises) they wold not be a knowen of it, * lest they shulde be excommunicat. * For they loued yf prayse of men, more then the prayse of God.

¶ Iesus cryed, and sayd: he that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on hym that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me. * I am come * a lyght into the worlde: that whosoever beleueth on me, shulde not hyde in darcknes. And yf any man heare my wordes, & beleue not, I iudge him not. For * I came not to iudge the worlde: but to saue the worlde. He that refuseth me, & receaueth not my wordes, hath one that iudgeth hym. The worde that I haue spokē, the same shal iudge hym in the last daye. For I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father which sent me: he gaue me a comaundmēt, what I shuld saye, & what I shulde speake. And I knowe that * his comaundement is lyfe euerlasting. Whatsoeuer I speake therfore, such as the father bade me, so I speake. *

The xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Christ washeth the disciples fete, telleth them of Judas the traytour, and comaundeth them earnestly to loue one another.

Before the feaste of Easter, wher Iesus knewe that hys houre was come, that he shuld depart out of this worlde vnto yf father. Wher he loued his which were in the worlde, vnto the ende he loued them. And wher supper was ended, after that the denyll had * put in the herte of Judas Iscariot Simons sonne, to be trape hym. Iesus knowynge that * the father had geuen all thinges into hys handes, and that he was come from God, and went to God: he rose from supper, and layde asyde his vpper garmentes: and whan he had taken a towell, he gyrded him selfe. After that, he poured water into a baly[n], and begane to wash the disciples fete, and to wpye them with the towell: wherwith he was gyrded.

¶ Then came he to Symon Peter. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Lorde, dost thou washe my fete? Iesus answered, and sayd vnto hi: what I do, yf wotest not nowe, but yf shal know hereafter. Peter sayeth vnto him: thou shalt neuer washe my fete. Iesus answered hym: yf I washe the not, thou hast no parte with me. Symon Peter sayeth vnto hym: Lorde, not my fete onely, but also the handes and the head. Iesus sayth to hym: he that is washed, nedeth not, saue to washe his fete, but is cleane euer yf. And ye are cleane, * but not all. For he knewe who it was that shuld be trape hym. Therfore sayd he: ye are not all cleane: So after he had washed their fete, and receaued hys clothes, and was sett downe, he sayde vnto them agayne: wote ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me master and Lorde, and ye saye well, for so am I. If I then poure lorde and master haue washed your fete, ye also ought to washe one anothers fete. For * I haue geue[n] you an ensample that ye shulde do, as I haue done to you. * Clerely verely, I saye vnto you: yf seruante is not greater then his master, nether yf messenger greater then he that sent hym.

¶ If ye vnderstande these thinges * happy are ye, yf ye do them. I speake not of you all, I knowe who I haue chosen. But that the scripture maye be fulfilled: * he that cateth bread with me, hath lyfte vp hys hele agaynst me. Now * tell I you before it come yf wher it is come to passe, ye might beleue that I am he. Clerely verely, I saye vnto you: * he yf receaueth whomsoeuer I sende, receaueth me. And he that receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me.

¶ Wher Iesus had thus sayd, he was troubled in the sp[ir]ite, and testified and sayd. Verely verely, I saye vnto you: that * one of you shall be trape me. Then the disciples looked one on another, dowtynge of whom he spake. There was one of Iesus disciples, (which leane[d] on hym) * euen he whom Iesus loued. To hym beckened Symon Peter therfore, that he shulde aske, who it was of whom he spake. He then when he leane[d] on Iesus brest, sayd vnto him: Lorde, who is it? Iesus answered: he it is to whom I geue a soppe. And he wet the brede & gaue it to Judas Iscariot Simons sonne. And after the soppe, * Sata[n] entred into him. Then sayd Iesus vnto him: that thou dost, do quickly. That wilt no man at the table, for what intent he spake vnto him. Som of the thought because. * Judas had the bagge, yf Iesus had sayd vnto him: bye those thiges that we haue nede of agaynst the feaste: or yf he shuld geue some thyng to the poore. Aflone the as he had receaued the soppe, he went immediately out and it was night. Therfore when he was gone oute. Iesus sayd: * Nowe is the sonne of man glorified. And God is glorified by him. If God be glorified by hi, God shall also glorify hym by hym selfe: and shall straght waye glorify hym.

¶ Iij. * Lytle

* John. vii. c. * I pte chyliden, pet a lytel whyle am I with you. * Ye shall see me, & as I sayd vnto the Jewes, whither I go, thither I shall not come. Also to you I saye I now. * A newe commaundement geue I vnto you, that ye loue together, as I haue loued you, that euery one ye loue one another. * By this shall all men knowe that ye are my discyples, yf ye haue loue one to another. Symon Peter sayd vnto hym: Lorde, whither goest thou? Iesus answered him: whither I go, thou canst not folowe me now, but * thou shalt folowe me afterwarde. * Peter sayd vnto hi: Lorde, why cannot I folowe the now? * I wyl ioparde my lyfe for thy sake. Iesus answered hym: wylt thou ioparde thy lyfe for my sake? Ierely verely, I saye vnto the: * the cokke shall not crowe, tyll thou haue denyed me thys.

The. xiiij. Chapter.

The armeth hys discyples with consolacion agaynst trouble, and promysed to send the holy ghost.

Ad he sayde vnto his discyples: Lett not your herte be troubled. Ye beleue in God, beleue also in me. In my fathers house are many mansions: If it were not so, I wolde haue tolde you. I go to prepare a place for you. And yf I go to prepare a place for you, I will come agayne, and receaue you euen vnto my selfe: that * wher I am, ther maye ye be also. And whither I go, ye knowe, and the waye ye knowe.

Thomas sayth vnto hi: Lorde, we knowe not whither thou goest. And how is it possible for vs to knowe the waye? Iesus sayeth vnto hym: I am the waye and the treuth, and the lyfe. * No man cometh vnto the father, but by me. If ye had knowen me, ye had knowen my father also. And now ye knowe him, and haue sene hym.

Philip sayth vnto hym: Lorde, shewe vs the father, & it sufficeth vs. Iesus sayth vnto hym: haue I bene so longe tyme with you, & yett hast thou not knowen me? Philip, he that hath sene me, hath sene my father. And howe sayest thou then: shewe vs the father? * Beleue in me, & I am in the father, & the father in me. * The wordes that I speake vnto you, I speake not of my selfe: but the father that dwelleth in me is he that doth the workes. * Beleue me, & I am in the father, & the father in me. * Or els beleue me for the workes sake.

Ierely verely, I saye vnto you: he that belieueth on me, the workes that I do, the same shall he do also, & greater workes then these shall he do, because I go vnto my father. * And whatsoeuer ye aske in my name, that will I do, yf the father maye be glorified by the sonne. If ye shall aske any thyng in my name, I will do it. * If ye loue me, kepe my commaundementes, & I will praye yf father, and he shall geue you another comforter, that he maye bide with you for euer: euery spere of treuth, whom the world cannot receaue, because the worlde seeth hym not, nether knoweth him. But ye knowe him, for he dwelleth with you, & shall be in you. * I wyl not leaue you comfortles: but will come to you.

Pet a lytel whyle and the worlde seeth me nomore: but ye see me. For I lyue, & ye shall lyue. * That daye shall ye knowe that I am in my father, and you in me, and I in you.

* He that hath my commaundementes, and kepeth them: the same is he that loueth me. And he that loueth me, shall be loued of my father: and I wyl loue hym, and wyl shewe myne awne selfe to him. * Judas sayth vnto hym: (not Judas Iscariot) Lorde, what is done that thou wylt shewe thy selfe vnto vs, and not vnto the worlde? Iesus answered & sayd: vnto the: yf a man loue me, he will kepe my sayings, and my father wyl loue hym, and we wyl come vnto hym, and dwell with hym. He that loueth me not, kepeth not my sayings. And the worde which ye heare, is not myne, but the fathers which sent me.

These thynges haue I sayd vnto you, being yett present with you. But the comforter which is the holy ghost, whom my father will sende in my name, he shall teach you all thynges, & bypnyng all thynges to your remembrance whatsoeuer I haue sayd vnto you.

Peace I leaue with you, my peace I geue vnto you. Not as the worlde geueth, geue I vnto you. Let not your hertes be grieved, nether feare. Ye haue hearde howe I sayde vnto you: I go, and come agayne vnto you. If ye loued me, ye wolde verely reioyse, because I sayd: I go vnto the father, for the father is greater then I. * And now haue I shewed you befoze it come, that when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue. Here after wyl I not talke many wordes vnto you. For the prince of this worlde cometh, and hath naught in me. But yf the worlde maye knowe that I loue the father. And as the father gaue me commaundment, euen so do I. * I saye, let vs go hence.

The. xv. Chapter.

The true vyne, the husbandman and the draughtes. A doctrine of loue and a sweete comfort agaynst persecucion.

I am the true vyne, and my father is the husbandman. * Euery brynche that beareth not frute in me, he will take awaye. And euery brynche that beareth frute, will he purge, that it maye bring forth moze frute. * Nowe are ye cleane thorow the wordes which I haue spoken vnto you. * Wyde in me, and I in you. As the brynche cannot beare frute of it selfe, excepte it byde in the vyne: nomore can ye, except ye abyde in me. I am yf vyne, ye are the brynches.

And ye shall beare witnesse also, because ye haue bene with me from the begynning.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Consolacion agaynst trouble. Dispersed are hearde thowth thys.

These thynges haue I sayde vnto you because ye shuld not be offended. * They shall excommunicate you: ye the tyme shall come, that whosoener kylleth you, will thinke that he doth God seruyce. * And such thynges will they do vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father, nether yet me. But these thynges haue I tolde you, that when yf tyme is come, ye maye remember then that I tolde you. * These thynges sayde I not vnto you at the begynninge, because I was present with you.

* But now I go my waye to hym that sent me, & none of you asketh me whither I go. But because I haue sayd suche thynges vnto you, your hertes are full of sorowe. * Neuertheles, I tel you the treuth, it is expedient for you, yf I goo awaye. For yf I goo not awaye, that comforter wyl not come vnto you. But yf I departe, * I wyl sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he wyl rebuke the worlde of synne, and of righte welnes, & of iudgement. Of synne, because they beleue not on me. Of righte welnes, because I go to my father, and ye shall see me nomore: Of iudgement, because * the prince of thys worlde is iudged all ready.

I haue yett many thynges to saye vnto you but ye cannot beare them awaye now. Howbeit when he is come (which is the spere of treuth) he will leade you into all treuth. He shall not speake of hym selfe: but whatsoeuer he shall heare, that shall he speake, and he will shewe you thynges to come. He shall glorify me, for he shall receaue of myne, & shall shewe vnto you. * All thynges that the father hath, are myne. Therefore sayde I vnto you, that he shall take of myne and shewe vnto you.

* After a while ye shall not see me, and agayne after a while ye shall see me: for I go to the father. * Then sayde some of hys discyples betwene them selues: what is thys that he saith vnto vs, after a while, ye shall not see me, and agayne after a while ye shall see me: and that I go to the father? They sayd therefore: what is this that he sayth: after a while we cannot tell what he sayth. Iesus perceived, that they wolde aske him, and sayde vnto them. Ye enquire of this betwene your selues, because I sayde after a while ye shall not see me, & agayne after a while ye shall see me. Ierely verely, I saye vnto you: ye shall wepe and lamente, but contrary wyle, the worlde shall reioyse. Ye shall sorowe, but yf sorowe shall be turned to ioye.

It iij A woman

brynches. He that abyde in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth moche frute. For without me can ye do nothing. If a man byde not in me, he is cast forth as a brynche, & is withered: and men gather them: and cast the into the fyre, and they burne. * If ye byde in me, and my wordes abyde in you: aske what ye wyl, and it shall be done for you. * Herin is my father glorified: that ye beare moche frute, and become my disciples.

As the father hath loued me, enen so haue I also loued you. Continue ye in my loue. If ye kepe my commaundementes, ye shall byde in my loue, euen as I haue kepte my fathers commaundementes, & byde in hys loue. * These thynges haue I spoken vnto you, yf my lope myght remayne vnto you, and that your lope myght be full.

* Thys is my commaundement, that ye loue together, as I haue loued you. * Greater loue hath no man, then thys: that a man bestowe hys lyfe for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, yf ye do whatsoeuer I commaunde you. Hence forth call I you not seruautes: for the seruaunt knoweth not what hys lord doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for all thynges that I haue heard of my father, haue I opened to you.

Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeyned you, to goo, and bypnyng forth frute, and yf your frute shuld remayne, that whatsoeuer ye aske of the father in my name, he maye geue it you.

* This commaunde I you, that ye loue together. If the worlde hate you, ye knowe that it hated me befoze it hated you. If ye were of the worlde, the worlde wolde loue his awne. Howbeit, because ye are not of yf worlde. But I haue chose you out of yf worlde. Therefore * the worlde hateth you. Remember the worde that I sayd vnto you: the seruaunt is not greater then the lord. * If they haue persecuted me, they wyl also persecute you. If they haue kept my saying, they will kepe your sayings also.

* But all these thynges wyl they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not knowen hym that sent me. If I had not come and spoken vnto them, they shuld haue had no synne: but now haue they nothyng to cloke their synne withall. He that hateth me, hateth my father also: If I had not done amonge them the workes whych none other man dyd, they shuld haue had no synne. But now haue they both sene, & hated: not onely me but also my father. But thys happeneth that the sayinge myght be fulfilled, that is writen in their lawe: * they hated me without a cause. * But when the comforter is come, * whom I will sende vnto you from yf father (euen the spere of treuth, which proceedeth of the father) he shall testifie of me.

A woman when she travaileth, hath sorow because her houre is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the childe, she remembereth nomore the anguish, for ioye that a man is borne into the worlde. And ye now therefore haue sorow: but I will se you agayne, and your hertes shall reioyse, and your ioye shall noman take fro you. And in y daye shall ye aske me no question. Verely verely, I saye vnto you: whatsoeuer ye shall aske y father in my name, he wyll geue it you. herteto haue ye asked nothyng in my name. Aske, and ye shall receaue: that poure ioye maye be full.

These thinges haue I spake vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme will come, whē I shall nomore speake vnto you: by prouerbes: but I shall shewe you playnly from my father. At y daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I will speake vnto my father for you. For the father him selfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, that I came out fro God. I wet out fro the father, and came into the worlde. Agayne, I leaue the worlde, and go to the father.

His disciples sayd vnto him: lo, now talkest thou playnly, and speakest no prouerbe. Nowe are we sure, that thou knowest all thinges, and nedest not, that eny man shulde aske the any question. Therefore beleue we, y thou camest from God. Iesus answered them: Now ye do beleue. Behold, the houre draweth nye, and is all ready come, y pe shalbe scattered euery mā to his awne, & shal leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For the father is with me.

These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye myghte haue peace. For in the worlde shall ye haue tribulacion: but be of good chere, I haue overcome the worlde.

The. xviij. Chapter.

The moost hartly and louing prayer of Christ vnto yis father, for all such as receaue the treuth.

These wordes spake Iesus, and lift vp his eyes to heauen, and sayde: father, the houre is come: glorify thy sonne that thy sonne also maye glorify the: as thou hast geuen him power ouer all flesh, that he shuld geue eternall lyfe to as many as thou hast geuen him. This is y lyfe eternal, y they might knowe the, the onely true God, & Iesus Christ whom thou hast sent.

I haue glorified the on the erth. I haue finished the worke, which thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye thou me (O father) with thyne awne self, with the glory, which I had with the, per the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto the mē, which thou gauest me out of the worlde. Thyne they were, and thou gauest them me, and they haue kept thy worde. Now they haue knowen, y all thinges whatsoeuer thou hast geuen me, are of the. For I haue geuen vnto them the wordes which thou gauest me, and they haue receaued them, and haue knowen surely, that I came out from the: and they haue beleued, that thou diddest send me.

I praye for the, & I praye not for the worlde: but for them which y hast geuen me, for they are thyne. And all myne are thyne, & thyne are myne, & I am glorified in the. And now I am not in the worlde, and they are in the worlde, and I come to the. O holy father, kepe thozow thine awne name, them which thou hast geuen me, y they also maye be one, as we are. Whyle I was with the in the worlde, I kepte the in thy name. Those that thou gauest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that lost childe, that the scripture might be fulfilled.

Now come I to the, & these wordes spake I in the worlde, that they might haue my ioye ful in them. I haue geuen the thy worde, and the worlde hath hated them, because they are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I desyre not, that y shuldest take them out of the worlde: but that thou kepe them from euill. They are not of the worlde, as I also am not of the worlde. Sanctify them thozow thy treuth. Thy word is the treuth. As thou dydest send me into the worlde, euen so haue I also sent them into y worlde, & for their sakes sanctifie I my selfe, that they also myght be sanctified thozowe the treuth.

Nevertheless, I praye not for the alone, but for them also which shall beleue on me thozow thy preaching: that they al maye be one, as thou father art in me, and I in the, and that they also maye be one i vs: that the worlde maye beleue, that thou hast sent me: And the glory which thou gauest me, I haue geuen them, that they maye be one, as we also are one. I in the, and thou in me, y they maye be made perfecte in one, & y the worlde maye knowe, that thou hast sent me, ad hast loued them as thou hast loued me.

O father, I will that they which thou hast geuen me be with me where I am, y they maye se my glory, which thou hast geue me. For thou louedest me before the making of the worlde. O righteous father, y worlde also hath not knowe the: but I haue knowe the: and these haue knowen, that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and will declare it, that the loue wherewith thou hast loued me, maye be in them, & I in them.

The. xviij. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth synge the officers to the grounde. Peter smyteth of Malchus eare. Iesus ys brought before Anna, Caphphas, and Plate.

When Iesus had spoke these wordes, he wet forth with his disciples ouer the broke Cedron, wher was a garde, into y which he entred and his disciples. Judas also which betrayed him, knewe the place: for Iesus ofte tymes resorted thither with his disciples. Judas then after he had receaued a bonde of men, (and mynysters of the hye prestes & pharysees) came thither with lanternes, and fyerbrandes, and wepens. And Iesus knowyng all thynges that shulde come on hym, went forth, and sayde vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hi: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus sayeth vnto them: I am he. Judas also which betrayed hym, stode with them. A stone then as he had sayde vnto the, I am he, they went backwarde and fell to the grounde. Then asked he the agayne: whom seke ye? They sayde: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. If ye seke me therefore, lett these goo their waye. That the saying might be fulfilled which he spake: of them which thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

Then Simon Peter hauynge a swearde, drew it, and smote the hye prestes seruaunt, and cut of his ryght eare. The seruautes name was Malchus. Therefore sayeth Iesus vnto Peter: put vp thy swearde into the sheath: shall I not dryncke of the cup, which my father hath geuen me? Then the company and the Captayne, and mynysters of the Jewes toke Iesus, and bounde hym, and led him awaye to Anna first: for he was father in lawe vnto Caphphas, which was the hye preste that same yere. Caphphas was he, which gaue counsell to the Jewes that it was expedient, that one man shulde dye for the people.

And Symon Peter folowed Iesus, and so dyd another dysciple: that dysciple was knowe vnto the hye preste, & went in with Iesus into the palace of the hye preste. But Peter stode at the doore without. Thent wet out that other dysciple (which was knowen vnto the hye preste) and spake to the damsell that kept the doore, and brought in Peter. Then sayde the damsell that kept the doore, vnto Peter. Art not y also one of this mannes disciples? he sayde: I am not. The seruautes and the ministers stode there, which had made a fyer of coles: for it was colde, ad they warmed them selues. Peter also stode amonge them, and warmed hym.

The hye preste then asked Iesus of his disciples and of his doctryne. Iesus answered hym: I spake openly in the worlde. I euer taught in the Synagoge, and in the temple, whyther all the Jewes resorte, and in secret haue I sayde nothyng. Why askest thou me? Aske them which hearde me, what I haue sayd vnto them. Beholde, they can tell what I sayde. When he had thus spoken, one of the ministers which stode by, smote Iesus on the face, sayinge: answerest thou the hye preste so? Iesus answered hym: If I haue euill spoken, beare witnes of the euill: But yf I haue well spoken, why smytest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Caphphas the hye preste.

Symon Peter stode, ad warmed him selfe. The sayde they vnto hym: art not thou also one of his disciples? he denyed it, & sayde: I am not. One of the seruautes of the hye prestes (his colyn whose eare Peter smote of) sayde vnto hym: dyd not I se the in y garde with him? Peter therefore denyed agayne: and immediatly the cocke crewe. Then led they Iesus from Caphphas into the hall of iudgement. It was in the mornynge, & they them selues went not into y iudgement hall lest they shulde be defyled, but that they myght cate Passouer. Plate then wet out vnto the and sayde: what accusacyon byng ye agaynst this man? They answered and sayde vnto him: If he were not an euill doer we wolde not haue deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Plate vnto the: take ye hym, & iudge him after poure awne lawe. The Jewes therefore sayd vnto hi: It is not lawfull for vs to put eny mā to deeth. That the wordes of Iesus myght be fulfilled: which he spake, signyfeng, what deeth he shuld dye.

Then Plate entred into the iudgement hall agayne, and called Iesus, and sayde vnto hym: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Iesus answered: sayst y that of thy selfe, or dyd other tell it the of me? Plate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne awne nation and hye prestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What hast thou done? Iesus answered: my kyngdome is not of this worlde. If my kyngdome were of this worlde, the wolde my mynysters surely fyght, that I shulde not be deliuered to the Jewes, but now is my kyngdome not fro hence. Plate therefore sayde vnto hi: Art thou a kyng then? Iesus answered: thou sayst that I am a kyng. For this cause was I borne, & for this cause came I to the worlde, that I shulde beare witnes vnto y treuth. And all that are of the treuth, beare my voyce. Plate sayde vnto him, what thyng is treuth? And when he had sayde this, he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, ad sayeth vnto the. I fynde in him no cause at all. We haue a custome, that I shulde deliuer you one loose at Easter. Wyll ye that I lose vnto you y kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they all agayne, sayinge. Not hym, but Barrabas: the same Barrabas was a murderer.

The. xix. Chapter.

Christ is crucified. He committeth his mother vnto John, dyed, and is buried.

If v Then

And Pilate toke Ies^{us} therfore, & scourged hym. * And the souldiers wounde a crowne of thornes, and put it on his heed. And they dyd on him a purple garment, & and came vnto hym) and sayde: halloynge of the Jewes: and they smote hym on the face. Pilate w^{rote} forth agayne, and sayde vnto them: beholde, I byynge hym forth to you, that ye maye know, that I fynde no faute in hym. Then came Ies^{us} forth, wearynge a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And he sayeth vnto the: beholde the mā.

* When the hye prestes therfore and ministers sawe hym, they cryed sayinge: crucify hym, crucify hym. Pilate sayeth vnto them: Take ye him, and crucify him: for I fynde no cause in him. The Jewes answered him: We haue * a lawe, and by oure lawe he ought to dye: because he made him selfe the sonne of God.

W^{hen} Pilate hearde y^e sayinge, he was the more afrayde, and went agayne into y^e iudgemēt hall, and sayeth vnto Ies^{us}: where arte thou? But Ies^{us} gaue him none answer. Then sayde Pilate vnto him: Speakest thou not vnto me: knowest y^e not, that I haue power to crucify the, and haue power to loose the? Ies^{us} answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynst me, * except it were geuen the fro aboue. Therfore he that deliuered me vnto the, hath the more synne.

* And from thence forth lought Pilate meannes to loose hym: but the Jewes cryed sayinge: yf thou let him go, thou art not C^{esar}s frende. For * whosoener maketh hym selfe a kynge, is agaynst C^{esar}.

W^{hen} Pilate hearde y^e sayinge, he brought Ies^{us} forth, and late downe to geue sentence, in a place y^e is called y^e pauement: but in y^e hebyrue tonge, Sabbathā. It was y^e preparyng daye of the easter, aboute y^e fyrte houre. And he sayeth vnto y^e Jewes: beholde poure kyng? They cryed, a waye whi, a waye whi, crucifye hym. Pilate saith vnto the: shall I crucifye your kyng? The hye prestes answered: we haue no kyng but C^{esar}. * Then deliuered he hym vnto them, to be crucified.

And they toke Ies^{us}, and led hym away. And he bare hys crosse, * and went forth into a place, which is called y^e place of deed mesculles. But iⁿ hebyrue, Golgotha: where they crucified hym, and two oth^{er} with hym, on either syde one, ad Ies^{us} in the myddes. And Pilate w^{rote} a tytle, & put it on the crosse. The wyrtynge was. Ies^{us} of Nazareth kynge of the Jewes. Thys tytle redd many of the Jewes. For y^e place where Ies^{us} was crucified, was nye to the cyppe. And it was wyrtten in hebyrue, and Greke and Latyn. Then sayde the hye prestes of the Jewes to Pilate: wyrtte not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayde, I am kyng of the Jewes: Pilate answered: what I haue wyrtten, that haue I wyrtten. Then the souldiers, * when they had crucified Ies^{us}, they toke his garmetes & made foure partes, to euery souldier a parte, & also hys coate. The coate was without seme, wrought vpo thowowe out. They sayd therefore amonge them selues: Lett vs not deuyde it, but cast lotes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture myght be fulfilled, sayinge: * They parted myrayment amonge the, and for my coate dyd they cast lotes. And the souldiers dyd soch thynges in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Ies^{us} hys mother, and his mothers syster, Mary the wyfe of Cleophas, & Mary Magdalene. Whē Ies^{us} therfore sawe his mother, & y^e disciple stōdige * whō he loued, he sayeth vnto his mother: womā, beholde thy sone. Then sayde he to y^e disciple: beholde thy mother. And from y^e houre the disciple toke her for hys awne.

After these thinges, Ies^{us} knowinge that all thiges were now performed: y^e * the scripture myght be fulfilled: he sayeth: I thyrst. So ther stode a vessel by, full of veneger. * Therfore they fylled a spōge with veneger and wounde it about with y^elope, and put it to his mouth. Allone as Ies^{us} then receaued of the veneger, he sayde. * It is fynished, & bowed his heed, and gaue vp the goost. The Jewes therfore because it was the preparig of the Sabbath, that y^e bodyes shuld not remayne vpon the crosse on the sabboth daye (for that sabboth daye was an hye daye) be- sought Pilate, y^e their legges might be broke and that they might be taken downe. Then came the souldiers, and brake the legges of y^e fyrst, and of the other which was crucified with him. But when they came to Ies^{us}: ad sawe y^e he was deed already, they brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers w^{ith} a spear, thrust him into the syde, ad forth with came ther out bloude and water.

And he y^e sawe it, bare recorde, & hys record is true. And he knoweth y^e he sayth true, that ye might beleue also. For these thinges were done, y^e y^e scripture shulde be fulfilled. * Ye shall not breake a bone of him. And agayne another scripture sayeth: * they shal loke on him, whō they pearled. * After this, Ioseph of Aramathia (which was a disciple of Ies^{us}: but secretly for feare of the Jewes) be- sought Pilate, that he might take downe the body of Ies^{us}. And Pilate gaue him licence. * (he came therfore, and toke the body of Ies^{us}) And ther cā also Nicodemus (which at y^e begynnyng came to Ies^{us} by night) & brought of myrrre and aloes mingled together, aboute an hundred pounde wayght. Then toke they y^e body of Ies^{us}, & wounde it in linnen clothes w^{ith} the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to bury. And in the place where he was crucified, there was a garden, and in y^e garden a newe newe sepulchre, wherin was neuer mā layd. There layde they Ies^{us} therfore, because of y^e preparinge of the Sabbath of the Jewes for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ The resurrection of Ies^{us}, which appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all hys disciples. to thep^r grete consofte.

And the fyrst daye of the Sabbathes cā Mary Magdalene early (when it was yet darcke) vnto y^e sepulchre, ad sawe the stone taken awaye fro the graue. Then she rāne, and came to Symon Peter, and to the other disciple * whō Ies^{us} loued, ad sayeth vnto the. They haue take awaye y^e Lorde out of the graue, & we cānot tell where they haue layde him. Peter therfore went forth, & that other disciple, ad came vnto y^e sepulchre. They rāne both together, & the other disciple dyd out rāne Peter, & came fyrst to the sepulchre. And whā he had stowped downe he sawe the linnen clothes lyenge, yet wēt he not in. * Then came Symon Peter, folowinge him, & went into y^e sepulchre, & sawe y^e linnen clothes lye, & y^e napkin that was aboute his heed, not lpyng w^{ith} the linnen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it selfe. Then went in also y^e other disciple, which came fyrst to y^e sepulchre, and he sawe & beleued. For as yet they knew not y^e * scripture, that he shulde ryse agayne fro deeth. ¶ Then the disciples wēt awaye agayne vnto they^r awne home.

* Mary stode without at y^e sepulchre wepyng. So as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into y^e sepulchre, & seeth two angels clothed in whyte, sytting, y^e one at the heed & y^e other at y^e fete, where they had layde the body of Ies^{us}. They saye vnto her, womā, why wepest thou? She sayeth vnto the: for they haue take awaye my Lord, & I wote not where they haue layde hi. Whē she had thus sayd, she turned her selfe backe, & sawe Ies^{us} stādinge, and knewe not y^e it was Ies^{us}: Ies^{us} sayeth vnto her: woman, why wepest thou? Whō sekest thou? She supposing that he had bene a gardener, sayeth vnto him. Syr: yf I haue borne hi hence, tell me wher y^e hast layde him, ad I wyll fet him. Ies^{us} sayeth vnto her. Mary. She turned her selfe, & sayd vnto hym: Rabboni, which is to saye, master. Ies^{us} sayeth vnto her, & touche me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to * my bryth^r, & saye vnto the: * I ascende vnto my father & poure father: & to my God, & poure God. * Mary Magdalene came & tolde y^e disciples, y^e she had sene the Lorde, ad that he had spōke soch thinges vnto her.

¶ The same daye at night: which was the fyrst daye of y^e Sabbathes, when y^e doores were shut (where y^e disciples were assembled together for feare of y^e Jewes) came Ies^{us}, and stode in the myddes, & saith vnto them:

peace be vnto you. And whē he had so sayde, he shewd vnto them his handes, & his syde. Then * were y^e disciples glad when they sawe y^e Lord. Then sayd Ies^{us} to the agayne: peace be vnto you. As my father * sent me, euē so sende I you also. And whē he had sayd those wordes, he brythed on them and sayeth vnto them: Receaue ye y^e holy goost. Whosoeners synnes ye remitte, they are remitted vnto them. And whosoeners synnes ye retayne, they are retayned.

¶ But * Thomas one of y^e twelue (which is called Didymus) was not w^{ith} the whē Ies^{us} came. The other disciples therfore sayde vnto hi: we haue sene y^e Lorde. But he sayde vnto the: except I se in hys hādes y^e prynt of y^e nayles, & put my fynger in to y^e prynt of y^e nayles, & thrust my hāde into his syde, I will not beleue. And after. viij. dayes, agayne his disciples were w^{ith} in, & Thomas w^{ith} the. Then came Ies^{us} when y^e doores were shut, & stode in the myddes, and sayde: peace be vnto you.

After y^e sayd he to Thomas: bryge thy fynger hether, & se my handes, & reach hyther thy hāde, & thrust it into my syde, & be not sayth lesse, but beleuinge. Thomas answered, and sayde vnto him: my Lorde, & my God: Ies^{us} sayeth vnto hi: Thomas, because y^e hast sene me, thou hast beleued, blessed are they that haue not sene, and yet haue beleued.

* And many other sygnes truly dyd Ies^{us} in the presence of his disciples, which are not wyrtten in this boke. These are writte, that ye myght beleue, that Ies^{us} is Chyyst y^e sone of God, and that (in beleuyng) ye myght haue lyfe thowow hys name.

¶ The xxj. Chapter. ¶ The appearance to hys disciples agayne by the see of Epherias, and commaundeth Peter earnestly to fede hys shepe.

After warde dyd Ies^{us} shewe hym selfe agayne, at the see of Epherias. And on this wyse shewd he hym selfe. There were together Symon Peter & Thomas (which is called Didymus) and * Nathanael of Cana in Galile, and the sonnes of zebeddei, and two oth^{er} of hys disciples. Symon Peter sayeth vnto them: I wyll go a fishyng. They saue vnto him: we also wyll go with the. They wēt the y^e waye & entred into a shyppe immediatly, & that night caught they nothinge. But when y^e moornyng was now come, Ies^{us} stode on y^e shore: neuertheless the disciples knewe not y^e it was Ies^{us}. Ies^{us} sayeth vnto the: Children, haue ye eny meat? they answered him, no. And he saith vnto the: * cast out the net on y^e prygth syde of the ship, & ye shall fynde. They cast out therefore, ad anone they were not hable to draue it for the multitude of fyshes.

Then sayde y^e disciple * whō Ies^{us} loued vnto Peter: It is y^e Lord. Whē Symon Peter heard y^e it was y^e Lord, he gyyde his coate vnto him

The Actes of the Apostles.

The fyrst Chapter. ✠

The ascension of Christ, Mathias is chosen in the stead of Judas.

In former tentyse (Dea-re Theophyl) we haue spoken of all that Iesus bega-ne to do and teache, vntyll the daye i which he was take vp, after that he, thozow the holy goost, had geue comaundmētes vnto the Apostles, whom he had chosen: to whom also he * shewed hym selfe alpye after hys passion (and that by many tokens) apparenyng vnto them fourtye dayes, and speakyng of the kyngdome of God, and gathered them together, * and comaunded them, that they shulde not departe from Ierusalem: but to waite for the promys of the father * wherof (sayeth he) ye haue hearde of me. For * John truly baptysed with water, but ye shalbe baptyfed with the holy goost after these fewe dayes.
Whē they therfore were come together, they asked of him, sayinge: Lorde, wilt thou at this tyme, restore agayne the kyngdome to Israel? And he sayde vnto them: * It is not for you to knowe the tymes, or the seasons, which the father hath put i his awne power: but * ye shal receaue power after that the holy goost is come vpon you. And * ye shalbe witnesses vnto me not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Jewry and in Samary, and euen vnto the worldes ende.

And when he had spoken these thynges, whyle they beheld, * he was take vp an hye,
* a cloude receaued him vp out of their sight.
And while they looked stedfastly vp towarde heaue, as he went, beholde, two men stode by them in whyte apparell, which also sayd: ye men of Galile, why stande ye gasyng vp into heauen? This same Iesus which is taken vp from you into heaue, * shall so come, euen as ye haue sene hi go into heaue. *
Then returned they vnto Ierusalem from p mount (that is called Olpnete) which is frō Ierusalem, a Saboth dayes iorney. And whē they were come in, they went vp into a par-ler, where abode both * Peter and James, and John and Andrew, Philip & Thomas, Barthelemew & Mathew, James p sonne of Alphens, and Simō zelotes, and Judas the brother of James. These all continued with one accorde in prayer and supplicacyon with the women & Mary p mother of Iesu, and with hys brethzen.

✠ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the discyples, and sayde (the nombze nombze of names that were together, were aboute an hundred and twentye.) Ye men & brethren, thys scripture must haue nedes be fulfylled, which the holy goost thozowe the mouth of Dauid spake befoze of Judas, * which was gyde to them that toke Iesus.

* For he was nombred with vs, and had ob-tayne felowshyp in thys mynystacyon.
And the same hath now possessed a plat of grounde with the rewarde of iniquite: and when he was * hanged, he burst a sonde in the myddes, and all his bowels gushid out.
And it is knowen vnto all the inhabiteurs of Ierusalem: in so moch that the same felde is called in their mother tōge, Acheldama, that is to saye, the bloude felde.

For it is wyrtten in p boke of psalmes:
* hys habitacyon be voyde, and no man be dwellynge therein: * and his Bylthopycke let another take. Wherfore of these mē which haue companied with vs (all the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had all hys conuerlacyn amonge vs, begynnynge at the baptye of John, vnto that same daye that he was take vp from vs) must one be ordeyned, to be a witness with vs of hys resurreccyon.

And they apoynted two, Joseph which is called Barsabas (whose surname was Jus-tus) and Mathias, And whan they prayed they sayde: thou Lorde, which * knowest the hertes of all mē, shewe whether of these two thou hast chosen: that he maye take the roume of thys ministracyon and Apostleshipp, from which Judas by transgressyon fell, that he myght go to hys awne place. And they gaue forth their lottes, and the lot fel on Mathias, and he was counted with the eleuen Apostles. ✠

The ij. Chapter. ✠

The coming of the holy goost. The sermon of Peter befoze the congregacyon at Ierusalem, and the mirace of the saythfull.

When * the fyrste dayes were come to an ende, they were all with one accorde together in one place. And sodenly ther came a soude from heaue, as it had bene the commynge of a myghey wynde, and it fylled all the house where they late. And there appered vnto them clouen tonges, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it late vpon eache one of them: * and they were all fylled with the holy goost, and beganne to speake with other tonges, euen as the same sprete gaue them vtterance.

Ther were dwellynge at Ierusalem, Jewes, denoute men, out of euery nacyn of the that are vnder heauen. When thys was noyed aboute, the multitude came together, & were astōnyed, because that euery man hearde the speake with his awne langage. They wondered all, and marueyled, sayinge among the selues: beholde, are not all these which speake, of Galile? And how heare we euery man his awne tong, wherin we were borne: Parthians, and Medes and Elampres, and the inhabiters of Mesopotamia, and of Turp, and of Capadocia, of Bonthus and Asia, Phry-gia, and Pamphilia, of Egypte, and of the partyes of Lybia which is helyd: Syren, ad straungers of Rome, Jewes & * Pro-selites. Grekes and Arabians: we haue herd them speake in sure awne tonges the greate wordes of God. ✠ They were all amased, and wondered, sayinge one to another: what meaneth this? Other mocked, sayinge: these men are full of new wyne.

✠ But Peter stepped forth with p clene, and lyft vp his voyce, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Jewrye, and all ye that dwell at Ierusalem: be this knowē vnto you, & with poure cares heare my wordes. For these are not droncken, as ye suppose, seynge it is but p thyrde houre of the daye. But this it that which was spoken by the Prophete Joel: And it shalbe in the last dayes, sayth God: of my sprete I wyll pooze out vpon all fleshe.
* And poure sonnes & poure daughters shal prophecy, and poure yonge men shal se vysions, and poure olde men shal dreame drames. And on my seruantes, & on my hande maydens I wyll pooze out of my sprete in those dayes, and they shal prophesy. And * I wyll shewe wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the erth beneth, bloud and fyre and the vapour of smake. The sunne shalbe turned into darcknes, & the moone into blou-de, befoze that great and notable daye of the Lorde come. And it shal come to passe, that
* whosoener shal call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saued. ✠

✠ Ye men of Israel, heare these wordes: Iesus of Nazareth a man aproued of God amonge you with myracles, wonders and sygnes, which God dyd by hym in the myd-des of you (as ye poure selues knowe) hym haue ye taken by the hādes of vnyghtewes persones, after he was deliuered by the determinat counsell & foreknowledge of God, & haue crucified and slayne him: whom God hath rayled vp, & looked p sorowes of deeth, because it was vnpossible, p he shulde be holde of it. For Dauid speaketh of him. * A fore hande I sawe God alwayes befoze me: for he is on my ryght hande, that I shulde not be moued. Therfore dyd my hert reioyce, & my tonge was glad. Moreover also my fleshe shal rest in hope, because thou wilt not leaue my soule in hell, nether wilt thou suffer thine holye to se corruption. Thou hast shewe d me the wayes of lyfe, thou shalt make me full of ioye with thy countenance. ✠

Ye men and brethren, let me frely speake vnto you of the patriarke Dauid: * For he is both

vnto him (for he was naked) & sprāge into p sec. The other discyples came by thyp for they were not farre frō lande, but as yt were two hōdred cubites, & they drewe p net w fishes.
None then as they were come to lāde, they sawe hōte coles, & fische layd therō, & breed.
Iesus sayeth vnto the. * bynge of p fische which ye haue now caught: Symon Peter went vp, & drewe p net to londe full of great fysches, an hōdred & liij. And for all ther were so many, yet was not the net broke. Iesus sayeth vnto the: come & dyne. And none of p discyples durst aske hi: what art p? For they knewe p it was the Lorde. Iesus then came, and toke breed, & gaue them, and fische lykewys. This is now the thyrde tyme p Jesus appeared to hys discyples, after that he was rised agayne from deeth. ✠

✠ So when they had dynd, Iesus sayeth to Symō Peter: Symō Ioāna, louest thou me more then these? He sayd vnto hi: ye Lorde, p knowest, p I loue p. He sayeth vnto him: fe-de my lābes. He sayeth to him agayne p secō-de tyme: Symon Ioāna, louest thou me? He saith vnto him. Yee Lorde, p knowest that I loue p. He sayde vnto him: fede my shepe. He sayde vnto him p thyrde tyme: Symō Ioāna, louest thou me? Peter was sorpy, because he sayde vnto hym the thyrde tyme: louest thou me, and he sayde vnto hym: Lorde, thou knowest all thinges, thou knowest that I loue p, Iesus saith vnto him: fede my shepe.

✠ Clerely, verely, I saue vnto the: whē thou wast yong, p gerdest thy selfe, & ad walkedst whither thou woldest: but when thou art olde, * thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, & another shal gyde the, & leade the whither thou woldest not. That spake he, sygnify-nge, by what death he shuld glorifye God.

And when he had spoken thys, he sayeth vnto hi: ✠ folowe me. Peter turned about, and sawe the disciple * whom Iesus loued, folowynge (which also leane on hys brest at supper, and sayde: Lorde, which is he that betrayeth the?) When Peter therfore sawe him, he sayeth to Iesus: Lorde, what shall he here do? Iesus sayeth vnto hym, If I wyll haue him to tary tyll I come, what is that to the? folowe p me. Then went thys sayinge abroade among the brethren, that p discyp-le shulde not dye. Yet Iesus sayde not to hym, he shal not dye: but yf I wyll p he tary tyll I come, what is that to p? The same dyscy-ple is he, which testifieth of these thynges, and wrote these thynges. And we knowe, p hys testimony is true. ✠ * There are also many other thynges which Iesus dyd, the which yf they shulde be wyrtten euery one, I suppose the worlde coulde not cōtayne the bookes that shulde be wyrtten.

is both deed and buried, and hys sepulchre remaineth with vs vnto this daye. Therefore, seeinge he was a Prophet, and knewe þ God had sworne with an othe to him, that Christ (as concerninge the flesch) shulde come of the fruite of his loynes, and on hys seat, he knowinge this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soule shulde not be left in hell: neither hys flesch shulde be corrupted. This Iesus hath God rayled vp, * wherof we all are witnesses.

Hence now that he by the ryght hande of God exalted is, and hath receaued of the father the promise of the holy Goost, he hath shewed forth this * (grfte) which ye now see and heare. For David is not ascended into heuē: but he sayeth: * The Lord sayde to my Lord: syt thou on my ryght hand, vntyll I make thy foes thy fote stole. So therefore, let all the house of Israel knowe for a surety, þ God hath made that same Iesus (whom ye haue crucified) Lord and Christ.

When they hearde this, they were pricked in their hartes, and sayd vnto Peter, & vnto the other Apostles: Ve me & brethren * what shall we do? Peter sayde vnto them: repent of youre synnes, and be baptysed euery one of you in the name of Iesus Christ for the remission of synnes, and ye shall receaue the grfte of þ holy goost. For the promise was made vnto you and to youre chyldren, and to all that are a farre of, euen as many as the Lord oure God shall call. And with many other wordes bare he witness, and exhorted them, sayinge: Saue youre selues from this vntowarde generation. Then they gladly receaued his preachinge, were baptised: and the same daye, ther were added vnto them aboute thre thousande soules.

And they continued in the Apostles doctrine and felowshyp, & in breakinge of bread, and in prayers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wōdres & signes were shewed by þ Apostles. * At Jerusalem. And great feare came vpon all men. And all that beloued, kept them selues together, & had all thynges comen, and solde their possessions and goodes, and parted them to all men, as euery man had nede. And they continued dayly with one accord in þ temple, & brake bread fro house to house, & dyd eate their meate together, wī gladnes & singlenes of hert, praylinge God, and had fauour with all the people. And the Lord added to þ cōgregation dayly, soch as shulde be saued.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

¶ The halt is restored to hys fete. Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

Peter and John went vp together into the temple at the nyynth houre of prayer. And a certayne man that was halt from hys mothers wōbe, was brought, whom they layde daylye at the gate of the temple (which is called beutyfull) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter and John, that they wolde into the temple, he desyred to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on him with John, & sayd: loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto the, trystynge, to receaue some thyng of them. The sayde Peter: Syner and golde haue I none such as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Iesus Christ of Nazareth, * ryle vp and walke. And he toke hym by the ryght hand, and lyfte hym vp. And immediatly hys fete and ancle bones receaued strength. And he sprang, stode, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walkynge, and leappynge, and prayynge God.

And all the people sawe hym walke and prayse God. And they knewe hym, þ it was he, which late and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondred and were soze astonyed at that which had happened vnto hym. And as the halt which was healed, helde Peter and John, all the people ranne amased vnto the in * the porche that is called Salomons.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people. * Ye men of Isral, why maruaile ye at this, or why loke ye so on vs, as though by oure awne power or strength we had made this man go? The God of Abraham, and of Isaac and of Jacob, the God of oure fathers hath glorified hys sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered, * and denyed in þ presence of Pilate, when he had iudged hym to be looked. But ye denyed the holy and iust, and desyred a mozt herar to be geuen you, and kylled * the Lord of lyfe, whom God hath rayled from deeth, of the which we are witnesses. And hys name thozowe the fayth of his name, hath made this mā sound, who ye see and knowe. And the fayth which is by hym, hath geuen to hym this health in the presence of you all.

And now brethren, I wote þ thozow ignorance ye dyd it, as dyd also youre rulers. But God (which before had shewed, by the mouth of all hys Prophetes, howe þ Christ shuld suffer) hath thus wyle fulfilled. Let it * repente you therfore, and couerte, þ youre synnes maye be done awaye. * when þ tyme of restrethynge cometh, which we shall haue of the presence of the Lord, and when God shal sende him, which before was preached vnto you, that is to witte Iesus Christ, which must receaue heauen vntyll the tyme that all thynges, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all hys holy Prophetes sence þ worlde began, be restored agayne.

Moses trulye sayde vnto the fathers: * a Prophet shall the Lord poure God rayle vnto you, euē of youre brethren lyke vnto me: him me: him shall ye heare, in all thynges whatsoever he shall saye vnto you. For the tyme wyl come, that euery soule which wyl not heare that same Prophet, shalbe destroyed from amonge the people. All the Prophetes also from Samuel and thence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in lyke wyle tolde of these dayes.

Ye are the chyldren of the Prophetes, and of the couenant, which God made vnto oure fathers, sayinge to Abraham: * Euen in thy seede shal all the kynredes of the earth be blessed. If yst whan God had rayled vp hys sonne Iesus vnto you, he sent hi to blesse you, that euery one of you shulde turne from his wyckednes.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

¶ The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto God then vnto men.

As they spake vnto the people, the prestes and the rulers of the temple, and the Saduces, came vpon the, takynge it greuously, that they taught the people, and preached in Iesus the resurrection from deeth. And they layde handes on them, and put them in holde vntyll þ nexte daye. for it was now euentide. Howbeit many of them which hearde the wordes beloued, and the nombze of the men was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunced on the morow, that their rulers and elders and Scribes, (and Anias the chiefe Prest, and Cayphas, and John, and Alexander, & as many as were of þ kynred of þ hye Prestes) gathered together at Jerusalem. And whā they had set them before them they asked * by what power, or in what name haue ye done this?

Then Peter full of þ holy goost sayde vnto the: ye rulers of the people, and elders of Isral, ye we this daye be examined of the good dede that we haue done to the sycke mā by what meanes he is made whoale: be it knowne vnto you all, and to all the people of Isral, that by the name of * Iesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God rayled agayne from deeth: euen by him doth this mā stande here present before you whoale. * This is the stone which was cast asyde of you buylders, which is become the chiefe of the corner. Nether is there saluacyon in eny other. * For amonge men vnder heauen there is geuen none other name, wherin we must be saued.

When they sawe the boldnes of Peter and John, and understode that they were vnderned and laye men, they marueyled, and they knewe them, that they had bene with Iesu: and beholdynge also the man (which was healed) standynge with the, they coulde not saye agaynst it: but commaunded them to go asyde out of þ counsell, and counceiled amonge them selues, sayinge: * what shall we do to these men? For a manifest spgne is done by them, and is openly knowne to all them that dwell in Jerusalem, and we cannot denye it. But that it be noysed no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten and charge the, þ they speake hence forth to no man in this name.

And they called them, * and commaunded them, that in nowyle they shulde speake nether teach in þ name of Iesu. But Peter & John answered and sayde vnto them: whether it be ryght in þ sight of God, to hearken vnto you more then to God, iudge ye. For we cannot but speake, that which we haue sene & heard. So threatened they them, and let them go, and founde nothyng howe to punyshe the, because of the people. For all men prayled God because of * þ which was done: for the man was aboute forty yere olde, on whom this myracle of healyng was shewed.

As soon as they were let go, they came to thei felowes, and shewed all that the hye Prestes and elders had sayde. And when they hearde þ, they lyfte vp their voyces to God with one accord, and sayde: Lord, thou art God, which hast made heauen and erth, the see, & all that in the is, which * (in the holy goost) by þ mouth of thy seruaunt David: * (oure father) hast sayd: * Why dyd the he the rage, and the people ymagen vayne thynges? The kynredes of the erth stode vp, and the rulers came together, agaynst the Lord and agaynst hys anoynted.

For of a tructh, agaynst thy holy chyld Iesus (whom þ hast anoynted) both Herode and also Poncius Pilate, with the Sctyls and the people of Isral, gathered them selues together * (in this cite) for to do what: soeuer thy hande and thy counsell determyned before to be done. And now Lord, beholde their threatenynge, and graunte vnto thy seruautes, that with all confydence they maye speake thy worde. So that thou stretche forth thyne hande, that healyng and signes and wonders be done by the name of thy holy chyld Iesus. And as soon as they had prayed: þ place moued where they were assembled together * and they were all fylled with the holy Goost, and they spake the worde of God boldly.

And the multitude of them that beloued, * were of one hert, & of one soule. Neyther sayde anye of them, that ought of the thynges which he possessed, was hys awne: but they had all thynges comen. And with greute power gaue the Apostles wytnes of the resurrection of the Lord Iesu. And great grace was with them all. Nether was there eny amonge them, that lacked. For as many as were possessers of landes or houses, solde them, and brought þ pryce of þ thynges that were solde.

were solde, ad layde it downe at y^e Apostles fete: And distribucion was made vnto euery man accordyng as he had nede.

* Actes. iij.

And * Iosef, which was also called of y^e Apostles, Barnabas (that is to saye, y^e sonne of consolacyon) beyng a Leuite, and of the countre of Cypers whan he had lande, solde it, and layde the pryce doone at the Apostles fete.

The. v. Chapter.

The dysciple of Ananias and Saphyra is punished. Miracles are done by the Apostles, which are taken, but the angel of God byng with them out of prison. They are brought before the Iudges. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are in trouble.

A Certaine man named Ananias with Saphyra his wyfe solde a possession, ad kepte awaye parte of the pryce (hys wyfe also beyng of counsell) and brought a certayne parte, and layde it downe at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayde: Ananias, how is it, that Sathan hath fylled thyne hert, that thou shuldest lye vnto the holy goost, and kepe awaye parte of the pryce of the lande? Pertayned it not vnto the onely: & after it was solde, was it not in thyne awne power? Why hast thou concealed this thynge in thyne herte? Thou hast not lye d vnto me, but vnto God. Whē Ananias herde these wordes, he fell downe, and gaue vp the goost. And great feare came on all them that hearde these thynges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put hym a parte, ad caried hym out, and buried hym.

And it fortuneth, that (as it were aboute the space of thre houres after) his wyfe came in, ignorant of that which was done. And Peter sayde vnto her: Tell me, Solde ye not y^e lāde for so moch? And she sayd: yee, for so moch. Then Peter sayde vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tēpt the sprete of y^e Lorde? Beholde, the fete of them which haue buried thy husband, are at the doore, and shall carie the out. Then fell she downe straght waye at his fete, and yelded vp y^e goost. And the yonge men came in, and founde her deed, & caried her out, & buried her by her husband. And great feare came on all the congregacyon, and on as many as heard it.

By y^e handes of the Apostles * were many sygnes and wonderes shewed among the people. And they were all together with one accorde in * Salomons porche. And of other durst no mā ioyne him self to the: neuertheles the people magnified them. The nombred of them that beleued in the Lorde both of men and women, grewe more & more: in so moch y^e they brought the spcke into the stretes, and layde them on beddes and couches, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter when he came by, myght shadowe some of them, * and that they myght all be deliuered fro their infirmities)

There came also a multitude out of the cyties rounde aboute, vnto Ierusalem, byng gonge speke folkes, and them which were vexed with vnclene spretes. And they were healed euery one.

* Then the chiefe Prestre rose vp, and all they that were with him (which is the secte of the Saduces) ad were full of indignaciō, and layde handes on the Apostles, and put them in the commē pzelon. * But the angell of the Lorde by nyght opened the pzelon doores, and brought them forth, and sayde: go, and stande, and speake in the temple to the people all y^e wordes of this lyfe. When they hearde that, they entred into the tēple early in the mornynge: and taught. But the chiefe prestre came and they that were with him, ad called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chylidren of Israel, and sent men to the pzelon, to fet them. When the mynysters came, and founde them not in the pzelon, they returned and tolde, sayinge: the pzelon truly founde we shut with all diligēce, and the keepers standynge without before the doores. But whē we had opened, we founde no mā within. When the chiefe Prestre and the ruler of the tēple, and the hye Prestres hearde these thynges, they douted of the, wher vnto thys wolde growe.

Then came one and shewed them: beholde, the men that ye put in pzelon, stande in the temple, and teach the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, with ministres, and brought them without violence. For they feared the people, lest they shulde haue bene stoned. And when they had brought them, they set the before the counsell. And the chiefe Prestre asked them, sayinge: * dyd not we straitely commaunde you: that ye shuld not teach in this name? And behold, ye haue fylled Ierusalem with poure doctryne, and intende to byrge * this mans bloud vpo vs.

Peter and the other Apostles answered, & sayde: * We ought more to obey God then me. The God of oure fathers rayled vp Iesus, whom ye slewe, and hanged on tre. hym hath God lyft vp with his ryght hand, to be a ruler and a sauiour, for to geue repentaunce to Israel, and forgyuenes of synnes. And we are recorderes of these thynges which we saye, and so is also y^e holy goost, whom God hath geuen to them y^e obey him. Whē they hearde that, they claue asunder, and sought meanes to slea them. Then stode ther vp one in the counsell, a Pharysey, named * Gamaliel, a doctoure of lawe (had in reputacyon among all the people) and commaunded y^e Apostles to go asyde a lytell space, and sayd vnto the: ye men of Israel, take hede to poure selues, what ye entende to do, as touchynge these mē. After this mā, was ther one Judas of * Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drewe awaye moche people after hym. he also perished and all, euen (as many as harkened to him) were scatred abrode.

And now I saye vnto you: refraine your selues from these men, and lett them alone. For yf this counsel or this worke be of men, it wyll come to naught. But and yf it be of God, ye cannot destroye it, lest haply ye be founde to stryue agaynst God. And to hym agreed the other: and whan they had called the apostles, they bet them, * and commaunded that they shulde not speake in the name of Iesu, and let them go.

And they departed from the counsell, Treioplunge, that they were counted worthy, to suffre rebuke for his name. And dayly in the temple and in euery houle they ceased not, to teach and preach Iesus Christ.

The. vi. Chapter.

The ministers (or deacons) are ordeined in the congregation to do seruyce in necessary thynges of the body, that the apostles maye waste onely vpo the worde of God. Steuen is accused.

In those dayes (whā the number of the discyples grewe) there arose a grudge amonge the Iewes agaynst the hebrues, because their weddowes were despylde in the dayly ministracyon. Then the twelue called the multitude of the discyples together and sayde, it is not mete, that we shuld leaue the worde of God: and serue tables. Wherfore brethren, loke ye out amonge you seuen men * of honeste report, and full of the holy ghost and wisdom, to whom we maye committe this busynes. But we wyll geue oure selues continually to prayer, and to the ministracyō of the worde. And the sayinge pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steuen a mā full of faith and of the holy ghost, and Philip, and Procorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Bernenas, and * Nicolas a couert of Antioche. These they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they * layde theyr handes on them.

And the word of God encreased, and the number of the discyples multiplied in Ierusalem greatly, and a greate companye of the prestres were obedient to the sayth.

* And Steuen, full of fayth and power, dyd great wonderes and miracles amonge the people. Then ther arose certen of the Synagoges, which is called the Synagoge of the Libertynes and Sirenytes, and of Alexandria, and of Celicia, and of Asia, disputynge with Steuen. * And they coulde not respyte the wisdom, & the sprete, * which spake. * Then sent they in men, which sayde: we haue hearde hym speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people ad the elders and the scribes: and came vpo him and caught hym, and brought him to the counsell, and brought forth false witness, which sayde: This man ceaseth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe: for we heard him saye: this Iesus of Nazareth shal destroye this place, and shal chaunge the ordinaunces, which Moses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell, looked stedfastly on him, and sawe his face as it had bene the face of an angell.

The. vii. Chapter.

Steuen maketh answer to hys accusacyon, rebuketh the hardnecked Iewes, and is stoned vnto death.

Then sayd the chiefe prestre: is it true so? And he sayd: ye men, brethren and fathers, hearken. The God of glory appeared vnto our father Abraham, whan he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran, and sayd vnto hym: * Get the out of thy countre, and from thy kynred, and come into y^e land, which I shall shewe y^e. Then came he out of the lāde of Chaldee, and dwelt in Charran. And from thence, whan hys father was deed, he brought him into this lāde in which ye now dwel, and he gaue hym none inheritauce in it, no not the bredeth of a fote: * and promysed that he wold geue it to him to possesse & to his seed after hym, when as yet he had no chylde.

God verely spake on thys wise * that his seed shulde sojourne in a straunge lande, & that they shulde kepe them in bondage, and * entreate them euell. iij. C. yeaeres. And the nacyon (to whom they shalbe in bondage) will I iudge, sayd God. And after that thal they come forth and serue me in thys place. * And he gaue him the couenaunt of circumcision. * And he begat Isaac, and circumcised him the right daye. ad * Isaac begat Jacob, and * Jacob begat the twelue patriarches. * And the patriarches hauing indygnacyon solde Ioseph into Egypte. And God was with hym, and deliuered hym out of all his aduersities, and gaue him fauour & wysdome in the syght of Pharaos kynge of Egypte. And he * made hym gouernoure ouer Egypte, and ouer all hys houtholde.

* But ther came a dertth ouer all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliccion that our fathers fōude no sustenance. But when Jacob hearde that there was corne in Egypt he sent our fathers first. * And at the second tyme, Ioseph was knowe of his brethren, & Iosephs kynred was made knowne vnto Pharaos.  waye, sayinge: * who made the a ruler and a iudge ouer vs? wilt thou kyll me, as thou dydest the Egyptian yester daye? * Then fled Moses at that saying, and was a straunger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sonnes.

* And whan forty yeres were expired, there appeared to hym in the wilderness of mount Sina an angell of the Lord in a flame of fyre in a bulshe. When Moses sawe it, he wondred at the syght. And as he drew neare to beholde, the voyce of the Lord came vnto hym. * I am the God of thy fathers, p̄ God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses trembled, and durst not beholde. The Lord sayd p̄ the Lord to him: * Put of thy shoes fro thy fete, for the place where thou standest, is holy grounde. I haue perfectely sene the affliction of my people, which is in Egypt, and I haue heard they gromping, ad am come downe to deliuer the.
 And nowe come, and I wyl sende the into Egypt.

* This Moses who they forsoke (saying:
 * who made the a ruler and a iudge?) the same dyd God sende to be a ruler and a deliuerer, by the handes of the aungell which appeared to hym in the bulshe. And the same brought them out, the wynged wondres and signes in Egypt, and in the red see, and in the wyldernes forty yeres. Thys is that Moses, which sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel:

 * A prophete shall the Lord your God rayse vp vnto you of your brethren, like vnto me, him shall ye heare.

This is he that was in the congregaciō, in the wilderness with the angel (which spake to hym in the mount Sina) and with our fathers. This man receaued the word of life to geue vnto vs, to whom our fathers wold not obey, but cast it from them, and in they hertes turned backe agayne into Egypt, sapinge vnto Aaron: * make vs goddes to go before vs. For as for thys Moses p̄ brought vs out of the lande of Egypte, we wote not what is become of hym. And they made a calfe in those dayes, and offered sacrifice vnto the ymage, and reioyced ouer the workes of theyr awne handes.

Then God turned hym selfe, and * gaue them vp, that they shulde worshyp the hoost of the skye, as it is writtē in the booke of the prophetes. * Ope of the house of Israel, ga-ue ye to me sacrifices and meate offeringes by the space of forty yeres in the wyldernes: And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of poure God Remphan, figures which ye made to worshyp them. And I will translate you beyōde Babylon.

Oure fathers had the tabernacle of witnes in the wyldernes, as he had appoynted them speaking vnto Moses: that he shulde make it, according to the fassyon that he had sene. Which tabernacle also oure fathers that cam after, * brought in with Josue into the possession of the Gentyls, whom God draue out before the face of oure fathers, vnto the tyme of Dauid: * which founde fauoure before God, and wold sayne haue founde a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. * But Salomon bult him an house.

* Howbeit he that is hyest of al, dwelleth not in temples made with handes, as sayth the prophete: * heauen is my seate, and earth is my fote stole. What house wyl ye bylde for me, sayth p̄ the Lord: or which is p̄ place of my rest: hath not my hand made al thesē thinges?

Ye stiffnecked and of vncircumcised her-tes and eares: * ye haue all wayes resysted the holy ghost: * as youre fathers dyd, so do ye. Which of the prophetes haue not your fathers persecuted? And they haue slaine them which shewed before of the comming of that Just, whom ye haue nowe betrayd, ad murdred. And ye also haue receaued p̄ lawe * by the minystracion of aungels, and * haue not kept it.

* When they heard thesē thinges, they hertes claue asunder, and they gnashed on hym him with theyr teth. But he being ful of the holy ghost, looked vp stedfast lye w hys eyes into heauē, and sawe the glozpe of God, and Jesus standyng on the ryght hande of God, and sayd: beholde, I se the heauens open, and the sonne of man standyng on the right hand of God. Then they gaue a shout with a loud voyce, and * stopped theyr eares, and ranne vpon him all at once, and cast hym out of the cytie, and * stoned him. And the witnes layd downe theyr clothes at a pong mannes fete, whose name was Saul. And they stoned Steue callinge on and sayinge: Lordē Jesu, * receaue my sprete. And he kneeled downe & cryed with a loude voyce: Lordē, * laue not thys synne to theyr charge. And whē he had thus spoken, he fell a slepe. †

The viij. Chapter.

Saul persecuteth the Chyrtien. The apostles are scattered abroad. Philip cometh into Samaria. Simon Magus is baptised, he dytchmbleth. Philip baptiseth the chamberlaine.

Saul * consented vnto hys death.
 And at p̄ tyme there was a greate persecucion agaynst the congrega-cyon which was at Jerusalem, ad they were all * scattered abroad thorowout p̄ regyons of Jewry and Samaria, except the apostles. But deuout men dressed Steuen, and made great lamentacyon ouer hym. As for Saul he * made hauocke of the cōgrega-cyon, and entred into euery house, and drew out both men and women, and thrust them into prison. Therfore, they that were scatered abroad, went euery where preachyng the worde of God.

* Then came Philip into a cytie of Samaria, & preached Christ vnto them. And the people gaue hede vnto those thynges which Philip spake w one accord, hearyng & seying the myracles whych he dyd. For * vncleane spretes crynge with loude voyce, came out of many p̄ were possessed of the. And many taken w palsy, & many p̄ halted, were healed. And ther was great ioye in that cyte. †

But ther was a certen mā called Symō, which before tyme in p̄ same cytye vled wit-checraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, saying that he was a man that coulde do great thynges. Whom they regarded, fro the lest to p̄ greatest, sayinge: this man is the power of God, which is called greate. And him they sett moche by, because that of longe tyme he had bewitched them with sorceries.
 But as sone as they gaue credence to Philippes preachyng of the kyngdome of God, & of the name of Jesu Christ, they were baptysed both men & women. Then Simon hym selfe beleued also. And whan he was baptised, he continued w Philip, and wondred, beholding the miracles & sygnes, which were shewed.

* When the apostles which were at Jerusale herd saye, that Samary had receaued the word of God, they sent vnto the Peter & John. Which whan they were come downe, prayed for the, p̄ they might receaue the holy ghost. For as yet he was come on noone of the: but they were baptised onely in p̄ name of Christ Jesu. * Then layd they their handes on them, & they receaued the holy ghost. † Whē Simō sawe that thorow laying on of the apostles handes, the holy ghost was geuen, he offered them money, saying: geue me also this power, that on whomsoeuer I put the handes, he maye receaue the holy ghost.

 But Peter sayd vnto him: thy money peristhe with the, because thou hast thought * p̄ the gift of God maye be obteyned with money. Thou hast nether parte, nor felowshyp in thys busynes. For thy hert is not ryght in the syght of God. Repente therfore of thys thy wyckednes, & praye God, p̄ the thought of thyne herte maye be forgeuen the. For I perceaue that thou art full of bitter gall, and wrapped in iniquite.

Then answered Simon & sayde: * prape ye to the Lord for me, p̄ none of these thyngges which ye haue spoken, fall on me. And they whan they had testifed and preached p̄ worde of God, returned towarde Jerusale, and preached the gospel in many cyties of the Samaritans.

* The aungell of the Lord spake vnto Philip, saying: aryse, & go toward the south vnto the wape that goeth downe from Jerusalem vnto the cyte of Gaza, which is in the desert. And he arose, & went on. And behold, a man of Ethiopia (a chāberlene, & of greate auctorite with Cādace quene of the Ethiopians, & had the rule of al her treasure) * came to Jerusalem for to worshyp. And as he returned home agayne syttinge in hys charet, he red & say the prophete.

Then the sprete sayd vnto Philip: go ne-are, and ioyne thy self to ponder charet. And Philip ran to hym, and heard him reade the prophete Esay, and sayd: vnderstandest thou what thou readeest? And he said: how can I, except I had a gyde? And he desyred Philip, that he wolde come by, and sytt with hym.
 The tenoure of the scripture which he read, was this: * he was led as a shepe to be slay-ne: and lyke a lambe domine before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth. * Because of hys humblenes, he was not esteemed. But who shal declare hys generaciō? for his lyfe is taken fro the earth. The chamberlaine answered Philip, and sayd: I prape the of whō speaketh the prophete thys: of hym selfe, or of some other man?

Philip opened hys mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Jesus. And as they wet on theyr wape, they cam vnto a certē water, and the chāberlay-ne sayd:

¶ Eg ij ne sayd:

* Actes. i. a he said: Se, here is water * what doth let me to be baptysed? Philip sayde vnto him: If þ belue with all thyne hert, thou mayest. And he answered, and sayde: I belue that Iesus Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charer to stande still. And they went downe both into the water: both Philip and also the chamberlayn, and he baptysed hym.
And as soon as they were come out of þ water, the sprete of þ Lord caught a waye Philip, and the chamberlayn sawe him nomore.
And he went on hys waye reioysinge: but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked thoro vnto the coastes, preaching in all the cyties, tyll he came to Cesarea. K

The ix. Chapter. K

Saul is converted, and confoundeth the Jewes.
Peter baptiseth Eubrytha.

AND Saul yet breshyng out threat-nynges and slaughter agaynst the disciples of the Lorde, wente vnto the hye preste, and despyred of hym letters, to cary to Damasco, to the synagoges: * that yf he founde any of thys waye, (whether they were me or weme) he myght brynge them bounde vnto Jerusalem. And when he ioyned, it fortuneth that as he was nye to Damasco, suddenly their shyned round about hym a lyght from heauen, and he fell to the earth and hearde a voyce, sayinge to hi: * Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me?
And he sayde: what art thou Lorde? And the Lorde sayd: I am Iesus, whom thou persecutest. It is hard for the to kycke against the pyckes. And he both treblynge, & astonyed sayde: Lorde, * what wilt thou haue me to do? And the Lorde sayd vnto hym: aryse, and go into the cytie, and it shalbe told the, what thou must do.

23 The men which ioyned with hym, stode amased, hearynge a voyce, but seynge no man. And Saul arose from the earth, & whē he opened his eyes, he sawe no mā. But they led hym by the hande, and brought hym into Damasco. And he was thre dayes without syght, and nether dyd eate nor dryncke. And ther was a certen discipule at Damasco, named Ananias, and to him sayd the Lorde in a visyon: Ananias: And he sayd: behold, I am here Lorde. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: aryse, and go into the strete (whych is called strayght) and seke in the house of Judas after one called Saul * of Tharsus. For be-holde, he prayeth, and hath sene in a vision a man named Ananias comyng into him, and puttyng hys handes on hym, that he myght receaue his syght.

* Actes. viii. a Then Ananias answered: Lorde, I haue heard by many of this mā * how moche euyl he hath done to thy sayntes at Jerusalem: & here he hath auctoryte of the hye prestes, to bynde all that call on thy name. The Lorde vnto him: go thy waye, for he is a chosen vessel vnto me, to beare my name before þ Getyls, and kynges, and the chyldren of Israel.

For I wyll shewe hym, how greate thynges
* he must suffre for my names sake.

* Actes. xix. a And Ananias wet his waye, and entred into the house, and put hys handes on hym, and sayd: brother Saul, the Lorde that apperyd vnto the in þ waye as thou camest, hath sent me, þ thou myghtest receaue thy syght, and be fylled with the holy ghost. And im-mediatly ther fell fro hys eyes as it had bene scales, and he receaued syght: and arose, and was baptysed, and receaued meate and was comforted. Then was Saul a certen dayes with the disciples which were at Damasco.
And straight waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges, howe that he was the sonne of God, but all that heard him, were amased, & sayd: is not this he, that spoyled them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hyther for that entent, that he myght bring thē bounde vnto the hye prestes? But Saul encreased the more in strength, & confounded the Jewes which dwelt at Damasco, affyr-minge that this was very Christ. K

And after a good whyle, the Jewes toke councell together, to kill him. But their lay-inge awayte was knowen of Saul. And they watched the gates daye and nyght to kyl hi. * Then þ disciples toke him by night and put hym thoro the wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assaide to couple him selfe to the disciples: but they were all afraide of hym, & belueid not þ he was a discipule. But Barnabas toke hym, & brought hym to the apostles, & declared to thē, howe he had sene the Lorde in the waye, and that he had spoken to him, & how he had done boldly at Damasco in the name of Iesu. And he had hys conuersacyon with them at Jerusalem, speakynge boldly in the name of the Lorde Iesu. And he spake & disputed agaynst the Grekes: but they wente about to slee hym. Which when the breshyren knewe, * they brought hym to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tharsus. Then had the co-gregacyons rest thoroout all Jewry, and Galile, and Samary, and were edifyed, and walked in the feare of the Lorde, and multy-plied by the comfort of the holy ghost.

And it chaused as Peter walked through out all quarters, he cam also to the sayntes, which dwelt at Lydda. And there he founde a certen man name Eneas, which had kepte his bedd eyght yeres, and was speke of the palsye. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Eneas?
The Lorde Iesu Christ make the whole: arys-se, and make thy bedd. * And he arose imme-diatly. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Af-saron sawe him, and tourned to the Lorde.

There was

There was at Joppa a certen woman, a discipule named Tabitha (which by interpre-tacyon is called Dorcas) the same was full of good workes and almes dedes, which she dyd. And it chaused in those dayes that she was speke, & dyed. Whō when they had wel-shed, they layd her in a chamber. But for as moch as Lydda was nye to Joppa, and the disciples had heard þ Peter was there, they sent vnto him, despyringe him, that he wolde not be greued to come vnto them.

Peter arose, & came with them. And whē he was come, they brought him into the chaber. And all the widdowes stode round about him, wepyng, and shewyng the coates and garmentes, which Dorcas made, whyle she was with thē. And Peter put thē all forth, and kneled downe, and prayde. and turned him to the body, and sayd: Tabitha, * aryse.
And she opened her eyes, and when she sawe Peter, she sat vp. And he gaue her the hand. and lyft her vp. And whan he had called the sayntes and widdowes, he shewed her aly-ne. And it was knowne thoroout al Joppa, & many beleued on the Lorde. And it for-tuned, that he tarped many dayes in Joppa, with one Simon a tanner.

The x. Chapter. K

The visyon that Peter sawe. How he was sent to Cornelius. The heathen also receaue the spete, and are baptysed.

AND here was a certen man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captayn of the souldyers of Italy, a deuote mā, & one that feared God with all hys housholde, which gaue moch almes to the people, and prayde God all waye.
The same sa we by a visyon euidently (about the ninth houre of the daye) an angel of God compyng into him, and sayinge vnto him: Cornelius: When he looked on hym, he was afraide, & ad sayd: what is it Lorde? he sayde vnto him: Thy prayers & thy almes are come vp into remembraunce before God. And now sende men to Joppa, & call for one Symon, whose surname is Peter. he lodgeth w one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the see syde. he shall tell þ, what thou oughtest to do. And when the angell which spake vnto hym, was departed, he called two of hys housholde seruautes, and a deuoute souldier of them that wayted on him, and tolde them all the matter, and sent them to Joppa.

23 On þ morowe as they went on their iorney, and dreyne ny vnto the cytie, Peter wet vp * vpon the toppe of the house to praye, about the syxt houre. And whē he wexed an hōgred, he wolde haue eatē. But whyle they made ready, he fell into a traunce, and sawe heauen opened, and a certen vessell come do-wne vnto hym, as it had bene a great sheet, knyt at the foure corners, and was let dow-ne to the earth, wherein were * all maner of fourfoted beastes of the earth, & vermen and wormes & foules of the ayer. And ther came a voyce to hi, rise Peter, kyl & eate. But Peter sayd: not so Lorde, for I haue neuer eaten eny thinge that is comen or vncleane. And þ voyce spake vnto him agayne the second tyme:

* what God hath clenfed, that call not þ comen. This was done threse, and the vessell was receaued by agayne into heauen.

Whyle Peter also mused in him self what thys visyon (which he had sene) meant: be-holde, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquirance for Simōs house, and stode before the doze: and called out one, and asked whether Simon which was surnamed Peter were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on the visyon, þ sprete sayd vnto him: behold, men seke the: aryse therfore, and get the downe, & go with them, & dowe not for I haue sent them. Peter went downe to the men which were sent vnto hym frō Cornelius and sayd: Behold, I am he whō ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come?
They sayd: Cornelius þ captayne a iust mā, and one that feareth God, & of good reporte amonge all the peopple of the Jewes, was warned by an holy angell to sende for the in to his house, & to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in, & lodged them.

And on the morowe, Peter went awaye with them, and * certayn breshyren frō Joppa accompanied hym. And the thyrde daye entred they into Cesarea. And Cornelius wayted for them, and had called together hys kynsinen, and speciall frendes. And as it chaused Peter to come in, Cornelius mete hym, and fell downe at hys fete, & worshypped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, sayinge: stande vp, * I my selfe also am a man. And as he talked with him, he came in, and founde many that were come together. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe how that * it is a vnlawful thinge for a mā that is a Jewe, to company or come vnto an alient: but God hath shewed me, that I shulde not call any man comen or vncleane: therfore came I vnto you without delaye, assone as I was sent for. I aske therfore, for what intent haue ye sent for me.

And Cornelius sayd: This daye now. iiii. dayes about this houre, I sat fasting, and at the nynthe houre I prayde in my house: and behold, a man stode before me in bygght clothyng, and sayde: Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thyne almes dedes are had in re-membraunce in the syght of God. Seide men therfore to go to Joppa, and call for Symō, whose surname is Peter. he is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner by the see syde: which assone as he is come, shall speake vnto the. Then sent I for the immediatly, & thou Eg iij hast

hast well downe, that thou art come. Nowe therfore are we all here present before God, to heare all thinges that are commaunded vnto the of God.

Then Peter opened his mouth, and sayde: Of a treuch I perceaue that * there is no respect of persones with God, * but in all people, he that feareth hym, and worketh ryghte wylles, is accepted with him.

If ye knowe the preachynge that God sent vnto the chyldren of Israel, preachynge peace by Iesu Christ, which is Lord ouer all thynges. * Which preachynge was published thorowout all Jewry (and * began in Galilee, after the baptyme which John preached) how * God anoynted Iesus of Nazareth w the holy ghost, and with power. Which Iesus went about doyng good, and healynge all y were oppressed of the deuyl, for God was with him. And we are witness of all thinges which he dyd in the lande of the Jewes and at Jerusalem: whom they slewe, and hanged on tre. Him God rayfed vp the thyrde daye, & shewed him openly, not to all the people, but vnto vs witnesses (chosen before of God for the same intent) which dyd cate & dynecke w him, after he arose * fro deeth. * And he commaunded vs to preach vnto the people, and to testify that it is he, which was ordeined of God to be the iudge of quicke and deed. To hym geue * all the prophetes witness, y thorowe hys name whosoener beleueth in him, shall receaue remission of synnes. *

Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, * y holy ghost fell on all the which heard y preachynge. And they of the circumcysion which beleued, were astonied, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentils also was shed out the gyft of the holy ghost. For they hearde them speake with tonges, & magnify God. Then answered Peter: * can any man forbid water, y these shuld not be baptysed, which haue receaued the holy ghost as well as we? And he commaunded the to be baptysed in the name of the Lord. * Then prayd they him, to tary a few dayes.

The xj. Chapter.

¶ Peter sheweth the cause wherfore he went to the heathen. Barnabas and Saul preach vnto the heathen. Agabus prophesieth deeth for to come.

¶ And the Apostles and brethren that were in Jewry, heard y the heathen had also receaued y word of God. And whē Peter was come vp to Jerusalem, they that were of the circumcysion contended against hym, sayng: * Thou wētest into men vncircumcised, and dydest eate with them.

But Peter rehearsed the matter from the begynning, and expounded it by order vnto them, sayng: * I was in y cytie of Toppa, prayng: and in a trance, I sawe a visyon, a certen vessel descende, as it had bene a great sheete, let downe fro heauen by the foure corners, & it came to me. Into the which whē I had fastened myne eyes, I considered, & sawe * fourfoted beastes of the earth, and vermes and wormes, and foules of the ayer. And I heard a voyce sayng vnto me: aryls Peter, slep, and eate. But I sayde: not so Lord, for nothyng comen of vncleane hath at any tyme entred into my mouth. But y voyce answered me agayne from heauen: count not y those thinges comen, which God hath clesed. And this was done thre tymes. And all were taken vp agayne into heauen.

And beholde, immediatly ther were thre men all ready come vnto the house where I was, sent fro Cesarea vnto me. And the fyrste sayd vnto me, that I shuld go with the, without doutynge. Moreover, * these thre brethren accompanied me, and we entred into the mans house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an angell in his house, which stode and sayd to him: send men to Toppa, and call for Simō, whose surname is Peter: he shall tell the wordes, wherby both thou and all thyne house shalbe saued. And as I beganne to preach, y holy ghost fell on them, * as he dyd on vs at the begynninge. Then came it to my remembraunce, howe that the Lord sayd: * John baptised w water, but ye shalbe baptised with the holy ghost. For asmuch then as God gaue the lyke gyftes, as he dyd vnto vs, when we beleued on the Lord Iesu Christ: what was I, y I shulde haue withstande God? When they heard this, they belde the y peace, and glorified God, sayng: then hath God also to the Gentyls graunted repentaunce vnto lyfe.

* They also which were scattedred abrode thorow the affliccyō that arose about Steuen, walked thorowout vnto Phenices and Cyppers, and Antioche, preachynge the worde to no mā, but vnto the Jewes onely some of them were men of Cyppers & Sizen: which whē they were come to Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lord Iesu. And the hande of the Lord was with them, & a greāt nombr beleued and turned vnto the Lord.

¶ Tydings of these thinges came vnto the eares of the congregacyō, which was in Jerusalem. And they sent forth Barnabas, y he shulde go vnto Antioche. Which when he came, & had sene the grace of God, was glad, & exhorted them all, y with purpose of hert, they wold cōynually cleaue vnto the Lord: for he was a good man, and full of the holy ghost & of faith: and moch people was added vnto y Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Charlus, for to seke Saul. And whē he had founde him, he brought him vnto Antioche. And it

And it chaunced that a whole yere they had their conuersacion with the congregacyō there, and taught moch people: in so moch, y the discyples of Antioche were the fyrst that were called Christen.

* In those dayes came prophetes fro the cytie of Jerusalem vnto Antioche. And there stode vp one of the named Agabus, and synghed by the sprete, y there shuld be greate derth thorowout all the world, which came to passe in the Emperoure Claudius dayes. Then the discyples euery man accordynge to his abylyte, purposed to sende * socour vnto the brethren which dwelt in Jewry. Which thinge they also dyd, and sent it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

The xij. Chapter.

¶ Herode persecuteth the Christen. Sylleth James, and putteth Peter in prison, whom the Lord deliuereth by an angell. The shamefull death of Herode.

¶ The same tyme Herode the kynge stretched forth hys handes to bere certen of the congregacyō. And he kylled * James y brother of John with the sword. And because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes, he proceeded farther, and toke Peter also. Then were y dayes of sweet bread. And when he had caught hym, he put hi in prison also, & deliuered him to iij. quarters of souldiers to be kepte, entendynge after Ester to bringe him forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in prison. But prayer was made without ceasynge of the congregacyō, vnto God for hym. And when Herode wolde haue brought him oute vnto the people, the same nyght slepte Peter betwene two souldiers, bounde with two chaynes, ad the keepers before the doze kepte the prison.

And behold, * the angel of the Lord was ther present, and a lyght shyned in the habytacyō. And he smote Peter on the syde, and sterpyd him vp, sayng: aryls vp quickly. And his cheynes fel of fro his handes. And the angel sayd vnto hym: gyde thy selfe, ad bynde on thy sandals. And so he dyd. And he sayth vnto him: cast thy garment about the, & folowe me. And he came out & folowed hi, and wylt not that it was tructh which was done by the angell, but thought he had sene a visyon. When they were past y fyrst and the secōde watch, they came vnto the yron gate, that leadeth vnto the cytie, * whych opened to them by the awone accorde. And they wēt oute, and passed thorow one strete, and forth with the angell departed from him.

And whan Peter was come to him selfe, he sayd: nowe I knowe of a surety, that the Lord hath sent his angell, and hath deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, and from all the wayting for, of the people of the Jewes. * And as he cōsydered the thyng, he came to y house of Mary y mother of one

John, whose surname was Marke, where many were gathered togeather * in prayer. * As Peter knocked at the entry doze, a damsell came forth to herke, named Rhoda. And whē she knew Peters voyce, she opened not the entry for gladnes, but ran in, & told how Peter stode before the entry. And they sayde vnto her: thou art mad: But she affirmed y it was even so. Then sayd they: it is hys angel. But Peter cōtynued knockinge: & whē they had opened the doze, ad sawe him, they were astonied. * And whan he had beckned vnto them with the hande, that they myght holde the y peace, he tolde the by what meanes the Lord had brought hi out of the prison. * And he sayde: go shewe these thinges vnto James and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

Allone as it was daye, ther was no littel ado among the souldiers, what was become of Peter. When Herode had sought for him, and founde hym not, he examined the keepers, and commaunded them to be carped awaye. And he descended from Jewry to Cesarea, & ther abode. Herode was displeased w them of Cyre and Sids. But they came all with one accorde, & made intercession vnto Blastus the kynges chamberlayne, and desyred peace, because their cōtre was noysed by the kynges prouysyon. And vpo a daye appointed, Herode arayed him in royall apparell, and sett hym in hys seate, and made an oracion vnto the. And the people gaue a shout, sayng: it is the voyce of a God & not of a man. And immediatly the angell of the Lord smote hym, because he gaue not God the honour, and he was eaten of wormes ad gaue vp the ghost. And the worde of God grewe and multiplied. And Barnabas and Paul returned to Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their offyce, and toke w the * John whose surname was Marke.

The xij. Chapter.

¶ Saul and Barnabas are called to preach among the heathen. Of Sergius Paulus and Elymas the sorcerer. Paul preacheth at Antioche.

¶ There were in the congregacyō that was at Antioche, certayn * prophetes, and teachers: as Barnabas and Symon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cerene and Manahen, Herode the tetrarkes nosfelow, and Saul. As they ministred to the Lord and fasted, the holy ghost saide: separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the worke wherunto I haue called them. And whā they had fasted and prayed, and layde their handes on them, they let them go. And they after they were sent forth of the holy ghost, departed vnto Seleucia, & fro thence they sayled to Cyprus. And when they were at Salamine, they shewed the word of God i the sinagoges of the Jewes. And they had * John to the y minister.

¶ When

When they had gone thow the ple vnto Daphos, they founde a certayne sozcerer, (a false prophet, a Jewe) whose name was Bariesu, which was with the ruler of the countre one Sergius Paulus a proude man. The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul, and desyred to heare the worde of God. But Elymas the sozcerer (for so is his name by interpretacion) with stode the, and sought to turne awaye the ruler fro the faith. The Saul (which also is called Paul) beyng full of the holy ghost, set his eyes on hym, and sayde: O full of all subtilty and dyssertfulnesse, thou chyld of the deuyl, thou enemy of all righteounes: wilt thou cease to peruerse the straight wayes of the Lorde? And now beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon the, and thou shalt be blynde, and not se the sunne for a season. And immediatly, there fell on hym a myste and a darcknes, ad he went about, sekynge the that shuld leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened, belueued, & wonderd at the doctryne of the Lorde.

When Paul departed from Daphos, they that were with him, came to Perga in Pamphilia: and John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But they wandred thow the countres, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and wente into the synagoge on the sabbath daye, and sate downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes, the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto them, sayinge: Ye men and brethren, yf ye haue eny sermon to exhort the people, saye on.

Then Paul stode vp, and bekened with the hande for sylence, and sayde: Men of Israel, and ye that feare God, geue audience: The God of this people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as straungers in the land of Egypt, and with a hye arme brought he them oute of it, and about the tyme of fourty yeaers, suffred he theyr maners in the wyldernes. And he destroyed seuen nacjons in the lande of Canaan, and deuoyded theyr land to them by lot. And afterwarde, he gaue vnto them iudges about the space of foure hundred and fyf-tye yeaers, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophete. And afterwarde, they despyed a kynge, and God haue vnto them Saul the sonne of Cis, a man of the trybe of Beniamin, by the space of fourty yeaers. And wha he was put downe, he sett vp Dauid to be theyr kynge, of whom he repported sayinge: I haue founde Dauid the sonne of Jesse, a man after myne awne hert, which shall fulfill all my wyll.

Of this mannes seed hath God (a croz- dyng as he had promysed) brought forth to Israel, a sauoure, one Iesus, when John had first preached before his comynge the baptyme of repentaunce to Israel. And wha John had fulfilled his course, he sayd: who ye thynke I am, the same am I not. But behold, ther cometh one after me, whose shoes of his fete I am not worthy to loofe.

Ye men and brethren, chyldren of the generacyon of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is this worde of saluacion sent. For the inhabytors of Jerusalem and theyr rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes which are redde euery sabbath daye, they haue fulfilled them, in condemnynge him: And when they founde no cause of death in hym, yet despyed they plate to kyl hym. And whan they had fulfilled all that were wyrtten of him, they toke him downe fro the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre. But God rayled him agayne from death, and he was sene many dayes of the whych came vp with hym from Galile to Jerusalem: Which are his wytnesses vnto the people.

And we declare vnto you, how the promesse (whych was made vnto the fathers) God hath fulfilled vnto their chyldren (euen vnto vs) in Iesus Christ. As it is wyrtten in the first psalme: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. As concernynge that he rayled him vp from death, now nomore to retorne to corrupcion he sayd on this wyse: The holy promyses made to Dauid, wyl I geue faithfully to you. Wherfore, he sayeth also in another place. Thou shalt not suffice thyne holy to se corrupcion. For Dauid (after he had in his tyme fulfilled the wyll of God) fell on slepe, and was layde vnto his fathers, and sawe corrupcion. But he wha God rayled agayn sawe no corrupcion.

We it knowne vnto you therfore (ye men and brethren) that thow the tyme man is preached vnto you the forgyuenes of synnes, and that by hym, all that beleue, are iustified from all thynges, from which ye coude not be iustified by the lawe of Moyses. We were therfore, lest that fall on you, which is spoken of in the prophetes: Behold, ye despylers, and wonder, and perpyss ye: for I do a worke in youre dayes, which ye shall not beleue, though a man declare it you.

Wha the Jewes were gone out of the congregacyon, the Gentyls besought they wolde preache the word to them the next sabbath. When the congregacyon was broken vp, many of the Jewes and vertuous proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas, which spake to the: exhorted them to continue in the grace of God. And the next sabbath daye came almost the whole cytie together, to heare the worde of God. But wha the Jewes sawe the people people, they were full of indignacion & spake agaynst those thynges, which were spoke of Paul, spekyng agaynst it, & raylinge on it: Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bolde, & shulde first haue bene preached to you. But seyng ye put it from you, and thynke youre selues unworthy of euerslastynge lyfe: lo, we turne to the Gentyls: for so hath the Lorde commaunded vs. I haue made the a lyght of the Gentyls, that thou be the saluacyon vnto the ende of the worlde.

Whan the gentyls hearde this, they were glad and glorified the worde of the Lorde, & beleued: eue as many as were ordeyned vnto eternal lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was published thow out all the regyon. But the Jewes moued the deuoute and honest women, and the chiefe men of the cytie, & reysed persecucion agaynst Paul and Barnabas, and expelled the out of theyr coastes. But they thynke of the duste of theyr fete agaynst them, ad came vnto Iconium. And the discyples were fylled with ioye and with the holy ghost.

The xliij. Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas preach at Iconium, some beleue, some sterc up sedycion. At Lystra they wolde do sacryfice to Barnabas and Paul, which refuse it and exhort the people to worship the true God. Paul is stoned: after that cometh he to Derba, Lystra, Iconium and to Antioche.

As it fortuneth in Iconium, that they went both together into the synagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, that a greute multytude both of the Jewes and also of the Grekes beleued. But vnbeleuyng Jewes, stercd vp, and vniquieted the myndes of the gentyls agaynst the brethren. Longe tyme abode they there, and quyt the selues boldly with the helpe of the Lorde, which gaue testimony vnto the worde of his grace, & graunted sygnes and woundres to be done by their handes. But the multytude of the cytie was deuoyded: and parte helde with the Jewes, & parte with the Apostles.

When ther was an assaute made both of the Gentyls & also of the Jewes with their rulers, to do them violence, and to stone them they were ware of it, ad fled vnto Lystra and Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, ad vnto the regyon that lyeth rounde aboute, and there preached the Gospel. And all the multytude was moued at theyr doctryne, but Paul and Barnabas stercd apyl at Lystra. And ther sate a certayne man at Lystra weake in his fete, beyng creple from his mothers wombe, ad neuer had walked. The same hearde Paul preache. Which beleuyng hym, and perceauynge that he had sayth to be whole, sayd with a loude voyce: stode vpryght on thy fete: And he stercd vp, and walked. And wha the people sawe what Paul had done, they lyfte vp their voyces, sayinge in the speache of Lycaonia: God des are come downe to vs in the lyknes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, ad Paul Mercurius, because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters preste, which dwelt before their cytie, brought oxen and garlandes vnto the porche, and wolde haue done sacryfice with the people.

Wha when the Apostles, Barnabas ad Paul herde of, they rent their clothes, and ran amonge the people, cryng and sayinge: why do ye this? We are mortall men like vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shulde turne from these vanyties vnto the lyuinge God, which made heauen and erth and the see and all thynges that are ther in: the which in tymes past suffred all nacjons to walcke in theyr awne wayes. Neuer thelesse, he left not hym selfe withoute wytnes, in that he shewed his benefytes fro heauen, in geuyng vs rayne and frutefull seasons, fyllyng oure hertes with fode ad gladnes. And with these saynges, scate refrayned they the people, that they had not done sacryfice vnto them.

Ther came certayne Jewes from Antioche and Iconium: which (whan they had obtayned the peoples consent) and had stoned Paul) drew him out of the cytie, supposinge he had bene deed. Howbeit as the discyples stode rounde about him, he arose vp, and came into the cytie. And the nexte daye he departed with Barnabas to Derba. And wha they had preached to that cytie, & had taught many, they returned agayne to Lystra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strenghted the discyples soules agayne, and exhorted the to contynue in the sayth affirmynge that we must thow moche tribulacion enreine to the kyngdome of God. And wha they had ordeined them elders by eleccion in euery congregacyon, and had prayde and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on wha they beleued. And whan they had gone thow out Pisidia, they came to Pamphilia, & wha they had preached the worde in Perga, they descended into the cytie Attalia, and thence departed by shyppe to Antioche from whence they were committed vnto the grace of God to the worke which they fulfilled. When they were come, and had gathered the congregacion together, they reherfed all that God had done by them ad how he had opened the doore of sayth vnto the Gentyls. And there they abode longe tyme with the discyples.

The xlv. Chapter.

Mariaunce aboute circumcysion. The Apostles pacifye the matre at Jerusalem. Paul and Barnabas preache at Antioche.

Ad certayne men which came downe taught the brethren * excepte ye becircumcysed after the maner of Moyses, ye cannot be salued. So when ther was rylen dissenciō & disputyng not a lyttel vnto Paul and Barnabas agaynst them, they determined that Paule and * Barnabas, and cer-tayne other of them, shulde go vp to Ierusalem vnto the Apostles & elders about thys questyon. And after they were brought on their waye by the congregacion, they passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declaring the conuersiō of the Gentyls, and they brought greate ioye vnto all the brethren. And when they were come to Ierusalem, they were re-ceaued of the congregacion & of the Apostles and elders. And they declared all thynges y God had done by thē. Therose by certayne of the secte of the Pharyses, which dyd beleue, saying, that it was nedfull to circumcysle them, and to commaūde them to kepe the la-we of Moyses. And the Apostles & elders came together, to reason of thys matter.

And whē ther was moche disputyng, Peter rose vp, & sayde vnto them: Ye men & brethren, ye knowe how ſ a good whyle agoo, God dyd choſe amonge vs, ſ the Gentyls by my mouth ſhuld heare the worde of the Goſpell, and beleue. And God which * knoweth the hertes, bare them wytnes, and gaue vnto them the holy goost, euen as he dyd vnto vs, and put no differēce betwene vs and the ſeynge ſ with ſayth he * purified theyr hertes. Now therfoze, why tempte ye God, to put on ſ diſciples neckes ſ yoke & which nether our fathers nor we were able to beare, But we beleue, that thorow the grace of the Lorde Jeſu Chriſt, we ſhalbe ſaued, as they do. Then all the multitude was pleaſed & gaue audiēce to Barnabas & Paul, which tolde what ſygnes & wondrous God had ſhewed amonge the Gentyls by them.

And whē they helde their peace, James answered, sayng: Men & brethzen, hearken vnto me. Some on tolde, how God at þ beginning dyd visit þ gentyls, to receaue of them a people in his name. And to this agree þ wordes of the prophetes, as it is writtē: * After this I wpll retorne, and wpll buylde agayne the tabernacle of Dauid, which is fallen downe and that which is fallen in decafe of it, wpll I buylde agayne, and I wpll set it vp, that the resydue of mē myght seke after the Lord & also the Gentyls vpon whom my name is named sayth the Lorde, which doth all these thynges: knowē vnto God are all hys wordes frō the beginning of þ world. Wherefore my sentēce is, that we trouble not thē: which frō amonge the Gentyls, are turned to God: but that we wypte vnto them, that they absteyne them selues * from filthyness of ymages, and from fornicacyon, and from strassglyd, and from bloudie. For Moses of olde tyme hath in euery cytie the þ preache hym, in the synagoges, when he is redd euery Sa-both daye.

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the whole cōgregation, to sende chosen men of theyꝝ awine company to Antioche w Paul and Barnabas, They sent * Judas * John, (whose surname was Barsabas) and Syllas, which were chese men amonge the brethren, and gaue them letters in theyꝝ handes after this maner.

The Apostles, and elders and brethren send gretynges vnto the brethren which are of the Gentyls in Antioche, Syria and Cylicia. For as moche as we haue hearde, that certayne which departed fro vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combyred youre myndes saying: Ye must be circumcysed, and kepe the lawe, to whom we gaue no such commaundemēt. It semed therefore to vs a good thyng, when we were come together with one accord, to sende cholen men vnto you, with oure beloued Barnabas and Paul, mē that haue icoparded their lyues for the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ. We haue sent therefore Judas and Syllas, which shall also tell you the same thynges by mouth. For it semed good to the holy ghoost and to vs, to charge you with no more thē these necessary thynges: that is to saie, that ye abstayne fro thynges offered to ymages, and from bloud, and from straungled and from fornicacyon. From which yf ye kepe poure selues, ye shall do well. So fare ye well.

Whē they therfore were departed, they cā ¶ to Antioche and gathered the myltitudo together, & deliuered þ̄ pistle. Which whē they had red, they reioysed of þ̄ consolacyon. And Judas & Syllas being Prophetes, exhorted the b̄ethren with moch preachynge, & strengthed thē. And after they had taryed there a space, they were let go in peace of the b̄ethrē vnto the Apostles. Not withstādyng it pleased Syllas, to abyde there styll. ¶ (but Judas de- ¶ parted alone to Ierusalem) Paul and Barnabas co- ¶ tinued in Antioche, teachynge & preachynge the worde of the Lorde with other many.

But after a certayne space, Paul sayd vnto Barnabas: Let vs go agayne, and visite oure brethren in euery cytie where we haue shewed þ̄ word of þ̄ Lord, & se how they do. And Barnabas gaue counsell to take with them John, whose surname was Marke. But Paul wold not take hi vnto their company * which departed from them at Pamphilia, & went not with thē to the worke. And the contencion was so sharpe betwene thē: that they departed asunder one frō the other & so Barnabas toke Marke, ad sayled vnto Cyprus. And Paul chose Syllas, & departed, beyng

Of whom repozed well the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconiū hym wold Paul that he shulde go forth with him, & toke and circūcised hym, because of the Jewes which were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that hys father was a Greke. As they went thorowe the cyties, they deliuered them the decrees for to kepe, that were * ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, which were at Je-appered to Paul in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed him, saying: come into Macedonia, ad helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, immediatly we prepared to go into Macedonia, bringe certified that the Lorde had called vs, for to preach y golpell vnto thē. Whan we losed forth then frō Troada, we came w a strayte course to Samothracia, and y nexte daye to Neapoliū, & from thence to Philippos, which is the chiefe cytie in y partes of Macedonia, & a fre cytie.

We were in that cytic abydinge certayne dapes. And on þ̄ Saboth dapes we wēt out of the citie besydes a ryuer, where men were wont to praye. And we sate downe, & spake vnto the weimē which resorted thyrther. And a certayne woman (named Lydia) a seller of purple, of þ̄ cytic of Thyatira, which worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lorde opened, that she attended vnto the thynges, which Paul spake. When she was baptised, ad her household, she besought vs, sayinge: If ye thincke that I beleeue on the Lorde, come into my house, and abyde there. And she * constrained vs.

The. xvij. Chapter.

Paul cometh to Thessalonica, where the Jewes set the cytie on a roare. Paul sheweth, & cometh to Ates where he preacheth the true and unknowne God.

And they made their journey thorough Amphipolis: and Appolonia, they cam to Thessalonica, where was a Synagoge of the Jewes. And Paul (as hys manner was) went in vnto them, and thre Sabbathes declared out of the scripture vnto them, openyng & allegyng, that * Christ must nedes haue suffred, and ryle agayne from deeth, and that thys Iesus was Christ, whom (sayde he) I preach to you. And * some of them beleued, ad cam and companied with Paul & Syllas, and of the deuote Grekes a greate multitude, and of the chefe women, not a fewe.

But the Jewes which beleued not, had indignacion and toke vnto them euill men, which were vagabundes, and gathered a company, and set all the cytie on a roare, & made assaute vnto the house of Jason, & sought to bringe them out to people. And when they founde the not, they vnto Jason, & certayne brethren vnto the heades of the cytie, cryng: these that trouble the worlde, are come hyther also, whom Jason hath receaued preyenly. * And these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, affirmynge another kynge, one Iesus. And they troubled the people, & the officers of the cytie, whē they hearde these thynges. And when they were sufficiency answered of Jason, ad of the other, they let the go.

And the brethren immediatly sent away Paul and Syllas by nyghte vnto Berea. Which when they were come thither, they entred into y Synagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrth amonge them of Thessalonica, which receaued the word with all dilygence of mynde, and searched * the scriptures dayly, whether those thynges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipfull women which were Grekes, and of men not a fewe. When the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge, that y word of God was preached of Paul at Berea: they came, and moued the people there. And then immediatly the brethren sent away Paul, to go as it were to the see: but Syllas and Timotheus abode there still. And they that gyded Paul, brought hi vnto Athens, & receaued a comendement vnto Syllas & Timotheus, for to come to hym w speede, & came their waye. Whil Paul wayted for them at Athens, his sprete was moued in him, whan he sawe the cytie geuen to worshippynge of ymages. Then disputed he in the synagoge with the Jewes, and with the deuoute personnes: and in y market dayly with them that came vnto him by chaunce. Certayne Philosophers of the Epicures and of the Stopykes, disputed with hym. And some ther were which sayde: what will thys babler saye: Other sayde: he seemeth to be a tydynges bringer of newe deuyls, because he preacheth vnto the Iesus & the resurrection. And they toke him, & brought him into Warce strete, saying: maye we not knowe what thys newe doctrine wherof thou speakest, is? For thou bringest straunge tydynges to oure eares. We wold knowe therefore, what these thynges meane. For all the Athenians and straungers which were there, gaue them selues to nothing els, but ether to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

Paul stode in the myddes of Warce strete, & sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in all thynges ye are to superstitious. For as I passed by, and behelde the maner how ye worshyp your goddes, I founde an aulter wher was writte: vnto the unknowen God. Whom ye then ignorantly worshyppe, hym shew I vnto you. * God that made y worlde and all that are in it (seing that he is Lord of heauen and earth) dwelleth not in temples made with handes, nether is worshipped with mennes handes, as though he needed of eny thyng, seinge he hym selfe * geueth lyfe and bzyth to all men euery where, & hath made of one bloude all nacions of me, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath assigned before, how longe tyme, & also the endes of their inhabitacyon, y they shuld seke God, yf they myght fele and fynde him, though he be not farre from euery one of vs. For in hym we lyue, moue, and haue oure beinge, as certayne of your awne Poetes sayde: For we are also his generacio, For as moch then as we are the generacion of God, we ought not to thinke that the God head is lyke vnto golde, syluer or stone, grauen by craft and ymaginacyon of man.

* And the tyme of this ignorance God regarded not. * But now biddeth all men euery where repēt because he hath appoynted a daye, in the which he will iudge the worlde w ryghte wenes, by that man by whō he hath appoynted, & hath offered sayth to all me, after that he had raysed him from deeth.

When they hearde of the resurrection from deeth, some mocked, and other sayd: we wylle heare the agayne of thys matter. So Paul departed from amonge them. Howbeit certayne men claue vnto hym and beleued: amonge monge the which was Dionysius a senator, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

The. xvij. Chapter.

Paul preacheth at Corinthe, contynuing there a yere and a halfe, goeth agayne into Syria, cometh to Ephesus, Cesarea and Antioche. Of Apollos Aquila and Priscilla.

After thys, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinthe, and foude a certayne Jewe named * Aquila, borne in Italye, thus, lately come from Italye with his wyfe Priscilla (because that y Emperour Claudius had commaunded all Jewes to departe from Rome) ad he drew vnto them, because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, & wrought: they craft was to make tentes. And he preached in the synagoge euery Sabbath daye * (setting forth in the meane whyle the name of the Lorde Iesus) and exhorted the Jewes and the gentyls.

When * Silas, and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the sprete, to testyfy to the Jewes y Iesus was very Christ. And when they sayde contrary & blasphemed * he shoke hys raiment and sayde vnto them: your bloude be vpon your awne heedes: from hence forth wyl I go blamelesse vnto the gentyls. And he departed thence, and entred into a certayne manes house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned hard to the synagoge. Howbeit, one Crispus the chefe ruler of the synagoge * beleued on the Lorde with all his household, and many of the Corinthians whan they gaue audience, beleued, and were baptised.

Then spake the Lorde to Paul in y nyght by a visyon: be not afrayde, but speake, ad holde not thy peace: for I am with the, & no man shall inuade the that shall hurte the. For I haue moch people in this cytie. And he continued there a yere and syxe monethes, and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Acaia, the Jewes made insurreccyon with one accorde agaynst Paul, and brought hym to the iudgement seate, sayinge: this felowe counceleth men to worship God contrary to y lawe. And whā Paul nowe was about to open his mouth, Gallio sayd vnto y Jewes: yf it were a matter of wronge, or an euyl dede (O ye Jewes) reason wolde y I shulde heare you: but yf it be a question of wordes or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to it your selues, For I will be no iudge of soche matters, and he drave them from the seate. The all the Grekes toke softenes the chefe ruler of the Synagoge, and smote hym before the iudges seate, And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Paul after thys, tarped there yet a good whyle, and then toke his leaue of the brethren and sayled thence into Cria, Priscilla and Aquila accompanyng hym. And * he shoke his heed in Cechrea, for he had a vowe: And he cam to Ephesus ad lette them there: but he hym selfe entred into the Synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. Whē they desired him to tary longer tyme with them, he consented not, but bad them fare well sayinge. I must nedes (at thys feast that cometh) be in Jerusalem: but I wyl returne agayne vnto you * yf God will. And he departed from Ephesus: and whan he was come vnto Cesarea: and ascended vp and saluted the congregacyon, he departed vnto Antioche: and when he had tarped there a whyle, he departed: and went ouer all the countre of Galacia and Phrygia by order, strengthynge all the discyples.

And a certayne Jew named * Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was informed in the waye of the Lorde, and spake feruently in the sprete, and taught diligently the thynges of the Lorde, & knewe but the baptyme of John onely. And the same began to speake boldly in the Synagoge. Whō when Priscilla & Aquila had hearde they toke him vnto the, & expounded vnto hym the waye of God more perfectly.

And when he was disposed to go into Acaia, the brethren wrote, exhortyng the discyples to receaue him. Which whan he was come helped them moche which had beleued thorow grace. For he ouercame the Jewes myghtely, and that openly, shewyng by the scriptures, that Iesus was Christ.

The. xix. Chapter.

Of the twelue men that were baptised at Ephesus and what miracles were done by Paul. Demetrius moued sedition in the cytie.

Fortuned y whyll Apello was at Corinthe, Paul passed thorough the vpper coastes, and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne discyples, and sayde vnto them haue ye receaued the holy ghost, sence ye beleued? And they sayde vnto hym: no, we haue not heard whether ther be eny holy ghost or no. And he sayde vnto them. wherewith were ye then baptised? And they sayde: with y Johns baptyme. Then sayde Paul: * John verely baptised with the baptim of repentance, sayinge vnto the people that they shulde beleue on hym, which shuld come after hi: that is on Christ Iesus. When they hearde thys, they were baptised in the name of the Lorde Iesu. And whan Paul layde hys handes vpon them, * the holy ghost came on the, ad they spake with tonges, and prophesied, and all the men were aboute twelue.

And

And he went into the synagoge, and behaned hym selfe boldly for þe space of thre monethes, disputinge and geuing them exhor-tacions of the kyngdome of God. ¶ When dnyers wered hard herted and beleued not, but spake euill of the waye (and that befoze the multitude) he departed fro the, and se-perated the disciples. And he disputed dailly in the scole of one called Tryphylus. And this cōtynued by the space of two yeres: so that all they which dwelt in Asia, heard the woze of the Lorde Jesu, both Jewes and Grekes. And God wrought specyall myracles by the hādes of Paul: so that frō his body, were brought vnto the sicke, nūpkins & partelettes, & the diseases departed from them, and the euill sprytes went out of them.

Then certayne of the vagabonde Jewes exorcyistes, toke vpon them to call ouer them (which had euill sprytes) þe name of þe Lorde Jesu, sayinge: We aduise you by * Jesu, whom Paul preacheth. And ther were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Jew and chiefe of the prestes which dyd so. And the euill spryte answered and sayd: Jesu I knowe, & Paul I knowe: but who are ye? And the man in whom the euill spryte was, ranne on them, and ouercame them, and preuayled agaynst the so that they fledd out of that house naked and wounded. And this was knowen to all the Jewes and Grekes also, which dwelt at Ephesus, & feare came on the all, & the name of the Lorde Jesu was magnifyed.

And many that beleued, cam, and confessed and shewed their workes. Many of them which vled curious craftes, brought their booke, and burned them befoze all men, and they counted the pryce of them, and foude it fyfty thousand spulcelynges. So mighttely grewe the word of God, and preuayled.
After these thynges were ended, Paul pur-posed in the spryte (whan he had passed ouer Macedonia ad Achaia) to go to Jerusalem, sayinge: After I haue bene there, I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministred vnto hym, euen Ti-motheus & Erastus: but he hym selfe remayned in Asia for a season.

The same tyme ther arose no lytell a do-aboute that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a syluer smyth (which made syluer thynnes for Diana) was not a ly-tell beneficiall vnto þe craftes men. Whom he called together with the workemen of lyke occupation, and sayd: Syrs, ye knowe that by this crafte * we haue aduantage. Mo-reouer, ye se & heare that not alone at Ephesus, but almost thorow out all Asia, thys Paul hath perswaded & turned awaye moche people sayinge, that * they be not goddes which are made with handes. So that not only this oure crafte cometh into payrell to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the greate Goddesse Diana shulde be despyled, & her magnificence shulde be destroyed. whome all Asia and the world worshyppe.

Whē they hearde these sayinges, they were full of wrath, & cryed out, sayinge. Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And al the cy-tie was on a roze, and they rushed into the comen hall with one assent, & caught Gaius and Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Pauls companiōs. When Paul wolde haue entred in vnto the people, the dysciples suffred hym not. But certayne of þe chiefe of Asia (which were his frendes) sent vnto him, desyringe him, that he wolde not pzeace into the comē hall. Some therfore cryed one thyng and some another, & the congregacion was all out of quicte, & the moare parte knewe not wher foze they were come together.

Some of the company dze forth Alexāder, the Jewes thrustinge hym forwarde.
Alexander: * beched with the hande, and wolde haue geuen þe people an answer. Whē they knewe that he was a Jewe, ther arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres, of all men, cryinge: greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the towne clarkke had ceased þe people, he sayde: ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the cytie of the Ephesians is a worshyppe of the greate goddesse Diana, & of the ymage which cam from heauen. Seinge then that noman sayth here agaynst, ye ought to be content, and to do nothyng rashly: for ye haue brought hy-ther these men: which are nether robbers of churches, nor yet despylers of youre goddesse Wherfore, yf Demetrius and the craftes mē which are with hym, haue a matter agaynst eny man, the lawe is open, and ther are rulers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye goo aboute eny other thyng, it shall be determined in a lawfull congregacion. For we are in leopardy to be accused of thys dayes vproure, for as moche as ther is no cause, wherby we maye geue a rekenyng of thys concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken, he let the congregacion departe.

The xx. Chapter.

Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Grece. At Troas he tapyeth vp a ded body. At Ephesus he cal-lyth the elders of the congregacion together, commyngeth the happyng of Gods flokte vnto them, warneth them of falsche teachers, maketh bys prayer with them, and departeth to thyppe.

After that the rage was ceased, A Paul called the dysciples vnto hym, and toke hys leaue of the, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partyes, and had geuen them alonge exhortacion, he cam into Grece

Grece & there abode. iij. monethes. And whē þe Jewes layde wayt for hi as he was about to sayle into Syria, he purposed to returne thorow Macedonia. Ther accompanied hi into Asia, Sopater of Berrea, and of Thessalonia, Aristarcus and Secudus, and Gaius of Derba, & Timotheus, & out of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. These goynge be-foze, tarped vs at Troas. And we sayled awaye fro Philippos after the dayes of swete bread, and cam vnto them to Troas in fye dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpo one of the Saboth dayes, whā þe dysciples came together for to breake bread Paul preached vnto them (ready to departe on þe morowe) & cōtinued the preaching vnto mydnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chamber, where we were gathered together, & ther late in a wyndowe a certayne younge man (named Euticus) beinge fallē in to a depe sleepe. And as Paul was preachin-ge, he was the more overcome with slepe, ad fell downe from the thyrde lofte, & was take vp deed. But whan Paul went doune, he fell on him & embrased him and sayde: make nothyng a do, for his lyfe is in hym. So when he was come vp agayne, & had broke the bread & eaten, and talcked a longe whyle (euen tyll the moynynge) at the last he departed. And they brought þe younge man alpye, & were not a lytell comforted.

And we went afoze to thyppe, & lowsed vnto Asson there to receaue Paul. For so had he appoynted, and wolde hym selfe goo a tofe.
When we were come together at Asson, we toke him in, & came to Mytilenes. And we sayled thence, and cam the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios. And the nexte daye we ari-ued at Samos, & taried at Trogydon. The nexte daye we came to Myleton: for Paul had determined to sayle ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spende þe tyme in Asia.
For he hastid (yf it were possible for him) to kepe at Jerusalem þe dape of Pentecoste. And fro Myleton he sent messangers to Ephesus, & called þe elders of þe cōgregacio. Which whē they were come to him, he layd vnto the: Ye knowe from the fyrst dape that I cam into Asia, after what maner I haue bene wyon at all ceasons, seruyng the Lorde with all hūblenes of mynde, and with many teares & temptacions which happened vnto me by the layinges a wayte of the Jewes, because I wolde kepe backe nothyng I was profitable vnto you: but to shewe you and teache you openly, & thorow out euery house, witnessyng both to þe Jewes, & also to the Grekes, þe repentauce, that is toward God, & þe fayth which is toward oure Lorde Jesu.
And now beholde I go bounde in the spryte vnto Jerusalem, not knowing the thynges þe shal come on me there, but þe holy goost witneseth in euery cytie, sayng. that bādes and trouble abyde me. But none of these thynges moue me * nether is my lyfe deare vnto my selfe, that I might fulfyll my course with ioye, ad the ministracyō (of the worde) * which I haue receaued of the Lorde Jesu, to testifye the Gospell of the grace of God.

And now beholde, I am sure, þe henceforth ye all (thorow whō I haue gone preachyng the kyngdō of God) shal le my face no more. Wherfore, I take you to recorde this dape that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue the-wed you all the counsell of God. Take hede therfore vnto youre selues & to all the flokke amonge whō the holy ghost hath made you ouersears, to rule the congregacyon of God which he hath purchasid with his bloude.
* For I am sure of thys, þe after my departyng shall greuous wolues entre in amoge you, not sparyng the flokke. For ouer, of youre awne selues shall men arise, speaking peruerse thiges to drawe disciples after the.
Therfore awake, & remēber, that by the space of. iij. yeres: I ceased not to warne euery one of you nyght and dape with teares.

And now brethze, I commēde you to God and to the worde of his grace, which is able to build farther, & to geue you an inheritaū-ce amonge all them which are sanctified * I haue despyed no mans syluer, golde, or ve-sture. Yee, ye pour selues knowe that * these hādes haue ministred vnto my necessityes, & to them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thynges, how þe so laboring ye ought to receaue the weake, & to remēber the woze-des of þe Lorde Jesu, how þe he sayd: it is more blessed to geue then to receaue.

And when he had thus spoken, he kneled downe * and prayed with the all. And they all wepte sore and fell on Pauls necke, and kysed hym, sorowynge, most of all for the wordes which he spake. that they shulde se hys face nomore. And they conuayed hym vnto the thyppe.

The xxi. Chapter.

Pauls Rome by thyppe. Of Philippe the Eu-geliste, & Tyabus the Diopet, which warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remyned at Troas in hys purpose, and is taken in the temple.

And whan it chaunced that we had launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a strayght course vnto Thoon and the dape folowynge vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And whan we had gotten a thyppe that wolde sayle vnto Pheryses, we went aborde incoit, and set forth. But whan Cyprus beganne to appea-re vnto vs, we left it on the lefte hande, and sayled vnto Siria, and ca vnto Tyre. For there the thyppe vnladed the burthen. And when we had founde brethren, we tarped there. viij. dayes. And they tolde Paul thow we the spere * that he shuld not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended we departed and went oure waye, and they all brought vs on oure waye, with wyues and chyldren, tyll we were come out of the cytie. And we kneled downe in the thore * ad prayde. And when we had taken oure leaue one of another, we toke shippe, & they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course from Cye, we went downe to Ptolomaida, & saluted the brethren, & abode with the one daye. The nexte daye, we that were of Pauls company departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of * Philip p̄ Euangelist, which was one of the seue, & abode w hym. The same man had fower daughters virgens, which dyd * prophesy. And as we tarped there a good mayny of dayes, there ca a certaine prophet fro Iurie, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls gerdell, & bounde his fete & handes, & sayd: Thus sayth the holy ghost * so shal the Jewes at Ierusalem bynde yman that oweth this gerdell, and shall deliuer hym into the handes of the Gentyls.

When we hearde this, both we and other which were of the same place, besought him that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. The Paul answered, & sayde: what do ye wepyng & verpnyng me herte. I am ready, not to be bounde onely, but also to dye at Ierusalem for the name of the Lorde Iesu. Whē we coulde not turne hys mynde, we ceased, sayinge * the wyll of the Lorde be fulfilled. After those dayes we toke vp oure burthens, & went vp to Jerusalem. * Ther went with vs also certayne of the discyples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus an olde discyppe, with whō we shulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on the morow, Paul went in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came together. And whē he had saluted the, he tolde by order all thynges, that God had wrought amonge p̄ getyls by his ministracyon. And when they hearde it, they glorified the Lorde, and sayde vnto him: Thou seest brother, how many thousande Jewes ther are which beleue, and they are all earnest folowers ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes which are amonge the gentyls, to forsake Moles: and sayst, that they ought not to circuncise the chyliden, nether to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? The multitude must nedes come together: For they shall heare that thou arte come. Do therfore this, that we saye to the.

* We haue. iij. men, which haue a vowe on them. Them take, & purifie thy selfe with the, and do cost on the, that they maye haue their heades: and all shall knowe, that those thynges which they haue hearde concerning the, are nothyng: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and kepest the lawe. But as touching the gentyls which beleue * we haue written and concluded, that they obserue no soche thyng: saue onely that they kepe them selues from thynges offred to ydoles, and from bloude, and from strangled; and from fornicacyon. Then the nexte daye Paul toke the me, and * purifyed hym selfe with them and entred into the temple, declaring that he obserued the dayes of the purificacyon, vntyll that an offering shuld be offered for euery one of them.

And whan the seuen dayes were nowe almost ended, p̄ Jewes which were of Asia (whē they sawe hym in the temple) moued all the people, and layde handes on him, crying: me of Israell, helpe. This is the mā, p̄ teacheth all me euery where agaynst the people and p̄ lawe, and thys place. He hath also brought Grekes into p̄ temple, ad hath polluted thys holy place. For they had sene with hym one in the cytie. * Trophimus an Ephesiā, whō they supposd that Paul had brought into p̄ temple. And all the cytie was moued, and the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul and drue him out of the temple, and forth with, the doores were shut.

As they went about to kyll him, tidinges came vnto the hye captayne of the souldyers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediately toke souldiers ad vndercaptaynes, and ranne downe vnto them. When they sawe p̄ vpper captayne and the souldiers: they lefte smytinge of Paul. Then the captayne came neare and toke hym, and commaunded hym to be boude with two chaynes, and demanded what he was, ad what he had done. And some cryed one thinge, some another amonge the people. And when he coulde not knowe the certayntie for therage, he commaunded him to be carped into the castle. And whē he ca vnto a stappe, it fortuneth that he was bozne of the souldiers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people followed after, crying: awake with hym.

And whan Paul beganne to be carped into the castle, he sayde vnto p̄ hye Captayne: maye I speake vnto the? Which sayde: Cast thou speake Greke? Art not thou that Egyptian, which befoze these dayes madest an yproure, and leddest out into the wilderness: iij. thousande men that were motherers? But Paul sayde: I am a mā which am a Jewe of * Charlus a cytie in Cyrcle, a Cyrcelin of no vyle citie, I beleche p̄ soffre me to speake vnto the people. And when he had geuen him lycence, Paul stode on the steppes, * and beckened beckened with the hande vnto the people: and whan there was made a greate splenece he spake vnto them in the hebrue tonge, sayinge.

The xxij. Chapter.

Paul answereth the Jewes. He is scourged, and layde in prison agayne.

MEn, brethren, and fathers, heare ye myne answer which I make nowe vnto you. When they hearde, that he spake in the hebrue tonge to them, they kept the more splenece. And he sayeth: I am verely a mā which am a Jewe bozne i * Carlus a cytie i Cyrcle: neuertheles, yet brought vp in thys cytie, at the fete of * Gamaliell, and informed diligently in the lawe of the fathers, and was feruent mynded to God warde, as ye all are thys same daye, and * I persecuted thys waye vnto the death bynyng and deliueying into prison both men and wemē, as the chefe preste doth beare me wytnesse, and all the estate of the elders: of whom also I receaued lettres vnto the brethren, and went to Damasco to bring them, (which were there bounde) vnto Jerusalem for to be punyshed.

And it fortuneth (that as I made my iorney and was come nye vnto Damasco aboute none) suddenly there shone from heauen a greate lyght rounde aboute me, and I fell vnto the earth, and hearde a voyce sayinge vnto me: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou Lorde? And he sayde vnto me: I am Iesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were wyth me, sawe verely a lyghte, and were afrayde: but they hearde not the voyce of hym that spake with me. And I sayde: what shall I do Lorde? And the Lorde sayde vnto me: Arise, and go into Damasco, and there it shall be tolde the of all thynges, whych are appoynted for the to do. And whan I sawe nothyng for the bryghtnes of that lyght, I was leade by the hande of them that were wyth me, and came in to Damasco.

And one Ananias a perfecte man, (and as pertaynyng to the lawe hauntyng good reporte of all the Jewes, whych there dwelt) came vnto me, and stode, and sayde vnto me: Brother Saul, receaue thy lyght. And the same houre I receaued my syghte, and sawe hym. And he sayde: the God of our fathers hath ordeyned the befoze, that thou shuldest knowe hys wyll, and shuldest heare the voyce of hys mouth: for thou shalt be hys wytnes vnto all men of those thinges, which thou hast sene and heard. And now, why tarpest thou? Arise, and be baptysed, and washe awaye thy synnes * in calling on the name name of the Lorde: And it fortuneth, that whan I was come agayne to Jerusalem, and prayde in the temple, I was in a trance, and sawe hym, sayinge vnto me: Wake haste, and get the quykly oute of Jerusalem: for they wyll not receaue thy wytnesse, that thou bearest of me.

And I sayde: Lorde, they knowe that I prisoned, and bett in euery Synagoge them that beleued on the. * And whā the bloude of thy wytnes Steuen was shed, I also stode by, and consented vnto hys death, and kept the rayment of them that slewe hym. And he sayd vnto me departe, for * I wyll sende the a farre hence vnto the Gentyls.

They gaue hym audience vnto thys worde, and then lyft vp theyr voyces and sayde: awake with soche a felowe from the earth: for it is not reason that he shuld lyue. And as they cryed, and cast of thir clothes, and thine dust into the ayer, the captayne commaunded hym to be brought into the castle, and bad that he shulde be scourged, and to be examined, that he might knowe, wherfore they cryed so on hym. And whan they bounde hym wyth thonges, Paul sayde vnto the Centurion, that stode by him: Is it laful for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne and vncōdemned? When the Centurion hearde that, he went and tolde the vpper captayne, sayinge: What intendest thou to do? For thys man is * (a cyrcelin) of Rome.

Then the vpper captayne came, and sayd vnto him: tell me, art thou a Romayne? he sayd: Yee. And the captayne answered, with a great some obtayned I thys freedom. And Paul sayd: I was fre bozne. Then straight waye departed from hym they which shulde haue examyned hym. And the hye captayne also was afrayde, after he knewe that he was a Romayne, and because he had bounde hym.

On the morowe (because he wolde haue knowen the certentye wherfore he was accused of the Jewes) he losed hym from hys bondes, and commaunded the hye preste and all the counsell to come together and * brought Paul forth, & set hym befoze the.

Paul cometh before the counsell. He debate arsyth amonge the people, the captayne deliuereth hym, God combyth hym.

Paul behelde the counsell, and sayde: men, and brythren. I haue lyued in all good conscience before God vntyll this daye. And the hye preste Ananias commaunded them that stode by, to smyte hym on the mouth.

Then sayde Paul vnto hym: God shall smyte the thou paynted wall. Syttest thou and iudgest me after the lawe: and commaundest me to be smytten contrary to the lawe? And they that stode by, sayde: reuylest thou Goddes hye preste? Then sayd Paul: I wist not brythren, that he was the hye preste. For it is wyrtten: thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people.

When Paul perceaued that the one parte were Saduces, and the other Pharises, he cryed out in the counsell: Men and brythren, I am a Pharisey, the sonne of a Pharisey. Of the hope and resurreccyon from death, I am iudged.

And whan he had so sayde, there arose a debate betwene the Phariseyes and the Saduces ad the multitude was deuyded. For the Saduces saye, that there is no resurreccyon, nether angel, nor spete: But the Phariseyes graunt both.

And there arose a greate crye: and whan the Scrybes which were of the Phariseyes parte arose, they stroue saying: we fynde none euill in thys man. Though a spete or an angell hath appeared to hym, let vs not stryue agaynst God.

And when there arose greate debate, the captayne (fearynge, lest Paul shulde haue bene plucked a sonye of them) commaunded the souldyers to go downe, and to take hym from amonge them, and to brynge hym into the castell.

The nyght folowynge, God stode by hym, and sayde: be of good chere Paul: for as thou hast testyfyed of me in Jerusalem: so must thou beare wytnesse also at Rome. And whan it was daye, certayne of the Jewes gathered them selues togeather, and made a vowe, sayinge: that they wolde nether eate nor dryncke, tyll they had kylled Paul. They were moo then fourtye men, which had made thys conspiracyon: And they came to the chefe prestes and elders, ad sayde: we haue bounde oure selues with a vowe, that we wyll eate nothyng, vntyll we haue slayne Paul.

Nowe therfore geue ye knowledge to the vpper captayne and to the counsell, that he brynge hym forth vnto vs to morowe, as though we wold knowe some thyng more perfectly of him. But we (or euer he come neare) are redy to kyll hym.

Whan Pauls systers sonne hearde of theyr laynge awayte, he went, and entred into the castell, and tolde Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him and sayde: brynge thys younge man vnto the hye captayne: for he hath a certayne thyng to shewe hym. And he toke hym and brought hym to the hye captayne, and sayd: Paul the presoner called me vnto hym, and prayed me to brynge thys younge man vnto the, whych hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captayne toke hym by the hand, and went with him out of the waye, and asked hi: what is yt that thou hast to tell me? And he sayde: the Jewes are determyned to despyse the, that thou woldest brynge forth Paul to morow into the counsell, as though they wolde enqurye somwhat of hym more perfectly. But folowe not thou theyr mynnes: for there lye in wayte for hym of them, moo then fourtye men, which haue bounde them selues with a vowe, that they will nether eate nor dryncke, tyll they haue kylled hym. And now are they redy, and loke that thou shuldest promys.

The vpper captayne then let the younge man departe, and charged hym, sayinge: se thou, tell it oute to no man, that thou hast shewed these thynges to me: And he called vnto hym two vnder captaynes sayinge: make ready two hundred souldiers to go to Cesarea, and horssmen thre score, and ten: and speare men two hundred, at the thyrde houre of the nyght. And deliuer them beastes, that they maye lett Paul on, and brynge hym safe vnto Iffelix the hye debyte. (For he dyd feare lest haplye the Jewes shulde take hym awaye and kyll hym, and he hym selfe shulde be afterwarde blamed, as though he wolde take money,) and he wrote a letter after thys maner.

Claudius Iulias vnto the most myghty rular Iffelix, sendeth gretynges. Thys man was taken of the Jewes, and shuld haue bene kylled of them. Then came I with souldyers, and reskued hym, and perceaued that he was a Romayn. And when I wold haue knowen the cause, wherfore they accused hym, I broughte hym forth into theyr counsell. There perceaued I that he was accused of questions of their lawe. But was not gyltye of eny thyng worthy of death or of bondes. And when it was shewed me, how that Jewes layde wayte ther for him, I sent hym strayght waye to the, and gaue commaundement to hys accusars, that the the thynges, which they haue agaynst hym, they shulde tell before the: fare well. Then the souldyers (as it was commaunded them) toke Paul, ad brought hym by night to Antipatras. On the morow they left the horssmen to go with hym, and returned vnto the castell. Whych when they came to Cesarea, (and deliuered the epistle to the debyte) presented Paul also before him. When the debyte had redde the lettre, he asked of what countrey he was. And when he understode that he was of Cilicia: I wyll heare the (sayde he) when thynne accusars are come also: and he commaunded hym to be kepte in Herodes iudgement hall.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Paul ys accused before Iffelix, he answereth for hym selfe.

After fyue dayes, Ananias the hye preste descended with the elders, and with a certayne oratour named Tertullus, which enforced the debyte agaynst Paul. And when Paul was called forth, Tertullus beganne to accuse hym, saying: Seyinge that we lye in greate quietnes by the meanes of the, and that many good thynges are done vnto thys nation thowowe thy prouidence. that alowe we euer and in all places moost noble Iffelix with all thakes. Notwithstandynge, I be not tedious vnto the, I praye the, that thou woldest heare vs of thy curtesya fewe wordes:

For we haue founde this man a pestilent felowe, and a mouer of debate vnto all the Jewes in the whole world, and a maynteyner of the secte of the Nazarites which hath also enforced to pollute the temple. Whom we toke, and wolde haue iudged accordynge to our lawe: but the hye captayne Iulias came vpon vs, and with great violence toke hym awaye oute of oure handes, commaundyng hys accusars to come vnto the. Of whom thou mayest (if thou wilt enqurye) knowe the certenty of all these thynges, wherof we accuse hi: The Jewes lykewyse affermed, sayinge, that these thynges were euen so.

Then Paul (after that the debyte hym selfe had beckened vnto hym that he shulde speake) answered: With a moare quiet minde do I answer for my selfe, for as moche as I understode, that thou hast bene of many yeres a iudge vnto thys people, because that thou mayest knowe, I ther are yet, but twelue dayes sence I went vp to Jerusalem for to worshyppe, and they nether founde me in the temple disputynge with eny man, ether sayynge by the people, nether in the Synagoges, nor in the cytie. Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

But thys I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (which they call here lye) so worship I the God of my fathers, beleuyng all thynges which are wyrtten in the lawe & the prophetes, and haue hope towardes God, that the same resurreccio of the deed which they them selues loke for also shalbe, both of iust and vniust. And therfore study I to haue all waye a cleare conscience toward God, and toward men.

But after many yeres, I came and brought almes to my people and offerynges (and vowe) in the which they founde me purysed in the temple, nether with multitude, nor yet with vnquyetnesse. Howbeit there were certen Jewes out of Asia, which ought to be here present before the, and accuse me, if they had ought agaynst me: or elles lett these same here saye, if they haue founde any euill doyng in me, whyle I stande here in the counsell: except it be for this one voyce, that I cryed standynge among them. Of the resurreccyon from death am I iudged of you thys daye.

Whē Iffelix heard these thynges, he deferred the, for he knew very well of that waye, and sayde: when Iulias the captayne is come downe, I will knowe the vtmost of your matter. And he commaunded an vndercaptayne to kepe Paul, and to let hym haue rest, and that he shuld forbyd none of hys acquaintance to minister vnto him, or to come vnto hym.

And after a certayne dayes, whan Iffelix came with his wyfe Drusilla (which was a Jewesse) he called forth Paul, and hearde hym of the fayth, which is toward Christ. And as he preached of ryghtewelsnes temperaunce, and iudgement to come, Iffelix trembled, and answered: So thy waye for thys tyme: whan I haue a conuenient season, I wyll sende for the. He hoped also, that money shulde haue bene geuen hym of Paul, that he myght loose him: wherfore, he called hym the offcener and comened with hym. But after two yere, Festus Porcius came into Iffelix rowme. And Iffelix wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, lette Paul in prelson bounde.

The xxv. Chapter.

The Jewes accuse Paul before Festus, he appealeth vnto the Emperour, and is sent vnto Rome.

When Festus had receaued the offyce, after thre dayes, he ascended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. Then enforced hi the hye prestes and the chefe of the Jewes, of Paul. And they belought hym, and desired fauour agaynst hym, that he wolde sende for hym to Jerusalem: and they layde hy awayte awayte for hym in the waye, to kyll hym. Festus answered, that Paul shulde be kept. at Cesarca. but that he hym selfe wolde shortly departe thither. Let them therfore (sayde he) which among you are able, come downe with vs, and accuse hym, yf there be any faulte in the man.

When he had tarped there amonge them more then ten dayes, he wente downe vnto Cesarca and the nexte daye sat downe in the iudgement seate, and commaunded Paul to be brought. Which when he was come, the Jewes which were come from Jerusalem, stode aboute hym, and layde many and greuous complayntes agaynst Paul, whych they coude not proue, as longe as he answered for hym selfe that he had nether agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, nether agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar offended any thyng at all.

Festus * wyllynge to do the Jewes a pleasure, answered Paul, and sayde: wylt thou go vnto Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these thynges before me? Then sayde Paul: I stande at Cesarca iudgement seate, where I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurte them, or commytted any thyng worthy of death, I refuse not to dye. If noone of these thynges are, where of they accuse me, no man maye deliuer me to them, I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberacyon, and answered: Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

And after a certayne dayes, kinge Agrippa and Bernice came vnto Cesarca to salute Festus. And when they had bene there a good ceason, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto the kynge, sayinge: * there is a certayne man sette in prison of Felix, aboute whom whan I came to Jerusalem, the hye prestes and elders of the Jewes enformed me, and desyred to haue iudgement agaynst hym. To whom I answered: It is not the maner of the Romaynes, for fauoure to deliuer any man, that he shulde peryshe, before that he which is accused, haue the accusars before hym, and haue lycence to answer for hym selfe. Therfore, whan they were come hyther, withoute any delaye, on the morowe I sate to geue iudgment, and commaunded the man to be brought forth.

Agaynst whom, whan the accusars stode vp, * they brought noone accusacion of soch thynges as I supposed: but had certen questions agaynst hym of theyr awne supersticion, and of one Iesus which was deed, who Paul affirmed to be alyue. And because I doubted of loche maner of questions, I asked hym, whether he wolde go to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these matters. But whan Paul had appealed to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded hym to be kepte, tyll I myght sende hym to Cesar. Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayde he) thou shalt heare hym. And on the morowe whan Agrippa was come and Bernice, with greute pompe, and were entred in to the counsell house, with the captaynes and chiefe men of the cytie, at Festus commaundement was Paul brought forth. And Festus sayde: kynge Agrippa, & all ye men which are heare present with vs, ye se this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue intreated me, both at Jerusalem and also here cryinge, that he ought not to lyue any lenger. Yet founde I nothyng worthy of death, that he had committed. Neuertheles, seying that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determined to sende hym. Of whom I haue no certayne thyng to write vnto my lord. Wherfore, I haue brought hym vnto you, and specially vnto the: O kynge Agrippa, that after examinacyon had, I myght haue sumwhat to wryte. For me thinke it unreasonable, for to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes which are layde agaynst hym.

The xxvj. Chapter.

Kynge Agrippa heareth Paul, whych telleth hym howe he came from the begynnyng.

Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: * art permittted to speake for thy selfe. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for hym selfe. I thinke my selfe happy kig Agrippa, because I shall answer this daye before the of all the thynges wherof, I am accused of the Jewes: namely, because thou arte experte in all customes and questions, which are among the Jewes. Wherfore I beseeche the, to heare me patiently.

My luyng that I haue lead of a chylde (which was at the fyrst among myne awne nation at Jerusalem) knowe all the Jewes, which kne we me from the begynnyng, yf they wolde testyfy. For * after the moost stryptest secte of our religion, I luyed a pharisey. And now I stande and am iudged for the hope of the promes made of God vnto oure father: vnto which promes our twelue tribes (instantly seruyng God daye & night) hope to come. For which hopes sake, kynge Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes. Why shulde it be thought a thyng incredible vnto you, yf God shulde rayse agayne the deed? I also verely thought in my selfe, that I ought to do many contrary thynges, cleane agaynst the name of Iesus of Nazareth: * which thynges I also dyd in Jerusalem. And many many of the sayntes dyd I shut vp in prison, and had receaued auctorite of the hye prestes. And when they were put to deeth. I gaue the sentence. And I punished them ofte in euery synagoge, and compelled them to blasphemie: and was yet more mad vpon them, and persecuted them, euen vnto strange cyties. About which thynges as I wet to Damasco wyth auctorite and licence of the hye prestes, eue at myddaye. (O kynge) I sawe in the waye a lyght from heauen about the bryghtnes of the sonne shynynge vnder about me, and them whych ioyned wyth me.

When we were all fallen to the erthe, I heard a voyce speakynge vnto me, & sayng in the hebrue tonge: * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to kicke agaynst the prick. And I sayd: Who art thou Lord? And he sayde: I am Iesus whom thou persecutest, but ryse and stand vp on thy fete. For I haue appeared vnto y for this purpose, to make y a minister and a witnes both of those thynges whych y haue sene, & of those thynges in the which I will appere vnto the, deliueringe the from the people, and from the gentyls, vnto whom now I sende the, to open their eyes, that they maye be turned from darcknes to light, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they maye receaue forgiveness of synnes, and inheritaunce amonge them whych are sanctified by fayth that is toward me.

Wherfore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not disobedient vnto the heauenly visyon: but shewed fyrst vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and thowow out all the coastes of Jewry, and then to the gentyls, that they shuld repent, and turne to God, and do soch workes as become them that repent. For this cause the Jewes caught me in the temple, and went about to kyll me. Seyng therfore that I haue obtained helpe of God: I contynue vnto this daye, wytnessinge bothe to small & to great, sayng none other thynges, then those whych the prophetes and Moses dyd saye shuld come: that Christ shuld suffer, and that he shulde be the fyrst that shuld ryse from deeth, and shuld shewe lyght vnto the people, and to the gentyls. As he thus spake for hym selfe: Festus sayde with a loude voyce: Paul, part besyde thy selfe. Hochlearnynge doth make the madd. And Paul sayde: I am not mad (most deare Festus) but speake forth the wordes of tructh and sobernes. For y kynge knoweth of these thynges, before who also I speake frely: neither thynke I that any of these thynges are hydden from him. For this thyng was not done in a corner. Kynge Agrippa beleuest thou the Prophetes? I wote well that thou beleuest: Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Sum-what thou byngest me in mynde for to be come Chrysten. And Paul sayde: I wolde to God that not onely thou: but also all that heare me to daye were, not somewhat onely, but all together, soch as I am, except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the debite, and Bernice, and they that sate with the, And when they were gone aparte, they talked betwene the selues, sayinge. This man doeth nothyng worthy of deeth, or of bondes. Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus. This man myght haue bene let loose, yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

The xxvij. Chapter.

Paul shippeth toward Rome, Julius the Captayne interceyth hym curteously, so at the last they suffre shippwahe.

When it was concluded, y we shuld sayle into Italy they deliuered both Paul & certayne other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captayne of Cesar's souldiers. And we entred into a shipp of Adramitum, and looked from land, apoynted to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one Aristarcus out of Macedonia, of the consoule of Thessalonica taryng with vs. And y nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius * courteously entreated Paul, and gaue him lyberte, to go vnto his frendes, & to refreshe hym selfe. And whan we had launched from thence, we sayled harde by Cyprus, because the wyndes were contrary. And whan we had sayled ouer y see of Cilicia, & Pamphilia, we came to Myra whych is in Lycia.

And there the vndercaptayne founde a shyppe of Alexandria ready, that sayled into Italy, and he put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes, and scace we were come ouer agaynst Sydon (because the wynde wyth stode vs) we sayled harde by the coaste of Candy, ouer agaynst Salmo, and wyth moche worke sayled beyonde it, & came vnto a place which is called the sayre haues. yf we wher vnto was the cytie of Lasea when moche tyme was spent, and whan sayling was now reoperdous, because also that they had ouerlonge fasted, Paul put the in remembraunce, and layd vnto the: Syrs I perceaue, that this viage wilbe wyth hurte and moche damage, not of the ladyng ad shipp onely, but also of your lyues: Neuerthelesse y vnder captayne beleued y gouerner & y master of y shipp more then those thynges whych were spok of Paul. And because the haue was not comodious to wynter in, many toke counsell to departe thence, yf by any meanes they myght attayne to Phenice & there to wynter, whych is an haue of Candy, and lyeth toward the south west and north west wynde. When the south wynde blew, they suppolynge to obtayne their purpose, loosed vnto Ailon, and sayled past all Candy.

But not long after, ther arose agaynst theyr purpose, a flawe of wynde out of the northeast. And when the shyp was caught & could not resyst þ wynde, we let her go, and draue with þ wether. But we were carped i to an yle whych is named Clarida, and had moche worke to come by a bore, whych they toke by, and vled helpe, & made fast þ shyppe, fearinge, lest they shuld fall into the Syrtes. And so they let downe a vessell, ad were carped. The nexte daye) whē we were tolled wyth an excedinge tēpest) they lyghtened the shyp, and the thyrde daye we cast out wyth oure a wone handes the takynge of the shyppe. Whē at the last, nether the sunne nor starres in many dayes appeared, and no small tempest laye vpo vs, all hope that we shuld escape, was then takē awaye. But after longe abstynence, Paul stode forth in the myddes of them, & sayde: Syrs, ye shulde haue harkened to me, and not haue loosed from Candy, nether to haue brought vnto vs thys harme & losse. And now I exhorte you to be of good chere. For ther shalbe no losse of eny mā lyfe amonge you, saue of the shyp onely. For ther stode by me thys nyght þ angel of God, whose I am, and who I serue, saying: feare not Paul * I must be brought before Cesar, And lo, God hath geuen the all them that sayle wyth the. Wherefore syrs be of good chere: for I beleue God, that it shalbe euē as it was tolde me. how be it we must be cast into a certayne plonde.

* Act. s. xrb. c.

* Act. xv. ii. a

But when the fourtenth nyght was come) as we were sayling i Adria about mydnyght (the shypme demed, that ther appeared some countre vnto them: and sounded, & foude it. xx. feddoms. And whē they had gone a lytell further, they sounded agayne, and foude. xv. feddoms. Then fearynge lest they shuld haue fallē on some rocke, they cast. iiii. ankers out of the sterne, and wpyhed for the daye. As the shypmen were about to flee out of the shyp (whan they had let downe þ bote i to the see, vnder a couloure, as though they wolde haue cast ankers out of the forshippe) Paul sayde vnto the vndercaptayne and to the soudyers: excepte these abyde in the shyp ye cannot be safe. Then the soudyers cut of þ rope of the bote, and let it fall awaye.

And whan the daye beganne to appeare, Paul besought them all to take meate, sayynge: thys is the fourtenth daye, that ye haue sayled and contynued fastynge, receauynge nothig at all. Wherefore, I praye you to take meate: for this no dout is for yowre helth: for *ther shall not an heer fall from the heed of eny of you. And when he had thus spoken, he toke bread and * gaue thanks to God in presence of them all: and whan he had broke it, he beganne to eate. Then were they all of good cheare, and they also toke meate. We were all together in the shyp, two hundred threscore and syrtene soules. And whē they had eaten ynough, they lyghtened the shyp, and cast out the wheate in to the see.

When it was daye, they knew not the lande, but they spyed a certayne haueu with a bancke, into the whych they were mynded (if it were possyble) to thrust in þ shyp. And when they had taken by the ankers, they committed them selues vnto the see, and lowsed the rudder bondes and hoysed vþ the mayne sayle to the wynde, and drue to lande. And whan they chaunced on a place, whych had the see on both the sydes, they thrust in the shyp. And the foreparte stucke fast and moued not, but the hynder parte brake wyth þ violence of the waues.

The Soudyars counsell was to kyll the presoners, lest eny of them, when he had swome out, shulde come awaye. But the vndercaptayne wyllinge to saue Paul, kept them from theyr purpose, and commaunded that they whych coulde swimme, shulde cast the selues fyrst into the see, and scape to lande. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bordes, and some on broken peces of the shyp. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to lande.

The xxviij. Chapter.

The shyppe hurteth not Pauls hande, he heareth Publius father, and dyppeth his foot at Rome.

And when they were scaped, then they knewe, that: * the yle was called Milet. And the straungers shewed vs no lytell kynndes: for they kyndled a fyre, and receaued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, & because of þ colde. And whē Paul had gathered a bondell of styckes, and layde thē on the fyre, ther came a vyper out of the heat, & caught hym by the hāde. When the straungers sawe the beast hange on hys hande, they sayde amonge them selues: no doute thys mā is a moztcherer: whō (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeance suffereth not to lyue. And he shooke of the vyper into the fyre, and * felt no harme. howbest they wayted whē he shulde haue swolne, or fallen downe deed sodenly. But after they had loked a greate whyle, and sawe no harme come to hym, they chaunged theyr myn-des, and sayde * that he was a God.

So, when this was done, other also whych had dysceases in the yle, cam and were healed: whych also dyd vs great honoure. And when we departed, they laded vs w loch thynges as were necessary.

After thre monethes we departed in a ship of Alexandria, whych had wyntred in the yle, whose badge was Castor & Pollux. And whē we came to Tyracusa, we tarped there thre dayes. And frō thence we fet a cōpasse, and came to Regium. And after one daye þ south wynde blew, and we came the nexte daye to Putiolus: where we founde brythē, and were desyred to tary wyth them seven dayes, and so came we to Rome. And from thence, when the brythē hearde of vs, they came to mete vs at Apphozum, and at the thre tauerne. When Paul sawe them, he thanked God, and wored bolde. For thys cause when haue I called for you, euē to se you, and to speake wyth you: * because that for the hope of Israel I am bounde w this cheyne.

And they sayde vnto hym: we nether re-ceaued lettres out of Jewry pertayninge vnto the nether eny of the brythē þ came shewed or spake eny harme of þ. But we wyll heare of the what thou thyndest. For as concerning thys secte, we knowe that * euer where it is spoken agaynst. And when they had appoynted him a daye, ther came many to hym into hys lodgynge. To whom he expounded and testifed the kyngdom of God and preached vnto them of Iesus: both out of the lawe of Moyses and out of the Prophe-tes, euē from morninge to nyght. And * some beleued the thynges whych were spokē, and some beleued not.

* Luk. ii. c.

* Act. xv. ii. a

And when they agreed not amonge them selues, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one worde: well spake the holy ghost by Esay the prophet vnto oure fathers, saying: * Go vnto thys people, and saye: wyth yowre eares shall ye heare, and shall not vnderstande: and wyth yowre eyes shall ye se, & not perceaye.

* Act. vi. c Mar. i. b Luk. vi. b.
John. i. b.

For the hert of thys people is wored grosse, ad wyth theyr eares haue they had no lust to heare, and their eyes haue they closed: lest they shulde se wyth theyr eyes, & heare wyth theyr eares, and vnderstande with their hertes, and shuld be conuerted, and I shuld heale them. As it knowen therfore vnto you, that thys saluacyon of God is sent to the ge-tyls, and they shall heare it. And whē he had sayde these wordes, the Jewes departed frō him and had greate despycions amōge them selues.

And Paul dwelt two yeaeres full in hys lodgynge, and receaued all that cam in vnto hym, preachinge the kyngdome of God, and teachynge those thynges whych concernē the Lorde Iesus wyth all confydence, no man forbyddynge hym.

The Epistle of the Apostle Saynt Paul to the Romayns.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paul declareth his loue towarde the Romayns, & sheweth what the Gospell is wrytten the firste thereof, and rebuketh the heathen of the heathen.

Paul the seruant of Iesus Chryst called to the office of an Apostle * put a parte for y^e Gospell of God * whych he had promysed afore by hys Prophetes in the holy scriptures of hys sonne, whych was borne * of the seed of Dauid after the fleshe: and hath bene declared to be the sonne of God wth power, after y^e spete that sanctifyeth, sence the tyme that Iesus Chryst oure Lorde rose agayne from deeth * by whom we haue receaued grace & a postlethyp, that obedience myght be geuen vnto the fayth in hys name amonge all heathen, of whose nombre you be, the electe of Iesu Chryst. R

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and sayntes by electyon. * Grace be wth you and peace from God oure father, & from the Lorde Iesus Chryst.

Firste verely I thanke my God thorow Iesus Chryst for you all, that poure fayth is spoken of in all the worlde. For God is my wptnes whom I serue. * Wptnyng spete in the Gospell of hys sonne (that wythout ceasynge I make mencyon of you prayynge allwayes * in my prayers, that by some meane, at the last (one tyme or other) a prosperous toney (by the wyll of God) myght fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to se you, that I myght bestowe amonge you some spytuall gyfte, to strength you wthall: that is, that I myght haue consolacyd to gether wptnyng you, throught the comen fayth whych both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye shuld knowe (brythre) how that I haue often tymes purposed to come vnto you * but haue bene let hitherto to haue some frute also amonge you, as amonge other of the Gentyls. I am better both to the Sickes and to the vngredes, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that (as moch as in me is) I am redy to preach the Gospell to you that are at Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of the Gospell of Chryst, because it is the power of God vnto saluacyon to euery one that belueth, to the Jewe fyrst, & also to the Gentyle.

For by it is the ryghtewesnes of God opened from fayth to fayth. As it is wrytten * the iust shall lyue by fayth.

For the wrath of God apareth from heauen agaynst all vngodlynes and vnyghtewesnes of men, whych withholde the tructh in vnyghtewesnes: saynge * that it whych maye be knowne of God, is manifest amonge them because God hath shewed it vnto the. * For hys inuisyble thinges (y^e is to saye hys eternall power ad godhed) are sene, for as moch as they are vnderstande * by the workes from the creatyng of the worlde: So that they are wythout excuse because that when they knewe God, they glorified hym not as God, neyther were thankfull but were full of vanities in theyr imaginacions, * and theyr folysh hert was blynded. When they counted them selues wysse, they became foolles * and turned the glory of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the spymilitude of a mortall man but also of byrdes, & foure footed beastes & of crepige beastes. Wherefore, God gaue the vp, to vncleines, thozow the lustes of their awne heartes to despyle their awne bodyes amonge the selues: whych chaunged hys tructhe for a lye, and worshypped and serued the thynges that be made, more then hym that made them, which is to be prayled for euer. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto shamefull lustes: * For euen their women dyd chaunge the naturall vse in to that whych is agaynst nature. And lyke wysse also the men, lette y^e natural vse of the woman, and byt in their lustes one wptnyng another, * men wptnyng men wrought fylthynes, and receaued to the selues the rewarde of theyr erreure, as it was accordynge.

And as they regarded not to knowe God * euen so God deliuered them vp vnto a lewde mynde, that they shulde do those thynges whych were not comly, beyng full of all vnyghtewesnes, fornicacyon, wychednes, couetousnes, malycyousnes, full of enuy moether, debate, disceyte, euill condicyoned, whysperers, backbyters, haters of God, dyf daynfull, proude, boasters, bringers vp of euill thynges, disobeyent to father and moether, wythout vnderstandynge, couenaunte breakers, vnloyunge, treucebreakers, vnnecyfull. Which men, though they knewe the ryghtewesnes of God, (as shewed vnto) how that they whych comyt soche thynges, are worthy of deeth, not only * (they that) do the same * but also * (they whych) haue pleasure in them that do them.

The iiij. Chapter.

The rebuketh the Jewes, whych as touchynge synne are lyke the heathen.

Wherefore art thou inexcusable. Dmā, whosoever thou be that * iudgest for i that same wherein thou iudgest another * thou condennest thy selfe. For thou that iudgest, doest euen the same selfe thynges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God is accordynge to tructh, agaynst them whych comyt soch thynges. Thyngest thou thys, O thou man that iudgest them whych do soche thynges, and doest euen the very same thy selfe, that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God: Ether despylest thou the ryches of hys goodnes, and pacence and long sufferance, not knowyng * that y^e kyndnes of God leadech the to repentaunce.

But thou after thy stubbornesse, and heret that cannot repent, heapest vnto thy selfe wrath agaynst y^e daye of vengeaunce, when shalbe opened the ryghtewes iudgement of God, * which wyll reward euery mā accordynge to hys dedes: that is to saye, prayse, honoure and immortalite, to them whych contynue in good doyng, and seke immortalite. But vnto them that are rebelles, and that do not obey the tructh, but folowe vnyghtewesnes, shal come indignacyon and wrath, tribulacyon and angurlythe vpon the soule of euery mā that doth euill: of y^e Jewe fyrst, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doth good, shal come prayse, and honoure, and peace, to the Jewe fyrst, and also to the Gentyll. For * ther is no respecte of parsonnes, with God. For whosoever hath synned wythout lawe, shal also perlythe without lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe, shalbe iudged by the lawe. For in the syght of God, they are not ryghteous whych beare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shalbe iustified. For when the Gentyls whych haue not the lawe, do of nature the thynges contayned in the lawe: then they haue not the lawe, are a lawe vnto them selues, which shew the dede of the lawe wrytten in theyr hertes: whyll theyr conscience beareth wytnes vnto them, and also theyr thoughtes, accusynge one another or excusynge, at the daye * when the Lorde shal iudge the secretes of mē by Iesus Chryst, accordinge to my Gospell.

Beholde, * thou art called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God, and knowest his wyll, and alowest the thynges that be excellent, and art infourmed by the lawe: and beluest that thou thy selfe art a gyde of the blynde, a lyght of the which are in darcknes, an infourmer of them which lacke discrecyon, a teacher of the vnlarned, which hast y^e ensample of knowledge, & of y^e tructhe by y^e lawe. Thou therfore which teachest another, teachest not thy selfe * Thou preacheest, a man shulde not steale: yet thou stealest. Thou that sayst, a man shuld not comyt aduoutry, breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou that makest thy boast of the lawe, thozow breakynge the lawe dishonourest God. For the name of God is curyll spoken of amonge the Gentyls, thozow you * as it is wrytten.

For circumcysion verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou be a breaker of the lawe, thy circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion. Therefore, yf the vncircumcised kepe y^e ryght thynges contayned in the lawe, shal not his vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion: And shal not vncircumcysion which is by nature (y^e it kepe the lawe) iudge the, whych beynge vnder the letter and circumsion, doest trasgresse the lawe: y^e is not a Jewe, which is a Jewe outwarde. Ne ther is it circumcysion, which is outwarde in the fleshe. But * he is a Jewe which his hyd wythin, and * the circumcysion of the herte is the true circumcysion, whych consisteth in the spete and not in the letter: whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

The iiij. Chapter.

The rebuketh what prefermet the Jewes haue, and sheweth both the Jewes and Gentyls are vnder synne, and are iustified only by the grace of God in Chryst.

What prefermet then hath y^e Jewe? For what aduantagech circumcysion? Surely verely moch. Firste * because y^e vnto them were comytred y^e wordes of God. What then though some of them dyd not beleue? * Shall they vnbelue make the promes of God without effecte? God forbyd. Let God be true, and * euery man a liar, at it is wrytten: * y^e thou myghtest be iustified in thy saynges, and overcome, when thou art iudged.

But yf oure vnyghtewesnes make y^e ryghtewesnes of God more excellent: what shal we saye? Is God vnyghteous, which taketh vngeaunce? I speake after the maner of mē: God forbyd. For how then shal God iudge the worlde? For yf the tructh of God appeare more excellent thozow my lye, vnto his prayse, why am I hence forth iudged as lyar? a synner.

a synner: and not rather (as me speake euill of vs, and as some aspyne that we saye) let vs do euill, that good maye come therof. Whose damnacion is iuste.

¶ What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we haue all ready proued, how that both Jewes and Gentyls are all vnder synne, as it is wyrtten. * There is none ryghteous, no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vnprouyde, there is none that doeth good, no not one. * They throte is an open scowle, with theyr tounges they haue discaued: the popson of aspes is vnder theyr lippes. * Whose mouth is full of cursynge and bytternes. * Their fete are swyfte to shed bloud. * Destruction and wretchednes are in theyr wayes, and the waye of peace haue they not knowen. * There is no feare of God before theyr eyes.

¶ We knowe that what thynges soeuer f lawe sayth, it sayth it to the which are vnder f lawe. That all mouthes maye be stoped, & that all the worlde maye be subdued to God, because f by the dedes of the lawe ther shall no fleshe be iustified in hys syght. For by f lawe cometh f knowledge of sinne.

¶ But now is f ryghtewesnes of God declared without the lawe, for asmoche as it is alowed by the testimonye of f lawe and of f prophetes. Ther ryghtewesnes of God, cometh by the fayth of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. * (on hym.)

¶ Ther is no difference: for all haue synned, and are destitute of the gloire of God: but f are iustified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Iesu, whom God hath set forth * to be the obtayner of mercy thorow fayth, by the meanes of hys bloude, to declare hys ryghteousnes, in that he forgiveth the synnes f are passed, whych God byd suffre, to thewe at thys tyme hys ryghtewesnes, that he might be counted iust, and the iustifyer of hym whych beleueth on Iesus. **¶

¶ Where is then thy reioysynge? It is excluded. By what lawe of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

¶ Therefore we holde, that * a man is iustified by fayth without the dedes of the lawe: Is he the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of the Gentyls? Yes, euen of the Gentyls also. For it is God only which iustifyeth the circumcision that is of fayth, and uncircumcision thorow fayth. Do we then destroye the lawe thorow fayth? God forbid. But we rather maintayne the lawe.

¶ The declareth by the example of Abraham, to a fayth iustifyer, and not the lawe, nor the workes therof.

What shall we saye then, that * Abraham oure father (as pertaynyng to the fleshe) byd synde? If Abraham were iustified by dedes, then hath he wherin to reioyce: but not w God. For what sayth the scripture? * Abraham beleued God, and it was counted vnto him for ryghtewesnes. To hym that worketh, is the rewarde not reckned of fauoure, but of dutye. ¶ To hym that worketh not, but beleueth on him that iustifyeth the vngodly, is his fayth counted for ryghtewesnes. * (According to the purpose of the grace of God) Euen as Dauid describeth the blessednes of that man, vnto whom God imputeth ryghtewesnes without dedes. * Blessed are they, whose vnyghtewesnes are forgiven, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man, to whom the Lorde wyll not impute synne.

¶ Came this blessednes then vpo the vncircumcision, or vpon the circumcision also? For we saye, that fayth was reckened to Abraham for ryghtewesnes. How was it then reckened: whan he was in the circumcision? or whan he was in the vncircumcision? * Not in f tyme of circumcision: but when he was yet vncircumcised. And he receaued the f sygne of circumcision, as a scale of the ryghtewesnes of fayth, whych he had yet beynge vncircumcised, that he shulde be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcised, that ryghtewesnes myght be imputed to them also: and that he myght be father of circumcision, not vnto the onely whych came of the circumcised, but vnto the also that walke in the steppes of the fayth f was in oure father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcision.

¶ For the promes (that he shulde be the heyre of f worlde) happened not to Abraham or to his seed thorow f lawe: but thorow f ryghtewesnes of fayth. * For yf they whych are of f lawe, be heyres, then is fayth but vayne and the promes of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrath. For where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therefore by fayth is the inheritaunce geuen, that it myght come of fauoure: that the promes myght be sure to all the seed. Not to them onely whych are of the lawe: but to them also which are of the fayth of Abraham, * which is the father of vs all. (As it is wyrtten: * I haue made f a father of many nacyns) euen before God, whom he beleued, whych restoreth the deed vnto lyfe: and calleth those thynges whych be not, as though they were.

¶ Whych Abraham, contrary to hope, beleued in hope, that he shulde be the * father of many nacyns, accordynge to that whych was spoken: euen so shall thy seed be. * (as the saye res of res of heauen, and the sonde of the see.) And he saynted not in the fayth, nor yet considered his awne body whych was now deed, euen when he was almost an hūdyed yere olde: nether yet that Sara was past chyldebearinge. He stachered not at the promes of God thorow vbeleue: but became stronge in fayth, and gaue God the prayse, beynge full certified, that he whych had promised the same was able also to make it good. And therfore was it reckened to hym for ryghtewesnes.

¶ Neuertheles it is not wyrtten for hym onely, that it was reckened to hym (for ryghtewesnes): but also for vs, to whom it shalbe counted (for ryghtewesnes,) so f we beleue on hym, f rayled by Iesus oure Lorde from the deed: whych was deliuered for oure synnes, and was rayled agayne for oure iustificacyon.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

¶ The power of fayth, hope and loue and how death rayned from Adā vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synnes.

Because therfore that we are iustified by fayth, we are at * peace with God, thorow oure Lorde Iesus Christ: by whom also it chauned vnto vs to be brought in thorow fayth, vnto thys grace, wherein we stande, and * reioyce in hope of f gloire. * (of the chryste) of God. Not that onely: but also we reioyce in tribulacions: knowyng that * tribulacion byngeth patience, patience byngeth experience, experience byngeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because the loue of God is shed abroad in oure hertes, by the holy ghost whych is geuen vnto vs.

¶ For * when we were yet weake, accordyng to the tyme, Christ dyed for vs whych were vngodly: Yet scace wyll eny man dye for a ryghtewes mā. Paraventure for a good man durst a man dye. * But * God setteth out his loue toward vs, seynge f whyll we were yet synners. * (accordyng to the tyme) Christ dyed for vs. Moch more then now (we that are iustified by hys bloud) shall be saued fro wrath thorow hym.

¶ For yf when we were enemyes, we were reconcyled to God by the deeth of hys sonne: moche more, seynge we are reconcyled, we shalbe preserved by hys lyfe. Not onely this, but we also ioye in God by the meanes of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, by whom we haue now obtayned the attoument.

¶ Wherefore, as by one man, synne entered in, to the worlde, and * deeth by the meanes of synne. Euen so deeth also went ouer all men, in so moche as all we haue synned. For euen vnto f lawe was synne in f worlde, but synne is not imputed, whan ther is no lawe: neuerthelesse deeth rayned fro Adam to Moses, euen ouer the also f had not synned wyth lyke transgression as dyd Adā: whych * beareth the similitude of him that was to come.

¶ But the gyfte is not lyke as f synne. For yf thorow the synne of one, many be deed: moche more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God & gyfte by grace. * (whych was of one man Iesus Christ.)

¶ And f gyfte is not ouer one synne: as deeth cam thorow one synne of one f synned. For damnacion came of one synne vnto condemnacion: but f gyfte came to iustify fro many synnes. For yf by the synne of one, deeth rayned by the meanes of one: moche more they (whych receaue abundance of grace and of the gyfte of ryghtewesnes) shall raygne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Iesus Christ.

¶ Lyke wyse then as by the synne of one there sprang by euell on all men to condemnacion: euen so by the ryghteousnes of one, spryngeth good vpon all men to the ryghteousnes of lyfe. For as by one mannes disobedience many became synners: so by the obedience of one, shall many be made ryghteous. But * the lawe in f meane tyme entred in, f synne shuld encrease. Neuertheles where abundance of synne was, there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had rayned vnto deeth, euen so myght grace raygne thorow ryghtewesnes, vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Iesu Christ. **¶

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

¶ For so moche as we be deliuered thorow Christ from synne, we muste fasten oure selues to true as the seruantes of God, and not after our awne lustes. The vniuersally reward of ryghteousnes and synne.

What shall we saye then? Shall we contynue in synne, that there maye be abundance of grace? God forbid. How shall we that are deed as touchyng synne, lyue eny lenger therein? * Knowe ye not that * all we whych are baptised into Iesu Christe are baptised to dye wyth him: We are buryed then with him by baptyme, for to dye: that lyke wyse as Christ was rayled vnto deeth by the gloire of f father, euen so * we also shulde walke in a newe lyfe. For yf we be graft in deeth lyke vnto hym: euen so shall we be partakers of the resurrection: knowyng thys, that oure olde man is crucified with hym also, that the body of synne myght utterly be destroyed, f hence forth we shuld not be seruantes vnto synne. For he that is deed, is iustified from synne.

¶ Wherefore * yf we be deed w Christ, we beleue, f we shall also lyue with hym: knowyng, that Christ beynge rayled from deeth, * dyeth nomore. Deeth hath nomore power ouer hym. For as touchyng that he dyed, he dyed concernyng synne once. And as touchyng that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Lyke wyse

The lawe of the sprete geueth lyfe. The sprete of God maketh vs Gods chyldren and heires with Christ. The aboundaunce loue of God cannot be separated.

Wher is then no damnacion to the whych are in Christ Iesu, whych walke not after the flesche, but after the sprete. For the lawe of the sprete of lyfe thow Iesus Christ, hath made me * free from the lawe of synne, and deeth. * For what the lawe could not do (in as moch as it was weake because of the flesche) that performed God, and * sent hys sonne in the similitude of synfull flesche, and by synne dampned synne in the flesche: y the ryghtewesnes of the lawe, myght be fulfilled in vs, which walke not after the flesche, but after the sprete.

For they that are carnall, are carnally mynded. But they that are spirytually, are gostly mynded. To be carnally mynded, is deeth. But to be spirytually mynded, is lyfe and peace. * Because that the fleschly mynde is enemye agaynst God: for it is not obeyent to the lawe of God, nether can be. So then they that are in the flesche, cannot please God.

But ye are not in y flesche, but in the sprete: yf so be that the sprete of God dwell in you. If enyma haue not y sprete of Christ, the same is none of hys. If Christ be in you, the body is deed because of synne: but y sprete is lyfe for ryghtewesnes sake. Wherefore, yf the sprete of hym that rased vp Iesus from deeth, dwell in you: euen he that rased vp Christ from deeth, shall quyen youre mortall bodyes, because of hys sprete that dwelleth in you.

Therefore brethzen, we are debtors, not to the flesche, to lyue after the flesche. For yf ye lyue after the flesche, ye shal dye. But yf ye (thow we the sprete) domortyfy the dedes of the body, ye shal lyue. For as many as are led by the sprete of God, they are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receaued the sprete of bondage to feare eny more, but * ye haue receaued the sprete of adopyon, wherby we crye: Abba father. * The same sprete certyfeth oure sprete that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, then are we also heires, y heires I meane of God, & heires ancted with Christ yf so be that we suffer with hym, that we maye be also glorified together with hym. *

For I suppose that the afflyccions of thys lyfe, are not worthy of the glozy, which shalbe shewed vpon vs. * For the seruent desyre of the creature abydeyth, lokyng, wher the sonnes of God shal appere, because the creature is subdued to vanyte, agaynst the wyll therof, but for his will which hath subdued the same in hope. For the same creature shalbe deliuered from the bondage of corruption, into the gloruous libertye of y sonnes of God. For we knowe, that euery creature groweth with vs also, and trauayleth in payne, euen vnto thys tyme.

Not onely it, but we also which haue y fyrst frutes of the sprete, moze in oure selues also, and wayte for the adopyon of the sprete (euen the deliuerance of oure bodye). * For we are sauyd by hope. But hope that is sene, is no hope. For how can a man hope for that, which he seyth: But and yf we hope for that we le not, then do we w patience abyde for it.

Lyke wyse, the sprete also helpeth oure infirmities. For we knowe not what to desyre as we ought: but the sprete maketh intercession for vs, with groynynges which cannot be expressed. And * he that searcheth the hertes & knoweth, what is the meanynge of the sprete: for he maketh intercession for y sayntes according to y pleasure of God. *

We knowe that all thynghes worke for the best vnto them that loue God, which also are called of purpose. For those which he knewe before, he also ordeyned before, that they shulde be lyke fastioned vnto the shap of hys sonne, that he myght be the fyrst begotten sonne amonge many brethzen. Moreover, whom he appoynted before, them also he called. And whom he hath called, them also he iustified: and whom he iustified, them he also glorified.

What shall we then saye to these thinges? * yf God be on oure syde, who ca be agaynst vs? which spared not hys a wne sonne, * but gaue him for vs all: how can it be, that with hym he shulde not geue vs all thynghes also? Who shall laye eny thyng to the charge of Goddes chosen: it is God that iustifyeth: who is he that can condemne: it is Christ which dyed, yee, rather which is rylen agayne, which is also on the ryght hande of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who shall seporate vs from the loue of God: shall tribulacion: or angusthe: or persecucion: or other hunger: ether nakednes: ether parcell: ether swerde: As it is witten: * for thy sake are we kylled all daye longe, and are coucted as shepe apoynted to be slayne. Neuerthelesse, in all these thynghes we overcome thow we hym that loued vs. For I am sure, that nether deeth, nether lyfe, nether Angells, nor rule, nether power, nether thynghes present, nether thynghes to come, nether heygth, nether loweth, nether eny other creature shalbe able to departe vs from the loue of God, which is in Christ Iesu oure Lorde. *

The ix. Chapter.

Paul complaineth vpon the harde hertes of the Jewes that wolde not receaue Christ, and how the Jewes are chosen in thys seade.

I saye

Lyke wyse consydre ye also, that ye are deed as touchyng synne, but are alpye vnto God thow Iesus Christ oure Lorde. * Let not synne raygne therfore in youre mortall bodye, that ye shulde ther vnto obey by the lustes of it. * Eether geue ye youre members as instrumentes of vnyghtewesnes vnto synne: but geue ouer your selues vnto God as they that of deed, are alpye. And geue ouer youre members as instrumentes of ryghtewesnes vnto God. For synne shall not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then shall we synne, because we are not vnder y lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. * Knowe ye not, how that * to whom soeuer ye commit youre selues as seruantes to obey, hys seruantes ye are to who ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto deeth, or of obediēce vnto ryghtewesnes? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruantes of synne, ye haue yet obeyed with herte vnto y rule of the doctryne, that ye be brought vnto. * Ye are then made free fro synne, and are become the seruantes of ryghtewesnes. *

I speake grollly, because of the infirmitye of youre flesche. As ye haue geuen youre members seruantes to vnelmes and to iniquitye, (from one iniquitye to another) euen so now geue ouer youre members seruantes vnto ryghtewesnes, that ye maye be sanctified. For wher ye were the seruantes of synne, ye were voyde of ryghtewesnes. What frute had ye then in thole thynghes, wherof ye are now ashamed. For the ende of thole thynghes, is deeth. But now are ye deliuered fro synne, & made the seruantes of God, and haue youre frute to be sanctified, and yende euertlastyng lyfe. For * y rewarde of synne is deeth. but eternall lyfe is y gyfte of God, thow Iesus Christ oure Lorde. *

The viij. Chapter.

Christ hath deliuered vs from the lawe and deeth. I shal shew what the flesche and outward man is, and calleth it the lawe of the members.

Nowe ye not brethze (I speake to them that knowe the lawe) how that the lawe hath power ouer a man, as longe as it endureth. For * the woman whych is in subiection to a man, is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. But yf the man be deed, he is loosed fro the lawe of y man. So then * yf whyle y man lyueth she couple her selfe with another man, she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deed, she is free from the lawe of the husband, so that she is no wedlocke breaker, though she couple her selfe with another man.

Euen so ye also (my brethzen) are deed concerning y lawe by the body of Christ, that ye shulde be coupled to another (I meane to him that is rylen agayne fro deeth) that we shuld byyng forth frute vnto God. For wher we were in y flesche, y lustes of synne whych were stered by the lawe, raygned in oure members, to byyng forth frute vnto deeth. But now are we deliuered from the lawe, and deed vnto it wher vnto we were in bondage, that we shuld serue in a new conuersacyon of the sprete, and not in the olde conuersacyon of the letter.

What shall we saye then: is the lawe synne? God forbid: neuertheles * I knew not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowne what lust had meant, excepte the lawe had sayd, y shal not lust. But synne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement and brought in me all manner of concupiscence. For verely without y lawe, synne was deed. I once lyued wythout lawe: But when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was deed. And the very same commaundement, whych was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was founde to be vnto me an occasyon of deeth. For synne toke occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement, and so diseaued me, & by y same slewe me. Wherefore * the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy, and iust and good.

Was y then which was good, made deeth vnto me? God forbid. Naye it was synne: y synne might appeare (by it which was good) to worke deeth in me: that synne by the commaundement myght be out of measure synfull. For we knowe, y the lawe is spirituall: but I am carnall. * I solde vnder synne, because I allowe not y whych I do. For what I wolde, y do I not: but what I hate, that do I. If I do now that whych I wolde not, I consente vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I y do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. For I knowe, that in me (that is to saye in my flesche) dwelleth no good thyng. For, to wyll is present with me: but I fynde no meanes to performe that whych is good. For the good that I wolde, do I not: but the euill whych I wolde not, that do I. Yf I do that I wolde not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynde then by the lawe, that when I wolde do good, euill is present wyth me. For I delpte in the lawe of God, after the inward man. But I se another lawe in my members, rebellyng agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, whych is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shal deliuer me from thys body subdued vnto deeth? I thanke God thow Iesus Christ oure Lorde. So then, wyth the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but wyth the flesche the lawe of synne.

The viij. Chapter.

The lawe

A Saye the trueth in Chryst, and lye not, (my conscience also bea-rig me wytnes by þe holy ghost) that I haue gret heuyness, & contynuall sorowe in my hert. ffor ii.g. * I haue wysshed my selfe to be cursed from Chryst, for my brethre (my kynsmen as pertaynyng to the fleshe) which are the Israelites. To whom pertayneth the adopyon, ex. * (of the chyldeyn) and the glorie, and the coue-ii.g. nantes and * the lawe that was geuen, ad the seruyce of God, and the promyses: whose also are the fathers, and they of whom (as concernyng the fleshe) Chryst came, which is God in all thynges to be prayesd for euer Amen.

B I speake not these thynges, as though the wordes of God had take none effecte. For * they are not all Israelites, which are of Israel: neither are they all chyldren strayght waye, that are the seed of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seed be called: that is to saye:
* they which are the chyldren of the fleshe, are not the chyldren of God. But they which be the chyldren of promes, are counted the seed. For this is a worde of promes, about this tyme wyll I come, and Sara shall haue a sonne.

Not onely this, but also Rebecca was w childe by one, euē by oure father Isaac. For yer the chyldeyn were bozne, when thep had nether done good nether bad (that the purpo e of God by election, myght stande) it was sayde wnto her, not by the reason of wolapoe vnder the, nor by the reason of wor-kes, but by the caller: & the elder shall serue y^e younger. As it is wytten: Iacob haue I loued, but Esau haue I hated. What shall we saye then: is there any vnrightheousnes with God? God forbeyd. For he sayth to Moses:

11. d. ⁊ I wyll shewe mercy to whomsoever I shewe mercy: and wyll haue compassyon, on whomsoever I haue compassyon. So lyeth it not then in a mans wyll or runnyng, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture sayth vnto Pharao: ⁊ euen for thys same purpose haue I stered the vp, to shewe my power on the, ⁊ that my name myght be declared thowout all the world. So hath he mercy on whom he wyll, and whom he wyll, he maketh harde herted.

D. Thou wylt saye then vnto me: why then blameth he vs per? For who hath bene able to resist his wylle? * But Ma^r, what art thou, which disputest with God? Shall the wor-cke saye to the worke man: why hast thou made me on this fassyon? hath not thou potter power ouer the claye, euen of the same lomp to make one vessell vnto honour, and another vnto dishonoure? Euē so, God willing to shewe hys w^rath, and to make his power knownen suffered wyth longe pacyence the vessels of w^rath, ordeyⁿed to damnacyon, and to declare the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had prepared vnto glorye: whō also he called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the gentyls. As he sayth also to Moses: * I will call them my people which were not my people: and her beloued which was not beloued, (and her to haue obtayned mercy, that had not obtayned mercy) And it shall come to passe, that in the place where it was sayde vnto them: ye are not my people: there shall they be called the chyldren of the luyngge God.

But Elay cryeth cōcernīg Israel ⁊ though the nombꝛe of the chyldꝛen of Israel be as þ sonde of þ see, yet the remnaūt shall be saued foꝛ he kynslitheth the word verely, and ma-keth it short in ryghtewlnes. Foꝛ a short worde wil God make on erth. And as Elay sayd befoze: ⁊ except þ Lorde of Saboth had left vs seede, we had bene made as zodoma, and had bene lykened to Gomorra.

What shall we saye then: We saye, that the gentyls which folowed not ryghtewesnes, haue ouertaken ryghtewesnes: euen þy ryghtewesnes which cometh of fayth. Contrary wyle, Israel which folowed þe lawe of rightewesnes could not attaine to þe lawe of ryghtewesnes. Wherefoze: euē because they sought it not by fayth: but as it were by the woorkes of the lawe. For they haue stombled at the stōbylynge stone. As it is wyttē: † Behold, I put in Syon a stomblynge stone, & a rocke that mē shalbe offended at. And whosoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

The .x. Chapter. ✠

The unfaithfulness of the Jewes. Two manner of rhytrousnes.

Bethrē, my hertes despyre prayer. A to God for Israel is, & they myght be saued. For I heare them recoz-de, that they haue a feruent myn-de to God warde, but not according to knowledge. For they beynge ignoraunt of God-des ryghte welnes, and goynge aboute to stablyshe theyr owne ryghte welnes, haue not bene obediēt vnto the ryghte welnes of God.

I For * Christ is the fulfylling of ylawe, * to iustifye all that beleue.

For * Moyses wyrteth of the ryghtewes-nes which cometh of the lawe, how þe man whych doth the thynges of the lawe, shall lyue therby. But the ryghtewesnes which cometh of fayth, speketh on thys wyle: Save not thou i thyne hert. who shall ascende into heauen (that is euen to fetch Christ downe from aboue.) Other who shall descende into the depe? (that is euen to fetch vp Christ agayne fro deeth) But what sayth he? * The worde is nye the, euen i thy mouth and in thyne herte. * 2

Thys same is the worde of fayth, which we preache:

we preache. For yf thou knowledg with thy mouth that Iesus is the Lorde, & beleue in thyn hert, that God raysed hym vp from deeth, thou shalt be safe. ¶ For to beleue wth the hert iustifyeth: and to knowledg with the mouth, maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayth: * whosoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe and the Gētil. For one is Lord of all, which is tyche vnto all þ call vpon him. For * whosoeuer doth call on the name of þ Lord, shal-be safe. How then shall they call on hym, on whom they haue not beleued: how shall they beleue on hym, of whom they haue not he-arde: how shall they heare, without a preacher: And how shall they preache except they be sent: As it is written: how beautifull are the fete of them which brynge tydynges of peace, and brynge tydynges of good thyn-ges. But they haue not all obeyed to þ Gos-pell. For Esay sayth: * Lorde, who hath be-leued oure sayynges: So then sayth cometh by hearynge, and hearynge cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: haue they not herde? No dout, * their sounde went out in to all landes: and their wordes into the endes of the worlde. ⁊

But I demaunde, whether Israel byd knowe or not: fyrst Moyses sayth: * I will prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a folyshe nacion I wyll anger you. & say after that, is bolde and sayeth: * I am founde of the, that sought me not: I am manifest vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israell he sayth: all daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people y beluceth not, but speaketh agaynst me.

The. xj. Chapter.

All the Jewes are not cast away, therefore Paul warneth the Gentyles that be called, not to be hye mynded nor to helpe the Jewes, for the iudgements of God are depe and secreete.

U Saye then : hath God cast awaye hys people? God forbyd. For euen I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the trybe of Beniamin, God hath not cast awaye his people, whiche he knewe before. Wote ye not, what ¶ scripture sayth of helias, how he maketh intercession to God agaynst Israell, saying:
* Lorde, they haue kyllled thy Prophetes, and dygged downe thyne alters: and I am leske alone, and they seke my lyfe. But what sayth the answer of God vnto hym? * I ha ue reserued vnto my selfe seuen thousande men, which haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Ball. Euen so also at thys tyme is ther a remanaunt leske accordynge to the election of grace. If it be of grace, then is it not now of workes. For then grace is no more grace, But If it be of workes, then is it now no grace. For then were deservynge nomore deservynge. What then? Israel hath not obtayned that which he seeketh: but the electyon hath obtayned it. The remnaüt are blynded accordynge as it is wrytten. * God hath geuen them the sprete of vnyuetyenes: eyes that they shuld not se, & eares that they shuld not heare, euen vnto this daye. * And Dauid sayth: Let their table be made a snare to take them with all, and an occasiõ to fall, and a reward vnto them. Let theye eyes be blynded that they se not: and howe thou do= wne their backe allwayne.

I saie then: haue they therefore stombled, that they shuld vterly fall away together.
God forbid. but thoro we theyr fall is salua-cyon happened vnto the Gentyls, for to prouoke them withall. Wherefore pf the fall of them be the ryches of the worlde, and y my-nistryng of them the ryches of the gentyls: how moch more their perfectnesse. I speake to you gentyls, in as moch as * I am y Apostle of the gentyls, I wyll magnify myne office, pf by any meane I maye prouoke them which are my fleshe, and myght saue some of them. For pf the castinge awaye of the, be the reconcylyng of the worlde: what shal the reconcylyng of them be, but lyfe agayne from deeth: For pf one peece be holy, y whole heeye is holy. And pf the rote be holy, y braunches shalbe holy also.

Though some of the braunches be broke of, and thou beyng a wyld olyue tree, wast graft in among them, and made partaker of the rote and fatnes of the * olyue tree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the braunches. If or yf thou boast thy selfe, thou bearest not yfrote, but the rote the. Thou wilt saye then: yf braunches are broken of that I myght be graft in. Thou sayest well: because of unbeliefe they were broke of, and thou stodest stedfast in fayth. We not hye mynded, but feare: for seyng that God spared not yf naturall braunches, take heede, lest it come to passe that he spare not the also.

Beholde therfore the kyndnes and rygorousnes of God: on them which fell, rygorousnes. but towardes the, kyndnes: yf thou continue in hys kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be hewen of, and they agayne + yf they byde not styll in unbeliefe, shalbe grafted i agayne.
For God is of power to graffe the in agayne. For yf thou wast cut out of a naturall wylde olyue tree, and wast grafted contrary to nature in a true olyue tree: how moch more shall the naturall bzaunches be grafted in their awne olyue tree agayne.

I wolde not that this secreete shulde be hyd from you my brethren (lest ye shuld be wylfe in youre awne conlasytes) þ partly blyndnes is happened in Itraell, vntill the fulnes of the getyls be come in: and so all Itrael shalbe saue.

E laued. As it is wyrtten. * There shall come out of Syon he that doth deliuer, and shall turne awaye vngodlynes from Jacob. And thys is my couenaunt vnto the, wher I shall take awaye their synnes. As concerninge the gospell they are enemies for poure sakes: but as touchyng the electyon they are loued for the fathers sakes.

For verely, the gyftes and callinge of God are such, that it cannot repent hym of them: for loke, as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God, yet haue now obtained mercy thow their vnbellefe: euen so now haue they not beleued the mercy which is happened vnto you: that they also maye obtayne mercy.

For God had wrapped all nacyns in vnbellefe, that he myght haue mercy on all.

The depnes of the ryches both of the wyfdom and knowledge of God: how vnsearchable are his iudgements, & his wayes past fyndyng out: For * who hath knowen the mynde of the Lorde? Or who hath bene his counsellor? other who hath geuen vnto hym fyrst, and he shalbe recompened agayne: For of hym, and thow hym, and for hym are all thynges: To hym be glorie for euer. Amen.

The. xij. Chapter.

The sweete conuersion, loue, and workes of such as beleue in Chyyst.

Beseche you therfore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make yor bodies a quicke sacryfice, holy & acceptable vnto God: which is poure resonable seruyng of God: & fastyd not poure selues lyke vnto this worlde: but be ye chaunged in youre thape, by the renuyng of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thyng is that good, and acceptable, and perfayte wyl of God is. For I saye (thow we the grace that vnto me geue is) to euery man amonge you, that * noman stonde hye in his owne conceite, more then it be cometh hym to esteeme of hym selfe: but so iudge of hym selfe: that he be gentle and sober, accordyng, as God hath deale to euery man the measure of fayth.

For as we haue many membris in one body, and all members haue not one office: so we beynge many, are one body in Chyyst, & euery man amonge oure selues, one anothers members. * * Seynge that we haue diuers gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: yf eny man haue the gyft of prophesye, let him haue it that it be agreyng vnto the fayth. * Let hym that hath an office wayte on his office. Let him that teacheth take hede to his doctryne. Let hym that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacio. If eny man geue, let hym do it with synghleness. Let hym that ruleth, do it with diligence. If eny man shewe mercy, let hym do it with cherfulness. Let loue be without dissimulation: hate that which is euill, & cleane vnto that which is good. Be kynd one to another with brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slouthfull the busynes which ye haue in hande. Be feruent in the sperte. * Applye poure selues to the tyme. Reioyce in hope. Be pacient in tribulacion. Continue in prayer. Distribute vnto the necessite of the sayntes: * be readie to harbour. * Blesse them which persecute you: blesse (I saye) and curse not. Be merry with the that are merry. Wepe also with them that wepe. Be of lyke affectio one towarde another. Be not hye mynded: but make poure selues equall to them of the lower sorte. * Be not wylle in poure awne oppynions. Recompence to no man euill for euill. Prouyde afoze hande thynges honeste (not onely before God, but also) in the syght of all men. If it be possyble, (as moch as is in you) lyue peaceably with all men. Dearly beloued, auenge not poure selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is wyrtten: * vengeance is myne, I will rewarde, sayth the Lorde.

Therefore, yf thynne enemye hoger, fede him: yf he thyrt, geue hym dryncke. For in so doyng thou shalt heape coles of fyre on his heade. Be not overcome of euill, but overcome euill, with goodnes: *

The. xij. Chapter.

The obedience of men vnto theyr rulers. Loue fulfilleth the lawe. It is now no tyme to folowe the workes of darkenes.

Et enery soule submyt hym selfe vnto the auctorite of the hyer powers. For * there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeyned of God. Whosoever therfore resysteth power, resysteth the ordinaunce of God. But they that resyst, shall receaue to them selfe damnacion. For rulers are not fearfull to them that do good, but to them that do euill. Wylt thou be without feare of the power? Do well then: and so shalt thou be prayfed of the same. For he is the mynister of God, for thy welth. But ad yf thou do that which is euill, then feare: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the mynister of God, to take vengeance on hym that doth euill. Wherefore, ye must nedes obeie, not onely for feare of vengeance: but also because of conscience. And euen for this cause paye ye tribute. For they are Goddes mynisters, seruynge for the same purpose. *

Geue to euery man therfore his due: * tribute to whom tribute belongeth: custome, to whom custome is due: feare, to whom feare belongeth: honoure, to whom honoure pertayneth. * We nothyng to eny man: but thys, that ye loue one another. For he that loueth that loueth another hath fulfilled the lawe. For these commaundementes. * Thou shalt not commytte aduoutry: thou shalt not kyl: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnes: thou shalt not lust, and so forth (yft there be eny other commaundement) it is all comprehended in thys sayinge, Namely: * Loue thynne neyghbour as thy selfe. Loue hurteth not his neyghbour. Therefore is loue the full: yllunge of the lawe. *

His also, we knowe the season howe that it is tyme that we shulde now awake out of slepe. For now is oure saluacion nere, then wher we beleued. The nyght is passed, & daye is come nye. Let vs therfore cast awaye the dedes of darknes, and let vs put on the Armour of lyght. Let vs walke honestly as it were in daye lyght: * not in captyng & drynckynge, nether in chamburyng and wantones, nether in stryfe & enuyng: but put ye on the Lorde Jesus Chyyst. * And make not prouisyō for the fleshe, to fulfill the lustes of it.

The. xiiij. Chapter.

The weak ought not to be despised. Noman shulde offende anothers conscience. Agayne, for outwarde they see they shulde noman condepe another.

Which is weak in the fayth, receaue, not in disputyng and troublunge his conscience. One beleueth that he maye eate all thyng. Another whych is weak, eateth earbes. Let not hym that eateth, despise hym that eateth not. And let not he whych eateth not, iudge him that eateth. For God hath receaued him. * What art thou iudgest another mannes seruante whether he sta de or fall & pertayneth vnto his awne master: ye, he shall be holde vp, that he maye stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

This man putteth differēce bitwene daye & daye. Another mā counteth all dayes alpyke. Let euery mā mynde satisfie hym selfe. He that obserueth the daye, doeth it vnto the Lorde. And he that doth not obserue the daye, doeth it for the Lorde also. He that eateth, doeth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thanks. And he that eateth not, eateth not, to please the Lorde withall, and geueth God thanks. For none of vs lyueth for hym selfe, and no man dyeth for hym selfe. For yf we lyue, we lyue vnto the Lorde. And yf we dye, we dye vnto the Lorde. Whether we lyue therfore, or dye, we are the Lordes. For Chyrist therfore dyed, and rose agayne, and reuyned, that he myght be * Lorde of ded and quicke.

But why doest thou then iudge thy brother? Or why doest thou despise thy brother? We shalbe all brought before the iudgement seate of Chyrist. For it is wyrtten: as truly as I lyue sayth the Lorde: * all knees shall bowe to me, and all tonges shall geue prayse to God. So shall euery one of vs geue accōptes of hym selfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another eny more.

But iudge thys rather, that no mā put a stumbling blocke, or an occasyon to fall in his brothers waye. For I knowe, and am full certified by the Lorde Jesus, that there is nothyng comen of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudge th it to be comen: to hym is it comen. If thy brother be greued wth thy meate, now we walkest thou not charitably. Destroye not hym wth thy meate, for wher Chyrist dyed. Cause not poure treasure to be euill spokē of. For the kyngdome of God is not meate and drynke: but ryghtwelsnes, ad peace and loye in the holy ghost. For he that in these thynges serueth Chyrist, pleasech God, and is commended of men.

Let vs therfore folowe those thynges which make for peace, and thynges wherewith one maye edifye another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates sake. * All thynges are pure: but it is euill for y man, which eateth wth hurte of conscience. It is good nether to eate fleshe, nether to drinke wyne nether eny thyng, wherby thy brother stōbleth, ether falleth, or is made weak. Hast thou fayth: haue it wth thy selfe before God. happy is he, that condēpnech not hym selfe, in the thyng wherby he alloweth. For he that maketh conscience, is dampned yf he eate: because he eateth not of fayth. For whatsoeuer is not of fayth, that same is synne. *

The. xv. Chapter.

The infirmite and frailties of the weak ought to be borne wth all loue and byndnes, after the ensample of Chyrist.

Whyche are stronge ought to beare the frailties of the, which are weak, and not to stonde in oure awne conlaytes. Let euery man please his neyghbour vnto his welth and edifyng. For Chyrist pleased not him selfe: but as it is wyrtten. * The rebukes of the which rebuked y, fell on me. * Whatsoeuer thynges are wyrtten afore tyme, they are wyrtte for our learninge, that we thow patience and comforte of the scriptures, myght haue hope.

The God of pacyence and consolacion, graunt you, to be lyke mynded one towarde another, after the ensample of Chyrist Jesu: * that ye all agreyng together maye wth one mouth prayse God the father of oure Lorde Jesus Chyrist. Wherefore, receaue ye one another, as Chyrist receaued vs, to the prayse of God. And thys I saye, that Jesus Chyrist was a mynister of the circumcysion for the trouth of God, to conferme the promyses made vnto y fathers: * that the getys myght prayse God for his mercy, as it is it is wyrtten. For this cause I will prayse the amonge the gentyls, and synge vnto thy name. And agayne he sayth: reioyse ye gentyls wyth hys people. And agayne, prayse the Lorde all ye gentyls, and laude hym all ye nacions together. And agayne he sayth: ther shalbe the rote of Iesie, and he that shal ryle to rapyne ouer the gentyls: in hym shal the gentyls trust. The God of hope fyll you wyth all ioye and peace in beleuyng: that ye maye be ryche in hope, thowow the power of the holy ghost.

I my selfe am full certified of you (my brethren) that ye also are full of goodnes, & fylled with all knowledge, willinge to exhorthe one another. Neuerthelesse (brethren) I haue some what more boldly wyrtten vnto you, partly to put you in remembrance, thowow the grace that is geuen me of God, that I shuld be y minister of Iesu Christ amonge the Gentyls, & shuld minystrer the Gospell of God, that the offering of the gentyls myght be acceptable, & sanctified by the holy ghost. I haue therfore wherof I maye reioyse thowow Christ Iesu, in those thynges which pertaine to God. For I dare not speake of any of those thynges, whych Christ hath not wrought by me, to make y Gentyls obediēt, with worde and dede, in myghty sygnes & wonders, by the power of the sperte of God: so that from Ierusalem & the coastes rounde aboute vnto Illyrye, I haue fylled all ciuities with the Gospell of Christ.

So haue I enforced my selfe to preache y Gospell, not where Christ was named, lest I shulde haue bylt on another mannes foundacyon: but as it is wyrtten. To whom he was not spoken of, they shall se: & they that hearde not, shall vnderstande. For this cause I haue bene ofte let. I could not come vnto you: but now, seynge I haue nomore to do in these countrees, and also haue bene desyrous many yeres to come vnto you, whensoever I take my iorney into spayne, I wyll come to you. For I trust to se you in my iorney, and to be brought on my waye thitherwarde by you, after that I haue somwhat enioyed your acquaintance.

Now go I vnto Ierusalem, and minister vnto the saynctes. For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certayne distribucion vpon the poore saynctes, whych are at Ierusalem. It hath pleased them verely, and their detters are they. For yf the Gentyls be made partetakers of thei spiritual thynges, thei dutie is to minystrer vnto them in bodily thynges. When I haue performed this, and haue brought them this frute sealed, I wyll come backe agayne by you into Spayne. I am sure that whē I come vnto you I shall come with aboundaunce of the blessing of the Gospell of Christ.

I beseeche you brethren for oure Lord Iesus Christes sake, ad for the loue of y sperte, that ye helpe me in my busynes with youre prayers to God for me, that I maye be deliuered from the which beleue not in Jewry: & that this my seruice, which I haue to do at Ierusalem, maye be accepted of the saynctes, that I maye come vnto you with ioye, by the will of God, and maye with you be refreshed. The God of peace be wyth you all. Amen.

The xvi. Chapter.

A chapter of salutacions. He warneth them to beware of mens doctrine, and commendeth vnto them certayne goodly men, that were louers ad vnto them in the trouth.

I Commende vnto you Phebe, oure spster (which is a minystrer of the congregacio of Cenchrea) that ye receaue her in Christ, as it becommeth saynctes, and that ye assyst her in what soeuer busynes the needeth of youre ayde. For she hath suckered many, and myne awne selfe also. Grete Prisca and Aquila my helpers in Christ Iesu, whych haue for my lyfe layde downe thei awne neckes. Vnto whom not I onely geue thanks, but also all the congregacions of y Gentyls. Lyke wyse, grete the congregacio that is i their house. Salute my welbeloued Epheneas, which is y fyrst frute of Achaia i Christ. Grete Mary which bestowed moche labour on vs. Salute Andronicus ad Junia my cosyns, and presoners with me also: which are well taken amonge the Apostles, & were in Christ before me. Grete Amplias my beloued in the Lorde. Salute Urban oure helper in Christ, & Stachys my beloued. Salute Appelles approued in Christ. Salute the, which are of Aristobolus household. Salute Herodion my kynsmā. Grete them that be of the household of Narcissus, whych are in the Lorde. Salute Tripheena and Triphosa, whych labour in the Lorde. Salute the beloued Persis, which laboured moche in the Lorde. Salute Rufus chosen in the Lorde, and his mother and myne. Grete A syncretus, Phlegon, Herman, Patrobas, Mercurius, and the brethren which are wyth the. Salute Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his spster, and Olympa, & all the saynctes which are wyth them. Salute one another wyth an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseeche you brethren, marke them which cause diuisiō & gene occasiōs of euyl, contrary to y doctrine, which ye haue learned: & auoyde the. For they y are luche, serue not y Lorde Iesus Christ, but thei awne belies, & with swete and flatterynge wordes, deceaue the bertes of the innocentes. For your obediēce is gone abroade vnto all men. I am glad therfore no dout, of you. But yet I wolde

I wolde haue you wyse vnto that which is good, & to be innocente as concerning euyl. The God of peace shall treade Sata vnder youre fete shortly. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ be with you.

Cymotheus my worke felowe, & Lucius, and Jason, & Solipater my kynsmen, salute you. I Tertius salute you, which wrote this epistle in the Lorde. Capus myne hoste & the hoste of all the congregaciō, saluteth you. Erastus the tresorier of the cytie, saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ be with you all. Amen.

To him that is of power to stablish the you, according to my Gospell, & preaching of Iesus Christ in utterynge of y mystery whych was kept secret sence y worlde beganne, but now is opened by y scriptures of y prophetes at the comādemēt of y euerlastynge God, to sterc vp obediēce to the fayth, published amonge all nacions: To y same God, which alone is wyse, be y honoure and prayse thowow Iesus Christ for euer. This Epistle was sent to the Romayns from Corynthum by Phebe, the that was the minystrer vnto the congregacyon at Cenchrea.

The fyrst Epistle of Saynct Paul the Apostle to the Corinthyans.

The fyrst Chapter.

He commendeth the Corinthyans, exhorteth the to be of one mynde, and rebuketh the dyspcon that w's amonge them. Worlly wysdome is folyshnes before God, yee there is no wysdō but in the deliuyred crose of God.

Paul called an Apostle of Iesus Christ, thowow the will of God, and brother Sostenes. Vnto the congregacyon of God whych is at Corynthum. To them that are sanctified by Christ Iesu, called saynctes, with all that call on the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ in euery place, ether of theirs or of oures.

Grace be vnto you and peace frō God oure father, & from the Lorde Iesus Christ.

I thanke my God allwayes on youre behalfe, for the grace of God, whych is geue you by Iesus Christ, that in all thynges ye are made ryche by hym, in all vterraunce & in all knowlegde, by the which thynges the testimony of Iesus Christ was conformed in you, so y ye are behynde in no gyfte, waytinge for the appearynge of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, which shall also strength you vnto the ende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of the comynge of oure Lorde Iesus Christ. God is faythfull, by whom ye are called vnto the felicityp of hys sonne Iesus Christ oure Lorde. I beseeche you brethren by the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, that ye all speake one thinge, and that there be no dissencion amonge you: but that ye maye be a whole body: of one mynde and of one meaynyng. For it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by them which are of the house of Cloe, that ther is stryfes amonge you. I speake of the same that euery one of you sayeth: I holde of Paul: I holde of Apollo: I holde of Cephas: I holde of Christ. Christ denyed: Was Paul crucified for you: ether were ye baptysed in the name of Paul: I thanke God, that I baptysed none of you, but Crispus and Gaius: lest eny shuld saye, that I had baptysed in myne awne name. I baptysed also the house of Stephanas. Furthermore knowe I not, whether I baptysed eny man or no.

For Christ sent me not to baptysse, but to preache y Gospell, not w wysdome of wordes, lest the crosse of Christ shulde haue bene made of none effecte. For the preaching of y crosse, is to the that perish, folyshnes: but vnto vs which are saued it is the power of God. For it is wyrtte: I will destroye y wysdome of the wyse, and wyll cast awaye the vnderstandynge of the proude. Where is the wyse: Where is the scribe: Where is y disputer of this worlde: hath not God made the wysdome of this worlde folyshnes?

For after that the worlde thowow wysdome knewe not God, in y wysdome of God, it pleased God thowow folyshnes of preachinge, to saue them that beleue. For the Jewes require a sygne, and the Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasiō of folyng, and vnto the Grekes folyshnes: but vnto them whych are called both of the Jewes & Grekes, we preache Christ the power of God and the wysdome of God. For the folyshnes of God, is wyser then men: and the weakenes of God is stronger then men: Brethren, ye se your callinge, how that not many wyse men after the fleshe, not many myghty, not many of hys degre, are called: But God hath chosen the folysh thynges of the worlde, to confounde the wyse. And God hath chosen the weake thynges, of the worlde, to confounde thynges whych are myghty. And vyle thynges of the worlde, & thynges which are despised, hath God chosen, yee and thynges of no reputacyon, for to byynge to nought thynges of reputacyon, that no fleshe shulde reioyce in hys presence. And of hym are ye, in Christ Iesu, whych of God is made vnto vs, wysdome, & right-welnes, and sanctifyinge, and redempcyon.

That accordynge as it is wrytten: he which reioyseth, shalbe reioyce in the Lorde.

The.ij. Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glorious paynted wordes of worldly wysdome, that can edifye, and conuer-te soules vnto Christ, but the playne wordes of the crosse, for they make mencyon of hym and his crosse.

AND I brethren (when I came to you) came not in gloriousnes of wordes, or of wysdome, shewynge vnto you the testimony of God. Neither shewed I my selfe that I knewe any thyng amonge you, saue Jesus Christ, euen the same that was crucified. And I was among you in weaknes, and in feare, and in moche tremblynge. And my wordes and my preachynge was not w entpynge wordes of mānes wysdome: but in the wyng of the sprete and of power, that your fapth shuld not stande in the wysdome of men, but in the power of God.

We speake of wysdome amonge the that are perfecte: not the wysdome of this worlde, nether of the rulers of this worlde (whych go to nought) but we speake of wysdome of God, whych is in secretes & lyeth hyd, whych God ordeyned before the worlde, vnto oure glory: whych wysdome none of the rulers of this worlde knewe. For had they had knowledge, they wold not haue crucified the Lorde of glory. But as it is wrytten. * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not heard, nether haue entred into the hert of man, the thynges whych God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

But God hath opened the vnto vs by his spret. For the sprete searcheth all thynges, ye the bowme of Goddes secretes. For what mā knoweth thynges of a mā: saue the sprete of man which is in him? Ene so the thynges of God knoweth no mā, but the sprete of God.
And we haue not receaued the sprete of the worlde: but the sprete which cometh of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs of God: whych thynges also we speake (not w wordes of mānes wysdome teacheth, but w wordes whych the holy ghost doth teache) makyng spirituall coparisons of spretuall thin-ges. The naturall man perceaueth not the thynges that beloge to the sprete of God. For they are but folpynes vnto him. Nether can he perceaueth, because they are spretuall examined. But he is spretual, discussteth all thynges: yet he him selfe is iudged of no mā.
* For who hath knowe the mynde of the Lord, other who shall informe hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christ.

The.ij. Chapter.

Paul sheweth the futes and authors therof. Christ is the foundacyon of the church, so man ought to reioyce in men, but in God.

AND I coude not speake vnto you brethren as vnto spretuall: but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto to babes in Christ. * I gaue you mylke to drynke, and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, nether are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As longe verely as ther is amonge you enuyng, & strefe & sectes: are ye not carnall, & walke after the manner of men? For whyle one sayth: I holde of Paul, & another: I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thyng is Apollo? Onely ministers are they by whom ye beleued, euen as the Lorde gaue euery mā grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the encrease. So then, nether is he that planteth any thyng, nether he that watrett, but God that geueth the encrease. He that planteth and he that watrett, are one.
Euery man yet shal receaue his rewarde, accordynge to his labour. For we are God-des labourers, ye are Goddes buylde, & ye are Goddes buyldynge: accordynge to the grace of God geue vnto me, as a wyle buylder haue I layde the foundacyon. And another bylt thereon. But let euery man take he-de, how he buyldeth vpon. For another foun-dacyon can no mā laye, then it that is layde, * whych is Jesus Christ. If any man buylde on this foundacyon, golde, syluer, precyous stones, tymber, haye or stoble: euery mannes worke shal appere. For the daye shal declare, whych shalbe shewed in fyre. And the fyre shal trye euery mannes worke, what it is. If any mannes worke that he hath bylt vpon, byde, he shal receaue a rewarde: If any mannes worke burne, he shal suffre losse, but he shalbe safe hym selfe: neuertheles, yet as it were thorowe fyre.

I* knowe ye not, that ye are the temple of God, & how that the sprete of God dwelleth in you? If any man despyle the temple of God, hym shall God destroye. For the temple of God, is holy, whych temple ye are. Let no man deceaue him selfe. If any mā seme wyle to hym selfe amonge you, let hym become a foole in this worlde, & he maye be wyse. For the wysdome of this worlde is folpnes with God. For it is wrytten: * he coppareth the wyle in the craftynes. And agayne: * God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyle, that they be vayne. Therefore, let no man reioyce in men. For all thynges are poures, whether it be Paul, ether Apollo, ether Cephas: whether it be the worlde, ether lyfe, ether deeth, whether they be present thynges, or thynges to come: all are poures: and ye are Christes, and Christ is Goddes.

The.iiij. Chapter.

To the Corinthyans.

No. lxxij.

2 Cor. xix. d.

ET I a mā this wyle esteeme vs, euen as the mynisters of Christ, and stewards of the secretes of God. Furthermore it is required of the stewards, that a mā be founde fapth-full. Wyth me is it but a very small thyng, that I shuld be iudged of you, ether of mans iudgement. No I iudge not myne awne selfe. For I knowe nought by my selfe: yet am I not thereby iustified. It is the Lorde that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge nothinge before the tyme vntill the Lorde come, whych wyl lyghten thynges that are hyd in darchnes, and open the counsels of the hertes. And then shal euery man haue prayse of God.

These thynges (brethren) I haue for an ex-sample described in myne awne person, & in Apollus, for poure sakes, & ye myght learne by vs, & noman counte of hym selfe beyonde the which is aboute wrytten: that one swell not agaynst another for any mans cause. For who preferreth the? What hast thou, that thou hast not receaued? If thou haue recea-ued it, why reioyseth thou, as though thou haddest not receaued it? Nowe ye are full: nowe ye are made ryche: ye raygne as kiges without vs: and I wolde to God ye dyd raygne, that we myght raygne with you.

For me thynketh, that God hath set forth vs (whych are the last Apostles) as it were men appoynted to deeth. For we are a ga-synge stocke vnto the worlde, and to the Angels, and to men. We are fooles for Christes sake, but ye are wyle thorowe Christ. We weake, but ye are stronge. Ye are honorable, but we are despyed. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrst, and are naked, & are boasted with fyltes, and haue no certayne dwellynge place, & labour, * worckynge w oure awne handes. We are reupled, and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it.
We are euill spoken of, & we praye. We are made as it were the fylthines of the worlde, the offscowrynge of all thynges, euen vnto this daye.

I wryte not these thynges, to shame you: but as my beloued sonnes I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousande instructours in Christ: yet haue ye not many fathers. In Christ Iesu I haue begotten you thorow the Gospell. Wherefore, I desyre you to folowe me, as I folowe Christ. For this cause haue I sent vnto you Timothy, which is my de-are sonne, and fapthfull in the Lorde, whych shal put you in remembraunce of my wayes, that I haue in Christ, euen as I teach euery where in all congregacions. Some swell, as though I wold come nomore at you. But I wyl come to you shortly * if God wyl: & wyl know, not the wordes of the which swell but the power: for the kyngdome of God is not in wordes, but in power. What wyl ye?

Shall I come vnto you with a rodde, or els in loue and in the sprete of softnesse?

The. v. Chapter.

After what manner Paul curseth the men, that had contempered sollicitacon wyth hym nother in lawe.

Here goeth a cominen sayinge that ther is fornicacion amonge you, and soch fornicacyon, as is not named amonge the gentyls:
* y one shuld haue his fathers wyle. And ye swell, and haue not rather sorowed, that he which hath done this dede, myght be put from amonge you.
For I verely as absent in body, but present in sprete, haue determined already (as though I were present) concernynge hym that hath done this dede, in the name of oure Lord Jesu Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my sprete w you, with the power of the Lorde Iesus Christ * to deliuer hym vnto Satan, for the destruccyon of the fleshe, that the sprete maye be saued in the daye of the Lorde Iesus.

Youre reioysynge is not good: knowe ye not, that a lytle leuen soweth the whole lope of dowe? Pourge therefore the olde leuen out of the newe dowe, as ye are swete breed. For Christ is oure passouer is offer-red vp for vs. Therefore, let vs kepe holy dawe, not with olde leuen, nether with the le-uen of malicyousnes & wickednes: but with the swete breed of purenes and trouth.

I wote vnto you in a pistle, that ye shuld not copany wyth fornicatours. And I me at not at all of the fornicatours of this worlde, ether of the coueteous, or extorsioners, ether the ydolaters: for then must ye nedes haue gone out of the worlde. But now I dyd wryte vnto you, * that ye company not together, penny that is called a brother, be a fornic-tor, or coueteous, or a worshypper of ymages, ether a raylar, ether a dyonckard, or an extorcionar: wyth hym that is soche, se that ye cate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge the which are without. Do ye not iudge the that are within? Them ye are without, God iudgeth. Put awaye the euill from amonge you.

The. vi. Chapter.

Heretofore them for goynge to lawe together before the heathen, and reioyseth they vnto themselfe.

Are one of you hauynge busynes wyth another, go to lawe under the wycked, & not rather under the sayntes? Do ye not knowe, that the sayntes shal iudge the worlde? If the worlde shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good enough to iudge small trifles? knowe ye not, howe that we shal iudge the angels? howe moche more, maye we iudge thynges that pertaine to the

* Mat. xix. d.

to the lye: If ye haue iudgements of worldely matters, take then whiche are despyed in the congregacyō, and make them iudges: ¶ This I saye to youre same. Is ther utterly no wyse man amonge you: What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe wth another: and that vnder the vnbeleuers?

¶ Nowe therfore, there is utterly a faute amonge you, because ye go to lawe one wyth another. Why rather suffer ye not wronge? why rather suffer ye not youre selues to haue harmername, ye poure selues do wronge, and robbe: & that the brythre. Do ye not knowe, howe the vnygheuous shall not inheret the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. For neither fornicatours, neither worshippers of ymages, neither adoulters, neither weaklynges, neither abusers of the selues wyth mākynde, neither theues, neither couetouse, nether dronkarde, neither cursed speakers, nether pylers, shall inheret the kyngdome of God. And soch were some of you, but ye are washed: but ye are sanctified: but ye are in-stified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, & by the sprete of oure God.

I maye do all thynges, but * all thynges are not profytable. I maye do all thynges: but I will be brought vnder no mā's power, ¶ Meates are ordeyned for the belly, & the belly for meates: but God shall destroye both it and the. Let not the body be applyed vnto fornicacyon, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the body. God hath rayled vp the Lorde, and shall rayle vs vp by hys power.

¶ * Either knowe ye not, ye poure bodies are members of Christ: shall I nowe take the members of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not knowe, that he whiche completh hym selfe wth an harlot, is become one body. * For two (sayth he) shall be one fleshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde is one sprete.

¶ Ifle fornicacion. Euery synne a mā doth, is without the body. But he that is a forni-cator, synneth against his awne body. Either knowe ye not, howe ye poure bodies are the temple of the holy ghost, which dwelleth in you, whom ye haue of God, and howe that ye are not poure awne: For ye are dearly bought.
Therefore glorifye God in youre bodies, ad in youre spretes, which are Goddes.

The viij. Chapter.

Of marriage, bysynne and wyddowheade.

And concerninge the thynges whe-rof ye wrote vnto me: It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Neuerthelesse, to a boy-de whordome let euery mā haue hys wyfe: and let euery woman haue her husbande. Let the husbande geue vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. Lyke wyse also the wyfe vnto the husbande. The wyfe hath not power of her awne body: but the husbande. And lykewyse the husbande hath not power of his awne body: but the wyfe. * Wythdrawe not youre selues one fro another, except it be with consent for a tyme, for to geue youre selues to fa-stynge and prayer. And afterwarde come together agayne, lest Satan tempte you for poure incontynencie.

¶ This I saye of fauoure, and not of commaundement. For I wolde that all men were as I my selfe am: but euery mā hath his proper gyfte of God, one after this māner, another after that. I saye vnto them that be vnmarryed and wyddowes: it is good for the, yf they abyde euē as I do. But and * yf they cannot abstayne, let the marry. For it is better to marry, then to burne.

¶ Vnto the marryed comaunde, not I, but the Lorde: Let not the wyfe be separated from the husband. If she separate her selfe, let her remayne vnmarrried, or be recōlled vnto her husbande agayne. And let not the husbande put awaye his wyfe from hym.

¶ To the remnant speake I, not the Lorde If eny brother haue a wyfe the belueth not, yf the be content to dwell with hym, let hym not put her awaye. And the woman whiche hath to her husbande an infidell, & consent to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym awaye.
For the vnbeleuynge husbande is sanctified by the wyfe, & the vnbeleuynge wyfe is sanctified by the husbande. Or els were your chyldren vnclean: but nowe are they holpe. But
* yf the vnbeleuynge departe, let hym departe.
A brother or a systre is not in subieccion to soche. But God hath called vs in peace. For how knowest thou (o woman) whether thou shalt saue thy husbande or no? Other howe knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wyfe or no: but euen as God hath distributed to euery man.

¶ As the Lorde hath called euery man, so let hym walke: and so ordeyn I in all cōgregacions. If eny man be called beyng circū-cised, let him not adde vncircūcisyon. If eny be called vncircūcised, let hym not be circū-cised. Circūcisyon is nothyng, and vncir-cumcisyon is nothyng: but the keepynge of the commaundementes of God.

¶ Let euery man abyde in the same callinge, wherein he was called. * Art thou called a seruant: care not for it. Neuerthelesse, yf thou mayst be free, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde, beyng a seruant, is the Lordes freman. Lyke wyse he that is called beyng free, is Christes seruant. Ye are dearly bought, & be not ye the seruau-tes of men. Breythren, let euery man wherein he is called, therein abyde wyth God. I As concerninge virgins, I haue no commaun-dement dement of the Lorde: yet geue I counsell, as one that hath obtayned mercye of the Lorde, to be saythfull. I suppose therfore that it is good for the present necessite. For it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe? seke not a wyfe. But ad yf ye marrye a wyfe, thou hast not synned. Lyke wyse, yf a virgin marrye, she hath not synned. Neuerthelesse soche shall haue trouble in their fleshe: but I fauoure you.

¶ This I saye to brythre, the tyme is shorte.
It remaineth, & they whiche haue wyues, be as though they had none: ad they the wepe, be as though they wept not: and they that re-ioyce, be as though they reioyced not: & they that bye, be as though they possessed not: ad they that vse this worlde, be as though they vled it not. For the fastyn of this worlde goeth awaye. * I wolde haue you without care. He the vnmarrried, careth for the thynges that belonge to the Lorde, howe he maye please the Lorde. But he the marryed careth for the thynges that are of the worlde, howe he maye please his wyfe. There is differēce betwene a virgin & a wife. The syngle woman careth for the thynges that are of the Lorde, the maye be holp both in bodye & also in sprete. Agayne: the the marryed, careth for the thynges that pertaine to the worlde, howe she maye please her husbande. ¶ This I saye for youre profet, not to tangle you in a snare: but ye maye fo-lowe it which is honest & comly, & ye maye cleaue vnto the Lorde without separacion.

¶ If eny man thynke that it is vcomly for his virgin, yf he passe the tyme of marriage, and yf lo nede require, let him do what he ly-keth, he synneth not: let them be coupled in marriage. Neuerthelesse, he that purpōseth surely in his herte, hauynge no nede: but hath power ouer his awne will: & hath so decreed in his herte, that he will kepe his virgin, doth well. So then, he the ioyne his virgin in ma-riage doth well. But he that ioyne his virgin in marriage, doth better. * The wyfe is boide to the marriage, as longe as her husbā lyueth. If her husbā dye, she is at libertie to marry with whom she will, onely in the Lorde.
But she is happier, yf she so abyde, after my iudgement. And I thinke verely, that I haue the sprete of God.

The viij. Chapter.

Of rebukynge them that vse libertie to the flaun-der of other, and sheweth howe men ought to be hauynge them towardes soche as be weakere.

And touchynge thynges offered vnto ymages, we are sure that we all haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a mā well: but loue edyfyeth. If eny man thynke that he knoweth eny thing, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to knowe. But yf eny mā loue God, the same is knowen of hym.

As concerninge the eating of those thynges are offered vnto ydols, we are sure, & we ymage is nothing in the worlde ad ther is none other God, but one. And though ther be that are called Goddes, whether in heauē other in erth (as ther be Goddes many, and Lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God, which is the father, of who are all thin-ges, & we for hym, & one Lord Iesus Christ, by who are all thynges, and we by hym. But euery mā hath not knowledge. * Some hauynge cōscience because of ymage, vntill this houre, eate as a thinge offered vnto ymages: & so their cōscience beinge weakere is despyed.
But meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Nether yf we eate, are we the better.
Nether yf we eate not, are we the worse.

¶ But take hede, lest by any meanes this libertie of yours be an occasiō of falling to the ye are weakere. For yf some mā se the which hath knowledge, yf a care of meate offered vnto ymages, shall not the cōscience of him which is weakere, be boldened to eate those thynges, which are offered to ymages. And so thorow thy knowledge shall the weakere brother perishe: the, for whom Christ dyed. Woe ye synne so agaynst the brythre, & woude their weakere cō-science, ye synne agaynst Christ. Wherefore
* yf meate hurt my brother, I will neuer eate fleshe lest I shulde offende my brother.

The ix. Chapter.

Of forbearynge the thinges that the maye do by the lawe. He rebuketh them to raine on forth in the course that they haue become.

And I not an Apostle: am I not fre: * haue I not sene Iesus Christ oure Lorde: Are ye not my worke in the Lorde: If I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the scale of myne Apostle shyppe are ye in the Lorde. Myne answer to them that aske me, is this. Haue we not power to eate and to dryncke: Haue we not power to leade about a woman a systre, as well as other Apostles, and as the brythren of the Lorde, ad Cephas: Either onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to do: Who goeth a warfare eny tyme at hys awne cost: who planteth a vineyarde, and eateth not of the frute therof: Who fedeth a flocke and eateth not of the mylke of the flocke:

¶ Saye I these thynges after the maner of me: Sayth not the lawe the same also: For it is wrytten in the lawe of Moyses. * Thou shalt not mōsell the mouth of the oxe that treadeth oute the corne. Doth God take thought for oxen: Sayth he it not alltogether for oure sakes: For oure sakes no doute this is wrytten: that he whiche careth shulde care in hope & that he whiche thorseth in hope, shulde be partaker of hys hope. * If we loue vnto you spirituall thynges, is it a great thyng ge yf we reape poure bodely thynges: If even as ye were led. Wherefore I declare vnto you, that * no man speaking by the sprete of God, despeth Jesus. Aliso no man can saye that Jesus is the Lorde, but by the holy ghozt. * Ther are diuersities of gyftes, yet but one sprete. And ther are differēces of administracions, and yet but one Lorde. And ther are diuers maners of operacions, and yet but one God. * whych worketh all in all. * The gyfte of the sprete is geuen to euery man, to edifye withall. For to one is geuen thow the sprete the utteraunce of wisdom. To another is geuen the vtraunce of knowledge by the same sprete. To another is geuen sayth, by the same sprete. To another the gyftes of healinge by the same sprete. To another power to do miracles. To another prophesye. To another iudgement to discerne spretes. To another diuers tonges. To another the interpretacion of tonges: But these all worketh euen the selfe same sprete, diuidyng to euery man a severall gyfte, euen as he wyll. †

* For as the body is one, and hath many membris, and all the membris of one body though they be many, yet are but one body, euen so is Christ. For by one sprete are we all baptysed to make one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentyls, whether we be bonde or fre, and haue * all droncke of one sprete. For the body is not one member, but many. If the fote saye: I am not the hande, I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? And yf the eare saye, I am not the eye, I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then the eares? If all were heareng: where were then the smellnges? But nowe hath God set the membris euery one severally in the body as it hath pleased him. If they were all one member: where were the body? Nowe are there many members, yet but one body. And the eye can not saye vnto the hande: I haue no nede of the. Agayne, the heed can not saye to the fete: I haue no nede of you. Yee rather agree at deale those membris of the body which seme to be more feble, are necessary. And vpon those membris of the body which we thinke leest honest, put we more honestye on. And oure vngoodlye partes haue more beautye on. For oure honest membris nede it not. But God hath so disposed the body, & hath geuen the more honoure to that parte whych lacked, lest there shulde be eny strep in the body: but that the membris shuld indifferēly care one for another. And yf one member suffer, all suffer with him. yf one member be had in honour, all membris be glad also.

Ye are the body of Christ, and membris one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregacion, fyrst * Apostles, secondarely prophetes, thyrddly teachers, then them that do myracles: after that, the gyftes of healing, helpers, gouerners, diuersitye of tonges.

Are all Apostles? Are all Prophetes? Are all teachers? Are all doers of miracles? Haue all the gyftes of healing? Do all speake with tonges? Do all interpret? Couet after the best gyftes. And yet shewe I vnto you a more excellent waye.

The xiiij. Chapter.

I though I spake with the tonges of men and of angels, and haue no loue, I am euen as sounding bras, or as a tynklinge cymball. And though I coude prophesy, and vnderstande all secretes, and all knowledge: yee, yf I haue all sayth, & so that I can moue mountayns out of their places, and yet haue no loue, I am nothyng. And though I bestowe all my goodes to fede the poore, and though I geue my body euen that I burned, and yet haue no loue, it profyteth me no thyng.

Loue suffreth longe, and is curteous. Loue enuyeth not. Loue doth not frowardly, swell leth not, dealeth not dishonestly. * seeketh not her awne, is not prouoked to anger, thynketh no euill, reioyseth not in iniquyte: but reioyseth in the trouth, suffreth all thynges, beleueth all thynges, hopeth all thynges, endureth all thynges. Though that prophesynges faile, other tonges cease, or knowledge vanysh awaye, yet loue falleth neuer awaye.

For oure knowledge is vnperfect, and oure prophesyinge is vnperfect. But when yf whych is perfect, is come, then that whych is vnperfect, shall be done awaye. When I was a chylde, I spake as a chylde, I vnderstode as a chylde, I ymagined as a chylde. But as sone as I was a man, I put awaye chyldehnes. Nowe we se in a glasse, eue in a darcke speaking: but then shall we se face to face. Nowe I knowe vnperfectly: but then shall I knowe euen as I am knowen. Nowe abydeyth sayth, hope, and loue, eue these thre: but these of these is loue. †

The xliij. Chapter.

I desire that the gyfte of prophesye, interpreting or preachyng, excellēt the gyfte of tonges and both they bothought to be vbled.

Abour for loue, and couet I spretuall gyftes: but most chesly that ye maye prophesy. For he that speaketh with the tonge, speaketh not vnto men, but vnto God. For no man heareth hym: thoubett in the sprete he speaketh mysteries. But he that prophesieth, speaketh vnto men for their edifyinge, for their exhortacion and for their comforte. He that speaketh with the tonge, profiteth him selfe: * he that prophesieth, edifyeth the congregacion: I wolde that ye all spake with tonges: but rather that ye prophesied. For greater is he yf prophesyeth, then he that speaketh with tonges, except he expounde it: that the congregacion maye haue edifyinge. Now brethren, yf I come vnto you speakyng with tonges: what shall I profet you, excepte I speake to you, other by reuelacion or by knowledge, or by prophesyinge, or by doctryne?

Moreover, when thinges without lyfe geue sounde (whether it be a pype or an harpe) except they make a difference in the soundes, how shall it be knowne? Is pyped or harped? For yf the troupe geue vncertaine voyce, who shall prepare hym selfe to the warre? Euen so lykewyse whi ye speake with tonges, excepte ye speake wordes that haue significacyon, howe shall it be vnderstande what is spokē? For ye shall but speake in the ayer.

Many kyndes of voyces are in the world, and none of them are without significacion. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shall be vnto him that speaketh, an alient: and he that speaketh, shall be an alient vnto me. Eue so ye (for as moche as ye couet spretuall gyftes) seke, that ye maye excell, vnto the edifyinge of the congregacion.

Wherefore, let him yf speaketh with tonge, praye, that he maye interpret also. For if I praye with tōge, my sprete prayeth, but my vnderstanding doth no good. What is it then? I will praye with the sprete, and will praye with the vnderstanding. I will synge with the sprete, and will synge with the vnderstanding. For ells, when thou blest with the sprete, how shall he that occupieth the rowme of the vnclearned, saye Amen, at thy geuyng of thanks, seynge he vnderstandeth not what thou sayest? Thou verely geuest thākes well, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God yf I speake with tonges more then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congregacion, to speake spue wordes with my vnderstanding to yf informacion of other rather then ten thousand wordes with the tonge.

Brethren, be not ye chylde in wytt. Howbeit, as concernyng malitiousnes, be children: but in witte be perfect. In the lawe it is writen * with sondrie tōges, and with sondrye lypes will I speake vnto this people, and yet for all that, will they not heare me, sayth the Lorde. Wherefore, tonges are for a spgne, not to them that beleue: but to them that beleue not. Contrary wyse, prophesyinge serueth not for them that beleue not: but for them which beleue.

If therfore, when all the congregacion is come together, and all speake with tonges, ther come in they that are vnclearned, or they which beleue not: will they not saye, that ye are out of youre wittes? But and yf all prophesye, and ther come in one yf beleueth not, or one vnclearned, he is rebuked of all men, & is iudged of euery man, & so are the secretes of his hert opened, and so falleth he downe on his face, and worshippeth God, & sayth, that God is in you of a trouth.

How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, euery one of you hath a songe, hath a doctrine, hath a tonge, hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretacion. Let all thinges be done vnto edifyinge: If eny man speake with tonge, let it be by two or at the most by thre, and that by course, and let another interpret it. But yf ther be no interpreter, let hym kepe silence in the congregacion, and let hym breake to him selfe and to God.

Let the prophetes speake two, or thre, & let the other iudge. If eny reuelacion be made to another that sytteth by, let the fyrst holde his peace. For ye maye al prophesy one by one, that all maye learne, and that all maye haue comforte. And the spretes of the prophetes are in the power of the Prophetes. For God is not canser of strep: * but of peace, as * (I reath) in all congregacions of the saynctes.

* Let youre women kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto the to speake: but to be vnder obediēce, as sayth the lawe. If they wyll learne eny thyng, let them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for women, to speake in the congregacion. Spronge the worde of God fro you? Ether came it vnto you onely? If eny man thynke him selfe to be a prophet, ether spretuall: let him knowe, what thynges I wyrite vnto you. For they are the commaundementes of the Lorde. But and yf eny man be ignorant, let him be ignorant. Wherefore brethren, couet to prophesy, and forbyd not to speake with tonges. let all thynges be done honestly and in order. † (amonge you)

The xv. Chapter.

The resurrection of the dead.

Brethren, as pertaynyng to the Gospell whych I preached vnto you, whych ye haue also accepted, and in the whych ye contynue, by the which also ye are saued: I do you to wit, after what maner I preached vnto you, yf ye kepe it, except ye haue beleued in bayne.

For fyrst of all I delyuered vnto you, yf which I receaued: how that * Christ dyed for our synnes, agreynge to the scriptures: * And that he was buried, and that he arose agayne yf thirde dape accordyng to the scriptures: & that he was sene * of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of moo then fyue hundred brethren at once: of whych many many remayne vnto this daye, & many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to all the Apostles.

And last of all he was sene of me, as of one that was boine oute of due tyme. For I am the least of the apostles, which am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the congregacyon of God. But by the grace of God, I am what I am. And his grace which is in me, was not in vayne: For I labored moare aboundantly then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me therfore whether it were I or they, so we preach, & so haue ye beleued.

If Christ be preached how that he rose from the dead: how saye some amonge you, that there is no resurreccyon of the dead: If there be no rysynge agayne of the dead then is Christ not risen agayne. If Christ be not risen agayne, then is oure preachyng in vayne, and your fayth is also in vayne. Ye and we are founde false-witnesses of God. For we haue testified of God, how that he raysted vp Christ: whom he raysted not vp, yf it be so that the dead ryl not agayne. For yf the dead ryl not agayne, then is Christ not risen agayne. If it be so that Christ rose not agayne, then is your fayth in vayne, and ye are yet in your synnes. Therfore they whych are fall a slepe in Christ, are perished. If in this lyfe onely we beleue on Christ, then are we of all men most miserable.

But now is Christ risen from the dead, & become the fyrst frutes of them that slepe. For by a man came deeth, and by a man came the resurreccyon of the dead. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Christ, shall all be made alyue, but euerie man in his awne order. The fyrst is Christ, then they that are Christes at his comynge. Then cometh the ende, & when he hath deliuered vp the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath put downe all rule and all auctorite & power. For he must raygne: till he haue put all his enemies vnder his fete. The last enemy that shall be destroyed, is deeth: For he hath put all thynges vnder his fete. But whē he sayth all thynges are put vnder him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which byd put all thynges vnder him, then shall sonne also him selfe be subiect vnto him, & put all thynges vnder him, that God maye be all in all.

Is what do they, whych are baptised ouer the dead yf the dead ryl not at all? Why are they then baptised ouer them? Yee and why stode we all waye then in inoperacyon? By oure reioysynge which I haue in Christ Iesu oure Lord, I dye daily. That I haue fought with beastes at Ephesus after the maner of men, what auantaget it me, yf the dead ryl not agayne: Let vs eate and dryncke, for to morowe we shall dye. Be not ye deceaued: euell wordes corrupte good maners. Awake truly out of slepe, and synne not. For some haue not knowledge of God: I speake this to your shame.

But some man will saye: howe aryl the dead: what bodye shall they come? Thou fool, & yf which thou sowest, is not quickened, except it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that body that shall be: but bare corne as of wheet, or of some other) but God geueth it a body at his pleasure, to euerie seed his awne body.

All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe: but ther is one maner of fleshe of men, another maner of fleshe of beastes, another of fpyshes, & another of byrdes. Ther are also celestiaall bodyes, & ther are bodyes terrestriall. But the glory of the celestiaall is one, & the glory of the terrestriall is another. Ther is one maner glory of the sonne, and another glory of the moone, & another glory of the steres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurreccyon of the dead. It is sowne in corrupcion, it rylth agayne in incorrupcion. It is sowne in dishonour, it rylth agayne in honour. It is sowne in weaknes, it rylth agayne in power. It is sowne a naturall body, it rylth agayne a spirituall body. Ther is a naturall body, & ther is a spirituall body: as it is also wrytten: the fyrst man Adam was made a lyuinge soule, and the last Adam was made a quickening sprete. Howbeit, this is not fyrst which is spirituall: but that which is naturall, and then this which is spirituall. The fyrst man is of the erth, erthy: the seconde man is the Lord fro heauen. (beauty) As is the erthy, soche are they that are erthy. And as is the heuenly, soche are they that are heuenly. And as we haue borne the ymage of the erthy, so shall we beare the ymage of the heuenly.

This saye I brethren: yf fleshe & bloud cannot inheret the kyngdome of God. Nether doth corrupcion inheret incorrupcion. Beholde, I shewe you a mystery. We shall not all slepe: but we shall all be chaunged, and that in a moment, in the twinklynge of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the dead shall ryl incorruptible, & we shall be chaunged. For this corruptible must put on incorrupcion: and this mortall must put on immortallite.

When this corruptible hath put on incorruptio, and this mortall hath put on immortallite: then shall be brought to passe the sayng that is wrytten: Deeth is swallowed vp in victory: & deeth where is thy spynge? Hell where is thy victory? The spynge of deeth is synne: and the strength of synne is the lawe. But thanks be vnto God which hath geuen vs a victory, thowowe oure Lord Iesus Christ

To the Corinthyans.

1 Co. 1. 1.

Christ. Therfore my deare brethren, be ye stedfast and vnmouable, alwayes ryche in the worke of the Lord, for as moch as ye knowe, how yf poure labour, is not in vayne in the Lord.

The xviij Chapter.

Wherby they in remembrance of the gatheringe for the poore Christen at Jerusalem, conclude this Epistle with the salutarye of cetytarye louynge brethren.

Concernyng the gatheringe for the saintes, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so do ye. Upon some Saboth daye let euery one of you put a syde at home, and laye vp whatsoeuer is mete, that there be no gatheringes when I come. When I am come, whomsoeuer ye shall allowe by your letters, them wyll I sende, to brynge your liberalyte vnto Jerusalem. And yf it be mete that I go also, they shall go with me. I wyll come vnto you whan I go ouer to Macedonia. For I wyll go thowowe out Macedonia. With you parauenture I wyll abyde a whyle: or els tary all wynter, that ye maye brynge me on my waye, whither soeuer I go.

I wyll not se you now in my passage: but I trust to abyde a whyle with you, yf God shall suffre me. I wyll tary at Ephesus, vntill the fyftieth daye. For a greate doze and a frutefull is opened vnto me: and ther are many aduersaries. If Timothy come, se that he be with out feare with you. For he worketh the worke of the Lord, as I do: let no man therfore despyse him, but conuaye hym forth in peace, that he maye come vnto me. For I loke for him with the brethren.

To speake of brother Apollos (a certeyne you, that) I greatly despyred him, to come vnto you with the brethren, but his mynde was not at all to come at this tyme. Howbeit, he wyll come, when he shall haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stonde fast in the fayth, quyte you lyke men, be stronge. Let all your busynes be done with loue.

Brethren, ye knowe the house of Stephanas & of Fortunatus & Achaicus: how that they are the fyrst frutes of Achaia, and that they haue apoynted them selues to minister vnto the saintes: I beseeche you that ye be obedynt vnto soche, and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glad of the comynge of Stephanas & Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that whych was lackynge vnto me on your parte they haue supplied. For they haue comforted my sprete & yours. Loke therfore yf ye knowe them that are soche.

The congregacions of Asia salute you Aquila and Priscilla salute you moch in the Lord, and so doeth the congregacyon that is in their house. (with whom also I am labored.) All the brethren grete you & grete ye one another with an holy kysse. The salutacyon of me Paul with myne awne hade. Ifeny man loue not the Lord Iesus Christ, the same be Anathema maranatha. The grace of our Lord Iesus Christ be with you: My loue be with you all in Christ Iesu. Amen.

The fyrst epistle to the Corinthyans, was sent from Philippos, by Stephanas and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Timothy.

The seconde epistle of Saynet Paul the Apostle to the Corinthyans.

The fyrste Chapter.

The consolacyon of God in trouble. The luge of Paul towards the Corinthyans, & by a cecile that became not vnto them.

Paul an apostle of Iesu Christ by the wyl of God, and brother Timothy.

Vnto the congregacyon of God, which is at Corinthum, with all the saynetes whych are in all Achaia Grace be wyth you & peace from God oure father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ.

Blessed be God (the father of oure Lord Iesus Christ) which is the father of mercy, & the God of all comforte, whych comforteth vs in all oure tribulacyon, in so moche that we are hable to comforte them whych are in any maner of trouble, with the same comforte, wherwith we oure selues are comforted of God. For as the afflictions of Christ are plenteous in vs, euen so is oure consolacyon plenteous by Christ.

Whether we be troubled for your consolacyon and health, (whether we be comforted, it is for your comforte & salutacyon) which salutacyon is wrought by her power in that ye suffer the same afflictions, which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted for your consolacyon and salutacyon: our hope also is stedfast for you: in as moche as we know, how that as ye are partakers of the afflictions, so shall ye be partakers also of the consolacyon.

Brethren. I wolde not haue you ignorant of oure trouble, which happened vnto vs in Asia. For we were greued out of measure passing strength, so greatly that we despayred euen of lyfe. Also we receaued an answer of deeth in oure selues, that we shuld not put oure trust in oure selues: but in God, whych rayseth the dead to lyfe, and whych deliuered vs from so great a deeth: and doth deliuer

The.ij. Chapter.

¶ The twelfth the cause of hys absence & exhorte teth them to forgiue the man that was fallen, & to receaue hym agayne wth loue.

21 But I determined this in my selfe, that I would not come agayne to you in heynnes. For yf I make you sorre, who is it I shuld make me glad, but the same which is made sorre by me? And I wrote thys same vnto you, lest yf I came vnto you, I shuld take heynnes ^{of them} (vpon heynnes) of them, of whom I ought to reioyce. Thys confidence haue I towards you all, that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For out of great affliction and anguysh of heart, I wrote vnto you with many teares: not that ye shulde be made sorre, but that ye myght perceaue the loue, whych I haue, most specially vnto you.

If eny man hath caused sorow, the same hath not made me sorow, but partely: lest I shulde greue you all. * It is sufficient vnto the same man, that he was rebuked of many. So that now contrary wyse, ye ought rather to forgiue him, and comforte him: lest that same person should be swallowed vnder ouer much heynenes. Wherefore, I exhorthe you, that loue maye haue strength ouer him. For this cause verely dyd I wyte, that I myght knowe the proofe of you, whether ye shulde be obedient in all thynges. To whom ye forgiue eny thyng, I forgiue also. For yf I forgaue eny thyng, to whom I forgaue it, for youre sakes forgaue I it, in the syght of Christ, lest Satan shuld preuent vs. For his thoughtes are not vnknown vnto vs. ¶

I when I was come to Troada for Chy-stes Gospelles sake (and a doze was opened vnto me of the Lord) I had no rest in my spete, because I founde not Titus my brother: but toke my leaue of them, and went awaye into Macedonia. Thankes be vnto God, which alwayes geueth vs the victorie in Christ, and openeth the sauer of his knowledge by vs in euery place. For we are vnto God the swete sauoure of Christ, amonge them that are saued, and amōge them which peryshe. * To the one parte are we the sauour of deeth vnto deeth. And vnto þ other part are we þ sauour of lyfe vnto lyfe. And who is mete vnto these thinges? For we are not as the most part are, which choppe and chaunge with the worde of God: but euē out of purenes, and by the power of God, in the syght of God, so speake we in Christ. I

¶ We prayeth the preachynge of the Gospell as cion from you: Ye are oure stle of Christ, mynistred by vs and wyrtten, not with ynke: but with the spere of the lyuynge God * not in tables of ston, but in

* fleschy tables of the hert.

oure selues to thynke eny thyng, as of our selues: but pf we be able vnto any thinge *

To the Corinthyans, Ho. lxxij.

If the ministracyon of death thowow the letters fygured in stones, was gloriows, so y the chyldre of Israel coulde not beholde the face of Moyses, for the glory of his countenaunce (whych glory is done a waye) why shall not the ministracyon of the sprete be moch more gloryous: For yf the ministringe of condemnacyn be gloryous: moch more both the ministracyon of ryghtewesnes excede in glory. ¶ For no dout that whych was there glorified, is not once glorified in respecte of this excedynge glory. For yf that which is destroyed was gloryous, moch more that which remaineth, is gloryous.

Saying then that we haue such trust, we vse great boldnes, & do not as Moyses, which * Ex. xxxiii. b # put a vayle ouer his face, that the chyldren of Israel shuld not se for what purpose that te of the Lord is, there is libertie. But we all beholde in a myrroure the glorie of y^e Lorde with his face open, and are chaunged vnto y^e same similitude, from glorie to glorie, euen as of the sprete of the Lorde.

The. iii. Chapter.

A true preacher is diligent, he corrupteth not the word of God, but seeketh the honour of Christ; yet though it be wpt, the parrell of hrs lyfe.

Therfore, seying that we haue soch an offyce, euen as God hath had mercy on vs, we go not out of hynde: but haue cast from vs the clothes of vnhonestye, and walke not in craftyness, nether handycowe the worde of God disceatfully, but open the trueth, & reporte oure selues to euery mannes conscience in y^e lyght of God. ¶ If oure Gospell be yet hyd, it is hyd amonge them that are lost, in whom * the God of this world + hath blynded the myndes of the which beleeue not, lest the lyght of the gospell of the glory of Christ whych is y^e ymage of God) shulde shyne vnto them.

23 ✠ For we preache not our selues, but Christ Iesus to be the Lorde, and oure selues poure seruauntes, for Iesus sake. For it is God, that * commaunded the lyght to shyne out of darcknes, which hath * shyned in oure bertes, for to geue the lyght of the knowledge of the glozy of God, in the face of Iesus Christ.

But we haue this treasure in * erthen vessels, that the excellēcy of ꝑ power myght be Gods, and not oures. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without shyft.

We are in pouertie: but not vtterly without somwhat. We suffre persecution: but are not forsaken therein. We are cast downe: neuer-thelesse we perseuere not. We all wayes * * Gal. vi. b beare aboute in the bodye, the bringe of the Lorde Iesus, that the lyfe of Iesu myght also appeare in oure bodye. K

* If or we which lyue, are alwayes deli-uered vnto death for Iesus sake, that the lyfe also of Iesu myght appere in oure mortall fleshe. So then, death worketh in vs, but lyfe in you. ¶ But seynge that we haue the same spere of fapth: accordynge as it is wytten: * I beleued, and therfore haue I spoken.) We also beleue, and therfore speake If or we knowe, that he which rayled vp the Lorde Iesus, shall raise vp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, & shall sett vs with you.
¶ For all thynges do I for your sakes * that the plenteous grace by thanches geuen of many, maye rebounde to the prayse of God.

Wherefore, we are not wearied. But though oure vtwarde mā peryshe, yet the inward man is renewed daye by daye. * For oure tribulacion which is momentary and lyght. prepareth an exceeding & an eternall wayght of glorie vnto vs, while we loke not on the thynges which are sene, but on the thynges whych are not sene. For the thynges whych are sene, are temporall: but thynges whych are not sene, are eternall. ¶

The. v. Chapter.

The reward for suffering trouble.

Let us knowe that yf oure *erthy mācion of this dwel-lyng were destroyed, we hauen a byldinge of God, an habitacyon not made with hādes, but eternall in heauen.
 For * therfore syghe we, desyryng to be clothed with oure mācion which is from heauen: so yet, yf that we be founde clothed, & not naked. For we that are in this
 * tabernacle, syghe & are greued because we wold not be vnclothed, but woulde be * clothed vpon, that mortallite myght be swalo-wed vp of lyfe. he y^e hath ordeyned vs for this thyng, is God: * which verysame hath genen vnto vs the earnest of the sperte.

Therefore, we are alwaye of good cheare, and knowe, that as longe as we are at home in the body, we are absent frō God. For we walke in fayth, not after outward apparance. Neuerthelesse, we are of good comfort, and had leuer to be absent from the body, and to be present with God. Wherefore, whether we be at home or from home, we endeuoure oure selues, to please him. * For we must all appeare before the iudgement seate of Christ, that euery man maye receaue the workes of hys body accordyng to that he hath hath done, whether it be good or bad.

¶ Serpge then that we knowe, how þe Lord is to be feared, we fare saye wyth men. For we are knowen well ynough vnto God. I trust also þe we are knowen in youre consciences.

For we praye not oure selues agayne vnto you, but geue you an occasyon to reioyce of vs, that ye maye haue some what against them, whych reioyce in the face, and not in the herte. For yf we be to feruent, to God are we to feruent. ¶ If we kepe measure, for youre cause kepe we measure. For the loue of Christ constraineth vs, because we thus iudge, that yf one dyed for all, then were all deed, and * he dyed for all: that they whych lyue, shuld not hence forth lyue vnto them selues, but vnto him whych dyed for them, & rose agayne. ¶

¶ Therfore, hence forth knowe we no man after the fleshe. In so moch though we haue knowen Christ after the fleshe, now yet hce forth knowe we hi so no moare. Therfore yf eny man be in Christ, he is a newe creature. Olde thynges are passed awaye, beholde, all thynges are become * new. Neuerthelesse, all thynges are of God, whych hath receyved vs vnto him selfe by Jesus Christ, and hath geuen to vs the offyce to preache the attouement. For * God was in Christ, and made agrement betwene the worlde and him selfe, & imputed not their synnes vnto them, and hath comytted to vs the preachynge of the attouement. Now then are we messengers in the rowme of Christ euen as though God dyd beseeche you thoro vs. So praye we you in Christes stede, that ye be reconcyled vnto God: for * he made him to * be synne for vs, which knewe no synne, that we by his meanes shulde be þe ryghtewesnes, which befoze God is alowed.

The. vi. Chapter.

¶ An exhortacion to receaue the word of God with thankfulness and amendment of lyfe. The diligence of Paul in the Gospell, & how he warneth the to exche the company of the heathen.

¶ Also as helpers exhort you þe ye receaue not the grace of God in vayne. For he sayth: * I haue heard the in a tyme accepted: and in the daye of saluacion, haue I suckered the. Beholde, now is that accepted tyme: beholde, now is that daye of saluacion. Let vs geue no occasyon of euill, that in oure offyce be foude no faute: but in all thynges let vs behaue oure selues * as the minystrers of God.

¶ In moch patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in angusties, in stryppes, in prisonmentes, in stryppes: in laboures, in watchynge, in fastynge, in purenes, in knowledge, in longe suffring, in kynndenes, in the holy ghost, in loue vnsayned, in the worde of tru-eth, in the power of God, by the armour of ryghtewesnes of the ryght hande & on þe lyfte be honour and dishonour: be euill repozte & good repozte: as desceauers, and yet true, as vnkowen, and yet knowen: as dyng, and beholde, we lyue: as chastened, and not kylled: as sorowful, & yet alwaye merie: as pooze, and yet make many ryche: as hauinge nothyng, & yet posselving all thynges. ¶

¶ O ye Corinthyans, oure mouth is open vnto you. Dure hert is made large: ye are in no strayte in vs, but are in a strayte in youre awne bowelles: I promyse vnto you lyke reward, as vnto chylde. Set your selues at large, and * beare not ye the yoke w þe vnbeleuers. For what fellyship hath ryghtewesnes with vnyghtewesnes? ¶ What company hath lyght w darknes? ¶ What conorde hath Christ with Beliall? ¶ Either what parte hath he that belueth, with an infidell? ¶ How agreeth the temple of God with Images for * ye are the temple of the lyuinge God, as sayde God: * I wyll dwell amonge them, & walke amonge them, and wyll be their God: & they shal be my people. ¶ Therfore * come out from amonge them, and separate youre selues from them (sayth þe Lord) and touche none vncleane thyng: so wyll I receaue you, and wyll be a father vnto you, and ye shal be my sonnes & daughters, sayth the Lord almighty.

The. vii. Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth them to receaue the promyses of God thankfully. The Corinthyans are commended for theyr obedience & loue towardes Paul.

¶ Serpge that we haue soche promyses (dearely beloued) lett vs cleanse oure selues fro all filthynes of þe fleshe and spete, and growe vnto full holynes wyth the feare of God. Understad vs we haue hurte no man: we haue corrupte no man: we haue defrauded no mā. I speake not this to condemne you: for I haue shewed you befoze, that ye are in oure hertes to dye & lyue with you: I am very bolde ouer you, I reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled with comforte, and am excedyng ioyous in all oure tribulacion. For when we were come into Macedonia * oure fleshe had no rest, but we were troubled on every syde. Outwarde was fyghtyng, inward was feare. Neuerthelesse * God that conforteth the abiecte, comforted vs by the comynge of Titus.

¶ And not by his comynge onely: but also by the consolacion which we receaued of you: when he tolde vs youre desyre, youre feruent mynde for me: so that I reioyced the more. For though I made you sorow with a letter, I repent not: though I dyd repent. For I perceaue, that the same epistle made you you sorow, though it were but for a ceason. But I nowe reioyce, not that ye were sorow, but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly: so þe in nothyng ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion, not to be repented of, contrary wyse, * worldly sorowe causeth deeth.

¶ For beholde, what diligence this godly sorowe that ye toke, hath wrought in you: yee it caused you to cleare your selues. It caused indignacion, it caused feare, it caused desire. it caused punishment. For in all thynges ye haue shewed your selues, that ye were cleare in that matter. ¶ Therfore, though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for his cause that had done the hurt, nether for his cause that was hurte: but þe youre good mynde for vs might appeare amonge you in the syght of God.

¶ Therfore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yee, and excedingly the more ioyed we, for the ioye that Titus had: because his spete was refreshed of you all. I am therfore not nowe ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges which we spake vnto you are true, euen so, oure boastynge that I made vnto Titus is founde true. And his inward affection is founde abundant towardes you, whā he remembreth the obedience of you all, howe he feare & tremblinge ye receaued hym. I reioyce þe I maye be bolde ouer you in all thynges.

The. viii. Chapter.

¶ He putteth them in remembrance to helpe the pooze sapientes at Jerusalem, accordynge as the Macedonians dyd.

¶ Certifye you brethren, of the grace of God which was geuen in þe congregacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundaunce of theyr reioysynge is, that they are tryed with moche tribulacion. And though they were excedyng pooze, yet haue they geuen excedyng ryche, and that in singlenesse. For to theyr powers, I beare them recorde, yee, & beyode theyr power, they were wyllynge of theyr awne accorde, and prayed vs with great instance, þe we wolde receaue their benefyte, and suffre the to be partetakers with other * in minystryng to the sapientes. And thys they dyd, not as we looked for: but gaue their awne selues fyrst to the Lord, and after vnto vs by the wyll of God: so that we coude not but desyre Titus, to accomplyshe the same beniuolence amonge you also, euen as he had begonne.

niuolence also. This saye I, not commaundyng: but because offeruentnes, I do alowe the vnsaynednesse of youre loue towardes other men. For ye knowe the liberalyte of oure Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was * ryche, yet for youre sakes he became pooze that ye, thoro we hys pouertye, myght be made ryche.

¶ And I geue counsell hereto. For thys is expedient for you, which beganne, not to do onely, but also to wyll a ycare ago. Nowe therfore, perfozme the thyng which ye beganne to do: that as there was in you a redynes to will, euen so, ye maye perfozme the dede of that which ye haue. For * yf there be fyrst a wyllynge mynde, it is accepted accordynge to that a man hath, and not accordynge to that he hath not.

¶ It is not my mynde that other be sett at ease, and ye brought into combraunce: but that ther be egallnes nowe at this tyme: and that your aboundaunce maye sucke their lacke: and that theyr aboundaunce maye supply youre lacke: that there maye be equalitye, & greynge to that which is wyrtten: * he that had moche, had not the more aboundaunce: & he that had a litle, had neuer the lesse. Chan-kes be vnto God, which put the same good mynde for you in the herte of Titus, which accepted the requeste: yee, rather he was so well wyllinge, that of his awne accorde, he came vnto you.

¶ We haue sente with hym the brother, whose laude is in the gospell thoroout all the congregacions: and not that onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions to be a felowe with vs in oure iozney, concerning this beniuolence that is ministred by vs vnto the prayse of the same Lord, and to sterc vp youre prompt mynde.

¶ For thys we excheue, that eny mā shuld rebuke vs in this plenteous distrebyucion, that is ministred by vs * (to þe glory of the Lord) and make prouysyon for honest thynges: not onely in the syght of þe Lord: but also in the syght of men.

¶ We haue sent w them a brother of oures, whom we haue ofte tymes proued dilygent in many thynges: but nowe moch more diligent. ¶ The greāt confidence which I haue in you, hath caused me thys to do: partelye for Titus sake which is my felowe and helper as concernyng you: partelye because of other which are our brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, & the glory of Christ. ¶ Therfore, shewe ye vnto them the proffe of youre loue, and of oure * boastynge of you in the syght of the congregacions.

Neuerthelesse, yet haue I sent these brethren, lest our boasting which I make of you shulde be in vayne, in this behalfe, that ye (as I haue sayde) maye prepare your selues: lest paraenture yf they of Macedonia come with me, and finde you vnprepared, we (I wyll not saye ye) shulde be ashamed in this matter of boasting.

Wherefore, I thought it necessarye to exhorthe the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, and to prepare youre good blessinge promysed afore, that it myght be ready, so yf it be a blessinge, and not a defraudinge. This yet I saye: he which soweth lytell, shall reape lytell: & he yf soweth (in geuyng) largelye and frelye, shall reape plenteouslye: And let euery man do, accordyng as he hath purposed in his herte, not groundyngly, or of necessitye. * For God loueth a chearfull geuer.

God is able to make you riche in all grace that ye in all thynges haupnge sufficient vnto the vtmost, maye be riche vnto all manner of good workes, as it is wyrtten: * He hath sparred abroade, and hath geuen to the poore, his ryghtewesnesse remaineth for euer. For the offyce of this minystracion, not onely supplyeth the nede of the sayntes: but also is aboundant therein, that for this laudable minystringe, thankes might be geuen to God of many, which prayse God for the obedience of youre consentynge to the Gospel of Christ, and for youre synghenesse in distybutyng to them, and to all men, and in theyr prayers for you, which lōge after you, for the aboundant grace of God in you. Thankes be vnto God, for his vnspcakable gyfte.

Chapter. x.

He toucheth the false Apostles, and defendeth his auctorite and callinge.

I Paul my selfe beseeche you by y^e mekenesse & softnesse of Christ, which whā I am present amonge you, am of no reputacyon: but am bolde towarde you beyng absent. I beseeche you, yf I nede not to be bolde whā I am presente, with that same boldnesse, wherewith I am supposed to haue bene bolde, agaynst some, which repute vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in y^e fleshe, yet we do not warre fleschly. * For y^e weapens of our warefare are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghty in God, to cast downe stronge holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe counsels and euery hye thyng that exalteth it selfe agaynst the knowledge of God, and byynge into captiuite all ymaginaciō to the obedience of Christ, & are ready to take vengeance on all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Loke ye on thynges after the vtter apperaunce.

If any man trust in hym selfe, that he is Christes, lett hym consider this agayne of him selfe, that as he is Christes, euen so, are we Christes. For though I boast my selfe somwhat more of our auctorite (which the Lorde hath geuen vs) to edifye, and not to destroye you) it shall not be to my shame: lest I shulde seme as though I wente aboute to make you afraide with letters. For y^e epistles (sayth he) are soze, and stronge: but his bodelye presence is weake, and his speache rude. Lett hym that is soche thyne on this wyle: that as we are in wordes by letters, when we are absent, soche are we in dedes, when we are present.

For we canot fynde in our hertes to make our selues of the number of them, or to compare our selues to them, which prayse the selues. Neuerthelesse, whyle they measure them selues wth them selues, and compare the selues with them selues, they vnderstande nought. But we will not reioyce aboute measure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, which God hath distributed vnto vs, a measure to reache enen vnto you. For we stretch not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached nott vnto you. For euen to you also haue we come wth the gospel of Christ, and we boast not our selues out of measure of other mennes labours: yee, and we hope it wyll come to passe, yf when your faith is increased amonge you, we shalbe magnified accordyng to our measure, more largelye, and that I shall preache the Gospel in those regions which are beyode you: & not to boast of those thynges, which by another mans measure are prepared already. But lett him that reioysseth, reioyse in the Lorde. For he yf prapseth hym selfe, is not allowed but he whom the Lorde prapseth.

Chapter. xi.

Would to God, ye could haue suffered me a lytell in my folysynes: yee, ye do also forbeare me. For I am gealous ouer you wth godly gelousye: for I haue coupled you to one man, that ye shulde make your selues a chaste virgin vnto Christ, to Christ. But I feare lest it come to passe yf as the serpent begyled Eue thozowe his subteltye, euen so your wittes shulde be corrupted fro the synghenes that ye had toward Christ. For yf he y^e cometh preache another Iesus then hym whō we preached: or yf ye receaue another sprete then y^e which ye haue receaue, ye might right well haue bene confēt. For I suppose that I was not beynde the chefe Apostles. But though I be rude in speakinge, yet I am not so in knowledge. Howbeit amonge you, we haue bene well knowē to y^e vtmost what we are in all thynges. Wd I therein synne, because I submytted my selfe, that ye might be exalted: & because I preached to you y^e Gospel of God fre: I robbed other congregacyōs, & toke wages of them, to do you seruyce. And when I was present wth you, & had nede: I was chargeable to no man: for y^e which was lackyng vnto me, the brethren which came fro Macedonia, supplied, and in all thynges I kept my selfe so that I shuld not be chargeable to any man, and so wyll I kepe my selfe.

If the truth of Christ be in me, this reioysyng shall not be taken from me in the regions of Achaia. Wherefore? Because I loue y^e painot? God knoweth. Neuertheles, what I do, that wyll I do, to cut awaye occasyon from the which desyre occasyon: yf they might be founde lyke vnto vs, in that wherin they reioyce. For such fals apostles are disceatfull workers, and falsly on them selues lyke vnto the apostles of Christ. And no maruayle: for Satan hym selfe is chaunged into the falsyō of an angell of light. Therefore it is no great thyng though his mynisters falsly on them selues, as though they were the ministers of ryghtewesnes: whose ende shalbe accordyng to theyr dedes.

I saye agayne, lest eny man thyne that I am folyshe: or els eue now take ye me as a foole, that I also maye boast my selfe a lytell. That I speake, I speake not after the Lorde, but as it were folyschly, in this matter of boasting. Seynge that many reioyce after the fleshe, I wyll reioyce also. For ye suffre folles gladly, seynge ye youre selues are wyle. For ye suffre yf a mā byynge you in to bondage, yf a man deuoure, yf a mā take yf a mā exalte him selfe, yf a man synye you on the face. I speake as concernyng rebuke, as though we had bene weake, & (in this behalfe.) Howbeit, wherinsoeuer eny man dare be bolde (I speake folyschly) I dare be bolde also. * They are Ebryes, euen so am I. They are Israelites, eue so am I. They are y^e seede of Abraham, euen so am I. They are y^e mynisters of Christ (I speake as a foole) I am more. In labours more aboundate: In stryppes aboute measure: In prison more plenteouslye.

In death ofte. * Of the Jewes spue tymes receaue I euery tyme. xl. stryppes saue one. * Thysle was I beaten wth rodde, * I was once stoned, * I suffered thysle synnyng wycke. Nyght and daye haue I bene in the deepe see. In ioynying often: i parcels of waters: in parcels of robbers: in leopardyes of myne a wone nacyon: in leopardyes among y^e bethen: * in parcels in y^e cite: in parcels in wilderness: in parcels in the see: in parcels amonge false brethren: in laboure & trauayle: in watchynges often: in colde and nakednes: helpe the thynges which outwardly happen vnto me. I am combed daylye, and do care for all congregacyōs. * Who is weake, and I am not weake: who is offended, & I burne not: If I must nedes boast, I wyll boast of the thynges that concerne myne infirmities.

Chapter. xii.

Paul is taken vp into the thyrde heauen, and heareth wordes not to be spoken.

The God & father of our Lorde Iesus Christ, which is blessed for euer more knoweth that I lye not.

In the cytie of Damascos, the gouernour of y^e people vnder king Aretas, layde watch in the cytie of the Damascens, and wold haue caught me: and at a windowe was I let downe in a basket thozowe the wall, and so escaped I his handes. Doubtles, it is not expedient for me to boast, I wyll come to vlyōs and reuelacions of the Lorde, I knowe a mā in Christ aboue fourtene yeres ago (whyther he were in the body, I cannot tell, or whyther he were out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe that he was take vp into the thyrde heauen. And I knowe the same man (whyther in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe yf he was taken vp into Paradyse, and hearde secret wordes, which no man can vtter. Of this man wyll I boast, but of my selfe wyll I not boast, except it be of myne infirmityes. For though I wolde boast, I shall not be a foole: for I wolde saye the trueth. Neuerthelesse, I spare you: lest any man shulde thinke of me, aboue that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

And lest I shulde be exalted out of measure thozowe y^e excellēcy of the reuelacions: there was gyuen vnto me vnquyetnes thozowe the fleshe, euen the messenger of Satā to buffet me, because I shulde not be exalted out of measure. For this thyng besought I the Lorde thysle, that it might departe from me. And he sayde vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strength is made perfect thozow weaknes. Alcy gladly therfore wyll I reioyce of my weaknes, yf strength of Christ maye dwell in me. Therefore, haue I delectaciō in infirmityes, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecutions, in anguishes for Christes sake. For when I am weak, then am I strong.

I am become a fool in boasting my selfe.
Ye haue compelled me: for I ought to haue bene commended of you. * For in notbyng was I inferior vnto these apostles, though I be nothing, yet I toke of an apostle were wrought amonge you with all pacifce, and signes and wonders, and myghty dedes. For what is it, wherein ye were inferiours vnto other congregacions, except it be herin, that I was not chargeable vnto you. For geue me thys wronge. Beholde, nowe the thyrd tyme I am ready to come vnto you: and yet wyl I not be chargeable vnto you. For I seke not poures, but you. For the chyldren ought not to laye vpon the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the chyldren.

I wyl very gladly bestowe, and wyl be bestowed for poure soules, though the more I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayn. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you: nevertheles, when I was crafty, I toke you with gyle. Dyd I wyl you by any of them, whom I sent vnto you? I desyred Titus, & with hym I sent a brother. Dyd Titus de-fraude you of any thyng? walked we not in one spete? Walked we not in lyke steppes?

Agayne, thynke you I we excuse our selues vnto you: we spake in Christ in the sight of of God: but we do all thinges (dearly beloued) for poure edifyinge. For I feare, lest it come to passe, yf I come, I shall not fynde you soch as I wolde: & yf I shalbe foude vnto you soch as ye wolde not, I feare, lest ther be amonge you debates, enuynges, wrath, stryfes, bakbytynge, whyspyringes, swellynge, & sedicions: and that when I come agayne, God byynge me lowe amonge you, & I be constreyned to bewayle many of them which haue sinned allready, & haue not repent of the vnclennes: and fornicacio and wantannes which they haue committed.

The xliij. Chapter.

He prompteth to come vnto them and exhorteth them so to orde them selues that ye maye fynde them perfecte, and of one mynde.

owe come I the thyrd tyme vnto you: * in the mouth of two or thre witnesses shal every worde be stablyshed. I tolde you before, & tell you before: and as I sayd when I was present with you the seconde tyme, so wrote I nowe beyng absent, to the which in tyme past haue sinned, & to all other: that yf I come agayne, I wyl not spare, seynge that ye seke experie of Christ: which speabeth in me, which amonge you is not weak but is myghty in you. For though he was crucified in weaknes, yet liueth he thowowe the power of God. And we (no doute) are weake in hym: but we shall lyue with hym: by the myght of God amonge you.

* Examen your selues, whether ye are in the fayth or not. Dye your awne selues.
Knowe ye not your awne selues, howe that Jesus Christ is in you: excepte ye be castawayes, I trust ye shall knowe that we are not castawayes. I desyre before God that ye do none euill, not that we shulde seme co-mendable: but that ye shuld do that which is honest: & let vs be counted as castawayes.
We can do nothinge agaynst the trueth: but for the trueth. We are glad wher we are weak, and ye stronge. This also we wylthe for, en-poure perfectnesse. Therefore wrote I these thinges beyng absent, lest whan I am present, I shulde vse sharpenesse, accordynge to to the power * which the Lorde hath geuen me to edifye, and not to destroe. I shall ye brethren, fare ye well, be perfect, be of good conforte, be of one mynde, lyue in peace, and the God of loue and peace shalbe with you.
* Gete one another in an holy kysse. All the sayntes salute you. The grace of oure Lord Jesus Christ, and the loue of God, and the felyshyppe of the holy ghoost be with you all.
Amen.

The ende of the seconde epistle to the Corinthyans.

Sent from Philippos a cytie in Macedonia, by Titus and Lucas.

The epistle of saynt Paul the Apostle to the Galathians.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paul reuoketh them, because they were fallen awaye from the Gospell, & were bynne conuersyon, magnifyeth his office and apostleshippe, and declareth hym selfe to be equall with the hie Apostles.

Paul an apostle, not of men, nether by man: but by Jesus Christ, and by God the father, which rayled him by from deeth: and all the brethren which are with me.

Unto the congregacions of Galacia. * Grace be with you, and peace from God the father, & fro oure Lorde Jesus Christ, which gaue hym selfe for our syn-nes to deliuer vs from thys present euill worlde, accordynge to the wyl of God oure father, to whom be prayse for euer and euer.
Amen.

I maruaile, that ye are so soone turned to another to another Gospell which is nothinge elles, but that there be some which trouble you, & intende to peruerthe the Gospell of Christ.

Neverthelesse, though we oure selues, or an angell from heauen, preache any other Gos-pell vnto you, then y which we haue preached vnto you, let him be acursed. As we said before, so saye I nowe agayne, yf eny man preache eny other Gospell vnto you, then y ye haue receaued, lett hym be acursed. Do I nowe perswade men, or God? Other do I seke to please men? * For yf I had hythereto studied to please me, I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

I certifie you brethren, that the Gos-pell which was preached of me, was not after the maner of men. For I nether receaued it, ner learned it of man, but by the reuela-cion of Jesus Christ. For ye haue hearde of my conuersacion in tyme past, in the Jewes waye, howe that beyonde measure, * I persecuted the congregacion of God, and spoy-led it, and preynted in the Jewes waye aboue many of my copanions in myne awne nacion: beyng a very feruent mayntener of the tradicions of the elders.

But when it pleased God, which sepeated me from my mothers wombe, and * called me herunto by his grace, for to declare his sonne by me, that I shulde preache hym amonge the heathen: immediatly I come-ned not of the matter with * fleshy & bloude, nether returned to Jerusalem, to the which were apostles before me: but went my waye into Arabia, and came agayne vnto Da-masco. Then after thre yere, I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode with hym fiftene dayes. Other of the apostles sawe I none, save James the Lorde brother. The thinges therfore which I wrote vnto you: beholde, before God I lye not.

After that I came into the coastes of Si-ria and Cilicia, and was unknowen as tou-chinge my person vnto the congregacions of Jewry, which were in Christ. But thys they hearde onely, that he which persecuted vs in tyme past, nowe preacheth the fayth, which before he destroyed. And they glorified God in me. Amen.

The ij. Chapter.

He withstandeth Peter in the face, and pro-ueth that the lawe and circumcysion are not necessarie to saluacion.

hen fouretene yeres thereafter, I went vp agayne to Jerusalem * with Barnabas, and toke Titus with me. I wet vp also by re-uelacion, and communed with them of the Gospell which I preache amonge the Gen-tyls (but specially) with them which were counted chiefe, lest I shulde runne or had runne in vayne. Also Titus which was w me, though he were a greke, yet was not copelled to be circumcised: and that because of incommers beyng false brethren, which came in preuely to spy out our libertie which we haue in Christ Jesu, y they myght bringe ys in to bondage. To who we gaue no row-me, no not for the tyme (by waye of subieccion) because that the trueth of the Gospell myght contynue with you.

Of them which seemed to be somewhat, I what they were in tyme passed it makethe no matter to me. * God looketh on the out-warde apperaunce of no man. Nevertheles they which seemed greates, added nothinge to me. But contrary wyse, when they sawe y the gospell ouer y vncircumcysion was comit-ted vnto me, as y gospell ouer y circumcysion was committed vnto Peter. For he that was myghty in Peter in the Apostleshippe ouer the circumcysion, the same was myghty in me amonge the Gentyls. When they perceaued the grace that was geuen vnto me, then James, Cephas and John, which seemed to be pylers, gaue to me and Barnabas the ryght handes of that felowshippe, that we shulde be Apostles amonge the heythen, and they in the circumcysion: onely that we shuld remember the poore. * Wherin also I was diligent to do the same.

But when Peter was come to Antioche I withstode him openly, because he was wo-thy to be blamed. For per that certayne cam from James, he dyd eate with the Gentyls.
But wher they were come, he withdrew and separated hym selfe from them, fearynge the which were of the circumcysion. And the other Jewes dissembled as well as he: in somoche that Barnabas also was broughte into their symulacio. But when I sawe that they were not the right waye after the trueth of y Gos-pell, I sayde vnto Peter before them all: yf thou beyng a Jewe, lyuest after the maner of the Gentyls, and not as do y Jewes: why causest thou the Gentyls to lyue as do the Jewes? For we which are * Jewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyls, knowe that a man is not iustified by the dedes of the lawe, but by the fayth of Jesus Christ: And we haue beleued on Jesus Christ, that we might be iustified by the faith of Christ, and not by the dedes of the lawe: because by the dedes of the lawe no fleshe shalbe ius-tified.

If whyle we seke to be made ryghte we by Christ, we oure selues are founde synners, is then Christ y mynister of synne? God forbyd. For yf I buyde agayne the thynges which I destroyed, then make I my selfe a trespasser. For yf I (thowowe y lawe) haue bene deed to the lawe, y I myght lyue vnto Christ. I am crucified w Christ. Nevertheles lik iii I lye:

The Epistle

I lue: yet nowe not I, but Christ lyueth in me. The lyfe which I nowe lue in f flesh, I lue by f fayth of f sonne of God* which loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despyse not the grace of God. For* pf ryghte- wises come of the lawe, then Christ is deed in vayne.

The. iij. Chapter.

He rebuketh the vngodlynesse of the Galathians shewing the vngodlynesse of the lawe, and declareth neuertheless that it was not geuen for naught.

O ye folyshe Galathians: who hath bewitched you, that ye shulde not beleue the trueth? To whom Jesus Christ was described before f eyes and amonge you crucified. This only wold I learne of you whether ye receaued the spyrte by f dedes of the lawe or by f preaching of the fayth? Are ye soche foolis, that after ye haue begonne in the spyrte, ye nowe ende in the fleshe? So many thynges ye haue suffered in vayne, yf it be also in vayne. Moreover, he that minystrerth to you the spyrte, ad worketh myracles amonge you, doeth he it thowowe the dedes of the lawe, or by preaching of the fayth? *Euen as Abraham beleued God, & it was ascribed to hym for ryghte wises. Ye knowe therfore, f they which are of fayth, f same are f chylde of Abraham.

For the scripture seinge afore hande, that God wold iustifye f hethen thowowe fayth, the wold before hande glad tydynges vnto Abraham sayinge: *In the shall all nacys be blessed. So then, they which be of fayth, are blessed with faythfull Abraham. For as many as are of the dedes of the lawe, are subiecte to the curse. For it is wrytten: *cur- sed be euery one that contynueth not in all thinges which are wrytten in the booke of the lawe to fulfill them. That no man is iustified by the lawe in the syght of God, it is euydent. *For the iuste shall lue by fayth. The lawe is not of fayth: but the man that fulfilleth the thinges (contayned in the lawe) shall lue in them. Christ hath deliuered vs from the curse of the lawe, in as moche as he was made accursed for vs: For it is wrytten: *cur- sed is euery one, that hangeth on tree, that the blessing of Abraham myght come on the Gentyls thowowe Jesus Christ, that we myght receaue the promes of the spyrte thowowe fayth.

Brethren, I speake after f maner of mē. Though it be but a mans testamēt. Yet yf it be allowed, no mā despyseth it: or addeth eny thyng thereto. *To Abraham and hys seede were the promes made. He sayth not in the seedes, as many: but in thy seede, as of one, which is Christ. Thys I saye, that the lawe which beganne afterwarde, beyonge f four hundred and thyrtye yeres, doeth not disanull the testamēt, that was confer- med afore of God vnto Christ ward, to ma- ke the promes of one effecte. *For yf the in- heritaunce come of the lawe, it cometh not nowe of promesse. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promes.

Wherfore then serueth the lawe? It was added because of transgression (till the seed came, to whom the promes was made) and it was ordeyned by angels in the hand of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one. *Is the lawe then agaynst the promes of God? God forbidd. For yf there had bene a lawe geuen which coulde haue geuen lyfe: then no doute ryghte wises shulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thinges vnder synne, that the promes by f fayth of Jesus Christ shulde be geuen vnto them that beleue. *But before that fayth came, we were kepte vnder the lawe, and were shut vp vnto the fayth which shulde afterwarde be declared.

Wherfore, the lawe was oure scolema- ster vnto Christ, that we shulde be iustified by fayth. But after that fayth is come, we are no lenger vnder the scolemaister. For ye are all chylde of God, because ye beleue in Christ Jesu. For* all ye that are baptised haue put on Christ. There is no Jewe, ne- ther Gentyll: there is nether bonde, ner fre: there is nether man, ner woman. For ye are all * one in Christ Jesu. If ye be Christes, then are ye Abrahams seede, and hepyes ac- cordinge to the promes.

The. iij. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that thowowe Christ we be deliue- red from the lawe, and rebuketh the unthankful- nesse of the Galathians.

Ad I saye, that f heyre (as a longe as he is a chylde) dif- ferth not from a seruaunt, though he be Lord of all, but is vnder tutors and gover- ners, vntill the tyme that the father hath appoynted.

Euen so we also, when we were chylde, were in bondage vnder the ordynaunces of the worlde. But when the tyme was full co- me, God* sent hys sonne, made of a womā, and made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeme them which were bonde vnto the lawe: that we (thowowe eleccion) might receaue the in- heritaunce that belongeth vnto the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, *God hath sent the spyrte of hys sonne into oure hertes, crying: Abba father. Wherfore nowe, thou art not a seruaunt: but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, thou arte also an heyre of God, thowowe Christ. *I

Notwithstandynge, when ye knewe not God, ye dyd seruite vnto them * which by nature to the Galathians. Col. lxxvi.

He laboureth to drawe them awaye fro circum- cysion, sheweth them the batayll betwixte the spyrte and the fleshe, and the frutes of them both.

Sande fast therfore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made vs fre, and wrappe not poure selues agayne in* the yoke of bondage.

Behold, I Paul saye vnto you, that* yf ye be circumcised, Christ shall prof- fyte you nothyng at all. I testyfy agayne to euery man which is circumcised, that he is bonde to kepe the whole lawe. Christ is become but in vayne vnto you. As many of you as are iustified by the lawe are fallen fro grace. We loke for, and hope in the spyrte to be iustified thowowe fayth. *For in Jesu Christ, nether is circumcysion any thyng worth, nether yet vncircumcysion but faith * which worketh by loue. Ye dyd rñe well: who was a let vnto you, that ye shulde not beleue the trueth? * (consent vnto no man.) Euen the counsell which came not of hym that cal- leth you. * I lytell leuen doth leue f whole lombe of dowe.

I haue trust towarde you in f Lorde, that ye shalbe none other wyse minded. But he that troubleth you, shall beare his indge- ment whatsoeuer he be. Brethren, yf I yet preach circumcysion, why do I then yet suf- fre persecucion? Then is the slander of the crosse ceased. I wolde to God, they were se- parated from you, which trouble you: Bre- thren, ye were called into liberty: only* let not youre libertye be an occasion vnto the fleshe: but by loue* (of the spyrte) serue one an other. For all the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, which is this: *thou shalt loue thyne nychghoure as thy selfe. If ye byte and de- noure one another: take hede, lest ye be lyke- wyse consumed one of another. *I

I saye, walke in the spyrte, and fulfill not the lust of the fleshe. For the fleshe lu- steth contrary to the spyrte, and* the spyrte contrary to the fleshe. These are contrarpe one to the other, so that ye cannot do what- soeuer ye wolde. But and yf ye be led of the spyrte, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of the fleshe are manyeste, which are these: aduoutery, fornicaciō, vncleannes, wā- tānes, woxypping of ymages, witchcraft, hatred, variaunce, zeale, wraethe, strepe, sedi- cyons, sectes, enuyng, murder, dronken- nes, glottonye, and soche lyke: of the which I tell you before as I haue told you in tyme past, that* they which comynge soch thinges shall not be inheritours of the kyngdome of God. Contrarely, the frute of the spyrte is, loue, ioye, peace, longe sufferinge, getylnes, goodnes, faythfulness, mckenes, tempera- cye. * Agaynst suche there is no lawe. They trulye that are Christes, haue crucified the fleshe with the affections and lustes.

If we lue in the spyrte, let vs walke lyk iij in the nature are no Goddes. But nowe after that ye haue knowen God (pccr rather are knowe of God) how is it that ye tourne agayn vnto the weake and* beggarly ordynaunces, wherunto agayne ye desyre afreshe to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes, and monethes, and tymes, and yeres. I am in feare of you, lest I haue bestowed on you laboure in vayne.

Brethren, I beseech you, be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurt me at all. Ye knowe how thorowe infirmite of f flesh, I preached f Gospell vnto you at the fyrst. And my tēptacyō which was in f flesh, ye despyed not, nether abhored: but receaued me as an angell of God: eue as Christ Ies. What is then youre felicitye? for I beare you record, yf it had bene possible ye wolde ha- ue plucked out your awnc eyes, and haue ge- ue thē to me. Am I therfore become your ene mye, because I tell you the trueth?

They are gelous ouer you amysse. Yee, they intende to exclude you, that ye shuld be feruent to them ward. It is good all wayes to be feruent in a good thyng, and not onely whan I am present wih you.

I lytell chylde, of whom I trauallye in byth agayne, vntill Christ be fasthyoned in you, I wolde I ware with you now, and coulde chaunge my voyce: for I stande in a doubte of you. Tell me: ye that desyre to be vnder the lawe, do ye not heare of the lawe? For it is wrytten, that Abraham had two sonnes the one by a bonde mayde, & f other by a fre womā. Yee, and he which was bo- ne of the bonde woman, was bozne after the fleshe: but he which was of the fre mā, was bozne by promesse. Which thynges are spo- ken by an allegorpe. For these are two te- stamentes the one from the mounte Syna, which gendreth vnto bondage, which is Agar. For mounte Syna is Agar in Arabia, and bozdreth vpon the cytie, which is now called Ierusalem, and is in bondage with her chylde.

But* Ierusalem, which is aboue, is fre: which is the mother of vsal. For it is wry- ten. *Reioyce thou barren, that bearest no chylde: breake forth and crye, thou f tra- uylest not. For the desolat hath many moo chylde, then she which hath an husbāde. Brethren, we are after Isaac, the chylde of promes. But as then he that was bozne after the fleshe, persecuted hym that was bozne after the spyrte, euen so is it nowe. Re- uerthelesse, what sayth the scripture: *put awaye the bonde womā and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman shall not be heyre with the sonne of the fre woman. So then brethren, we are not chylde of the bonde woman: but of the fre. *I

The .viij. Chapter.

Be exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to beare with another. In the ende he warneth them to beware of circumcysion.

Brethren, if a man also be taken in any faute, ye which are spirituall, helpe to amende hym in the spete of meaknes: cōsyderinge thy selfe, lest thou also be tempted. * Beare ye one anothers burthen, and so fulfyll the lawe of Christ. For yf any mā seme to him selfe that he is somewhat, when in dede he is nothinge, the same deceaueth his awne mynd. Let euery mā proue his awne worke, and then shall he haue reioysinge onelye in hys awne selfe, & not in another. For * euery man shall beare his awne burthen.

* Let hym that is taught in the worde, minister vnto him that teacheth him in all good thinges. Be not deceaued, God is not mocked. For * whatsoeuer a man soweth, that shall he also reape. For he that soweth in his fleshe, shall of the fleshe reape corrupcyon. But he that soweth in the spete, shall of the spete reapelyfe euerylastyng. * Let vs not be wery of well doinge. For when the tyme is come, we shall reape without werpnesse. Whyle we haue therfore tyme, lett vs do good vnto all men, and specially vnto them which are of the housholde of fayth. *

Pe se howe large a letter I haue wrytten vnto you with myne awne hande. As many as desire with vwarde apperaunce to please carnally, the same constrayne you to be circumcised, onely lest they shulde suffre persecutyon for the crosse of Christ. For they them selues which are circūcysed, kepe not y lawe, but desyre to haue you circūcysed, y they myght reioyce in youre fleshe.

God for byd that I shulde reioyce, but in the crosse of oure Lorde Iesu Christ, whereby the worlde is crucifyed vnto me, & I vnto y worlde. For * in Christ Iesu nether circūcysion anapyleth eny thyng at all: nor vncircūcysion: but a newe creature. And as many as walke accordyng to thys rule, peace be on the and mercy, & vpon Israell, that pertayneth to God. From hence forth, let no mā put me to busynes. * For I beare in my body the markes of the Lorde Iesu. Brethren, the grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ be with youre spete: Amen.

The .ij. Chapter.

Paul sheweth them what maner of people they were before they conuerctyon, and what they are now in Christ.

Ad you hath he quickened wher as ye were deed in trespasses and synnes, in the which * in tyme passed ye walked, accordyng to the course of this worlde, eue after the gouernour that ruleth in the ayer, the spete that now we worketh in the chyldren of vnbellefe * amonge whom we all had oure conuersacyon also in tyme past, in the lustes of oure fleshe, and fulfyllled the wyll of the fleshe and of the mynde: and * we were by nature the chyldren of wrath, euen as well as other.

But God which is riche in mercy (for his greute loue wher with he loued vs, euen whē we were deed by synnes) quickened vs together in Christ (* by grace are ye saued) and raysted vs vp together with hym and made vs sytte together with him amonge them of heauen in Christ Iesu. That in tymes to come, he myght shewe the exceeding greatnes of hys grace, in kyndnes to vs warde thozowe Christ Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe thozow fayth, and that not of youre selues. It is the gyfte of God, and cometh not of workes, lest any mā shulde boast him selfe. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Iesu vnto * good workes, whiche God ordeyned, that we shulde walke in the.

Wherfore, remember that ye beynge in tyme passed gentyls in the fleshe, were called vncircūcysion from that whych is called * circūcysion in the fleshe, which circūcysion is made by handes: remember (I saye) that at that tyme ye were without Christ, beynge aliauntes from the comen welth of Israell, and straungers from the testamentes of the promes hauyng no hope, and beynge with out God in this worlde. But now by y meanes of Christ Iesu, ye which somtyme were farre of, are made nye by the bloude of Christ.

For he is oure peace, which hath made of both one, and hath broken downe the wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also put awaye thozowe his fleshe, & the cause of hatred, euen the lawe of commaundmentes contayned in the lawe wrytten, for to make of twayne one newe man in hym selfe, so makynge peace, and to receyple both vnto God in one body thozowe the crosse, & slewe hatred therby: and came, and preached peace to you which were a farre of, and to the that were nye. For thozowe hym we both haue an inraunce, in one spete vnto the father.

* Now therfore, ye are not straungers, and foreyners: but citsyns with the sayntes & of the housholde of God: and are buylt vpon the * foundacyon of the Apostles and Prophetes, * Iesus Christ him selfe beynge the heed corner stone, in whom what buyldynge soeuer is coupled together, it groweth vnto an holy temple in the Lorde, in whom ye also are buylt together, to be an habitaciō of God thozowe the * (holp) ghost. *

The .iii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth the cause of hys pferment, depreceth them not to saynte because of hys trouble, and prayeth God to make them steadfast in hys spete.

For this cause, I Paul am a prisoner of Iesus Christ for you hethē: If ye haue hearde of the ministracyō of the grace of God * which is geuen me to you warde. For * by reuelacion shewed he the mystery vnto me, as I wrote afore in fewe wordes wherby when ye reade, ye maye vnderstand my knowledge in y mystery of Christ, which mystery in tymes passed was not opened vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto hys holy Apostles and Prophetes by the spete: that the Gentyls shulde be inheritours also, and of the same body, and partakers of hys promes in Christ, by the meanes of the Gospell, wherof I am made a mynister, accordyng to the gyfte of the grace of God which is geuen vnto me after the workyng of hys power.

Vnto me the * least of all sayntes is this grace geuen, that I shulde preache amonge the Gentyls y vnsearcheable riches of Christ and to make all men se, what the felyshyppe of the mystery is, * which from the begynnyng of the worlde hath bene hyd in God which made all thynges thozow Iesus Christ: to the intent, that now vnto the rulers and powers in heauēly thinges, myght be knowe strayned of these two thynges. + I desyre to be loosed, + to be w Christ which is moche + far better. Neuerthelesse, to abyde in þ flesche is more needfull for you, And thys am I sure of, that I shall abyde, and continue with you all, for youre furtheraunce and ioye of youre fayth, that youre reioysynge maye be þ more abundant thowowe Iesus Christ in me, by my commynge to you agayne.

Onely let youre conuersacyon be, + as it becometh the Gospell of Christ: that whether I come + se you, or els be absent, I maye yet heare of youre condicyon, that ye conty-nue in one spete, and in one soule, labourynge as we do, to mayntayne the fayth of the Gospell, and in nothinge fearpnge youre ad-uersaries, which is to them a cause of perdicyon, but to you of saluacyon, + that of God: for vnto you it is geuen for Christ, that not onely ye shulde beleue on hym: but also that ye shulde suffre for hys sake, haupnge euen soche a fyght, as ye sawe in me, and now heare of me.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to bypse and brotherly loue, and to beware of strepe and bayne gloze. And for a sure ensample, he layeth Christ before them.

¶ After

To the Philippians.

Jo. lxxix.

If ther be therfore eny consolacyon in Christ, yf ther be eny co-forte of loue, yf ther be eny fel-shyppe of the spete, yf ther be eny compassion and mercy: full fyll ye my ioye, that ye be lyke mynded, hauinge one loue, beyng of one accorde, and of one mynde, that nothyng be done thowowe stryfe or of wayne gloze, but in mekenes of mynde, let euery man esteeme another better then hym selfe. + Loke not ye euery man on hys awne thynges, but euery mā on the thin-ges that are other mens. + Let the same mynde be in you, that was also in Christ Jesu: which whan he was in the shape of God, thought it no robbery to be equall with God, Neuerthelesse he made hym selfe of no reputacion, takynge on hym the shape of a seruaunte, and + became lyke vnto men, and was founde in his apparell as a man. He hubled hym selfe, and became obedient vnto the deeth, euen the deeth of the crosse. Wherefore, God also hath exalted him on hye, and geuen him a name which is aboue all names: that in + the name of Iesus + euery knee shulde bowe, both of thynges in heauen and thyn-ges in erth and thynges vnder the erth, and that all tonges shulde confesse, that Iesus Christ is the + Lorde, vnto þ prayse of God the father.

Wherefore (my dearly beloued) as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not when I was present onely, but nowe moche more in myne absence, euen so worke out youre awne saluacion with feare and tremblynge. + For it is God, which worketh in you, both the wyll and also the dede, euen of good wyll.

Do all thyng with out murmuringe, + dysputynge, that + ye maye be soche as no man came complayne on: and vnspayed sou-nes of God without rebuke, in the myddes of a croked and peruerse nacyon: amonge whō se that ye shyne as lyghtes in the worlde, holdyng faste the worde of lyfe, that I maye Reioyce in the daye of Christ, howe that I haue not runne in wayne, nether haue laboured in wayne.

Pee and though I be offered vp vpon the offeringe + sacrifice of youre fayth: I reioyce and reioyce with you all. For the same cause also do ye reioyce, and reioyce with me.

I trust in the Lorde Iesus, for to + sende Timotheus shortly vnto you, + that I also maye be of good comforte, when I knowe what case ye stande in. For I haue no man that is so lyke mynded to me, which with so pure affeccyon wyll care for youre matters.
For all other seke theyr awne, and not the thynges which are Iesus Christes. ye knowe the profite of hym, howe that as a sonne with the father, so hath he with me bestowed hys seruice in the Gospell. hym therfore I hope to sende, as soon as I knowe howe it wyll go with me. I trust in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shall come shortly.

But I supposed it necessary to sende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companio in labour and fellowe souldier, youre Apo-stell, which also ministrerth vnto me at nede.
For he longed after you all, and was full of heuyenes, because that ye had hearde saye, that he had bene sycke. And no doute he was sicke, in somoch that he was nye vnto deeth.
But God had mercy on him: and not on him onely, but on me also, lest I shulde haue so-rowe vpon sorrowe. I sent hym therfore the more diligently: that when ye se hym, ye maye reioyce agayne, and that I maye be the lesse sorrowfull. Receaue him therfore in the Lorde with all gladnes, and + make moche of soche: because that for the worke of Christ he wēt so farre, that he was nye vnto deeth, and regarded not hys lyfe: to fullfyll that, which was lackynge on youre parte toward me.

¶ The iii. Chapter.

¶ He warneth them to beware of false teachers, whom he calleth dogges and enemies of Christ, and reproveth mannes awne ryghteousnes.

Moreouer, (brethren) reioyce ye in the Lorde. It greueth me not to wyte one thyng often to you.
For to you it is a sure thyng. Be ware of dogges, beware of euyll workers.
Beware of dissension. + For we are circumcysion, which serue God + in the spete, and reioyce in Christ Iesu, and haue no confy-dence in the flesche: though I myght also re-ioyce in the flesche. If eny other mā thynketh that he hath wherof he might trust in the flesche: I haue more: beyng circuncysed the eyght daye, of the kynred of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin + an Ebrie borne of the Ebries + as concernynge the lawe, a Pha-risaye: as concernynge feruencye, I persecuted the congregacyon, as touchynge the ry-ghte welnes which is in the lawe, I was vn-rebukable.

But the thynges that were vantage vnto me, those I counted losse for Christes sake. ye I thynke all thynges but losse for the excellencye of the knowledge of Christ Iesu my Lorde. For whom I haue counted all thyng losse, and do iudge the but vyle, that I maye wyne Christ, and be founde in him not hauynge myne awne ryghtewesnes of the lawe: but that which is thowowe the fayth of Christ: euen the ryghtewesnes which cometh of God thowowe fayth: that I maye knowe hym and the vertue of hys resurrecyon, and the fellowshyppe of hys passyons, whyle I am conformable vnto hys (deeth) yf by eny meanes I myght attayne vnto the resurreccyon of the dede.

¶ Not that

The Epistle

Not that I haue attayned vnto it all ready, or that I am all ready perfecte: but I followe, yf that I maye comprehende that, wherein I am comprehended of Chryst Iesu. Wherein I counte not my selfe that I haue gotten it as yet, but this one thyng I saye: I for get those thynges which are behinde, & endure my selfe vnto those thynges which are before, and (acordinge to the marke apointed) I preace to the rewarde of the hys callinge of God thowhe Chryst Iesu. Let vs therefore as many as be perfect, be thus wylle mynded, and yf ye be other wylle mynded, God shall open the same also vnto you. Nevertheless vnto that which we haue attayned vnto, lett vs procede by one rule, that we maye be of one accorde.

Brethren, be followers together of me, and loke on them which walke even so, as ye haue vs for an ensample. For many walke (of whom I haue tolde you often and nowe tell you wepyng) that they are y enemies of y crosse of Chryst, whose ende is damnation, whose God is theyr belly and glory to theyr shame, which are worldly myn ded. But oure conuersacyon is in heauen, fro whence we loke for the sauoure, euen y Lord Iesus Chryst, which shall chaunge oure vile bodie, that he maye make it lyke vnto hys glorious body, acordinge to the workinge, whereby he is able also to subdue all thynges vnto him selfe.

The.iii. Chapter.

De salutem certamine of them, exhorteth them to be of honeste conuersacion, and thanketh them because of the prouision, that they made for him being in prison.

Before my brethren (dearly beloued and longed for) my tope and crowne, so continue in the Lord ye beloued. I praye Euodias, and beseeche Sintiches, y they be of one accorde in the Lord. See and I beseeche the faythfull pockefelowe, helpe y women which laboured with me in the Gospel, and with Clement also, and with other my labourer felowes, whose names are in y booke of lyfe. Reioyce in y Lord alwaye and agayne I saye reioyce. Let your softenes be knowne vnto all men: The Lord is euen at hande. Be carefull for nothyng: but in all prayer and supplicacion let your petitions be manifeste vnto God with geuyng of thakes. And the peace of God (which passeth all vnderstandynge) kepe your hertes and myndes thowhe Chryst Iesu.

Furthermore, brethren, whatsoever thynges are true, whatsoever thynges are honeste, whatsoever thynges are iust, whatsoever thynges are pure, whatsoever thynges are conuenient, whatsoever thynges are of honeste reporte: yf ther be eny vertue, yf ther be eny praple, (of learninge) those same haue ye in your mynde, which ye haue bothe learned & receaued, hearde also and sene in me those thynges do, and the God of peace shall be with you. Reioyce in the Lord greatly, y nowe at the last your care is reuyned agayne for me in that wherein ye were also carefull, but ye lacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessite. For I haue learned in whatsoever estate I am, y therwith to be content. I knowe howe to be lowe and I knowe howe to excede. Every where and in all thynges I am instructed, both to be full and to be hongrye, both to haue plenty and to suffre nede. I can do all thynges thowhe Chryst which strengtheneth me. Not withstandinge ye haue well done, y ye bare parte with me in my tribulaciō.

Ye of Philippios knowe also that in the begynnynge of the Gospel, when I departed from Macchonia, no congregacyon bare parte with me, as concernynge geuyng & receauynge, but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent once and after ward agayne vnto my necessite: not y I desire gyftes: but I desyre a boundant frute on your parte. Nevertheless I receaued all, and haue plenty. I was euen fylled after that I receaued of Epaphroditus y thynges, which were sent from you, an odoure of a swete smell, a sacrifice accepted and pleasaunt to God. My God shall supplie all your nede thow his glorious riches by Iesu Chryst. Vnto God & our father be prayse for euermore: Amen. Salute all the sayntes in Chryst Iesu. The brethren which are with me, greete you. All the sayntes salute you, most of all they which are of the emperours household. The grace of our Lord Iesu Chryst be with you all. Amen.

Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.

The fyrst Chapter.

He greeth thanks vnto God for theyr fayth, loue and hope: prayeth for theyr increase, and sheweth howe we are the kyngdome of God, appoynted by Chryst, which is the heede of the congregacyon.

you and peace from God our father, & from the Lord Iesu Chryst.

We geue thanks to God the father of our Lord Iesus Chryst, alwayes for you in our prayers. For we haue heard of your fayth in Chryst Iesu, and of the loue which ye beare to all sayntes, for y hopes sake which is layd vp in store for you in heauen, of which hope, ye herde before by the true worde of the Gospel, which is come vnto you: euen as it, is frutefull (and groweth) as it is also amonge you, from the daye in the which ye heard of it, and had experie in the grace of God thowhe the truthe, as ye learned of Epaphroditus our deare felowe seruant, which is for you a faythfull minister of Chryst, which also declared vnto vs your loue which ye haue in the sprete.

For this cause we also, sence y daye we herde of it, haue not ceasid to praye for you, and to desyre, that ye myght be fulfilled with the knowledge of hys wyl, in all wysdome and spretuall vnderstandynge, y ye myght walke worthy of the Lord that in all thynges ye maye please: beynge frutefull in all good workes, and increasynge in the knowledge of God, strengthened with all myght, thowhe hys glorious power, vnto all patience and longe sufferynge with ioyfulness. I geuyng thanks vnto the father, which hath made vs mete to be partakers of the inheritaunce of sayntes in lyght, which hath deliuered vs from the power of darknes, and hath translated vs into the kyngdome of hys dere sone, by whom we haue redemption thowhe his bloude euen y forgiveness of synnes: which is y image of y inuisyble God, fyrst begotten of all creatures. For by him were all thynges created, that are in heuen, and that are in erth: visyble and inuisyble, whether they be maiste or lordeshippe, ether rule or power. All thynges were creatyd by hym and for hym, & he is before all thynges, and by him all thynges haue theyr beynge.

And he is the heede of the body, euen of the congregacyon: he is the begynnynge and fyrst begotten of the deed, that in all thynges he myght haue the preeminence. For it pleased the father, that in him shulde all fulnes dwell, and by him to reconyle all thynges vnto him selfe, and to set at peace by hym thowhe y bloude of hys crosse, both thynges in heauen and thynges in erth.

And you, which were somtyme satre of and enemyes, because your myndes were set in euill workes hath he nowe yet reconyled in y body of hys fleshe thowhe deeth, to make you holy, and vnblymeable, & without fault in hys awne syght, yf ye contynue grounded and stablyshed in the fayth, and be not moued awaye from the hope of the Gospel, wherof ye haue herde, howe that it is preached amonge all creatures which are vnder heauen, wherof I Paul am made a mynyster.

Nowe ioye I in my sufferynge & for you and fulfill that which is behynde of the passion of Chryst in my fleshe, for hys bodies sake, which is the congregacyon: wherof I am made a mynyster, acordinge to the ordinaunce of God, which ordinaunce was geuen me vnto you warde to fulfill the worde of God, that y mystery which hath bene hyd sence the worlde beganne, and sence the begynnynge of generacyons: but nowe is opened to his sayntes, to whom God wolde make knowne what the glorious ryches of thys mystery is amonge the Gentyls, which ryches is Chryst in you, the hope of glory, whom we preache, warnynge all men, and teachynge all men in all wysdome, to make all men perfecte in Chryst Iesu. Wherin I also laboure and stryue, euen as far forth as his strength worketh in me myghtely.

The.ii. Chapter.

What greete care Paul toke for all congregacions. He exhorteth them to be stedfast in Chryst, to beware of false teachers and worldly wisdomes, and desceybeth the false prophetes.

If I wolde that ye knewe howe greete care that I haue for you and for them that are at Laodicia, and for as many as haue not sene my parson in the flesch, that they heret myght be comforted whan they are knyt together in loue, and in all ryches of full vnderstandynge, for to knowe the mystery of God the father, and of Chryst, in whom are hyd all the treasures of wysdome and knowledge. Thys I saye, lest eny man shulde begyle you with entysynge wordes. For though I be absent in the fleshe, yet am I with you in the sprete, ioyng and beholdynge your order, and your stedfast fayth in Chryst. As ye haue therfore receaued Chryst Iesu y Lord euen so walke ye in hym, so that ye be rotyd and buylte in hym, and stablyshed thow sayth, as ye haue learned: and therein be plenteous with geuyng thanks.

Beware, lest eny man spoyle you thowhe philosophys, and disceatfull vanitie, after the tradycion of men, and after the ordinaunces of the worlde, & not after Chryst. For in hym dwelleth all y fulnes of the God heed bodely, and ye are complete in him: which is the heede of all rule and power, by whom also ye are circumcised with circumcysion which is done without handes, for a smocke as ye haue put of the synfull body of y fleshe thowhe the circumcysion that is in Chryst, that ye are buried with hym thowhe baptisme, in whom ye are also rysen agayne thow we sayth, that is wrought by the operacyon of God which rased him from deeth.

And ye

And hath put out y^e hāde wytyng that was agaynst vs, contayned in the lawe wytten: and that hath he taken out of the waye, and hath fastened it to hys crosse, and hath * spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly, and hath triumphed ouer them in his awne person.

Let no man therfore trouble poure conscience aboute meate and dryncke or for a pece of an holy daye, or of the newe moone, or of y^e Sabbath dayes, * which are shadowes of thynges to come: but the body is in Chryst. Let no man make you shote at a wodge marke, by the humblenes and holynes of angels, in the thynges which he neuer sawe, beyng causelesse puffed vp with his fleschly mynde, & holdeth not the heed, wherof all the body by ioyntes and couples receaueth nourishment & is knet together, and encreaseth with the increasynge that cometh of God.

The. iii. Chapter.

He putteth them in remembrance of the spiritual resurrection, to lape as y^e all manner of corrupte hyppocryse, to be frutefull in all godlynesse & vertue, & sheweth all degrees theyr duties.

If ye be then rylen agayne with Chryst, seke those thynges which are aboue, where Chryst sitteth * on the ryght hande of God. Set poure affeccyon on heauenly thynges, and not on erthye thynges. For ye are deed, and poure lyfe is hyd with Chryst in God. When soeuer Chryst (which is oure lyfe) shall shewe hym selfe, then shall ye also appeare with hym in glory.

* Morteifye therfore poure erthy members: fornicacyon, vncleannes, vnnatural lust, euill concupiscence, and couetousnes, which is worshyppe of ydoles: for which thynges sake the wrath of God vseth to come on the disobedyent chyldren * amonge whom ye walked somtyme, when ye lyued in them.

But nowe put ye also awaye frō pon all such thynges: wrath, fearnes, maliciousnes, cursed speakynge, fylthy communicacyō out of your mouth, & ye not one to another, seing that ye haue put of the olde man with hys workes, and haue * put on the newe man which is renued into the knowledge & ymagynge of him that made hym, * where is nether Gentyle nor Jewe, circumcysion nor vncircumcysion, Barbarous or Sythian, bonde or fre: but Chryst is all in all thynges.

* Therfore as electe of God, holy & beloued, put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humblenes of mynde, mekenes, longe suffrynge, forbearynge one another, & forgyng one another: yf any man haue a quarell agaynst another: as Chryst forgauē you, euē so do ye. Aboue all these thynges put on * loue which is the bonde of perfectnes. And the peace of God rule in poure hertes: to the which peace ye are called in one body. And se that ye be thankfull. Let the worde of Chryst dwell in you plenteously with all wysdome. Teache and exhorthe poure awne selues, * in psalmes, and hymnes, and spirituall songes synngynge with grace in poure hertes to y^e Lorde. And * whatsoeuer ye do (in worde or dede) do all in the name of the Lorde Iesu, geuyng thanks to God the father by hym.

* Ye wyues, submyt poure selues vnto poure awne husbannes, as it is comly in the Lorde: Ye husbannes, loue poure wyues as be not bytter vnto them. * Ye chyldren, obey poure fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the Lorde. Ye fathers, prouoke not poure chyldren, * (to anger) lest they be of a desperate mynde. * Ye seruantes be obedient vnto them that are poure bodily masters in all thynges: not with eye seruice as men please, but in synghenes of herte, fearynge God. And whatsoeuer ye do, do it hertely, as though ye dyd it to the Lorde, and not vnto men: knowynge, y^e of the Lorde ye shall receaue the rewarde of inheritaunce, for ye serue the Lorde Chryst. But he y^e doth synne, shall receaue for hys synne. * Nether is ther any respect of persones * (with God.)

Sent from Rome by Tychicus and Onesimus.

The fyrst Epistle of Saynt Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The fyrst Chapter.

He thanketh God for them, that they are so stedfast in fayth and good workes, and receaue the Gospel wyth such earnestnes.

Paul and Syluan^s & Timothe. vnto the congregacyon of y^e Thessalonians, in God the father, and in the Lorde Iesus Chryst.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Iesus Chryst.

We geue god thanks alwayes for you all: makynge mencyō of you in our prayers without ceasynge, & call you to remembrance because of the worke of your fayth, and labour in * loue, and because ye haue contynued iⁿ hope of oure Lorde Iesus Chryst, in y^e syght of God our father. * We knowe brethren (beloued of God) how that ye are electe. For oure Gospel came not vnto you by * worde onely, but also by power, and by the holy goost, and by moch certayntye, as * ye knowe, after what maner we be haue oure selues amonge you, for your sake. And ye became folowers of vs and of the Lorde, receaynge the worde with moch affliccyō, with ioye of the holy goost: so that ye were an ensample to all that beleue in Macedonia and Achaia. For from you sounded out the worde of the Lorde, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but poure fayth also which ye haue vnto God, spread her selfe abroad in all quartars, so that it nedeth not vs to speake eny thyng at al. For they the selues shewe of you, what maner of entring in we had vnto you and how ye tourned to God from ymagines, for to serue the liuynge and true God, and for to loke for hys sonne * from heauen, whom he rapseb from deeth: * Ieuen Iesus, whych deliuereth vs from the wrath to come.

The. ii. Chapter.

He putteth them in mynde of the godly conuersacyon that he led amonge them when he preached the Gospel vnto them: thanketh God that they receaue hys worde so frutefully, and excuseth hys absence.

If ye poure selues (brethren) knowe of oure entraunce in vnto you, how that it was not in vayne: but euen after that we had suffered before, and were * shamfully entreated at Phillippos (as ye knowe) then were we bolde in oure God, to speake vnto you the Gospel of God, in * moch stryngynge. For oure exhortacyon was not to hyppocryse you to erre, nor yet to vncleannes, nether was it wyth gyle: but as we were allowed of God, that the Gospel sholde be conmytted vnto vs: euen so we speake, not as they that * please me, but God, whych tryeth oure hertes.

Nether led we oure conuersacyon at eny tyme with flatterynge wordes, as ye knowe: nether by occasyon of coueteousnes. * God is recorde: nether sought we prayse of men nether of you, nor yet of eny other, when we myght haue bene iuctorite, as y^e Apostles of Chryst, but we were tender amonge you, euen as a nurse cherissheth her chyldren, so were we affectyōned toward you: our good wyll was to haue dealte vnto you, not the Gospel of God onely: but also oure awne soules, because ye were deare vnto vs.

¶ Ye remember

The fyrst Epistle

¶ Remember brethren oure labour, and trouble. ¶ For we laboured daye & nyght because we wolde not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Gospel of God. ¶ We are witnesses, and so is God how holily & iustly & blameably we behaued oure selues amonge you that beloued, as ye knowe, how that we bare soch affection vnto euery one of you, as a father doth vnto chyldren, exhortyng, comfortyng, and beseechyng you, that ye wolde walke worthy of God, whych hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorie.

¶ For this cause thake we God also without ceasing, because y when ye receaued of vs y worde, wherewith ye learned to know God) ye receaued it not as the worde of man: but euen as it was in dede, the worde of God, whych worketh also in you that beloued.

¶ For ye brethren became followers of the congregacions of God whych in Jewry are in Christ Iesu: for ye haue suffred lyke thynges of youre kynsmen, as we oure selues haue suffred of y Jewes. Whych as they kylled the Lorde Iesus, and theyr awne prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs: and God they please not, and are contrary to al men, & hynder vs, that we shuld not speake vnto the Gentyls, that they myght be saved, to fulfill their synnes alwaye. ¶ For y wrath of God is come on them, euen to the vermost.

¶ For as moch brethren as we are kept fro you for a season, as concernyng the bodyly presence (but not in the herte) we enforced y more to se you personally with great desyre. And therfore we wold haue come vnto you, I Paul once and agayne: but Satan withstode vs: for what is oure hope of ioye or crowne of reioysing? are not ye it in the presence of our Lord Iesus Christ at his comyng: yea, ye are oure glorie and ioye.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth how greatly he was reioysed, wher Epimothetolde him of theire fayth & loue.

¶ Therefore, sence we coude no lenger forbear, we thought it good to remayne at Athens alone, and sent Timothe oure brother & mynister of God, and the helper forth of oure labour in the Gospel of Christ, to stablishe you: and to comforte you concernyng our fayth, that no man shulde be moued in these afflictions, for y ye pour selues knowe, that we are euen apointed there vnto.

¶ For when we were wyth you, we tolde you before, that we shulde suffre tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. ¶ For this cause when I coude no lenger forbear, I sent that I myght haue knowledge of youre fayth, lest by some meanes y tempter had tempted you, and lest oure labour had bene bestowed in vayne.

¶ But now lately, when Timothe came fro you vnto vs, & declared to vs your fayth & your loue, & how y ye haue good remembrance of vs allwayes, despyng to se vs as we also desyre to se you. Therfore brethren we receaued consolacyon by you, in all our aduersite & necessite, through your fayth. ¶ For now are we alre, yf ye stode stedfast in the Lorde. ¶ For what thakes can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer al y ioye, y we ioye for your salutes before our God: prayyng nyght and daye exceedingly, y we might se you presently, and myght fulfill the thynges whych are lackyng vnto poure fayth.

¶ God him selfe oure father, and oure Lorde Iesus Christ shall gyde oure iorney vnto you: the Lorde also shall increace you & make you flowe ouer in loue one toward another, and toward all men, euen as we do toward you, that he maye make poure hertes stable & blameable, in holynes before God oure father, at the comyng of oure Lorde Iesus Christ with all sayntes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorte them to stedfastnesse, to kepe them selues from synne & vnclensly conuersacion to loue one another: rebuketh podelnesse, & speaketh of the resurrection.

¶ Furthermore, we beseeche you brethren, and exhorte you by y Lorde Iesus, y ye increace more & more euen as ye haue receaued of vs, how ye ought to walke and to please God. ¶ For ye knowe, what commaundementes we gaue you by oure Lorde Iesu Christ. ¶ For this is the wyll of God, euen youre holynes, y ye shuld abstayne from fornicacyon, & that euery one of you shuld knowe how to kepe his vessel in holynes and honoure, and not in the lust of concupiscence, as do the hethen whych knowe not God, y nomā oppresse and defraude his brother in bargaynyng: because y the Lorde is the auenger of all such thynges, as we tolde you before, and testifed.

¶ For God hath not called vs vnto vnclens but vnto holynes. ¶ He therfore y despyseth, despyseth not man, but God, whych hath sent his holy sprete amonge you. ¶ But as touchyng brotherly loue, ye neede not, y I wyte vnto you. ¶ For ye are taught of God, to loue one another. ¶ See and that thyng verely ye do vnto all y brethren whych are in all Macedonia. ¶ We beseeche you brethren, that ye increace more & more, and that ye studie to be quiet, & to medle with poure awne busynesse, and to worke wyth poure awne handes, as we commaunded you: that ye maye behaue poure selues honestly toward them that are wythout, and that nothyng be lackyng vnto you.

¶ I wolde

To the Thessalonyans, To. lxxiiij.

¶ I wolde not brethren that ye shulde be ignorant concernyng them whych are fallen aslepe, that ye sorowe not as other do, whych haue no hope. ¶ For yf we beleue, y Iesus dyed, & rose agayne: euen so them also whych slepe by Iesu, wyll God bringe agayne w hym. ¶ For thus saue we vnto you in y worde of the Lorde, that we whych shall lyue, & shall remayne in the comyng of the Lorde, shall not come yer they whych slepe. ¶ For the Lorde hym selfe shall descende from heauē with a shoute & the voyce of the Archangell and trope of God. And the deed in Christ: shall aryse fyrst: then we whych shall lyue (euen we whych shall remayne) shall be caught vp wyth them also in the cloudes, to mete the Lorde in the ayre. And so shall we euer be wyth the Lorde. Wherfore, comforte your selues one another w these wordes.

The.v. Chapter.

¶ He enfourmeth them of the daye of dome, and comyng of the Lorde, exhorte them to watch, and to regarde soche as preach Gods wordes amonge them.

¶ Finally of the tymes & seasons (brethren) it is no nede that I wyte vnto you: for ye your selues know perfectly, y the daye of the Lorde shall come, euen as a thefe in the nyght. ¶ For wher they shall saye, peace and all thynges are safe, then shall soden destruccyon come vpon them (as sorowe cometh vpon a woman trauayllyng with chyld) & they shall not scape. But y brethren are not in darkness, y that daye shulde come on you as a thefe.

¶ We are all the chyldren of lyght, and the chyldre of the daye. We are not of the nyght neyther of darkness.

¶ Therefore let vs not slepe as do other: but let vs wach, & be sober. ¶ For they that slepe, slepe in y nyght: & they that be dröcken, are dröcken in the nyght. But let vs whych are of the daye, be sober & armed wyth the best plate of fayth and loue, and with hope of saluacyon for an helmet. ¶ For God hath not appoynted vs to prouoke wrath vnto oure selues, but to obtayne saluacyon by the meanes of oure Lorde Iesu Christ, whych dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we shulde lyue together wyth him.

¶ Wherfore, comforte your selues together, & edifye euery one another, euen as ye do.

¶ We beseeche you brethren, that ye knowe them whych laboure amonge you, and haue the ouersyght of you in the Lorde, & geue you exhortacyon, that ye haue them in hie reputacyon thorowe loue, for theyr workes sake, and be at peace wyth them.

¶ We desyre you (brethren) warne them y are vnclens, comforte the feble mynded, lyft vp the weake, be patient toward all men.

¶ Se that none recompence euill for euill vnto any man: but euer folowe that whych is good, both amonge your selues, and to all men. ¶ Reioyce euer yf ye receaue of any man a blowe for a good cause. ¶ In all thynges geue thankes: for this is the wyll of God thorowe Christ Iesu to warde you.

¶ Queche not the sprete. ¶ Despyse not prophesynges. ¶ Examen all thynges, kepe that which is good. ¶ Abstayne from all euell appearance. ¶ The very God of peace sanctifye you thorowe out. And I praye God y poure whole sprete, and soule and body, maye be preserved: so that in nothyng ye maye be blamed in the comyng of oure Lorde Iesus Christ.

¶ Faythfull is he whych called you, whych wyll also do it. ¶ Brethren, praye for vs. ¶ Greete all the brethren wyth an holy kysse. ¶ I charge you in the Lorde, that this Epistle be red vnto all the holy brethren. ¶ The grace of the Lorde Iesus Christ be wyth you. Amen.

of Saynet Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonyans.

The fyrste Chapter.

¶ He thanketh God for their faith and loue, and prayeth for the encrease of the same.

¶ Paul and Siluanus and Timothy.

¶ Vnto the congregacyon of the Thessalonyans in God oure father, and in the Lorde Iesus Christ.

¶ Grace be vnto you and peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Iesus Christ.

¶ We are bounde to thanke God allwayes for you brethren (as it is mete) because that poure fayth groweth exceedingly, and euery one of you swymmeth in loue toward another betwene poure selues, so that we oure selues boast of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your pacyence & fayth in all your persecutions & tribulacions, that ye suffre, whych is a token of the ryghtewes iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdome of God, for whych ye also suffre. ¶ It is verely a ryghtewes thyng wyth God that he recompence tribulacyon to the that trouble you: and to you whych are troubled, rest wyth vs, when the Lorde Iesus shall shewe hym selfe from heauen with the Angels of his power, with flaminge fyre, whych shall redde vengeance vnto them y knowe not God, * and that obeye not the Gospell of oure Lorde Iesu Christ * whych shalbe punished wth euerylastyng damnacyn, from the presence of the Lorde, and from the gloze of his power, * whē he shall come to be glorified in his sayntes, and to be come maruylous in all them that beleue: because oure testimonie that we had to you, was beleued euen the same daye. * Wherefo-re, also we praye allwayes for you, that oure God will make you worthy of this calling, & fulfill all delectacyō of goodnes & the worke of fapth, w power: that the name of oure Lorde Iesu Christ maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym, accordyng to the grace of oure God, and of the Lorde Iesu Christ.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth them, & the dape of the Lorde shall not come, till the departyng from the fapth come first: and therefore he exhorteth them not to be discouraged, but to stande stedfast in the thynges that he hath taught them.

Whesche you (brethren) by the comynge of oure Lorde Iesu Christ, and in that we shall assemble vnto hym, & ye be not suddenly moued fro poure mynde, ner be troubled, nether by spete, nether by wordes, nor yet by letter whych shulde seme to come from vs, as though the dape of Christ were at hande. Let no man deceaue you by any meanes, for the Lorde shall not come excepte ther come * a departyng fyrst, and that that synfull man be opened, the sonne of perdition, whych is an aduersarye: and is exalted aboue all that is called God, or that is worshippyd: so that he doth syt * in the temple of God, boastynge him selfe to be God.

Remember ye not, that when I was yet wth you, I tolde you these thynges: And nowe ye know what wythholdeth: eue that he myght be vttered at his tyme. * For the mystery of iniquitie doeth all readye worke: till he which nowe onlye letteth, be taken out of the waye. And then shall that wycked be vttered, * whom the Lorde shall consume with the spete of his mouth, and shall destroye wth the appareance of his commyng. I euen hym whose comynge is after the workyng of Satan, with all lyng power * synges and wonders, and with all beceauableness of vnyghtwesnes, amonge them that peryshe: because they receaued not the loue of y trouth, that they myght be saued. * And therefore, God shall sende them stronge delusyon, that they shulde beleue ly-es: that all they myght be dāned, whych be-leued not the trouth: but had pleasure in vnryghtwesnes.

But we are bounde to geue thākes alwey to God for you (brethren) beloued of y Lorde for because that God hath from the begyn-nyng chosen you to saluacyō, thozowe san-ctifyng of the spete, and thozowe beleuynge of y trouth, wher vnto he called you by oure Gospell, to obtayne the gloze of oure Lorde Iesu Christ.

¶ Therefore brethren stande fast, & kepe the ordinaices which ye haue learned: whether it were by oure preachinge, or by Epistle. Oure Lorde Iesu Christ hym selfe, and God and oure father (whych hath loued vs, and hath geuen vs euerylastyng consolacyō, and good hope thozowe grace) cōfōrte your hertes and stablyshe you in all good sayēge and doynge.

The iii. Chapter.

¶ He desyret them to praye for him, that y Gofpell maye prosper, and geue them warnyng to reproue the pde: and yf they wyl not labour wth theyr bandes, that they shall not eate.

Ethermore brethren praye ye for vs, that the worde of God maye haue passage, and be glorified, as it is also with you: and that we maye be deliuered from vnrasonable and frowarde men. For all mē haue not fapth: but the Lorde is fapth-full, whych shall stablyshe you, and preserue you from euill. We haue confydence tho-rowe the Lorde to you warde, & ye both do, & wyl do the thynges which we commaunde you. And the Lorde gyde your hertes to the loue of God and to the pacyente waytynge for Christ.

¶ We require you brethren by y name of oure Lorde Iesu Christ * y ye wythdrawe poure selues from euery bzyther, & behaue him selfe inordinatly, & not after y institucō which he receaued of vs. For ye pour selues know, howe ye ought to folowe vs. For we behaue not oure selues inordinatly amōge you. Nether toke we breed of eny man for naught: but wrought w laboure & sweate nyght & dape, because we wolde not be chargeable to eny of you: not but that we had auctozite: but to make oure selues an ensample vnto you to folowe vs. For when we were wth you, this we warned you of, & yf eny wolde not worke, the same shulde not eate.

For we haue heardesape that ther are some whych walke amonge you inordinatly, workyng not at all, but beyng busybodyes. Them that are soch, we commaunde and exhorde, by oure Lorde Iesu Christ, that they worke wth quietnes, and eate theyr awne breed: * Brethren be not ye wecryn well doynge. ¶ I feny man obey not oure sayyng, sende vs worde of him by a letter: and haue no companye with him, that he maye be ashamed. And count him not as an enemy: but warne him as a bzother.

The Epistle of Saynt Paul vnto Timothee.

The fyrste Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth Timothee to wapte vpon his office: namely, to se that nothyng be taught but Gods worde. He sheweth also wherfore y lawe is good, and telleth that Christ Iesus came in to y worlde, to saue synners.

Paul an Apostle of Iesus Christ, * by the comynge of God our sayour, & Lorde Iesus Christ, which is * our hope.

¶ Vnto Timothee his naturall sonne in the fapth.
* Grace mercy and peace from God oure father, & fro y Lorde Iesus Christ our Lorde.
As I besought the to abyde styl at Ephesus (whē I departed into * Macedonia) eue so do, that y comaunde some, that they folo-we no straunge doctrine, nether geue hede * to fables & endles genealogyes whych brede doubtes more then Godlye edifyng, which is by fapth, for the ende of the commaunde-ment is, * loue out of a * pure herte, and of a good conscience, and of fapth vnfayned: fro the whych thynges, because some haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne iāgelyng, because they wolde be doctours of the lawe, and yet vnderstande not what they speake, nether wherof they aspyne.

¶ We knowe, that * the lawe is good, yfa man vse it lawfully: knowyng thys, * howe that the lawe is not geue vnto a ryghtous man, but vnto the vnyghteous and disobedyent, to the vngodly and to synners, to vnholy and vncleane: to murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, to mansleas, to * whoremongers: to them that despy-le them selues whyth mankynde: to mastealers: to lyars, to perjured, and yf ther be eny other thyng that is cōtrary to the hollome doctryne, accordyng to the Gospell of the gloze of the blessed God, whych Gospell is commytted vnto me.

¶ And I thanke Christ Iesus oure Lorde, whych hath made me stronge: for he counted me true, and put me in offyce wher as before I was a blasphemour, * and a persecuter, & a Tyrant. But yet I obtayned mercy, because I dyd it ignorantly thozowe vnbelefe. Netherthelesse, y grace of oure Lorde was exceedyng aboundant wth fapth and loue, whych is by Christ Iesu. ¶

¶ This is a true sayyng, and by all mea-nes worthy to be receaued of vs) * Christ Iesus came into y worlde, to saue synners, * of whom I am chiefe. Not wythstandyng for this cause optayned I mercy, that Iesus Christ shulde fyrst shewe on me all longe paciēce, to declare an ensample vnto the whych shulde beleue on him vnto eternall lyfe. So then vnto God, kyng euerlastyng, immor-tall * inuisyble, wyle onely, be honoure and praple for euer and euer. Amen.

¶ Thys commaundement commyt I vnto the sonne Timotheus * accordyng to the prophesy, whych i tyme past were prophesyed of the, that thou in them shuldest fyght a good fyght, hauyng fapth and good conscience: whych some haue put awaye from them, and as concernyng fapth haue made shypwacke. Of whose nombre is * Hyme-neus and Alexander whom * I haue deli-uered vnto Satā, that they maye lerne not to blasfeme.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth to praye for all men. He wyl not haue women to be euery colly apparellid, no: to teach in the congregacyon, but to be in splanse, & to obeye theyr husbandes.

Exhorde therefore, that aboue all thynges, prayers, supplicacyons, intercessions, and geuyng of thākes be had for all men: * for kynges, and for all that are in auctozite, that we maye lyue a quyet and a peaceable lyfe, wyth all Godlynes and honestye. For that is good and accepted in y syght of God oure sayoure, whych * wyl haue all mē to be saued, and to come vnto the knowledge of y trouth. For ther is * one God, and one * mediator betwene God and man, euen the man Christ Iesus, whych gaue him selfe a ransom for all men, that it shulde be testifed at his tyme, * wher vnto I am ordayned a preacher and an Apostle. I tell the trouth in Christ and lye not: beyng the teacher of the gentyls wth fapth and veritye. ¶

I wyl therefore that the men * praye eu-ery where, lyftynge vp pure handes without wrath, or doubtinge. Lykewise also the women, that they araye them selues in comlye apparell wyth shawfines and discrete be-haueours, not w brydded heare, ether golde or pearles, or costly araye: but as becomely women, that professe godlynesse thozowe good workes. * Let the woman learne in sy-lence wth all subiecyon. But I suffre not a woman to teach, nether to vsurpe auctoryte ouer the man: but to be in splanse. For Adam

Adam was fyrst fourmed, & then Eue. Adā also was not deceaued, but the womā was deceaued, and was subdued to the transgreſſion. Not wythſtādyng the thowwe bearynge of chyldeſen ſhe ſhalbe ſaued, yf they contynue in fayth and loue, and holynes, wyth diſcrepon.

The.iiij. Chapter.

What maner of mā a byſhoppe oꝝ pꝛeſtꝛ ought to be. The properties alſo requyred in a deaſoꝝ of mynſtꝛ.

This is a true ſayinge: If a mā deſper the offyce of a Byſhoppe, he deſpereth an honeſt worke. A Byſhoppe therfore muſt be blameles, & huſbande of one wyfe, dylygent, ſober, diſcrete, a keeper of hoſpitalite: apte to teach, not geue to ouer moch wyne, no feghter, not greedy of fylthy lucre. but gentle, abhorryng fyghtyng, abhorryng couetouſnes, one yf ruleth well his awne houſe, one yf hath chyldeſen in ſubieccion with all reuerence. For yf a man canot rule his awne houſe, howe ſhall he care for the congregacyon of God: he maye not be a yonge ſcoler, leſt he ſwell and fall into the iudgement of the euyll ſpeaker. he muſt alſo haue a good reporte of them whych are without, leſt he fall into rebuke, and ſnare of the euyll ſpeaker.

Lyke wyſe muſt the mynſtꝛs be: honeſt, not double tonged, not geue vnto moch wyne, nether greedy of fylthy lucre: but holdyng the myſtery of the fayth with a pure conſcience. And let them fyrſt be pꝛoued, and then let the mynſtꝛ ſo, that no man be able to reprove them.

Euen ſo muſt they wyues be honeſt, not euyll ſpeakers: but ſober and faythfull in all thynges. Let the Deacons be the huſbandes of one wyfe, and ſuch as rule they chyldeſen well, and their awne houſholdes. For they that mynſtꝛ well, get them ſelues a good degre and greates lyberte in yf fayth, whych is in Chriſt Jeſu.

These thynges write I vnto the truſtinge to come ſhortely vnto the: but and yf I tarie longe, that then thou mayſt yet haue knowledge, howe thou oughteſt to behaue thy ſelfe in the houſe of God, whych is the congregacyon of the lyuynge God, the pyllar & ground of trueth. And without doute great is that myſtery of godlynes: God was ſeew in the fleſhe, was juſtified in the ſpyte, was ſene amonge the Angels, was pꝛached vnto the gentyls, was beleued on in the worlde, and receaued vp in gloꝝy.

The.iiij. Chapter.

The propheteſh of the latter dayes, and exhorteth Timothee to be diſcreet in readynge of the holy ſcripture.

The ſpyte ſpeaketh euidently, that in the later tymes ſome ſhall departhe from the fayth, and ſhall geue hede vnto ſpytes of erreure, and deuelyſhe doctrines of them which ſpeake falſe thowwe ypocryſye, & haue their conſciences marked w an hote yꝛd, for by dyng to mary, & comaūdyng to abſtayne fro meates: which God hath created to be receaued: with geuynge thāckes, of them whych beleue, & knowe the trueth. For all the creatures of God are good, & nothyng to be reſuſed, yf it be receaued with thāckesgeuynge. For it is ſanctified by the worde of God & prayer. If thou put yf brethꝛ in remembraunce of theſe thynges thou ſhalt be a good mynſtꝛ of Jeſu Chriſt: whych haſt bene noꝛiſhed by yf wordes of yf fayth & of good doctrine, whych thou haſt continually followed. But caſt awaye vngodly and olde wyues fables.

Exercyſe thy ſelfe rather vnto godlynes. For bodely exercyſe proſpyteth lytell: but godlynes is proſpytable vnto all thynges, as a thinge which hath promyſes of yf lyfe that is nowe, & of the lyfe to come. This is a ſure ſpyng, & by all meanes worthy to be allowed. For therfore we bothe laboure & ſuffer rebuke, becauſe we haue a ſtead faſt hope in the lyuynge God, which is the ſauoure of all men, ſpecially of thoſe that beleue. Soch thynges commaunde & teache. Let no man deſpyſe thy yowth: but be vnto the that beleue, an enſample, in worde, in conuerſacyō, in loue, in ſpyte, in fayth, in purenes.

Thy I come, geue attēdaunce to readynge, to exhortacyon, to doctrine. Deſpyſe not the gyfte that is in the, whych was geuen yf thowwe propheteſh, with yf layynge on of handes by yf auctoꝛyte of pꝛeſthode. Theſe thynges exercyſe, and geue thy ſelfe vnto them, that it maye be ſene, howe thou profeſteſt in all thynges. Take hede vnto thy ſelfe, and vnto learnynge, and continue therein. For yf thou ſhalt ſo do, thou ſhalt ſaue thy ſelfe, & them that heare the.

The.v. Chapter.

The teacheth hym howe he ſhall behaue hym ſelfe in rebukynge of all degrees. An oꝛde concerninge wyddowes.

Re buke not an elder, rygorouſly: but exhorde him as a father: the yowger men, as brethꝛen: the elder women, as mothers: the yonger as ſyſters, w all purenes. Honoure wyddowes, which are true wyddowes. If eny wyddow haue chyldeſen oꝝ nebwes, let the learne fyrſt to rule their awne houſes godly: & to recompenſe their elders. For yf is good & acceptable before God. She yf is a true wyddowe & fredeleſſe, putteth her truſt in God, & conpyneth in ſupplicacyons and prayres nyght & daye. But ſhe yf lyueth in pleaſure, is deed, euen yet alpye. And theſe thynges comaūde that they maye be without rebuke. But yf eny pꝛouide not for her awne (& ſpecially for them of her houſholde) the ſame hath denyed the fayth, and is worſe then an infydel.

Let no

Let no wyddowe be choſen vnder theſe ſcore yere olde, & ſoch a one as was yf wyfe of one man, and well reported of men in good workes: yf ſhe haue brought vp chyldeſe, yf ſhe haue lodged ſtrangers, yf ſhe haue welled the ſapnetes ſete, yf ſhe haue mynſtꝛed vnto them whych were in aduerſyte, yf ſhe haue bene continually geue vnto all maner of good workes. The yonger wyddowes reſuſe. For whē they haue begone to were wā to agaynſt Chriſt, they will mary, haunynge damnacyon, becauſe they haue caſt awaye their fyrſt fayth. And alſo they learne to goe from houſe to houſe ydle: yee not ydle onely, but alſo tatlers and beſybdoyes, ſpeakynge thynges which are not comly.

I will therfore that the yonger women mary, to beare chyldeſe, to guyde the houſe, and geue none occaſyon to the aduerſarye to ſpeake euyll. For many of them are all ready turned backe, and are gone after Satan. And yf eny man oꝝ woman that beleueth haue wyddowes, let the mynſtꝛ vnto them, & let not the congregacyon be charged: that there maye be ſufficyent for them that are wyddowes in dede.

The elders that rule well, are worthy of double honoure, moſt ſpecially they whych laboure in the worde & teachynge. For the ſcripture ſayth: thou ſhalt not moo: l the mouth of yf oꝛe that treadeth out the corne. And the labourer is worthy of his reward. Agaynſt an elder, receaue none accuſacyon: but vnder two oꝝ thre wytnelles. The that ſpynne, rebuke openly, that other alſo maye feare.

I teſtifie before God and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt & the electe angels, that thou obſerue theſe thynges without haſtynelle of iudgement, & do nothyng parciaily. Laye handes ſodely on no mā, nether be partaker of other mens ſynnes: kepe thy ſelfe pure. Dryncke no longer water, but uſe a lytell wyne for thy ſtomakes ſake and thyne often dyſeaſes.

Some mennes ſynnes are open before hād, and go before vnto iudgement: & ſome mennes ſynnes folowe after. Lykewyſe alſo good workes are maniſeſt before hād, and they that are other wyſe, cannot be hyd.

The.vi. Chapter.

The dutye of ſeruautes towarde their maſters. Agaynſt ſoch as are not ſatified with the worde of God. Agaynſt couetouſnes, & a good leſſon for ryche men.

As many ſeruautes as are vnder the yoke, counte they maſters worthy of all honour, that yf name of God & hys doctrine be not euyll ſpoken of. Se that they whych haue beleuynge maſters, deſpyſe the not becauſe they are brethꝛen: but rather do ſeruyce, for as moch as they are beleuynge and beloued, & partakers of the benefyte.

These thynges teach & exhorde. If eny man folowe other doctrine, and encline not vnto the whoſome wordes of oure Lorde Jeſu Chriſt, and to the doctrine which is accordyng to godlynes, he is puſte vp, and knoweth nothyng: but waſteth hys braynes about queſtiōs and ſtryfe, of wordes, wherof ſpyngge enuy, ſtryfe, raylynges, euyll ſurmeynges, vayne diſputacyon of me that haue corrupte myndes, & that are robbed of the trueth: which thynke, that lucre is godlynes. From them that are ſoch ſeparate thy ſelfe. Godlynes is greates ryches. If a man be content with that he hath. For we brought nothyng into the worlde; nether maye we cary any thyng out.

But when we haue fede and rayment we muſt therewith be content. They that wyſbe ryche, fall into temptacyon and ſnares, into many follyſhe & noyſome luſtes, which dꝛolue men into perdyon & deſtruction. For couetouſnes of money is the rote of all euyll: whych whyll ſome liſted after, they erred from the fayth, & tanglyd the ſelues with many ſorowes. But thou man of God, ſpye ſoch thynges. folowe ryghte weſnes, godlynes, fayth, loue, paciēce, meeknes. ſpyght the good ſpyght of fayth. Laye hande on eternall lyfe, wher vnto thou art alſo called, and haſt profeſſed a good profeſſyō before many wytnelles.

I geue yf charge in yf ſpyght of God, which quickneth all thynges, & before Jeſu Chriſt (which vnder Poncius pylate wytnelleſſed a good wytnellyng) yf thou kepe yf comaūdemēt, & be without ſpott and vnrubkeable, vntill the appearynge of oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſt, which appearynge (in hys tyme) he ſhall ſhewe, that is bleſſed & myghty onely, kyng of kynges, & Lorde of Lordes, whych onely hath immortalite, and dwelleth in the lyght that no man can attayne, whom no man hath ſene, nether can ſe, vnto whom be honoure and rule euerlaſtyng. Amen.

Charge the which are ryche in this worlde, that they be not hye mynded, ner truſt in vncertayne ryches, but in the lyuynge God (which geueth vs aboundantly all thynges to enioye the) that they do good: that they be riche in good workes: that they be redy to geue & gladly to diſtribute, laying vp in ſtoꝛe for the ſelues a good fundacyō agaynſt yf tyme to come, yf they maye obtayne eternall lyfe.

Timothee, ſaue that which is geuen the to kepe, and adoyde vngodly vanyties of voyces and oppoſeycons of ſcience falſly ſo called: whych ſcience whyle ſome profeſſed, they erred as concernynge the fayth. Graſe be with the. Amen.

The seconde Epistle

The secōde Epistle

of Saynet Paul the Apostle vnto Timothe.

The fyrste Chapter.

Paul exhorteth Timothe to stedfastnesse and patience in persecucion, and to continue in the doctrīe that he had taught hym. A commendatcyon of Onesiphorus.

Aul an Apostle of Iesus Christ, by the wyll of God, accordynge to the promys of lyfe which is in Christ Iesu.

To Timothee hys beloued sonne.

Grace mercy and peace from God the father, & from Iesu Christ our Lorde.

I thanke God, *whom I serue from my ne elders with pure conscience, that without anye ceasynge I make mencyon of the in my prayers nyght and daye, desyringe to se the, myndefull of thy teares: so that I am fylled with ioye, when I call to remembraunce the vnfayned fayth that is in the, which dwelt fyrst in thy graundmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: & I am assured that it dwelleth in the also.

Wherefore I warne the that thou stee by the gyfte of God which is in y * by the put-tyng on of my handes. * For God hath not geue to vs the sperte of feare: but of power, and of loue, and of sobrienes. * We not thou therfore ashamed of the testimony of oure Lorde, nether be ashamed of me * whych am his presoner: but suffer thou aduersitie with the Gospell, accordynge to y power of God, which * saued vs, and called vs with an holy callynge, not accordynge to oure dedes, but accordynge to his awne purpose & grace, whych was geuen vs thorow Christ Ie-su before the worlde beganne) but is nowe declared openly by y apparenyng of oure sa-uyour Iesu Christ * whych hath put awaye deeth, and hath brought lyfe and immortalite vnto lyght thorow the Gospell, * wher-vnto I am apoynted, a preacher & Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentyls: for the whych cause I also suffer these thynges. Neuerthelesse, I am not ashamed. For I knowe, and am sure, that he (in whom I haue put my trust) is able to kepe that whych I haue co-mitted to hys keepynge, agaynst that daye.

So that thou haue the ensample of the holysome wordes, whych thou hast hearde of me with fayth and loue that is in Christ Ie-su. That good thyng, whych was committed to thy keepynge, holde fast thorow y holy goost, which dwelleth in vs. This y knowe, howe that all they which are in Asia, be turned from me: of whych sorte are Phigelus and Hermogenes. The Lorde geue mercy vnto the housholde of Onesiphorus for he ofte refreshed me, * and was not ashamed of my chayne: but when he was at Rome, he sought me out very diligently, & foude me.

The Lorde graunt vnto hym that he maye fynde mercy with the Lorde at that daye.
And in howe many thynges he ministered vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

The iiij. Chapter.

Aske as in the first Chapter, so here he exhorte-th him to be constant in trouble, to suffer manly, and to abyde fast in the wholsome doctrīe of oure Lorde Iesus Christ.

Thou therfore my sonne, be stronge in the grace (that is thorow Christ Iesu) and in the thynges that thou hast hearde of me by many wytnes-ses. The same commytte thou * to faythfull men, which shalbe apte to teach other also.
Thou therfore suffer afflictions as a good soldier of Iesu Christ. No man that war-reth, entaglyth hym selfe wyth worldly bu-synes, and that because he maye please hym, whych hath chosen hym to be a soldier. And though a man stryue for a mastery, yet is he not crowned, except he stryue lawfully. The husbandman that labourerth, must fyrst receiue of the frutes. Consyder what I saie.
The Lorde geue the vnderstandynge in all thynges.

Remember that Iesus Christ * of the sede of Dauid, rose agayne from deeth accordyng to my Gospell, wherin I suffer trouble as an euill doer, euen vnto bondes. But y worde of God was not bounde. Therfore * I suffer all thynges, for the electes sake, that they myght also obtayne y saluacion, which is in Christ Iesu, with eternall glory.

It is a true sayinge * for yf we be deeth w hym, we shall also lyue wyth hym. * If we be patient, we shall also raygne wyth hym.
* If we denye hym, he also shall denye vs.
* If we beleue not, yet abyde he faythfull.
He cannot denye hym selfe. Of these thynges put them in remembraunce, and testifye before the Lorde, that they folowe no contentious wordes: which are to no profet, but to the peruertynge of the hearers.

Study to thewe thy selfe laudable vnto God, a workman y nedeth not to be a shamed distributynge the worde of trouth iustly. *
As for vngodly vanyties of voyces, passe thou ouer them. For they wyll encrease vnto greater vngodlynes, & they wyldes shall fret euen as doeth the discaise of a cancre: of whose nobze is. * Hymeneus and Philetus, whych (as concernynge the trouth) haue erred, sayinge, that the resurreccyon is past all redy, and do destroye the fayth of some.

But y sure grounde of God standeth still, and hath this seale: * y Lorde knoweth them that are

To Timothe

To, lxxv.

that are hys. And let euery man that calleth on the name of Christ, departe from iniqui-te. Not wythstandynge * in a greete house are not onely vessels of golde and of syluer: but also of wood and of erthe: some for ho-noure, and some vnto dishonoure. If a man therfore poure him selfe from such men, he shalbe a vessel sanctified vnto honoure, mete for the vles of the Lorde, and prepared vnto all good workes.

Lustres of youth auoyde, but folowe ryght-wesnes, fayth, loue and peace, with the that call on the Lorde with a pure herte. * Idolyshe and vnlearned questyons put from the, knowinge, y they do but gendze streyfe. The seruaunt of the Lorde must not stryue: but be gentle vnto all men * apte to teach, and one that can suffre the euill with meaknes, and can * informe them that resyst * (the trouth) yf that God at eny tyme wyll geue them repentaunce, for to knowe y trouth: and that they maye come to them selues agayne out of the snare of the deuyll, which are holden captiue of hym at hys wyll.

The iiij. Chapter.

The propheth of the paretous tymes. Letteth oute hypocrites. Persecucion for the Gospell.

Thyss knowe, that * in the last dayes shall come paretous tymes.
For men shalbe louers of theyr awne selues, couetous, boasters, proude, cursed speakers, dysobedient to fathers and mothers, vnthankfull, vngodly, vnkynde, rucebreakers, falsac-culars, riatours, fearce, despisers of them which are good, traytours, heady, hys mynded, greddy vpon voluptuousnes moze then the louers of God, hauynge a symilitude of godlynesse, but haue denyed the power therof: and soch abhorre. For of this sorte are they, * which entre into houses, and bringe into bondage women laden w synne, which women are led with diuers lustes, euer learnyng, and neuer able to come vnto the knowledge of the trouth.

As Iannes & Iambres withstode Moses, eue so do these also resyst the trouth: men they are of corrupt myndes, and lewde as concerninge the fayth: but they shall preuaile no lenger. For their madnes shalbe vttered vnto all men euen as theires was. But thou hast sene the experiece of my doctryne, falsyde of lyfynge, purpose, fayth, longe sufferynge, loue, patience, persecucyons, and afflictions whych happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconum, and at Lystra: which persecutōs I suffered patiently. And from them all, the Lorde deliuered me. Pee, and * all they that wyll lyue godly in Christ Iesu shall suffer persecucion. But the euill men & discauncers shall weke worse and worse, whill they deceane and are deceaued them selues.

But continue thou in the thynges which thou hast learned, which also were commytted vnto the, knowinge of whom thou hast learned them, and for as moch also as * of a chylde thou hast knowen the holy scriptures which are able to make the lerne vnto sal-uacyon thorow the fayth which is in Christ Iesu. * All scripture geuen by inspiracyon of God, is profitable to teache, to im-proue, to amende and to instruct in ryghtewesnes, that y man of God maye be perfecte & prepared vnto all good workes.

The iiij. Chapter.

He exhorteth Timothe to be seruent in y worde & to suffer aduersite. maketh mencyon of his awne death, & byddeth Timothe come vnto hym.

Testifye therfore before God, & before y Lord Iesu Christ, which shall iudge the quicke and dede at hys appearing in hys kyngdom, preache thou y worde, be scruet, in season & oute of season. Improue, rebuke, exhorte w all longe sufferynge and doctryne. For y tyme will come, whe they shall not suffer whol-some doctryne: but after their awne lustes shall they (whose cares yche) gett them an deepe of teachers, and shall withdraue their eares from the trouth, and shalbe turned vnto fables. But wathe thou in all thynges, suffer afflictions, do the worke thorowlye of an Euangelist, fulfyll thyne offyce vnto the vtmost. * (As Iobert)

For I am now ready to be offered, and the tyme of my departynge, is at hande. I haue fought a good fyght, I haue fulfyllled my course, I haue kept the fayth. From hence forth ther is layde vp for me * a crowne of ryghtewesnes, which the Lorde (that is a ryghteous iudge) shall geue me at that daye: not to me onely, but vnto all them also that loue his comynge. Mothy dyligēce that thou mayest come shortly vnto me.

For Demas hath forsaken me, and lo-ueth this present worlde, and is departed vnto Thessalonica. Crescens is gone to Ga-lacia, Tityus vnto Dalmacia. Onely Lucas is with me. Take * Marke, and bringe him with the, for he is profitable vnto me for the minystracyon. And Archypus haue I sent to Ephesus. The cloke that I left at Troa-da with Carpus, (when thou comest) bringe with the, and the bookes, but specially the partchemēt. Alexander the copper Smyth dyd me moch euill: the Lorde rewarde hym accordynge to hys dedes, of whom be thou ware also. For he hath greatly wythstande oure wordes.

The Epistle of Saynt Paul vnto Tytus.

The first Chapter.

Paul exhorteth Titus to obeye pre-men they ought to be: & are chosen to that office. & chargeth Titus to rebuke such as withstande the Gospell.

pe must be blamelesse, as y^e stewarde of God:

not stubborne, not angrye * not geuen to moch wyne, no fyghter, not geuen to fylthy lucere: but a keeper of hospitalite, one that lo-ueth goodnes. * (prudent) sobre, ryghteous, godly, temperat, and such as cleueth vnto y^e true worde of doctryne, that he maye be able also to exhorde by wholsome learninge, & to improue them that save agaynst it.

For ther are many vnruly and talkers of vanite, and discauers of myndes, specially they that are of the circumcision, whose mouthes must be stopped * which peruert whole houses, teachinge thynges which they ought not, because of fylthy lucre. One of the felues (euen a prophete of their awne) sayde: The Cretyans are all wayes lyars, euill beastes, slowe belyes. Thys wytnes is true: wherfore rebuke thou the sharply, that they maye be founde in y^e sayth, not takynge hede to Jewes fables and commaundementes of men that turne awaye the trueth. * Vnto y^e pure, are all thynges pure: but vnto the that are defyled and vnbelyng, is nothyng pure: but euen the mynde and conscience of them is defyled. They confesse y^e they knowe God: but with the dedes they denye hym se-ing they are abominable and disobedient, & vnapte vnto euery good worke.

The ij. Chapter.

He telleth hym howe he shall teache all degrees to behaue them selues.

But speake thou the thynges which become wholsome learning. That the elder men be sober sage, discrete, sounde in the sayth, in loue, in pacyence: the elder * women lyke wyse, that they be in soche rayment as be cometh holynnes, not beyng false accusars, not geuen to moch wyne, but that they teache honest thynges, to make the younge women sobre mynded, to loue theyr husbandes, to loue their chyldren, to be discrete, chaste, huswifly good, obedient vnto their husbandes, that the worde of God be not euill spoken of.
Pouge men lyke wyse exhorde, that they be sobre mynded.

* In all thynges shewe thy selfe an ensample of good workes in y^e doctryne, with honestie, grauytie, & with the wholsome worde which cannot be rebuked: that he which withstandeth, maye be ashamed, hauinge no euill thyng to saye of you. * Exhort seruautes, to be obedient vnto their awne masters, & to please the in all thynges, not answering agayne, nether to be pickers, but y^e they shewe all good saythfulness, y^e they maye do worthip-pe to the doctrine of God oure sauoure in all thynges. * For the grace of God, y^e byyngeth saluacyon vnto all men, hath appeared

To Titus & Philemon,

No. lxxxvi.

The Epistle of Saynt Paul vnto Philemon.

The exhorteth to beare of the fard and loue of Philemon, whom he bespyeth to forgiue hys ser-uaunt Onesimus, and louynge to receaue hym agayne.

Paul y^e prisoner of Jesu Christ and brother Timothee, vnto Philemon the be-loued, and oure helper, and to the beloued Appia, and to Archippus oure felowe soldier and to the congrega-cyon that is of thy house.

* Grace be vnto you and peace, from God oure father, & from the Lorde Jesus Christ.
I thanke my God, makynge mencyon allwayes of the in my prayers, wher I heare of thy loue & sayth, which thou hast towarde the Lorde Jesu, and towarde all sayntes, so that the fellowship of thy sayth is frutefull in y^e knowledge of euery good. * (work) which is in you towarde Jesus Christ. For we haue great ioye and consolacyon in thy loue: because that by the (brother) y^e sayntes hertes are comforted.

Wherfore, though I myght be bold in Christ to commaunde the, that which was thy deuyte to do: yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, euen olde Paul, & nowe a prisoner of Jesu Christ. I beseeche the for my sonne * Onesimus whom I haue begotten in my boddes, (which in tyme passed was to y^e vnprofitable but nowe profitable both to the & to me) wher I haue sent home agayne. Thou therfore receyue hym, that is to saye myne awne bowels, whom I wolde sayne haue retayned with me, y^e in thy steade he myght haue ministred vnto me in the boddes of the Gospell. Neuerthelesse, without thy mynde wolde I do nothyng: that the good whych thou doest, shulde not be as it were of necessite, but wyllingly.

For happily he therfore departed for a season, that thou shuldest receaue hym for euer, not nowe as a seruaunt: but aboue a seruaunt, euen a brother beloued, specially to me: but howe moche moze vnto the, both in y^e flesh, and also in the Lorde. If thou couldest me therfore a felowe, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue done the anye hurt, or oweth y^e ought, that I laye to my charge. (I haue haue writt it with myne awne hande) I will recou-pence it. So that I do not saye to the, howe that thou owest vnto me euen thyne awne selfe also. Ene so brother, let me enioye the in the Lorde: Comforte my bowels in the Lorde.

The Epistle of Saynt Paul the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes.

The fyrst Chapter. ✠

Howe God dealt louingly with them of y olde tyme in sendinge them by prophetes, but moche more mercy hath he shewed vs in y he sent vs by his awne sonne. Of the moost excellent gloze of Iesus Christ, which in all thynges is lyke to his father.

In time past diuersly and many wayes, spake vnto the fathers by prophetes: but in these last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his awne sonne, who he hath made heyre of all thynges * by who also he made the worlde. * Which (sonne) beinge y brightnes of his gloze, and y very ymage of his substance ruiyng all thynges with y worde of hys power, hath by hys awne person purged oure synnes, and sitteth on the ryght hande of the maiestye on hys beynge so moche more excellent then the angels, as he hath by inheritaunce obteyned a moze excellent name then they.

For vnto which of the angels sayde he at any tyme: * Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the: And agayne * I wyll be hys father, and he shall be my sonne. And agayne, when he bringeth in the fyrst begotten sonne into the worlde, he sayth. And * let all the angels of God worshippe hym. And vnto the angels he sayth. * He maketh hys angels spetes, and hys mynstres a flamme of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth: * Thy seate (O God) shall be for euer and euer. The scepter of thy kynngdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghte welnes, and hated iniquyte. Wherefore, God, euē thy God hath anoynted the with y oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes.

And thou Lorde in y begynnynge hast layde the foundacyon of the erth. And the heauens are the workes of thy handes. They shall perspyre, but thou endurest, But they all shall weare olde also as doth a garment: & as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, & they shall be chaunged. But thou art euen the same and thy yeres shall not fayle. * Vnto whych of the angels sayde he at any tyme: * Syt on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy fote stole: Are they not all mynstres of synnes, that are sent to mynister, for they sake whych shall be heyres of saluacyon?

The ij. Chapter.

He exhorteth vs to be obedynt vnto the newe lawe which Christ hath geuen vs and not to be ofended at the infirmyte and iolue degree of Christ, because it was necessary y for oure sakes he shulde take such an humble state vnto hym, that he myght be lyke vnto hys brythren.

Wherefore, we ought to geue the moze earnest hede to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, lest at any tyme we perspyre. For yf y worde whych was spoken by angels was stedfast: And euery transgressyon and disobedience receaued a iust recompence of rewarde, howe shall we escape, yf we despyse so great saluacyon, which at the fyrst began to be preached of the Lorde hym selfe, and was confirmed vnto vs warde, by them y heard it: * God bearynge wytnes thereto, both with synnes & wonders also & with diuers myracles, & gyftes of the holy gooste, accordyng to hys awne wyll.

For vnto the angels hath he not subdued the worlde to come, wherof we speake, but one in a certayne place wytnessed, sayinge, * What is man, that thou art myndfull of hym. Or the sonne of man, that thou visitest hym: Thou madest hym a lytle lower then the angels: thou hast crowned hym with honour & gloze, and * hast set hym aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thynges in subieccyon vnder hys fete. In y he put all thynges vnder him, he left nothyng that is not put vnder him. Reuerthelesse, we se not yet all thynges subdued vnto him: but him that was made lesse then the angels, we se that it was Iesus, which is crowned with gloze and honour for y sofferyng of deathe: that he by the grace of God, shulde tast of deeth for all men.

For it became hym, for whom are all thynges and by whom are all thynges (after that he had brought many sonnes vnto gloze) that he shulde make the Lorde of their saluacyon perfecte thowwe affliccyons. For both he that sanctifyeth and they which are sanctified, are all of one. For whych causes sake he is not ashamed to call them brythren, sayinge: I wyll declare thy name vnto my brythren, in the myddes of the congregacyon wyll I prayse the. And agayne: I wyll put my trust in hym. And agayne: beholde, here am I and the chyldren whom God hath geuen me.

For as moche then as the chyldren are partetakers of fleshe and bloud, he also him selfe lyke-

To the Hebrewes.

Ho. lxxxvij.

If I knewe I shoulde take parte with them that (thowwe deeth) he myght expell hym that had lordshyppe ouer deeth, that is to saye the deuyll, and that he myght deliuer them, which thowwe feare of deeth were all there lyfe tyme subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the angels: but the seed of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherefore, in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brythren, that he myght be mercifull, and a faythfull hye prest in thynges concernyng God, for to poure the peoples synnes. For in that it fortuneth hym selfe to be tempted, he is able to succor the also that are tempted.

The iij. Chapter.

He requyeth vs to be obedynt vnto the worde of Christ, which is moze woorth then y ceremoniall lawe of Moyses. The punishment of such as will nedes harden their hartes.

Wherefore holy brythren, partakers of the celestiaall callynge cōsider the ambassadour and hye prest of oure professyon Christ Iesus, howe that he is faythfull vnto hym that put hym in the office, euē as was Moyses in all his house. For loke howe moche honour he (that hath buylded a house) hath moze then the house it selfe, so moche honour is he counted woorthy of moze then Moyses. For euery house is buylded of some mā. But he that ordeyned all thynges, is God. And Moyses verely was faythfull in all hys house, as a mynister, to beare wytnes of those thynges which were to be spoken afterwarde. But Christ as a sonne, hath rule ouer the house, whose house are we, yf we holde fast the cōfydence and * the reioysynge of that hope, vnto the ende.

Wherefore (as the holy goost sayth:) to daye yf ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not poure hertes, as in the prouokynge, in the daye of temptacyon in the wyldernes, where poure fathers tēpted me, proued me, and sawe my workes. xl. ycare. Wherefore I was greued with y generacyon, and sayde: They do all waye erre in their hertes: they verely haue not knowen my wayes, so y I sware in my wrath: they shall not enter into my rest. Take hede brythren, lest at any tyme they be in anye of you a frowarde herte subiect vnto vnbelefe, that he shulde departe fro the lyuynge God: but exhorte ye one another dayly, while it is called to daye: lest any of you were harde harted thowwe the deceptfulnesse of synne.

We are made partetakers of Christ, yf we kepe sure (vnto the ende) the begynnynge of the substāce, so longe as it is sayde: to daye yf ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not poure hertes, as in the prouokynge, for some when they hearde byd prouoke: howe be it not all y came out of Egypt by Moyses.

But with whom was he displeased. xl. ycare: Was he not displeased with them that had synned, whose carcases were ouerthrowen in the desert: To whom sware he that they shulde not enter into his rest, but vnto them that were not obedynt: And we se, that they coulde not enter in, because of vnbelefe.

The iiii. Chapter.

The Sabbath or rest of the Christen: punishment of vnbelevers: the nature of y worde of God.

Let vs feare therfore, lest any of you, forsakynge y promises of entrynge into hys rest, shulde seme at anye tyme to haue bene disapoynted. For vnto vs is it declared, as well as vnto them. But it profyted not the, that they hearde the worde: because they whych hearde it, coupled it not with fayth. For we which haue belened, do enter into his rest, as he sayde. Euē as I haue sware in my wrath: they shall not enter into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the workes were made, and the foundacyon of the worlde layde. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth daye, on thys wyse. * And God dyd rest the seuenth daye from all hys workes. And in thys place agayne: They shall not enter into my rest.

Seynge therfore it foloweth, that some must enter therinto, and they (to whom it was fyrst preached) entred not therein for vnbelefe sake, he apoynteth a certayne daye after so longe a tyme sayinge in Dauid (as it is rehearsed) this daye yf ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not poure hertes. For yf Iohue had geue them rest, then wolde he not afterwarde haue spoken of another daye. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he that is entred into hys rest hath ceased also from his awne workes, as God dyd from his.

Let vs study therfore to entre into that rest, lest any man fall after the same ensample of vnbelefe. For the worde of God is quicke, and myghty in operacion, and sharper then any two edged swerde: & entreceth throughe, euē vnto the diuidynge a sonder of the soule and the spete, and of the ioyntes and the mary: and is a discerner of y thoughtes and of the intentes of the herte: nether is ther any creature that is not manifest in the syght of him. But all thynges are naked and open vnto the eyes of him, of whom we speake.

Seynge then, that we haue a great hye prest which is entred into heauen (euē Iesus the sonne of God) let vs holde the professyon. * (of oure hope) For we haue not an hye prest, which cannot haue cōpassyon on oure infirmities: but * was in all poyntes tempted, lyke as we are: but yet without synne. Let vs therfore go boldly vnto the * seate of grace, that we maye obtayne mercy, and fynde grace to helpe in tyme of nede.

The. v. Chapter.

Christ is oure hye preste, and seate of grace, and more excellent then þe hye prestes of the olde lawe.

Euery hye preste that is taken from amonge men, is ordeyned for men, in thynges pertaynyng to God: to offer gyftes and sacrificies for synne, which can haue compassion on the ignorant, and on the that erre out of the waye, for as moch as he him selfe also is compassed with infirmite. And for the same infirmities sake he is bounde to offer for synnes, as well for him selfe, as for the people. And no man taketh honour vnto him selfe, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron.

Euen so Christ also glorified not him selfe, to be made the hye preste: but he that sayde vnto him, * thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the, glorified him. As he sayeth also in another place: * thou art a preste for euer after the order of Melchisedech: which in þe dayes of his fleshe, whan he had offered vp prayers and supplications, with stronge crying and teares (vnto him that was able to saue him from deeth) and was hearde because of his reuerence, though he were þe sonne (of God) yet learned he obedience, by those thynges which he suffered: & he beyng perfect, was the cause of eternall saluacion vnto all the that obeyed him: and is called of God an hye prest, after the order of Melchisedech.

Wherof we wolde speake many thynges but they are harde to be vttered: seynge ye are dull of hearinge. For whē as concerninge the tyme, ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye nede agayne, that we teache you the fyrst principles of the worde of God: and are become such as haue nede of * mylke: and not of stronge meate: for euery man that is fed with mylke, is inexperte in the worde of ryghteousnes. For he is but a babe. But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte euen those, which (by reason of vfe) haue their wittes exercised to discerne both good and euill.

The. vi. Chapter.

He goeth forth with the thyng that he began in the latter ende of þe fyfte chapter, and exhorteth them not to faile, but to be stedfast & patient: for so moch as God is sure in his promette.

Herfore leaueynge þe doctryne that pertayneth to the begynnyng of Christenmen, let vs go forth vnto perfection, not layenge agayne the foundacyon of repentaunce fro deede workes and of fayth toward God, of baptysmynges, of doctryne, and of layinge on of handes, and of resurreccyon from deeth, and of eternall iudgement. And so wyll we do. * If God permitteth. For it can not be that they which were once lychted, and haue tasted of the heauenly gyfte, & were become partakers of the holy goost, and haue tasted of the good worde of God, and of the power of the worlde to come: * yf they fall awaye (and as concerninge them selues crucifye the sonne of God a frellie, and make a mocke of him) that they shulde be renued agayne by repentance.

For the erth which dryncketh in þe rayne that cometh oft vpon it, and bringeth forth herbes mete for them that dresse it, receaueth blessinge of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and byars, is reprobued, and is nye vnto cursynge: whose ende is to be burned. Neuerthelesse (deare frendes) we trust to se better of you, and thynges which accompany saluacion, though we thus speake. For God is not vnyghteous: * þe shulde forget youre worke and labour that procedeth of loue, which loue ye shewe in his name, which haue ministred vnto the sayntes, and yet minister. Yee, and we desyre, þe euery one of you shewe the same diligence, to the full stablischinge of hope, euen vnto þe ende, that ye faynt not, but be folowers of them, which thowwe sayth and patience receaue the enheritaunce of the promyse.

For when God made promys to Abraham because he had none greater to sweare by: he sware by him selfe, sayinge: Surely I will blesse the, and multiplie the in dede. And so after that he had taried patiently, he enioyed the promys. For men verely sweare by hym that is greater then them selues, and * an othe to confyrme the thyng, is to them an ende of all stryfe. So God wyllinge very abundantly to shewe vnto the heyres of promys, the stableness of his counsayl, added an oth: that by two immutable thynges (in which it was impossible that God shulde lye) we myght haue a stronge consolacyon, which hitherto haue fled, for to holde fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we holde as an ancre of the soule both sure and stedfast, which hope also entreteth in, into those thynges which are with in the vayle, where the fore runner is for vs entred, euen Jesus, that is made an * hye preste for euer, after the order of Melchisedech.

The. vii. Chapter.

He compareth the presthode of Christ vnto Melchisedech, but to be farre more excellent.

His Melchisedech kynge of * Salem (which beinge preste of þe most hye God, met Abraham, as here turned agayne from the slaughter of the kynge and blessed him: to whom also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges) fyrst is called by interpretacion kynge of ryghteousnes: after that, kynge of Salem (that is to saue, kynge of peace) wythout father without mother, without kynne, & hath neither begynnyng of dayes, neither yet ende of lyfe: but is likened vnto the sonne of God and contynueth a preste for euer. Consyder what a man this was, vnto whom also the patriarche Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. And verely * those chyldren of Leuy, which receaue the office of the prestes, haue a commaundement to take (accordinge to þe lawe) tythes of the people, that is to saue, of their brethren, yee though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kynred is not counted amonge them, receaued tythes of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promys. And no man denyeth, but that he which is lesse, receaueth blessinge of him which is greater. And here me that by, receaue tythes. But there he receaueth tythes, of who it is wytnessed, that he lyueth. And to saue the trueth, Leuy hym selfe also which vseth to receaue tythes payed tythes in Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of his father whan Melchisedech met Abraham.

To the Hebrewes,

No. lxxviii.

If now therfore perfeccion came by the presthod of þe Leuytes (for vnder that presthod the people receaue the lawe) what neded it furthermore, that another preste shuld ryse to be called after the order of Melchisedech, and not after the order of Aaron? For yf the presthod be translated, then of necessity must the lawe be translated also.

For he of whom these thynges are spokē pertayne vnto another trybe, of whom neuer man serued at the altare. For it is euident that oure Lorde spronge * of the trybe of Iuda, of which trybe spake Moses no thyng concerninge presthod. And it is yet a more euident thyng, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech there arys another preste, which is not made after the lawe of þe carnall commaundement: but after þe power of þe endlesse lyfe. (For after this maner doth he testifie * thou art a preste for euer, after the order of Melchisedech) * Then þe commaundment that went afore, is disannulled, because of weaknes and vnproffytableness. For the lawe brought nothyng to perfeccion: but was an introduccyon to a better hope, by which we drawe nye vnto God. And therfore is it a better hope, because þe thing was not done without an othe. For those prestes were made without an othe, but this preste with an othe, by hym that sayde vnto hym. * The Lorde sware, and wyll not repent: Thou art a preste for euer after the order of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Ies⁹ a stablischer of a better testament.

And amonge them many were made prestes, because they were not suffred to endure by the reason of deeth. But this man (because se he endureth euer (hath an euerclastyng presthode) wherfore, he is able also euer to saue them to the vttemost, that come vnto God by him, seynge he euer lyueth * to make intercession for vs.

For such an hye prest it became vs to haue, which is holy, harmlesse, vndefiled, separate fro synners, made hyper then heauen. Which nedeth not dayly (as vnder hye prestes) * to offer vp sacrifice. For he hath a wone synnes and then for þe peoples synnes. For that dyd he once, when he offered vphim selfe. * For þe lawe maketh men prestes, which haue infirmite: but the worde of þe oth that came sence the lawe, maketh þe sonne preste, which is perfecte for euermore.

The. viii. Chapter.

The office of Christ is more worthy then the prestes office of the olde lawe, wherby was vnperfecte, and therfore abrogate.

If the thynges which we haue spoken, this is the prynciple: that * we haue such an hye preste as sytteth on the ryght hande of the seate of maiestye in heauen, and is a mynister of holy thynges, and of the true tabernacle, which God pyght, and not man. For euery hye preste is ordeyned to offer gyftes and sacrificies: wherfore it is of necessity, that this man haue some what also to offer. For he were not a preste, yf he were on the erth where are prestes, that accordynge to the lawe offer gyftes which serue vnto the ensample, and shadowe of heauenly thynges: euen as the answer of God was geuen vnto Moses, when he was about to synnys the tabernacle. * Take hede (sayde he) that thou make all thynges accordynge to the patrone which is shewed to the in the mount.

But now hath he obtayned a presthode so moch the more excellent, as he is the mediator of a better testament, which was confirmed in better promyses. For yf that fyrst testamēt had bene such, þe no faute coulde haue bene founde in it, then shulde no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them, he sayth vnto them. * Beholde the dayes come (sayth the Lorde) and I wyll synnys vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda, a new testament: not like þe testamēt that I made with theyr fathers in þe daye, when I toke them by the handes, to leade the out of the land of Egypte. For they contynued not in my testament, and I regarded them not sayth the Lorde.

For this is the testamēt, that I wyll make with the house of Israel: After those dayes (sayth þe Lorde) I wyll put my lawes in their myndes, and in their hertes I wyll write the, and I wyll be their God, and they shal be my people. And they shal not teach euery man his hys neyghboure, and euery mā hys bzother, saying: knowe the Lord: for they shall know me, from the least to the mooste of them: For I wil be mercyfull ouer their vnrightewelnes, and their synnes & their iniquities will I thinke vpon nomoze. In that he sayth a new testamēt, he hath woꝛne out the olde, for that which is woꝛne out & weyed olde, is redy to vanyshe awayne.

The. ix. Chapter.

The proffite & worthynesse of the olde testament and how farre the new excelleth it,

The olde testament then had verely ordynaunces, and seruinges of God, and wordly holynes. ✠ For * there was a foze tabernacle made, wherein was the lyght, and the table, and the shew breed, whych hys called holy. But within the seconde vayle was there a tabernacle, whych is called holpest of all, whych had the goldē senser, and the arcke of the testament ouerlayde round about with golde, wherein was the golden pot with * Manna, and * Aarons rodde, that spronge and * the tables of the testamēt.ouer the arcke were the Cherubins of glory, shadowyng þe seate of grace. Of which thynges we cannot now speake particularly.

When these thinges were thus ordeyned, the prestes went all wayes into the fyrst tabernacle, whych executed þe seruice of þe holy thinges. But into the seconde went the hye prest alone* once euery peare: not wythout bloud* which he offered for him selfe, and for the ignoraunces of the people. Wherewith þe holy goost thys signified, that the waye of holy thynges was not yet opened, whyll as yet þe fyrst tabernacle was stadyng. Which was a symilitude for the tyme then present, in which were offered gyftes and sacrifices, that coulde not make the minister perfecte, as pertayning to the cōscience, wyth onely meates & drinckes, & diuers washynges and iustifynges of the fleshe, whych were ordeyned vntyll the tyme of refozmacyon.

✠ But * Christ beyng and hys Drest of good thynges to come, came by a greater & a more perfecte tabernacle, not made wyth hādes: that is to saie, not of thys buylding, nether by the bloude of goates & calues: but
* by hys awne bloude he entred in once into the holy place, and founde eternall re-dempcyon. ✠

For yf the * bloud of oxen and of goates & allthes of a pong kow, whe it was sprinck-led, purifieth the vnclene, as touchyng the purifyinge of the fleshe: how moch moare shall the bloud of Christ (which thozow the eternall spete, offered him self without spot to God) pouрге poure conscience from deed workes, for to serue the lpyunge God?

And for this cause is he the * mediator of the new testamēt, that thozow deeth which chauned, for the redemption of those transgressiōs that were vnder the fyrst testamēt they whych are called, myght receaue þ promise of eternall inheritaunce. ¶ For where as is a testament, ther must also (of necessity) be þ deeth of hym that maketh the testament. For the testament taketh auctoritie whē mē are deed: for it is pet of no value, as lōge as he þ maketh þ testamēt is alpyue, for which cause also nether þ first testamēt was ordeyned without bloude. For whē Moses had declared all the commaundement to all the people accordyng to the lawe, he toke the bloud of calves and of goates, with water & purple wolle, and psope, and sprickled both the booke, & all the people, saying: * this is þ bloud of the testamēt, whych God hath appoynted vnto you. Moreover, he sprickled the tabernacle wpyth bloud also, and all the ministringe vessels. And almost all thinges are by the lawe purged with bloud, & without sheddyng of bloud is no remissyon.

It is neede the, that the similitudes of heauently thynges be purifyed wth soch thynges: but that the heauenly thynges them sel-ues be purifyed wth better sacrifices then are those. * For Christ is not entred into y^e holy places that are made wth handes (whych are y^e similitudes of true thynges) but is en-tred into very heauen, for * to appeare now in the lyght of God for vs: not to offer hym selfe oftē * as the hye prest entrecheth into y^e holy place euery yere with straunge blood, for the must he haue often offered sence y^e worlde began. But now in the ende of the worlde, hath he appeared once, to put sinne to flight by the offeringe vp of him selfe. And as it is apoynted vnto all men that they shall once dye, and then cometh the iudgemēt * euen so Christ was once offered, to take awaye y^e sin-nes of many, & vnto them that loke for hym shall he appeare agayne without synne vnto saluacion.

The. r. Chapter.

¶ The olde lawe had no power to cleanse awaye synne, but Christe dyd it with offeringe of his body once for all. An exhortacio to receaue this goodnesse of God thanckfully with patience and steadfast faith.

For the lawe (haupnge the * shadowe of good thynges to come, and not y^e very falsion of y^e thynges the selues) can neuer with those sacrifices which they offer; peare by peare continually make the comers therunto partapt. For wold not then those sacrifices haue ceased to haue bene offred, because that the offerers once purged shuld haue had no more conscience of synnes? Neuerthelesse, in those sacrifices, is there mencyon made of synnes euerie peare. * For the bloude of oxen and of goates can not take awaye synnes.

when he tolde before : This is þ̄ testamēt þ̄ I wyll make vnto them: after those dayes (sayth þ̄ lorde) I will put my lawes i their hertes, & in their myndes will I write thē, & their synnes & iniquities will I remēber nomore. And where remission of these thyn-ges is, ther is nomore offeryng for synne.

Heyng therfore brethren, y by þe meanes of þe bloud of Iesu* we haue libertie to enter into þe holy place, by þe new & lyuig waye whych he hath prepared for vs, through þe vayle (that is to saye, by his fleshe.) And seing also þe we haue an hye prest whych is ruler ouer þe house of God, let vs draw nye w a true herte in a sure fayth, sprynckled in our hertes & þe euill consciēce put awaye & weschid in our bodyes w pure water: let vs kepe þe profession of our hope, wout waueryng (for he is faithfull & promysed) & let vs cōsider one another, to þe iēt þe we mape prouoke vnto loue, & to good workes, not forsakynge þe felichyppe þe we haue among our selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhorte one another, & so moch the more, because ye se that the daye draweth nye.

* For yf we synne wyllfully after y we haue receaued y knowledge of the tructh ther remayneth nomoze sacryfyce for syn-nes, but a fearfull lokyng for iudgement, & violet fyre, whych shall deuoure y aduerla-ries. He y despyleth Moyses lawe, dyeth wythout mercy* vnder two qz thze witnesses: how moch lozer (suppose ye) shall he be ponished which treadeth vnder fote y sonne of God: & couereth the bloude of y teltamēt, wherwith he was sanctified, as an vnholp thynge, & doth dishonoure to y sprete of gra te. For we knowe hym þ hath sayd: * It be logeth vnto me to take vengeaunce. I wyll recōpece sayth þ Lord. And agayne: þ Lord shal iudge his people. It is a fearfull thyn-ge to fall into þ hādes of the luyng God.

Call to remembraunce the dayes that are passed, in the whych after ye had receaued lyght, ye endured a greate fyght of aduersities, partly whyle all men wondred & gased at you for the shame and tribulacyon þ was done vnto you: partly, whyle ye became cōpanyōs of them which so passed their tyme. For ye became parttakers also of þ afflyccyōs whych happened thorow my bōdes, & toke in worth the spoylpyng of your goodes, & that wyth gladnes: knowynge in your selues, how that ye haue in heauen a better & an enduring substaūce. Cast not awaye therfore your cōspdyce, whych hath a great recōpence of rewarde. For ye haue nede of pacyēce, that after ye haue done the wyll of God, ye myght receaue þ promes.
For yet a very lptell whyle, & he þ shall come wyll come, & wyll not tarp. But * the iust shall lyue by faith. And yf he withdra-we him selfe, my soule shall haue no pleasure in him. It is not we þ withdraue our sel-ues vnto dāpnacion, but we partayne vnto fayth, to the wyppyng of the soule.

What fapth is, and a cōmendacyon of the same.
The Redfast beleue of the fathers in olde tyme.

The.ri. Chapter.

Rayth is a sure confydence of thynges, whych are hoped for, & a certayntie of thynges whych are not sene. For by it the elders obtayned a good reporte.
Therofore sayth we vnderstande, that the worlde was ordeyned by y^e worde of God, and that thynges whych are sene, were made of thynges * whych were not sene. & By sayth Abel offered vnto God a more plenteous sacrifice thyn Cayn: by whych he obteyned witness y^e he was ryghteous. God testyfyinge of his gyftes: by whych also he beyng deed, yet speaketh.

By sayth was * Enoch translated, þ he shulde not se deeth: nether was he founde: for god had takē hi awaye. For a fore he was takē awaye, he obtayned a good reporte, þ he pleased God: but without sayth it can not be þ anye man shuld please hi. For he þ cometh to God, must beleue that God is, & that he is a rewarder of thē that seke hym.

By sayth^r Noe beyng warned of God, eschued the thynges which were as yet not sene, and prepared the arke to the sauynge of hys houtholte, thorow the whych arke, he *condempned the worlde, and became hepre of the r/ghtewesnes which is accor-dyng to sayth.

obeyed, to go out into a place, which he should afterwarde receaue to inheritaunce: & he went out, not knowing whether he should go.

By faith he remoued into the land of promise, as into a strange countrey, whā he had dwelt in tabernacles: & so dyd Isaac & Jacob by faith in hym of the same promises. For he looked for a cytic hauyng a foundacyon, whose bylder and maker is God.

By faith Sara also receaued strength to conceaue and be with chylde, and was deliuered of a childe whē she was past age, because she iudged hym faithful which had promysed.

And therefore sprāge ther of one (eue of one) which was as good as deed: so many in multitude as are the starres of the skye, & as the sand, which is by the se. Innumerable.

These all dyed according to faith, & which they had not receaued the promises: but sawe them a farre off, and beleued them, & saluted them, and confessed, that they were straungers and pilgrims on the erthe. For they that saye such thynges, declare, that they seke a countrey. Also yf they had bene myndfull of the countrey, from whence they came out, they had leasure to haue returned agayne: but now they desyre a better (which is to saye) a heavenly. Wherefore God himselfe is not ashamed to be called theyr God: for he hath prepared for them a citie.

By faith Abraham offered up Isaac, when he was proued, and he offered him being his only begotten sonne, in who he had receaued the promyses. And to hym it was sayde, in Isaac shall thy seed be called: for he considered, that God was able to raise up agayne from deeth. Therefore, receaued he hym also for an ensample of the resurreccion. By faith dyd Isaac blesse Jacob and Esau, concerning thynges to come.

By faith Jacob when he was a dying, blessed both the sonnes of Joseph, & bowed hym selfe toward the toppe of his scepter.

By faith Joseph when he dyed, remembred the departing of the chylde of Israel, & gaue commaundement of his bones. By faith Moses when he was borne, was byd thre monethes of his father & mother because they sawe he was a proper childe, nether feared they the kynge's commaundement.

By faith Moses when he was great, refused to be called the sonne of Pharaos daughter, & chose rather to suffre aduersitie with the people of God, then to enioye the pleasures of synne for a season, and esteemed the rebuke of Christ greater riches then the treasures of Egypt. For he had respect unto the rewarde.

By faith he forsoke Egypt & feared not the fearcenes of the king. For he endured, eue as though he had sene hym which is invisible.

By faith he ordeyned to passe ouer the Red Sea, lest he should be destroyed of the Egyptians, which when he sawe, they were drowned.

By faith the walles of Jericho fell downe after they were compassed about seuen dayes.

By faith the harlot Raab perished not with them that were disobedient, when she had receaued the spyes to lodgyng peaceably.

And what shall I more saye: for the tyme will be to shew for me to tell of Gedon, of Barach, & of Samson, & of Jephthah, & of Dauid also, & of Samuel, & of the Prophetes: which by faith subdued kingdomes, wrought righteousness, obeyed the promyses: stopped the mouthes of the yds: quenched the violence of fyre: escaped the edge of the sword: out of weaknesse, were made strong: waxed valiant in fight: turned to flight the armies of the alienes: the women receaued theyr deede rayled to Iphigayne.

Other were racked, & wolde not be deliuered, but they myght inherite a better resurreccion. Agayne, other were tried with mockynges & scourges, moreouer, with bondes & prisonment: were stoned, were beate with alinder, were tempted, were slayne with the sword, walked up & downe in the skynnes, and goates skynnes, being destitute, troubled & vexed: which meane word was not worthy of: they wādged in wildernesses: & in mountaynes, and in denes, and caues of erth.

And these all by faith obtained good reposte, & receaued not the promyses, because God had prouided a better thing for vs, that they should not be made perfecte.

An exhortacion to be patient & steadfast in trouble and aduersite, vpon hope of euerglasting reward. A commendacion of the new Testament above the olde.

The xii. Chapter.

Wherefore, let vs also (sayng that we are compassed with so great a multitude of witnesses) laye awaye all that presseth downe, and the synne that hangeth so fast on, let vs runne with paciēce vnto the battayle which is set before vs, looking vnto Jesus the captayne & finisher of our faith, which (for the ioye he was set before him) abode the crosse, & despised the shame, & is set downe on the ryghte hande of the throne of God. Consider therefore, how he endured such speakyng agaynst hym of synners lest he should be werped and faynte in your mindes. For he haue not yet respyed vnto blood, stryngyng agaynst synne. And haue forgotten the exhortacion, which speaketh vnto you as vnto chylde: my sonne, despyse not thou the chastening of the Lord, neither saynt, when thou art rebuked of hym: for whom the Lord loueth, hym he chasteneth: pcc per, he scourgeth euery sone that he receaueth. If ye endure chastening, God offereth hym selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sone is he whom the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccion (where of all are part takers) then are ye bastards, and not sones. Therefore sayng we haue had fathers of our fleshe which corrected vs, & we gaue them reuerence: shall we not moche rather be in subieccion vnto the father of spirites, & lyue? And they verely for a fewe dayes, nūrtred vs after theyr owne pleasure: but he nūrteth vs for our profit, to the intent that he maye mynister of his holynes vnto vs. No maner chastysyng for the present tyme seemeth to be ioyous, but greuous: neuertheles afterwarde, it bringeth forth the frute of ryghteuesnes, vnto the which are exercysed thereby.

Stretch forth therefore your handes which were let downe, and the weake knees: and let that ye haue straght stepes vnto your fete, lest any halting turne you out of the waye: pcc let it rather be healed. Follow peace with all men and holynes: with out the which no man shall see the Lord. And loke, that ye be not destitute of the grace of God, lest anye roote of bytternes spring up and trouble, & thereby many be defiled: that ye be no fornicators, or vncleane person, as Esau which was for one meale of meate sold his byrthryght. For ye knowe how that afterwarde when he wolde by inheritaunce haue obtained blessing, he was put by, for he founde no place of repentance, though he sought it with teares.

For ye are not come vnto the mounte which is touched, & vnto burnyng fyre, nor vnto storme, & darcknes, and tempestes of wedder, and sounde of a trope, and the voyce of wordes: which voyce, they (that hearde it) wylshed awaie, that the communicacyon should not be spoken to the, for they coulde not abyde that which was commaunded.

If a beast touche the mountayne, it shall be stoned, or thrust thorow with a dart: so terrible was the syght which appeared. Moses sayde: I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Syon, and to the citie of the liuyng God, the celestiallye Ierusalem: and vnto the congregacion of the first borne sonnes, which are wyrtten in heauen, and to God, the iudge of all, & to the spyretes of iust and perfecte men, and to Jesus the mediator of the new testament, & to the sprynklynge of blood that speaketh better then the blood of Abel.

So that ye despyse not hym, that speaketh. For yf they escaped not, which refused hym that spake on erth: moche more shall we not escape, yf we turne awaye from hym, that speaketh from heauen: whose voyce then shoke the erth, and now hath declared sayyng: yet once more will I shake, not the erth onely, but also heauen. Where as he sayth: yet once more, it signifyeth the remouyng awaye of those thynges which are shaken: as of thinges which haue ended their course: that the thynges which are not shaken, maye remayne. Wherefore, yf we receaue the kyngdome which can not be moued, we haue grace, whereby we maye so serue God, and that we maye please hym with reuerence & godly feare. For oure God is a consuming fyre.

The exhortacion to loue, to hospitalite, to chynke vpon such as be in aduersite, to make much of them that preach Gods word, to beware of straying learning: to be content to suffre rebuke with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God, and obedient vnto such as be in auctorite.

The xiii. Chapter.

Let brotherly loue continue. Be not forgetfull to lodge straungers, for theyr by haue dyuers meane lodged angels vnto us. Remember them that are in bondes, euen as though ye were bounde to the your selues. Be myndfull of the which are in aduersite, as ye which are yet in the bodye. Wedlocke is to be had in honoure among all men, and the bed vndefyled. As for whose keepers & aduocaters God shall iudge them. Let your conuersacyon be with out couctousnes and be cōtent with such thynges as ye haue all ready. For he hath sayd: I will not fayle the, nether forsake the: so that we maye boldly saye: the Lord is my helper, and I will not feare what man maye do vnto me. Remember them which haue the ouersyght of you, which haue spoken vnto you the worde of God. Whose sayth se that ye folowe, and consider the ende of theyr conuersacyon.

Jesus Christ yesterdaye and to daye, and the same continueth for euer. Be not carped aboute with diuers and straunge learning. For it is a good thyng that yf heretofore be stablyshed with grace, and not with meates, which haue not profited them that haue had theyr pastyme in them. We haue an aulter, wherof they maye not eate, which serue in the tabernacle. For the bodies of those beastes whose blood is brought into the holy place by the hye prest to purge synne, are burnt with out the tentes. Therefore Jesus also to sanctifye the people with hymselfe blood, suffered without the gate. Let vs go forth therefore vnto hym, out of the tentes, and suffer rebuke with hym. For here haue we no continuinge cytic: but we seke one to come.

By hym therefore do we offer sacrifice of laude alwayes to God: which is to saye, the frute of those lippes, which confesse his name. To do hym ii good ble thyng for you. Drape for vs. For we trust we haue a good conscience among all

The Epistle of Sapient James.

He exhorteth to reioyce in trouble, and thankfully to receaue the worde of God, & to be reioyced of deuocion what it is.

The fyrst Chapter.

James the seruaunt of God & of the Lorde Ies^{us} Christ, sendeth greetyng to the twelue trybes which are scattered abroade. * My brethren, count it for an excedyng ioye, when ye fall i to diuers temptacions: knowyng this, that * the tryng of your fayth genyeth pacience: and let pacience haue her perfect worke, that ye maye be perfecte and sounde, lackyng nothyng.

If eny of you lacke wysdome, * let hym aske of him that geueth it: eue God, which geueth to all men indifferēte, and casteth no man in the teeth: and it shalbe geuen hi.
But let him aske in fayth, and wauer not,
For he that douteth, is lyke a waue of the see, which is tost of the wyndes and carped with violence. Nether let that man thinke, that he shal receaue eny thig of the Lorde.

A waueryng mynded man, is vnstable in all his wayes. Let the brother which is of lowe degre reioyce whan he is exalted. A-gayne: let hym that is riche, reioyce whan he is made lowe. * For euen as the flower of the grasse, shal he passe awaye. For as somme ryseth with heat, & the grasse wydereth, & hys flower falleth awaye, and the beautie of the fassyon of it perissheth: euen so shal the rich man perishe in his wayes.

Happy is the man that endureth tempta-cion: for when he is tryed, he shal receaue the crowne of lyfe, which the Lorde hath promysed to them that loue hym.

Let no man saye when he is tempted, that he is tēpted of God, for as God can not be tempted with euill, so nether he hymselfe tempt the eny man. But euery man is tēpted, whan he is drawne awaye, & entysed of hys awne concupiscence. Then, when lust hath conceaued, the byrnyng forth synne: & synne when it is finished, byrnyng forth deeth. Do not erre my deare brethren, * Euery good gyfte, and euery parfayt gyfte, is from aboue, and cometh downe fro the father of lyghes, w^h whome is no variablenes, nether is he chaunged vnto darknes.
* Of hys awne wyll begat he vs with the worde of tructh, that we shulde be the fyrst frutes of hys creatures.

Wherfore (deare brethren) * let euery mā be swyfte to heare, slowe to speake, slowe to wrath. For the wrath of man worketh not that which is ryghteous before God.

* Wherfore laye a parte all fylthynges & superfluyte of maliciounes, and receaue w^h meknes, the worde that is graffed in you, which is able to saue your soules.

* And * let that ye be doars of the worde & not hearers onely, deceauyng your awne sel-ues. For * yf eny man heare the worde and declareth not the same by his workes, he is lyke vnto a man beholding his bodely face in a glasse. For as sone as he hath loked on hym selfe, he goeth his waye, & forgetteth immediatly what hys fassyon was. * But who so loketh in the parfayt lawe of liber-tye, and contynueth therein (yf he be not a forget full hearer, but a doar of the worke) the same shalbe happye in his dede.

If eny man among you seme to be deuou-te & refrayneth not hys tōg, but deceaueth hys awne hert, thys mannes deuocion is in vayne. Pure deuocion and vnderfyled before God the father, is this: to visyt the fatherlesse & widowes in theyr aduersyte, & to kepe hi selfe vnspotted of the worlde.

He for byddeth to haue eny respect of persones, and not to haue of fayth where no dedes are,

The second Chapter.

* Leuit. xix. c.

My brethren, esteeme not the fayth of our Lorde Iesus Christ & L^{or} de of glory * w^h respect of person For if ther come into youre company a man wearyng a golderyng, clothed in goodly aparell, and ther come in also a poore mā in vyle raymēt, & ye haue a respe-cte to him that weareth the gaye clothing, and say vnto him: Syt thou here in a good place: and saye vnto the poore: stande thou there, or syt here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parciall in youre selues, and haue iudged after euill thoughtes?

Harken my deare beloued brethren. Hath not God chosen the poore of thys worlde, soch as are ryche in faythe, & heyrers of the kyngdome, whych he promysed to the that loue hym? But ye haue despyled the poore.
Do not ryche mē execute tyrannye vps you, and draw you before the iudgement seates.
Do not they speake euill of that good name which is called vpon ouer you?

* If ye fulfyll the royall lawe, accordyng to the scripture. * (Thou shalt loue thyne neighbour as thy selfe) ye do well. But yf ye regarde one person more then another, ye commit synne, & are rebuked of y^e lawe, as transgressours. Whosoener shall kepe y^e whole lawe, & * yet fayle in one poynt, he is gyltie of all. For he y^e sayd: Thou shalt not commit adulterye, sayde also: y^e shalt not kylle. Though thou do none adulterye, yet yf thou kylle, thou art become a transgressor of y^e lawe. So speake ye, and so do, as they that shalbe iudged by the lawe of liberte. For he shal haue iudgemēt without mercy * that sheweth no mercy: and mercy reioyseth agaynst iudgement.

What anayleth it my brethren, though a mā saye he hath fayth, yf he haue no dedes?
Can fayth saue him? If a brother or a systrer be naked & destitute of dayly fode, & one of you saye vnto them: departe in peace, God sed you warmnes & fode, notwithstanding ye geue the not those thinges which are ned-ful to the body, what shal it helpe? Euen so fayth, yf it haue no dedes: is deed in it selfe.
But some mā wyll saye: yf I haue fayth, & I haue dedes: shewe me thy fayth by thy de-des: & I will shewe the my fayth by my de-des. Belenest y^e that ther is one god? Thou doest well. The deuyls also beleue, & treble.

But wilt y^e vnderstande. (Thou dayne man) y^e fayth without dedes is deed? Was not Abraham oure father iustified thozow workes, whē he had * offered Isaac his sōne vpo the autler? Thou seest, how that fayth wrought w^h his dedes, & thzough the dedes was the fayth made perfecte: & y^e scripture was fulfyllid, which sayth: * Abraham beleued God, and it was reputed vnto hym for ryghte welues: & he was called y^e frende of God. * Ye se then how that of dedes a mā is iustified, and not of fayth onely. Lykewyse also, was not Raab the harlot iusti-fied thozow workes, * when she had recea-ued the messengers, and had sent the out another waye: For as the body, wythout the sprete is deed, euen so fayth wythout workes is deed also.

What good and euell cometh thozow the tongge. The butte of each as be lerned the difference betwixte the wysdome of the Gospell, & the wysdome of the worlde.

The. iii. Chapter.

My brethren, * be not euery mā a master, knowyng how y^e we shal recea-ue y^e greater damnaciō: for in many thinges we synne all. * If a man synne not in worde, y^e same is a perfecte mā, & able also to tame all y^e body. Beholde, we put bittes in to y^e horses mouthes, y^e they maye o-beie vs, & we turne aboute all the body of the. Beholde also y^e shypes, whych though they be so great, & are dyruē of ferece wynd-des, yet are they turned about wyth a very small helme whyther soeuer y^e violence of y^e gouerner will. Euen so the tonge is a lytel member also, and boasteth gret thynges.

Beholde, how gret a thyng a lytel tyre kyndleth, and the tonge is fyre, eue a worlde of wychednes. So is the tonge set amonge oure membres, that it defyleth the whole body, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set a fyre euen of hell.

All the natures of beastes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, & thinges of y^e see are me-ked and tamed of the nature of man. But y^e tonge can no man tame. It is an vnruly euill, full of deadly poyson. Ther w^h blasphemye we God the father, and therwith curle we men, * which are made after the * image and symilitude of God.

Out of one mouth proceadeth blessing and cursyng. My brethren, these thiges ought not so to be. Both a fountayne send forth at one place swete water and bytter also. Can the fygge tree (my brethren) beare olyue berres: ether a a vyne beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salt water & freshe also. Yf eny mā be wyse & endued w^h knowledge amonge you, let hym shewe his workes out of good conuersacion with mekenes of wysdome.

But yf ye haue bytter enuyng & stryfe in your herte, reioyce not: nether be lyars agaynst the tructh: For soch wysdome descen-deth not fro aboue: but is crthy, naturall, & diuelishe. For wher enuyng & strife is, there is vnstabilenes, & all māner of euill wor-kes. But y^e wysdome y^e is fro aboue, is first pure, the peasable, gētle, & easy to be entrea-ted, full of mercy and good frutes, withoute iudging, without simulacion: yee, & y^e frute of ryghtwysnes is soken in peace, of them that mayntene peace.

Warre and fightyng cometh of voluptuousnesse. The frendshippe of the world is enemye to God. An erbytyngon to flye slaunder and the vanpyle of thys lyfe.

The.iiii. Chapter.

From whence cometh warre, and fightyng amonge you? come they not here hence? euen of youre lustes, that fight in your members? Ye lust, and haue not. Ye enuy & haue indignacyon, & can not obtayne. Ye fight & warre. Ye haue not because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not, because ye aske amysse: euen to consume it vpon your lustes. Ye aduouterars, and women ye breke matrimonye: knowe ye not how that the frendshippe of the worlde is enemye to God? whosoever therfore will be a frende of y^e worlde, is made y^e enemye of God. Either do ye thynke y^e scripture sayth in vayne. The sprete y^e dwelleth in vs, lusteth euen contra-ry to enuy: but geueth more grace (wherefore he sayeth: God resisteth the proude, but geueth grace vnto the lowlye.)

Submit your selues therfore to God: but resist y^e deuyll, and he will flye from you. Drawe nye to God, and he will drawe nye to you. Clese your handes ye sinners, & poure ge your hertes ye waueryng mynded. Suffer afflictions & mourne, & wepe. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, & your toy to heuynes. Humble your selues iⁿ y^e sight of y^e lord, & he shal lyft you vp. Backbyste not one another, brethren. He y^e backbysteth his brother, & he y^e iudgeth hys brother, backbysteth the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But y^e y^e iudge y^e lawe, y^e art not an obseruer of y^e lawe: but a iudge. Ther is one lawe geuer (and iudge), which is able to saue and to destroye. What art thou y^e iudgeth another? So to now ye that saye: to daye and to morow let vs go into such a ci-tye, and continue there a yere, and bye and sell, and wyne: & yet can not ye tell, what shal happen on y^e morow. For what thing is your lyfe? It is euen a vapour, that appeareth for a lytell tyme, and then vanissheth awaye: for that ye ought to saye: y^e y^e the lord will, and y^e we lyue, let vs do this or that. But now ye reioyce in your boastyn- ges. All such reioysynge is euill. Therfore to hym that knoweth how to do good, ad doth it not, to hym it is synne.

Ther threateneth the wicked & pche men, exhorteth vnto patience, to beware of swearing. One to know ledge his fautes to another, one to praye for another, and one to laboure to bring another to the truth.

The.v. Chapter.

To now ye ryche men. Wepe, ad howle on your wretchednes y^e shal come vnto you. Your riches is corrupte, your garmentes are moth-eaten. Your golde & syluer is cankered, and the rust of the shalbe a wytnes vnto you, & shal ate youre fleshe as it were fyre.

Ye haue heaped treasure together: (euen as ye haue heaped to your selues) in your last dayes: Beholde y^e fyre of labourers which haue reaped do bene youre feldest (which fyre is of you kept backe by fraude) cryeth: & the cryes of the which haue reaped, are entred in to y^e eares of y^e lord Sabaoth. Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the erthe, & bene wanta. Ye haue noysshed youre hertes, as y^e in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and kyled the iust, and he hath not resisted you.

Ye paciēt therfore brethren, vnto y^e comynge of y^e lord. Beholde, y^e husbande man wayteth for y^e precious frute of the earth, & hath lōge paciēce ther vnto, vntill he receaue y^e early & the latter rapne. Ye ye also paciēt therfore, and settle youre hertes, for the comynge of y^e lord draweth nye. Judge not one agaynst another brethren lest ye be damned. Beholde, y^e iudge stādeth before the doore. Take (my brethren) y^e prophetes for an ensample of sufferinge aduer- sitye, and of paciēce, which spake in y^e name of the lord. Beholde, we counte the happy which endure. Ye haue heard of the paciēce of Job, and haue knowe what ende the lord made. For the lord is very pitiefull and mercyfull.

But aboue all thynge my brethren sweare not, nether by heuē, nether by earth, nether by any other othe. Let your yee be yee, ad your naye naye: lest ye fall into y^e pporisy. If any of you be vexed, let hi praye. If any of you be mery, let him synge psalmes. If any be diseased amonge you, let hym call for the elders of the congregacyon, and let the praye ouer him, & anoynte him with oyle in the name of the lord, and the prayer of fayth shal saue the sycke, and the lord shal rayle him vp: and yf he haue commyt- ted synnes, they shal be forgouen hym.

Knowledge your fautes one to ano- ther: and praye one for another, y^e ye maye be healed. For the feruēt prayer of a rygh- teous man auayleth much. Iheras was a man vnder infirmites euen as we are, and he prayed in his prayer that it myght not rayne: & it rayned not on the earthe by y^e space of thre yeres & fyre moethes. And he prayed agayne, and the heauē gaue ray- ne, and the earth brought forth her frute.

Brethren, yf any of you do erre from the truth and another conuert hym, let the same knowe that he which conuerteth the syn- ner from goynge a straye out of hys waye, shal saue a soule from deeth, and shal hyde the multitude of synnes.

The fyrt Epistle of saynt Peter the Apostle.

The fyrt Chapter.

Ther sheweth that thorow the abundant mercy of God we are begotten agayne to a lyuely hope: & how fayth must be tryed, how the saluacyon in Christ is no newes, but a thynge prophesied of alde. Ther sheweth them to a godly conuersacyon, for so much as they are now borne anewe by the worde of God.

Peter an Apostle of Iesu Christ, to them that dwell here and there as straun- thorowout Pontus, Gala- cia, Capadocya: Asia, and Bethynia, electe accordyng to y^e knowledge of God y^e farthe thorow the sanctifyng of the sprete vnto obedience & sprynklynge of the bloude of Iesus Christ.

Grace be wyth you and peace be mul- tiplied. Blessed be God the father of oure lord Iesus Christ, whych accordyng to his abundant mercye begat vs agayne vnto a lyuely hope (by that that Iesus Christ rose agayne from deeth) to an inheritaunce im- mortall and vndefyled, and that perissheth not, reserved in heauen for you, whych are kept by the power of God thorow fayth, vnto saluacion, whych is prepared allready to be shewed in the last tyme, in the whych ye reioyce, though now for a season (y^e neede require) ye are in heuynes, thorowe mani- folde temptacyons, that the triall of youre fayth beyng moche more precious then gol- de that perissheth (though it be tryed with fyre) myght be foude vnto laude, glory and honoure, at the apperyng of Iesus Christ, whō ye haue not sene, & yet loue hym, iⁿ who- me euen now, & though ye se hym not, yet do ye beleue, and reioyce with ioye vnspeakable and glorious receauynge the ende of your fayth, euen the saluacyon of youre soules.

Of whych saluacyon haue y^e prophetes enquyred and searched, whych prophesied of the grace that shuld come vnto you, searchyng when or at what tyme the sprete of Christ (whych was in them) shuld lygni- fyre, whych sprete testified before, y^e passyōs that shuld happen vnto Christ, & the glory that shulde folowe after, vnto whych prophetes it was also declared, y^e not vnto the selues, but vnto vs, they shulde minyster the thynge whych are now shewed vnto you of the, whych (by the holy goost sent downe fro heauen) haue in the Gospell preached vnto you the thynge, whych the angels de- fyre to beholde.

Wherfore gyde by the loynes of youre mynde, be sober, & trust perfectly on y^e grace that is brought vnto you (by y^e declarynge of Iesus Christ) as obedient chyliden, y^e ye ge- ne not youre selues ouer vnto youre olde lu- stes, by whych ye were led, whan as yet ye were ignorant of Christ: but as he which cal- led you, is holy, euen so be ye holy also in all maner of conuersacyon, because it is writte: Ye holy, for I am holy.

And yf so be that ye call on y^e father, which wythout respect of person indgeth accordyng to euery mannes worke, se that ye passe the tyme of youre pilgrimage in feare. For as moch as ye knowe, how that ye were not redeemed wyth corruptible thynge (as syl- uer & golde, from youre vayne conuersaciō, whych ye receaued by the tradicion of the fa- thers: but y^e precious bloude of Christ, as of a lambe vndefyled, and wythout spot, whych was ordeyned before hande, euen be- fore y^e worlde was made: but was declared in the last tymes & for youre sakes, whych by his meanes do beleue on God, y^e raysed hym vp fro deeth, & glorified hym, y^e ye might haue fayth and hope toward God: euen ye whych haue purifyed youre soules thorow the sprete, in obeynge the trueth wyth bō- therly loue vnsapned, se that ye loue one ano- ther wyth a pure hert feruētly: for ye are bo- rne anewe, not of mortall seed, but of immor- tall, by the worde of God, which lyueth and lasteth for euer.

For all fleshe is grasse, and all the glo- ry of mā is as the floure of grasse. The gras- se wyddereth, and the floure falleth awaye, but the worde of the lord endureth euer. And thys is the worde, whych by the Gos- pell was preached vnto you.

The.ij. Chapter.

Ther exhorteth men to lye ashye all vice, to abstey- ne from fleshy lustes, and to obeye worldly rulers. How seruantes shulde be haue them selues toward their masters. Ther exhorteth to suffer after the ensam- ple of Christ.

Wherfore laye asyde all mali- ciousnes & al gyle, & sayned- nesse & enuy and all backby- tinge: & as new borne ba- bes, desyre ye y^e mylke (not of the body but of the soule) which is wout disceate: y^e ye maye growe ther by (vnto saluacyon) If so be y^e ye haue tasted, how gracious the lord is, to whō ye come, as vnto a lyuige stone, disa- lowed of me, but chōse of God & precio: & ye as lyuige stones, are made a spretuall house an holy presthode, for to offer vp spretuall sa- crifyces, acceptable to God by Iesus Christ.

Wherfore it is cotayned also in y^e scripture: Beholde I put iⁿ Sion a stone to be layed iⁿ y^e che- fe corner, electe & precious. & he y^e beleneth on him shal not be cofounded. Vnto you therfore whych beleue he is precious: but vnto them whych beleue not y^e stone which y^e buylders re- fused, the same is begonne to be y^e heed of the corner, corner, and a stone that men stonble at, and a rocke wherat they be offended whych stonble at the worde, and beleue not that, wher on they were set. But ye are a chosen generacion, a royall * presthod, an holy nacyon, a people whych are wounne: that ye shuld be we the vertues of hym, that called you out of darknes into hys miraclous lyght, * whych in tyme past were not a people, but are now the people of God: whych some tyme had not optayned mercede, but now haue optayned mercede. K

A * Dearly beloued, I beseeche you as straungers and pylgryms, abstayne * from fleshly lustes, whych fygth against the soule, & se that ye haue honest conuersacion amonge the Gentyles, that where as they backbite you as euill doars * they maye se your good workes, and prayse God in the daye of dyspacion.

Submyt poure selues therfore vnto all maner ordinaunce of man for the lordes sake, whether it be vnto the kyng, as vnto the cheefe heed: other vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sent of hym, for the punysshment of euill doars, but for the laude of them, that do well. For so is y will of God, that wyth well doyng ye maye stoppe the mouthes of foolys & ignorant men: as fre, & not as hauinge the lybertie for a cloacke of maliciou-nes, but euen as the seruantes of God * ho- noure all men. Lone brotherly felethpype. ffeare God, honoure the kyng.

Seruantes, obey your masters w fea- re not onely yf they be good & courtous: but also though they be frowarde * for it is thā he worthe. K yf a mā for cōscience towarde God endure grete, and suffer wrong vnde- serued. For what prayse is it, yf when ye be buffeted for your fautes, ye take it patiently? But & yf when ye do well, ye suffer wroge & take it patiently, then is ther thāke w God.

For here vnto verely were ye called: for Christ also suffered for vs * leauynge vs an ensample, that ye shulde folowe his ste- pes, whych dpyd no synne, nether was there gyle found in hys mouth: whych whē he was reuyled, reuyled not agayne: when he suffe- red, he threathened not, but comitted the ve- geance to hym that iudgeth ryghteously * whych hys awne selfe bare our synnes in his body on the tree, that we beyng deliuered from synne, shuld lyue vnto ryghteousnes: w whose stryppes ye were healed. For ye were as shepe goyng astraye: but are now turned vnto the shepheard and byshepe of poure soules. K

The .iiij. Chapter.

Which thynges oughte to orde the selues toward their husbandes, & in the apperell. The duty of men to- ward their wyues. He exhorteth all mē to vnto and lone, and patiently to suffer trouble, & baptysme.

Likewyse * ye rynges be in sub- iecyon to poure husbandes, that euen they whych obeie not the worde, maye without the worde be wōne by the conuersacion of the wyues, whyll they beholde poure chaste conuersacion coupled wyth feare. Whose ap- parell shall not be outward w brydged hea- re, & hangyng on of golde, either in puttyng on of gorgyous apparell: but let the hyd mā whych is in the herte, be without all corrup- cyon, so that the sprete be at rest and quyet: whych sprete is before God a thyng moch set by. For after this maner in the olde tyme dyd the holy women whych trusted in God, tper them selues, and were obedient to their husbandes, euen as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called hym Lorde: whose daughters ye are, as longe as ye do well, & are not astrayde for anye terrour.

Likewyse, ye mē, dwell with them accor- dyng to knowledge: geuyng honoure vnto the wife, as vnto y weaker vessel & as vnto them y are he yres also of the grace of Ipe that poure prayers be not hyndred. A In cōclusyon, be ye all of one mynde, of one hart & lone as brythren, be petifull, be courteous * (miche) not redyng euill for euill, or rebu- ke for rebuke: but cōtrarywise, blesse: know- inge that ye are ther vnto called, euen that ye shulde be he yres of the blesynge. * For he that doth longe after Ipe, and loueth to se good dayes, let hym refrayne his tōge from euill, & his lippes y they speake not gyle. Let hī eschue euill, & do good: let him seke peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of y Lord are ouer the ryghteous, and hys cares are open vnto their prayers. Agayne: the face of the Lorde is ouer them that do euill.

Mozouer, who is it that wyll harne you, yf ye folowe y whych is good? Yee, * happy are ye, yf anye trouble happen vnto you for rightewelsse sake. We not ye afrayed for anye terroure of them, nether be ye troubled but sanctifye the Lorde God in poure her- tes. We ready allwayes to geue an answe- re to euery mā that asketh you a reason of y hope that is in you, and that with meaknes and feare: hauynge a good conscience * that where as they backbite you as euill doars, they maye be alhamed, y falsely accuse your good conuersacion in Christ.

For it is better (yf the wyll of God be so) that ye suffer for well doyng, then for euill doyng.

A * For as moch as Christ hath once suf- fered for synnes, yust for the vniust, to bryg vs to God, and was kylled, as pertayninge to the fleshe: but was quychened in the sprete.

In whych sprete he also went & preached vnto the spretes that were in pzelon, which some some tyme had bene disobedyent. when the longe sufferynge of God was once looked for in the dayes of Noe * whyll the arche was a prepayng: & wherin saw, that is to saye viij. soules, were saued by the water, like as baptysme also now saueh vs, not the puttyng awaye of the fylth of the fleshe, but in that a good consen- nce consenteth to God, by the resurrecyon of Iesus Christ, whych is on the ryghte hādē of God: & and is gone into heauen, * angels, powers, and myght subdued vnto hym.

The .iiij. Chapter.

He exhorteth men to cease from synne, and no man to iustice as an euill doer, but as a Christen man.

A Like as moch then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme ye poure selues lyke wyse with the same mynde: for he whych suffe- reth in the fleshe, ceaseth from synne that he hence forwarde shulde lyue (as moch tyme as remayneth in the fleshe) not after the lu- stes of men, but after the wyll of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spent the tyme that is past of the Ipe, after the wyll of the * Gentyls, walkyng in wantannes, lustes, in excelle of wynges, in excelle of ea- tynge, in excelle of drynkynge * (in dyshoneste) and in abomynable ydolatrie.

And it semeth to the an incommenēt thyn- ge, that ye runne not also with them vnto y same excelle of ryote, & therfore speake they euill of you, whych shall geue accomptes to him, that is ready to iudge quicke and deed. For vnto thys purpose verely was y Gos- pēl preached also vnto the deed, that they shuld be iudged lyke other men in the fleshe, but shuld lyue before God in the sprete. The ende of al thynges is at hande.

We ye therfore sober, and watch vnto prayer. But aboue all thynges haue feruēt lone among your selues. For lone shall couer the multitude of synnes. We ye herberous one to another, & wythout grudgynge. As euery man hath receaued the gyfte, euen so mynister the same one to another, as good mynisters of the manyfolde grace of God.

If eny man speake, let him talke as the wor- des of God. If eny man mynister, let him do it as * of the abylyte, whych God mynys- treth vnto hym. That God in all thynges maye be glorified thorow Iesus Christ, K to whom be prayse and dominion for euer and euer. Amen.

Dearly beloued, many a yll not that ye are proued by fyre (whych thyng is to trye you) as though some straunge thing happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as moch as ye are par- takers of Christes passyons: that when hys glozy appereth, ye maye be mery and glad. If ye be rayled vpon for y name of Christ, happye are ye. For the glozy and the sprete of God resteth vpon you. On their parte he is euill spoken of: but on poure parte he is glorified.

Se y none of you be punyshed as a mur- therer, or as a thefe, or an euill doer, or as a busybody in other mens matters. If eny mā suffice as a Christen mā, let him not be cha- med: but let hī glorifye God on this chalfe. For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begynne at the house of God. If it fyrst be- gynne at vs, what shall the ende be of them, whych beleue not the Gospell of God? And * yf the ryghteous scarcely be saued: where shall y vngodly ad y synner appeare? Where- fore, let the y are troubled accordyng to the wyll of God, comyt their soules to him wyth well doyng, as vnto a faythfull creatoz.

The .v. Chapter.

A speciall exhortacion for all bishoppes and dyoces. He exhorteth poure persons to sub- myt them selues to the elder, and euery one to loue another.

The elders which are amonge you, I exhort, which am also an elder, and a wytnes of the afflictions of Christ, and also a partaker of the glozy that shal be opened: * ffe de ye Christes flocke, as moch as lyeth in you, takynge the ouersyght of them, not as compelled thereto, but wyllngly: * (after a godly sort) not for the desyre of fylthy lucre: but of a good mynde, * not as though ye were lordes ouer the pa- rishes: but * that ye be an ensample to the flocke * (and that wyth good will). And when the cheefe sheperd shall appeare, ye shal receaue, A * an incorruptible crowne of glorie. Like- wyse ye ponger, submyt poure selues vnto the elder: Submit poure selues euery man, one to another, knyt poure selues together in lowlynes of mynde. For God resisteth the proude, and geueth grace to the humble. Submyt poure selues therfore vnder the myghty hande of God, that he maye craite you, when the tyme is come. Cast all your care vpon him: for he careth for you.

We sober and watch, for poure aduersary y deuyll as a roaring lyon * walketh about, sekynge whom he maye deuoure: * whom re- lyfstedfast in the fayth, knowing, y the sa- me afflictions are apoynted vnto your bry- thren, that are in the worlde. But the God of all grace whych hath called vs vnto hys eternal glozy by Christ Iesus, shall hys awne selfe (after that ye haue suffered a lytell affliction) make you perfect: settle, strength and stabillise you. To him be glozy and do- minyon for euer, and euer. Amen. K

Wy Syluanus a faythfull brother vnto you (as I suppose) haue I wyrtten bryfly, exhortynge and testifyng, how that thys is the true grace of God, wherin ye stande. The cōgregacyon of them whych at Baby- lon are companyons of poure electyon, salu- Amen v teth you, test you, and so doth Marcus my sonne.

* Greete ye one another wyth the kysse of loue. Peace be w you all, which are in Christ Jesu. Amen.

The secōde Epistle

of Saynct Peter.

The fyrste Chapter.

As for so much as the power of God hath geuen vs all thynges pertainyng vnto lyfe, he exhorts vs to make oure callinge knowne by good works, and frutes of fapth. He maketh mencyon of hys awne deeth.

Simon Peter a seruant, and an Apostle of Jesus Christ, to them whych haue obtayned lyke precyous fapth w vs thorow fpyghtewelnes of oure God ad sauoure Jesus Christ.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace be multiplyed thorow the knowledge of God and of Jesus oure Lorde. Accordyng as his godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges that pertaine vnto lyfe and godlynes, thorow the knowledge of him that hath called vs by glozy, and vertue, by the whych are geuen vnto vs excellent and moſte greate promy-ſes, that by the meanes therof ye myght be * partakers of the godly nature, pſe ſpe p corrupeyon of worldly lust.

And herunto geue all diligence: in poure fapth mynyſter vertue: i vertue knowledge:
* in knowledge temperaunce, in tempera-unce patience: in patience godlynes, in god-lynes brotherly kyndnes, in brotherly kynd-nes loue. For yf theſe thynges be amonge you, and be plenteous, theſe wyll make you that ye nether ſhal be ydle nor vnfrutefull in the knowledge of oure Lorde Jesus Christ.
But he that lacketh theſe thynges, is blynde and gropeth for the waye wyth his hāde, and hath forgotten, that he was purged from hys olde ſynnes.

Wherefore brethren, geue the more diligence for to make your callinge & eleccō ſure * by good works. For yf ye do ſoch thynges, ye ſhall neuer fall. Pce and by this meanes an entrynge in ſhal be mynyſtered vnto you abundantly into the cuerlaſtyng kyngdome of oure Lorde and ſauoure Jesus Christ.

Wherefore, I wyll not be neglygēt to put you all wayes in remembraunce of ſoch thynges though ye knowe them poure ſelues, and be ſtabliſhed in the preſent trueth. But wythſtandynge I thynke it mete (as longe as I am in * thys tabernacle) to ſend you up by puttynge you in remembraunce, for as much, as I am ſure, that ſhortly I muſt put of thys my tabernacle, & euen as oure Lorde Jesus Christ ſpewd me. I wyll euer alſo geue my diligence, that ye maye haue wherwyth to ſtore by the remembraunce of theſe thynges after my departyng. * For we haue not folowed deceatfull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and compynge of oure Lorde Jesus Christ, but * wyth our eyes we ſawe his maieſtie: euen then verely when he receaued of God the father honoure and glozy, and when ther came ſoch a voyce to hym from the excellent glozye. * Thys is my dere beloued ſonne, in whow I haue de-lyte. Thys voyce we hearde come from heauen, whan we were wyth hym, in the holy mounte.

We haue alſo a ryght ſure worde of pro-phete, wher vnto yf ye take hede, as vnto a * lyght that ſhyneth in a darcke place, ye do well, vntyll the dape dawne, ad the dape ſtarre aryſe in poure hertes. * So that ye ſhal know thys: that no prophete in the ſcripture hath eny pryuate interpretacyon: For the ſcripture came neuer by the wyll of man: but holy men of God ſpake, as they were moued by the holy goſt.

The.ij. Chapter.

The propheteſſe of falſe teachers, and the waye their punyſhment.

Her were falſe prophetes alſo amō-ge the people, euen as * ther ſhal be falſe teachers amonge you: whych prouely ſhall bypnye in damnable ſectes (euen denyenge the Lorde that hath bought them and bypnye vpon them ſelues ſwyft damnacyon, and many ſhall folowe their damnable wayes, by whom the waye of trueth ſhal be euyl ſpoken of, and thorow coueteuſnes ſhall they wyth fapned wor-des make marchandys of you, whole iudge-ment is now not farre of, and their damnacyon ſleepeth not.

For yf God ſpared not the angels p ſyn-ned, but caſt them downe into hell, ad delyuered them into chaynes of dercknes. * (to be punyſhed) to be kept vnto iudgemēt: nether ſpared p olde worlde, but ſaued. * For p epyght preacher of ryghtewelnes, and brought in p floud vpon the worlde of the vngodly, and turned the cyties of ſodom and Gomor into aſhes: ouerthrewe them, damned them, and made on them an enſample vnto thoſe that after ſhulde lyue vngodly. And iuſt * Lot vered wyth the vnclenly conuerſacyon of p wyched, delyuered he. For he beyng ryghteous, and dwellynge among them in ſeyn-ge and hearyng, vered his ryghteous ſoule from dape to dape wyth their vnlaful de-des. * The Lorde knoweth how to delyuer the godly out of temptacyon, and to reſerue the vniuſte vnto the dape of iudgement for to be punyſhed: but cheſely theſe that walcke after the fleſhe in the luſt of vnclennes, and deſpyſe auctoryte. Preſumptuous are they,
and ſubborne,

and ſubborne, whych feare not to ſpeake euyl of the that excell in worſhippe. When p angels which are greater both i power & ken and deſtroyed, ſpeake euyl of the thin-ges p they vnderſtande not, & ſhall periſhe in their awne deſtruccion, & receaue the re-warde of vnyghtewelnes.

They couit iſe pleasure to lyue deſpiciouſly tes they haue excercyſed with robrie. They are curled chyldzen which haue forſake the ryght waye, and are gone aſtrape folowyn-ge the * waye of Balaam the ſonne of Bo-lor, which loued the rewarde of vnyghtewelnes: but was rebuked of hys iniquitie.

The ſame and dome beaſt, ſpeakynge with mannes voyce, forbad the madneſſe of the Prophete.

* Theſe are welles without water: cloudes that are, caried with a tēpeſt, to whom the ing wordes of vanytie, they entyle thorow luſtes in the voluptuousnes of the fleſh, them bertie, where as they the ſelues are p bonde eſcaped from the fylthynes of the worlde thorow the knowledge of the Lorde and the ſauoure Jesu Christ) are yet tagled agayne therin, and overcome * then is the latter ende worſe wyth them then the begynninge.

For it had bene better for the, not to haue ne to her walowynge in the myer.

The.iii. Chapter.

This is the ſeconde epistle that I now write vnto you dearly beloued, wher by puttynge you in remembraunce, that ye maye be myndeſull of the wordes (whych were tolde befoze of the holy Prophetes) and alſo the commaundement of vs whych be Apoſtles of the Lorde and ſauoure

* This fyrſt vnderſtande, that ther ſhall come in the laſt dayes, mockers. * (in diſcreet ſuineſſe) whych wyll walke after their awne luſtes, & ſaye: Where is the promes of hys compynge? For ſence the fathers dyed, all thynges continue in the ſame eſtate wherin they were at the beginninge. For this they knowe not (and that wyllfully) how that p heauens a greate whyle ago were, & the erth out of the water appeared by thorow the water, by the word of God: by the whych thynges the worlde that then was, perſhed beyng ouerrunne wyth water. * But the heauens and erth whych are now, be kept by hys worde in ſtoze, and reſerued vnto fpye, agaynſt the dape of iudgement & perdition of vngodly men.

Dearely beloued, be not ignoraunt of this one thige, howe that * one dape is with the Lorde as a thouſande yeaere, & a thouſande yeaere as one dape. The Lorde that hath pro-miſed, is not ſlacke, as ſome mē count ſlacknes: but is payent to vs warde: for almoſt as he wolde haue no man loſt, but wyll re-ceae all men to repentaunce.

Neuertheleſſe * the dape of the Lorde wyll come as a theſe in the nyghte, in the which dape, the heauens ſhall paſſe awaye in maner of a tempeſt, and the elemētes ſhal melt with heat: the erth alſo & the workes that are therein, ſhall burne. Seyng the that all theſe thynges ſhal periſhe, what maner per-ſons ought ye to be in holy conuerſacyon, and godlynes: lokyng for, and haſtynge vnto the compynge of the dape of God, by whō the heauens ſhall periſhe with fpye, & the elemētes ſhall melt with heat. * Neuertheleſſe, we (accordig to his promes) loke for a new heaue and a new earth, wherin dwelleth ryghtewelnes.

Wherefore dearly beloued, ſeynge that ye loke for ſuch thynges, be diligent p ye maye be founde of hym in peace, wythout spotte and vndeſpiled. And ſuppoſe that the longe ſufferinge of the Lorde is ſaluacyon, euen as oure dereſt beloued brother Paule alſo (ac-cordyng to the wyldome geuen vnto him) hath wyrtten vnto you, p, almoſt i euery epiſtle, ſpeakynge of ſuch thynges: amonge which are many thynges harde to be vnder-ſtāde, which they that are vnlearned & vnſtable, peruert, as they do alſo p other ſcriptures vnto their awne deſtruccion. Ye therfore beloued, (ſeynge ye be warned afore hād) beware, leſt ye, wyth other men be alſo plucked awaye thorow the erreure of the wyched, and fall from your awne ſtedfaſtnes: but growe in grace, & in the knowledge of oure Lorde and ſauoure Jesus Christ.
To whom be glozy both now and for euer.
Amen.

The .i. Epistle

The fyrst Epistle

of Saynct John the Apostle.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ True wyltelle of the euergastynge worde of God.
The blonde of Chyrt is the purgacyon from synne.
A man is wylthout synne.

What which was from the begyn-nyng, whyche we haue hearde, whyche we haue sene wylth oure eyes, whyche we haue looked vpon, and our hādes haue handled, of þe word of þe lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, & we haue sene and beare wytnes. & the we vnto you * that eternall lyfe, whyche was wylth the father, & appeared vnto vs. That which we haue sene & herde, declare we vnto you, þe also maye haue fellowshyppe with vs, and that oure fellowshyppe maye be wylth the father and his sonne Iesus Christ. And thys wyl-te we vnto you, þe maye receyue, and that þe ioye maye be full.

And this is the tydynges whyche we haue hearde of hym & declare vnto you, þe God is lyght, & in hym is no dercknes at all. If we saye, þe we haue feloushypp with hym, and walcke i dercknes, we lye, & do not þe truth.
¶ But & þe we walke in lyght euen as he is in lyght, then haue we fellowshyppe wylth him, and * the blonde of Iesus Christ his sonne clenseth vs from all synne.

* If we saye that we haue no synne, we deceane oure selues, and the trouth is not in vs. ¶ If we knowlege oure synnes, he is faythfull & iust, to forgyue vs oure synnes, and to clense vs from all vnrpyghtewines.
If we saye we haue not synned, we make hym a lyar, and hys worde is not in vs.

¶ Christ is oure aduocate. Of true loue, & how it is recey-ued.

The .ii. Chapter.

Wyltell chyldren, these thynges write I vnto you, that ye synne not.
And þe eny man synne, we haue an aduocate wylth the father, Iesus christ, the ryghteous: & he it is þe obtayneth grace for oure synnes, not for oure synnes onely: but also for þe synnes of all the worl-de. ¶ And herby we are sure þe we knowe hym, þe we kepe hys commaundementes.
¶ He that sayth I knowe hym, and kepeth not hys commaundementes is a lyar, and the veritye is not in hym. But who so kepeth hys worde, in hym is the loue of God perfect i dede: herby knowe we that we are in hym. He þe sayth he bydeth in hym, ought to walke euen as he walked.

¶ Brethren, I wylte no newe comaundement vnto you: but that olde comaundement, which ye haue had fro the begynnyng.

The olde commaundement is the worde, which ye haue hearde from the begynnyng.
Agayne, a new commaundement I wylte vnto you, that is true in him, and the same is true also in you: for the dercknes is past, and the true lyght now shyneth. ¶ He that sayth how that he is in the lyght, & yet ha-teth his brother, is in dercknes euen vntyll thys tyme. He that loueth his brother, aby-deth in the lyght, and ther is none occasion of euill in hym. He that * hateth his brother, is in dercknes, & walketh in dercknes: and can not tell whyther he goeth, because that dercknes hath bynded hys eyes.

¶ Babes I wylte vnto you, how þe poure synnes are forgyue you for his names sake.
I wylte vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowne him that is from the begynnyng.
I wylte vnto you yonge men, how þe ye haue ouercome þe wicked: I wylte vnto you lytell chyldren, how þe ye haue knowen þe father. I haue wylten vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowen hym that is from the begynnyng. I haue wylte vnto you yonge men, how that ye are stronge, and the worde of God abydeth in you, and ye haue ouercome that wicked.

¶ So that ye loue not * the worlde, nether the thynges that are in the worlde. If eny mā loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde (as the lust of the fleshe, and the lust of the eyes, & the pryde of life) is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awaye and the lust therof: but he that fulfylleth the will of God, abydeth for euer.

¶ Lytell chyldren, it is the last tyme, and as ye haue herde how that Antichrist shall come, euen now are there many begonne to be Antichristes all redy, wherby we knowe, þe it is the last tyme. ¶ They went out fro vs, but they were not of vs. For þe they had bene of vs, they wolde no dout haue continued with vs. But that it myght appeare, that they were not of vs.

¶ Neuerthelesse, ye haue an opyntment of hym þe is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. ¶ I haue not wylte vnto you, as the igh ye knewe not þe trouth: but as though ye knewe it (& knowe also) þe nolpe cometh of trouth. Who is a lyar, but he that denyeth that Iesus is Christ: the same is Antichrist, that denieth the father & the sonne. Whosoener denyeth the sonne, the same hath not the father.

¶ Let therfore abyde in you that same which ye hearde from the begynnyng. If that which ye hearde from the begynnyng shal remay-ne in you, ye also shal contynue in the sonne, and in the father. And thys is the promes that he hath promysed vs, euen eter-nall lyfe.

These

Of S. John.

No. xii.

These thynges haue I wylten vnto you, concernynge the that deceaue you. And the anoyntinge which ye haue receyued of him dwelleth in you. And ye nede not, that eny man teach you: but * as þe anoyntinge teacheth you of all thynges, and is true, and no lye, and as it hath taught you, euen so byde therin. And now babes abyde in hym: that when he shall appeare, we maye be bolde, & not be made ashamed of hym at hys commyng. If ye knowe that he his righteous, knowe also þe euery one which doth righte-welsnes, is bozne of hym.

¶ The singular loue of God toward vs: and how we agayne oughte to loue one another.

The .iii. Chapter.

Behold, what loue the father hath shewed on vs, that we shuld be called * (as be in dede) þe * sonnes of God.
For this cause þe worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Dearely beloued, now are we þe sonnes of God & yet it doth not appeare, what we shal be.
But we knowe, that when it shall appea-re, we shal be lyke hym. For we shal se hym as he is. And euery mā that hath this hope in hym, pougeth him selfe, eue as he also is pure. Whosoener commytte synne, com-mitteth vnrpyghtewines also, and synne is vnrpyghtewines. And ye knowe, that he appeared, to take awaye oure synnes, and in hym is no synne. As many as byde in hym, synne not: whosoener synneth, hath not se-ne hym, nether knowen hym.

¶ Babes, let no man deceaue you. He that doeth ryghteousnes, is ryghteous, euen as he is ryghteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuyll. ¶ For the deuyll synneth sence the begynnyng. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to lowse the workes of þe deuyll. Whosoener is bozne of God, synneth not: for his seed remaineth in him, and he canot synne, because he is bozne of God.
In thys are the chyldren of God knowen, and the chyldren of the deuyll. Whosoener doeth not ryghteousnes, is not of God, nether he that loueth not hys brother.

¶ For this is the tidynge, that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye shuld loue one another, not as * Cayn which was of that wicked, and slewe his brother. And wherfore slewe he hym? Because his awne wor-kes were euill, and hys brothers good. ¶ Maruayle not my brethren though þe worlde hate you. We knowe, that we are traslated from deeth vnto lyfe, because we loue the brethren. ¶ He that loueth not hys brother, abydeth i deeth. Whosoener hateth his brother, is a mā sear. And ye knowe, þe no man sear, hath eternall lyfe abydyng in hym.
Herby perceaue we loue: because he gaue his lyfe for vs: & we ought to geue oure liues for the brethren. But who so hath thys worlde good and * seyth hys brother haue neade: and shutteth vp his compassion from him: how dwelleth the loue of God in hym?

¶ My babes, let vs not loue in worde, nether in tonge: but in dede & in veritie. ¶ Herby we knowe, that we are of the veritie & can quyet oure hertes before hym. For þe oure herte condempne vs, God is gretter the oure herte, and knoweth all thynges. Dearly be-loued, þe oure herte condemneth vs not, then haue we trust to God warde: & * what soe-uer we aske we receaue of hym, because we kepe his comaundementes, & do those thin-ges which are pleasinge in his syght.

¶ And this is hys comaundement, þe we be-lene on the name of his sonne Iesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue comaundement. And he that kepeth hys commaundementes, dwelleth in him, & he in him, and herby we knowe that he abydeth in vs, eue by the sprete which he hath geuen vs.

¶ Difference of spretes, & how the sprete of God maye be knowen from the sprete of erreure. Of the loue of God and of oure neygbbours.

The .iiii. Chapter.

Dearly beloued * beleue not enery spre te: but proue þe spretes, whether they are of god or not, for many false prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Herby shal ye knowe þe sprete of God. Euery sprete that confesseth that Iesu Christ is come in the fleshe is of God. And euery sprete which confesseth not that Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe, is not of God. And this is that sprete of Antichrist, of whom ye haue hearde. Howe þe shal be come: and eue now alredy is he in the worlde.

¶ Lytell chyldren, ye are of God, and haue ouercome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde, therfore speake they of the worlde, and the worlde heareth them. We are of God. He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he þe is not of God, heareth vs not. Herby knowe we the sprete of veritie, and the sprete of erreure.

¶ Dearly beloued * let vs loue one another: for loue cometh of God. And euery one that loueth, is bozne of God, and knoweth God.
He that loueth not, knoweth not God: for God is loue. In this appeared þe loue of God to vs ward, because þe * God sent hys only begotten sonne into the worlde, þe we might liue thowth him. Hezi is loue, not þe we loued God, but þe he loued vs, & sent hys sonne to be the agrement for oure synnes.

¶ Dearly beloued, þe God is loued vs, we ought also to loue one another. ¶ No man hath sene God at eny tyme. If we loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, & hys loue is perfect in vs. Herby knowe we þe we dwell in hym.

The.ij. Epistle

In hym. And he in vs: because he hath geuen vs of hys sperte. And we haue sene, & do testifye, that the father sent p sonne to be the sauyour of the worlde. Whosoener confeseth, p Iesus is the sonne of God, in him dwelleth God, & he in God. And we haue knowe and beleued the loue p God hath to vs.

God is loue, & he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in him. Here is the loue perfect in vs, p we shuld haue trust in the daye of iudgement: For as he is, euē so are we i this worlde. Ther is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynfulnes. He p feareth, is not perfect in loue.

We loue him, for he loued vs fyrst. If a man say, I loue God, and yet hate his brother, he is a liar. For how can he p loued not hys brother whom he hath sene, loue God whom he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue we of hym: p he which loueth God, shuld loue his brother also. Amen.

To loue God, is to kepe his commaundementes. For he ouercometh the worlde. Whosoever lyeth in the sonne of God, of the sonne vnto death.

The. v. Chapter.

Whosoener beleueth p Iesus is Christ, is borne of God. And euery one that loueth hym which begat, loueth him also which was begotten of him. * By this we knowe, p we loue the chyldren of God, when we loue God, and kepe his commaundementes. For this is the loue of God, that we kepe his commaundementes, and * his commaundementes are not greuous. * For all that is borne of God, ouercometh the worlde. And this is the * victory that ouercometh the worlde, euē oure fayth. Who is it p ouercometh the worlde: but he which beleueth, that Iesus is the sonne of God?

This Iesus Christ is he that cam by water & bloud, not by water onely: but by water and bloud. And it is the sperte that beareth wytnes, because the sperte is trueth.

(For there are thre which beare recorde in heauen, p father, p worde & p wholy goost. And these thre are one.) And there are thre which beare recorde on earth, p sperte & water, and bloud: & these thre are one. If we receaue the wytnes of me, the wytnes of God is greater. For this is the wytnes of God: (that is greater) which he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on the sone of God, hath the wytnes in hym selfe. He that bebeleueth not God, hath made him a liar because he beleued not the recorde p God gaue of hys sonne. And this is p recorde, how that God hath geue vnto vs eternall lyfe, & this lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hath the sonne hath lyfe: & he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not lyfe.

These thynges haue I wyrtte vnto you that beleue on the name of the sone of God, that ye maye knowe, how that ye haue eternall lyfe, & that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And thys is p trust that we haue in hym: that * p we alle eny thyng accorde to hys wyll, he heareth vs. And p we knowe p he heareth vs what soener we aske, we knowe, that we haue the peticyons, that we desyre of hym.

If eny man se hys brother synne a synne not vnto deeth, let him aske, & he shall geue him lyfe for the that synne not vnto deeth. Ther is a synne vnto deeth, for which I praye not p a man shuld praye. All vnyghtweldnes is synne, & ther is synne not vnto deeth.

We knowe, that whosoener is borne of God, synneth not: but he that is begotte of God, kepeth hym selfe, & that wycked toucheth hym not. We knowe, that we are of God, and the worlde is all together set on wyckednes. We knowe, that the sonne of God is come, and hath geue vs a mynde to knowe hym which is true: & we are in hym that is true, throughe is sonne Iesu Christ. This same is very God, and eternall lyfe. Babes kepe poure selues from ymagis. Amen.

The seconde epistle of Saynct John.

The wyrtte vnto a certayne lady, retyfeth that her chyldren walke in p trueth, & exhorteth them vnto loue, warneth them to beware of such deceaues as denye that Iesus Christ came in the flesch, prayeth them to continue in the doctrine of Christ, & to haue nothinge to do with them that bringe not this lerninge.

In the elder to the electe lady ad her chyldre, whom I loue in p trueth: and not I onely, but also all that haue knowe the trueth for p truethes sake whych dwelleth in vs, and shal be in vs for euer.

With vs shal be grace, merce, & peace from God the father & from the lord Iesus Christ p sonne of the father, i trueth & loue.

I reioysed greatly, that I founde of thy chyldren walkinge in trueth, as we haue receaued a commaundement of the father. And now beleeche I p lady, not as though I wote a new commaundement vnto the, but that same which we haue had fro the begynnyng, that we shuld loue one another. And this is the loue, that we shulde walke after hys commaundement.

This commaundement is (that as ye haue hearde fro p begynnyng) ye shuld walke in it. For many deceaues are entred into the worlde, whych confesse not that Iesus Christ is come in the flesch. This is a deceaue and an Antichrist. Loke on your selues that we loose not that we haue wrought: but that we maye haue a ful rewarde. Who soener

Of S. John.

No. xvi.

soener trasgredyth & bydeth not i p doctryne of Christ, hath not God. He p endureth i p doctrine of Christ, hath both p father & p sonne. If ther come eny vnto you, & bryge not this lerninge, him receaue not to house: nether byd hi God spede. For he p byddeth hi God spede, is partaker of hys euyl dedes. (Beholde, I haue tolde you before, that ye shulde not be ashamed in daye of the lord.) I had many thynges to wyrtte vnto you, neuertheless I wolde not wyrtte w paper and ynke: but I trust to come vnto you, & speake w you mouth to mouth, that oure lope maye be full: the sonnes of thy electe sister grete the. Amen.

The thyrd epistle of saynct John.

He is glad of Gaius, that he walketh in the trueth: exhorteth them to be loupge vnto the poore Christen in theyr persecucion, sheweth the vnkynde dealinge of Diotrephes, and the good repoyte of Demetrius.

In the elder vnto p beloued Gaius who I loue in the trueth. Beloued I wishe in all thynges that thou prosperedest, and fareddest well, euen as thy soule prospereth, For I reioysed greatly, whē p brethren came, and testified of the trueth that is in the, how thou walkest in the trueth. I haue no greater ioye, the for to heare, how that my sonnes walke in veritye. Beloued thou doest faythfully, what soener p doest to p brethren, and to straungers, which beare wytnes of thy loue before the congregacion. Which brethren if thou byngge for wardes of theyr iorney (after a godly sorte) p shalt do well: because that for his names sake they wet forth: and toke nothyng of the Geyls. We therfore ought to receaue such, that we myght be helpers to the trueth. I wote vnto the congregacio: but Diotrephes which loueth to haue the preeminence amōge them, receaueth vs not.

Wherfore p I come, I will declare hys dedes which he doeth, icstinge on vs w malicious wordes, nether is therewith contēt. Not onely he him selfe receaueth not p brethren: but also he forbiddeth the p wolde, and thrusteth them out of the congregacio.

Beloued, folowe not that which is euyl, but that which is good. He that doeth well is of God: but he that doeth euyl, seyth not God. Demetrius hath good repoyte of all men & of the trueth it selfe. yee, and we oure selues also beare recorde, & ye knowe, that oure recorde is true. I had many thiges to wyrtte: but I will not with ynke and penne wyrtte vnto the. I trust I shall shortly se p & we shall speake mouth to mouth. Peace be vnto the. The louers salute the. Grete the louers by name.

The Epistle of Saynct Jude.

He rebuketh such as beynge blynded with their awne lustes, resist the trueth. He exhorteth vs to edifye one another, to playe in p holy gost to continue in loue to loke for the commynge of the Lorde.

In the seruant of Iesus Christ p brother of James. To them which are called, and sanctified in God the father, and preserued in Iesu Christ. Mercy vnto you and peace and loue be multiplied.

Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to wyrtte vnto you of the comen saluacion, it was nedeful for me to wyrtte vnto you, to exhortte you, that ye shuld contynually labour in the fayth, which was once geuen vnto p saynctes. For ther are certayne vngodly me craftely crept in, of which it was written afore tyme vnto such iudgement. They turne p grace of oure God vnto wantannes, and denye God (which is the onely Lorde) and oure Lorde Iesus Christ.

My mynde is therfore to put you in remembraunce, for as moche as ye once knowe this, how that the Lorde (after that he had deliuered p people out of Egypt) destroyed them which after warde beleued not. The angels also which kept not their fyrst estate, but leste their awne habitation, he hath reserved in euerlastyng chaynes vnder darkness vnto p iudgement of the grete daye: * euen as Sodom & Gomore, and the cytyes aboute them (which in lyke maner defyled the selues with fornicacion, and folowed strange flesche) are set forth for an ensample, & suffer p payne of eternall fyre. Lyke wyse, these beynge deceaued by dycaunes, defile p flesche, despise rulars & speake euyl of them that are in auctorite.

Yet Michael the archangel when he stro- ue agaynst the deuyll, & disputed about the body of Moses, durst not geue raplyng sentence, but sayde, the Lorde rebuke the. But these speake euyl of those thynges whych they knowe not: and what thynges they knowe naturally (as bestes which are without reason) i those thiges they corrupte the selues. Who be vnto the, for they haue folowed p waye of Cain, & are utterly geue to the erreure of Bala for lukers sake & perishe in p treason of Core. at geatheringe time withered, & twyse deyd, & plucked up by y roses. They are y ragynge waues of y see, rompyng out their awne swa me. They are wandryng sterres, to whom is reserved the myst of darcknes for euer.

Enoch the seuenth from Adam prophesied before of such, sayinge. * Beholde, the Lord shall come with thousandes of saynctes, to geue iudgement agaynst all men, & to rebuke all that are vngodly amonge the of all. their vngodly dedes, which they haue vngodly committed, and of all their cruell speakyngs, which vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst hym.

These are murmurers, cōplainers, wal kyng after their awne lustes, whose mou thes speake proude thynges. They haue mē in greate reuerence because of aduantage. But ye beloued, remēber the wordes which were spoken before of the Apostles of oure Lord Jesu Christ, how that they tolde you * that there shuld be begylers in the last tyme, which shuld walke after their awne vngodly lustes. These are makers of sectes, fleshye, haupnge no sprete.

But ye derlye beloued, edifye poure sel ues in your most holy sayth, prayinge in y holy goost, and kepe your selues in the lone of God, lokyng for the mercy of oure Lord Jesu Christ, vnto eternall lyfe. And haue compassion of some, separatinge them, and orher saue with feare, pullinge them out of the fyre. * (and haue compassion on the other) and ha te the fylthy vesture of the fleshe.

Vnto him that is able to kepe you fre fro synne, & to present you faultlesse before the presence of his glory w lope. * (at the comynge of oure Lord Jesu Christ) to God oure saypoure: (tho:ow Jesu Christ oure lord) which onely is wple be glory, maistye, dominion, and power, * (before all wordes) now and euer. Amen.

The reuelacyon of Saynct John the diuine.

Happye are they that heare the woide of God and kepe it. He wyrteth to the seuen congregacions in Asia, seeth seuen candelstikes, and in the myddes of them, one lyke vnto the sonne of man.

The fyrst Chapter.

In the reuelacyon of Jesu Christ which God gaue vnto him, for to shewe vnto hys seruauntes, thynges whych muste shortly come to passe. * And when he had sent, he shewed by hys Angell vnto his seruaunt John, which bare recorde of the woide of God, and of the testymony of Jesu Christ, and of all thynges that he sawe. Happy is he that readith, and they that heare the wordes of the prophesy, and kepe those thynges which are wyrtten the: rin. For the tyme is at hande.

John to the seuen congregacions in Asia. Grace be vnto you and peace, fro hi which is and which was, and which is to come, & from the seuen spretes which are before his throne, & fro Jesu Christ, which is a fayth full wyrtner, & fyrst begotten of the deede: & Lord ouer the kynges of the erth. Vnto him that * loued vs, and welsed vs from oure synnes in hys awne bloude, & made vs kynges ad prestes vnto God his fa ther, be glory and dominion for euermore. Amen. * Beholde, he cometh with cloudes, & all eyes shall se hi, & they also which pear sed him. And all kynredes of the erth shall wayle. * (ouer hym) Eue so: Amen. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng and y endyng, sayth the Lord almyghty, which is and which was, and which is to come.

I John poure brother, and companio in tribulaciō, and in the kyngdome & paciēce in Jesu Christ, was in the yle that is called Pathmos, for y worde of God, and for the witnessig of Jesu Christ: I was i the sprete on a sondaye, & herde behynde me a great voyce, as it had bene of a trompe, sayinge: I am Alpha and Omega, the fyrst and the laste. That thou seyst, wyrtē in a boke, and sende it vnto the seuen cōgregaciōs which are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, & vnto Smyrna and vnto Pergamos, and vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, & vnto Philadel phia, and vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake to me. And when I was turned: I sawe seuen golden candelstikes, & i the myddes of the candelstikes, one lyke vnto the sonne of man, clothed with a lymne garment downe to the fete, and gyyd about the pay pes w a golden gyrdle. His heed, & his hea res were whyte, as whyte woll, & as snowe and hys eyes were as a flame of fyre: & hys fete lyke vnto brasse, as though they bzēt in a fornae, and his voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had i his ryghte hā de, vii. starres. And out of his mouthe wet a sharpe two edged swearde. * And his face shone, euen as the sonne in his strength.

And when I saw him, I fell at his fete, euen as deed. And he layde his ryghte hāde vpo me, saying vnto me: feare not. * I am y fyrst & the laste, & am a lyue, and was deed. And beholde: I am a lyue for euermore & haue y keyes of hell & of deeth. Wyrtē therfore the thynges which thou hast sene, and the thynges which are, and the thynges which must be fulfilled here after: y miste ry of the. vii. starres which thou sawest in my ryght hāde, and the. vii. golden candel stikes. The. vii. starres are the messēgers of the. vii. cōgregaciōs, And the seuen can delstikes delstikes which thou sawest, are the seuen congregacions.

The ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth foure congregacions to amende, & sheweth the rewarde of hym that ouercometh.

Vnto the messenger of y cōgrega cyō of Ephesus wyrtē: these thynges sayth he, that holdeth the se uen starres in hys ryghte hāde, and that walketh in the myddes of the se uen golden candelstikes. I knowe thy wor kes, and thy labour, & thy paciēce, and how thou cannest not forbear them whych are euyl: and hast examined them whych saye they are Apostles, and are not: & hast foun de them lyars, & hast suffred. And hast pa ciēce: and for my names sake hast labored, and hast not faynted. Neuerthelesse, I ha ue sumwhat agaynst the, because thou ha ste leste thy fyrst loue. Remember therfore from whence thou art fallen, & repent, and do the fyrst workes. Or elles I wyll come vnto the shortly, & wyll remoue thy cādel sticke out of his place, except thou repent. But this thou hast, because thou hast the dedes of the * Nicolaitans, which dedes I also hate. Lett hym that hath eares, heare what the sprete sayth vnto y cōgregacyōs. To hym that ouercometh, wyll I geue to eate of the * tree of lyfe, which is in y myd des of the Paradyse of God.

Vnto the messenger of the cōgregacyon of Smyrna wyrtē: These thynges sayth he that is fyrst, & the laste, which was deed, and is a lyue. I knowe thy workes & tribula cyon and pouerte, but thou art ryche. And I knowe y blasphemys of them, whych call them selues Jewes & are not: but are the cō gregacyon of Sathan. Feare none of those thynges, which thou shalt suffre. Beholde, the deuyll shall caste some of you into pre son, to tēpte you, & ye shall haue tribulacyō ten dayes. Be saythfull vnto y deeth, and I wyll geue the a croune of lyfe. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what y sprete sayth to the cōgregacions. He that ouercometh, shall not be hurt of the seconde deeth.

And to the messenger of the cōgregacyon in Pergamos wyrtē: This sayth he, which hath the sharpe swearde with two edges: I knowe thy workes, & where thou dwellest, euen where Sathanas scat is, and thou ke pest my name, & hast not denyed my sayth. And in my dayes Antipas was a faythfull wyrtner of myne, whych was slayne amon ge pou, where Sathan dwelleth. But I ha ue a fewe thynges agaynst y: because thou hast there, them that mayntayne y doctri ne of Balam * which taught in Balahe, to put occasyon of synne before the chyldren of Israel, y they shulde eate of meate dedy cat vnto ydoles, and commyt fornyfacyon.

Of S. John.

No. xlvii.

Euen so hast thou them that mayntayne y doctryne of the Nicolaitas, which thyng I hate. But be conuerted, or elles I wyll co me vnto y shortly, and wyll fight agaynst the with y swearde of my mouth. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what y sprete sayth vnto y cōgregacyōs. To hym that ouerco meth, wyll I geue to eate Manna that is hyd, & wyll geue hym a whyte stone, & i the stone a newe name wyrtten, which no man knoweth, saypunge he that receaueth it.

And vnto y messenger of y cōgregacyon of Thyatira wyrtē. Thys sayth the sonne of God, which hath eyes lyke vnto a flāme of fyre, & hys fete are lyke brasse: I knowe thy workes, & thy loue, scrupce, and sayth, and thy paciēce, & thy dedes, which are mo at the last then at the fyrst. Notwith stan dyng I haue a fewe thynges agaynst the, because thou sufferest that woman * Jela bell, which called her selfe a Prophetesse, to teache & to deceaue my seruauntes, to make them comyt fornyfacyon, & to eate meates offered vnto ydoles. And I gaue her spa ce to repēt of her fornyfacyon, & she repēded not. Beholde, I wyll cast her into a beed: & them that comyt fornyfacyon with her, into gret aduersitye, excepte they turne fro their dedes. And I wyll kyll her chyldren with deeth. And all the congregacyōs shall knowe, that * I am he which searcheth the reynes & hertes. And I wyll geue vnto eue ry one of you accordyng vnto hys workes.

Vnto you I saye, and vnto other of them of Thyatira, as many as haue not this ler nyng & which haue not knowen the depres of Sathan (as they saye) I wyll put vpon you none other burthen, but y which ye ha ue already. Holde fast tyll I come, & wio: soeuer ouercometh & kepeth my workes vnto the ende, to hym wyll I geue power ouer nacys, & he shall rule them w a rodde of yron: & as y vessels of a potter, shall they be broken to shēers. Euen as I receaued of my father, so wyll I geue hym the mornyng starre. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what y sprete sayth to the cōgregacions.

The iii. Chapter.

He instructeth and enfourmeth the Angels of the cōgregacions, declarpunge also the rewarde of hym that ouercometh.

Vnto the messenger of y cōgregacyon y is at Sardis: this sayth he y hath y seue spretes of God & the seuen star res. I knowe thy workes, thou hast a name that thou lyuest, and thou art deed. Be awake, and strength the thynges which remaine, & are redy to dye. For I ha ue not founde thy workes perfayete befo re * my God. Remēber therfore, how thou hast receaued & heard, & hold fast, & repent.

 1. Thess. b. ii. 1. c.  If thou shalt not watche, I wyll come on the as a thefe, & thou shalt not know what houre I wyll come vpon the. Thou hast a fewe names in Sardys, whych haue not defyled the garments, & they shall walke wyth me in whyte, for they are worthy. He that ouercometh, shall be thus clothed in whyte araye, and I wyll not put out his name out of the booke of lyfe, and I wyll confesse his name before my father, and before his Angels. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the sprete sayth vnto the congregacions.

25  2. Thess. b. ii. 1. c. And wypte vnto the angell of the congregacion of Whyladelphia: this sayth he that is holy and true, which hath the keye of Dauid: * whych openeth and no man shutteth, and shutteth, & no man openeth. I knowe thy workes. Beholde, I haue set before the an open doze, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a lytell strength, & hast kept my saynges: & hast not denyed my name. Beholde, I make them of the congregacion of Sathan, whych call them selues Jewes, and are not, but do lye: Beholde, I wyll make them that they shall come, and worship before thy fete: and shall knowe, that I haue loued the.

C Because thou hast kept the wordes of my payence, therfore I wyll kepe the from the houre of temptacion, which wyll come vpon all the worlde, to tempte them that dwell vpon the erth. Beholde, I come shortly. Holde that which thou hast, that no man take awaye thy crowne. Hym that ouercometh, wyll I make a pyllar in the temple of my God, & he shall go nomore out, And I wyll wypte vpon hym, the name of my God and the name of the cyrpe of my God, new Jerusalem: whych cometh downe out of heauen from my God, and I wyll wypte vpon hym my new name. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the sprete sayth vnto the congregacions.

D And vnto the messenger of the congregacion whych is in Laodicia, wypte: This sayth (Amen) the faythfull and true wytnes, the begynnyng of the creatures of God. I knowe thy workes, that thou art nether colde nor hotte: I wolde thou were colde or hotte. So then because thou art betwene bothe, and nether colde ner hotte, I wyll spewe the out of my mouth, because thou sayest: I am ryche & increasid wyth goodes, and haue nede of nothyng, and knowest not, how thou art wretched & myserable, and poore, & blynde and naked. I counsell the to bye of me, golde tryed in the fyre, that thou mayst be ryche: and whyte rayment, that thou mayst be clothed, & thy fylthy nakednes do not appeare, & anoynt thyne eyes wyth oyle, that thou mayst see.

 As many as I lone, I rebuke, & chasten, Be feruent therfore, and repent. Beholde, I stande at the doze, & knocke. If any man heare my voyce, and open the doze, I wyll come in to hym, and wyll suppe wyth hym, and he wyth me. To hym that ouercometh wyll I graunte to syt wyth me in my seate, euen as I ouercam, & haue sytten wyth my father in his seate. Lett hym that hath eares heare, what the sprete sayth vnto the congregacions.

The. iiii. Chapter.

C He seeth the heauen open, and the seate, and one spyttinge vpon it, and xiiii. seates aboute it with xiiii. elders spyttinge vpon them, and foure beastes prayngs god daye and nyght.

A After this I looked, and beholde a doze was open in heauē, and the fyrst voyce whych I hearde, was as it were of a trompett talke wyth me, whych sayde: come vpon hyther, and I wyll shewe the thynges: whych must be fulfilled hereafter. And immediately I was in the sprete: & beholde, a seate was sett in heauen, and one sate on the seate. And he that sat, was to loke vpon, lyke vnto a Jasper stone and a Sardyne stone. And ther was a rayne bove aboute the seate, in spght lyke to an Emeralde. And aboute the seate were xiiii. seates. And vpon the seates, xiiii. elders sytting, clothed in whyte rayment, and had on theyr heades crownes of golde.

C And out of the seate proceded lyghtnynges, & thundrynges, & voyces, & ther were seven lampes of fyre, burnyng before the seate, whych are the seven spretes of God, And before the seate ther was a see of glasse, lyke vnto Cristall, and in the myddes of the seate, & rounde about the seate were foure beastes full of eyes before & behynde. And the fyrst beast was lyke a lyon, & the secōde beast lyke a calfe, & the thyrde beast had a face as a man, & the fourth beast was lyke a flyngge Eggle. And the foure beastes had eche one of them, vi. wynges about hym, & they were full of eyes wīn. And they had no rest daye nether nyght sayng. * Holy, holy, holy, Lord God almyghty, whych was, and is, and is to come.

D And when those beastes gaue glory and honour & thankes to hym that sate on the seate, (whych lyueth for euer & euer) the xiiii. elders fell downe before hym that sate on the seate, & worshipped hym that lyueth for euer & cast theyr crownes before the seate sayng: thou arte worthy o Lord * (oure God) to receaue glory, & honoure, and power, for thou hast created all thynges, & for thy willes sake they are, & were created.

The. v. Chapter.

C He seeth the labe openyng the boke, and therfore the foure beastes, the xiiii. elders, and the angels praye the lambe, and do hym worshippe.

A And I sawe in the ryght hande of hym that sat in the trone, a booke wrytten with in & on the backsyde, sealed with seven seales. And I sawe a stronge angell, which preached w a lowde voyce: Who is worthy to open the boke, & to lose the seales therof. And no man in heauē ner in erth nether vnder the erth, was able to open the boke, nether to loke theron. And I wepte much because no man was fōnde worthy to open & to reade the boke, nether to loke theron.

25 And one of the elders sayde vnto me wepe not: Beholde, a lyon of the trybe of Juda, the rote of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the boke, and to lose the seven seales therof. And I behelde, and lo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the foure beastes, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene kylled, hauyng seven hornes, and seven eyes, whych are the seven spretes of God, sent into all the worlde. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryght hande of hym that sate vpon the seate.

C And when he had taken the boke, the foure beastes and xiiii. elders fell downe before the labe, hauyng (euerp one of them) harpes & golden vialles full of odoures, which are the prayers of sayntes, & they songe a new songe, sayng: thou art worthy to take the boke, & to open the scales therof: for thou wast kylled, & hast redeemed vs by thy bloud out of all kynredes, & toges, & people, & nacōs, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges, and prestes, & we shall raygne on the erth.

D And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many angels about the trone, & about the beaste & the elders, and I hearde thousand thousandes, sayng w a lowde voyce: Who is the labe that was kylled to receaue power, & ryches, & wysdome, and strength, and honour, & glory, & blessing. And all the creatures whych are in heauen, & on the erth, & vnder the erth, & in the see, & all that are in them, herde I sayng, blessing, honour, glory, & power be vnto hym that syttech vpon the seate, & vnto the labe for euermore. And the foure beastes sayd: Amen. And the xiiii. elders fell vpon their faces, and worshipped hym that lyueth for euermore.

The. vi. Chapter.

C The lambe openeth the vi. scales, and many thynges folowe the openyng therof.

A And I sawe, when the lambe opened the first scale, and I herde one of the foure beastes saye, as it were the voyce of thonder: come & se: and I sawe. And beholde ther was a whyte horlle: and he that sat on hym, had a bove, and a crowne was geuen vnto hym, and he went forth conquering & for to ouer come. And when he had opened the seconde scale, I herde the secōde beaste, saye: come and se. And ther wēt out another horlle that was redd, & power was geuen to hym that satt theron, to take peace from the erth, & that they shuld kyl one another. * And ther was geuen vnto hym a great swerde.

25 And when he had opened the thyrde scale I herde the thyrde beaste saye, come & se. And I behelde, & lo, a black horlle: & he that sate on hym, had a payre of balaces in his hāde. And I herde a voyce in the myddes of the foure beastes, saye: a measure of whete for a peny, & thre measures of barley for a peny and oyle and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth scale, I herde the voyce of the fourth beaste saye, come and se: & I looked. And beholde a pale horlle: & his name that sate on hym was deeth, & hell followed after hym, & power was geuen vnto them ouer the fourth parte of the erth, to kyl wyth swerde, & wyth hōger, & wyth decty that cometh of vermen of the erth.

C And when he had opened the fyft scale, I saw vnder the altare the soules of them that were kylled for the worde of God, & for the testymony whych they had, & they cryed with a lowde voyce, sayng: how longe tarryest thou Lord, holy & true, to iudge & to auge our bloud on them that dwell on the erth? And longe whyle garmetes were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayde vnto them, that they shuld reste yet for a lytle season vntill the number of theyr felowes, and brethzen, & of them that shuld be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

D And I behelde, when he had opened the syxt scale: & lo, ther was a great erthquake and the sunne was as blacke as sacke cloth made of heere. And the mōne waxed all, euen as blōnd, and the starres of heauen fell vnto the erth, euen as a fygge tree casteth fro her vntymely fygges, when she is shaken of a myghty wynde. And heauen vanished awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled to gether. And all mountaynes and ples, were moued out of theyr places. And the kynges of the erth, and the gret men, and the ryche men, and the chefe captaynes, & the myghty men, & euery bondman, and euery free man, hydd them selues in denmes, and in rockes of the hylls: & and sayde to the hylls and rockes: fall on vs, & hyde vs from the presence of hym that syttech on the seate, and from the wrath of the lambe: for the grette daye of his wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

The. vii. Chapter.

C He seeth the seruantes of God sealed in theyr foreheades out of all nacōs and people, whych though they suffer trouble, yet the lambe redeth them, ledeh them to the fontaynes of lyfng water, and God shall wyte awaye all teares fro theyr eyes.

And after that, I sawe .iiii. angels stāde on the .iiii. corners of y^e erth holdynge y^e foure wyndes of the erth, y^e y^e wynde shuld not blowe on y^e erth, nether on y^e see, nether on any tree. And I sawe another angell ascēde from the r^espynge of the sunne, which had y^e scale of the lyvynge God, & he cryed wyth a loude voyce to y^e foure Angels (to whom power was geue to hurte y^e erth & the see) sayng: hurt not the erth nether the see, nether the trees, tyll we haue sealed the seruauntes of oure God in their foreheades.

B And I hearde y^e nōbre of th^e whych were sealed, & ther were sealed an. C. & xliii. M. of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the trybe of Juda were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Ruben were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Gad were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Aser were sealed. xii. M. Of y^e trybe of Neptali were sealed. xii. M. Of y^e tryb of Manasses were sealed. xii. M. Of y^e trybe of Symeon were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Leuy were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Issacar were sealed. xii. M. Of y^e trybe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Joseph were sealed. xii. M. Of y^e trybe of Benjamin were sealed. xii. M.

C After this I behelde, & lo, a gret multitude (whych nomā couldē nōbre) of all nacōs & people, & tōges, stode before y^e seate, & before y^e lābe, clothed with lōge white garmētes, & palmes in their handes, & cryed with a lowde voyce, sayinge: saluacyon be ascribēd to him that sitteth vpon y^e seate of oure God, & vnto y^e lambe. And all the angels stode in the cōpase of the seate, & of y^e elders & of y^e foure bestes, & fell before the seat on their faces, and worshypped God, sayinge, Amen: Blessinge & glory & wylidome & thākes, and honour, & power, & myght, be vnto oure God for euermore. Amen.

D And one of the elders answered, sayinge vnto me: what are these whych are atayed i lōge whyte garmētes, & whēce came they? And I sayde vnto him: Lord thou wotest. And he sayde to me: these are they, whych came out of great tribulacyō, & made their garmētes large, & made them white by the bloude of y^e lambe: therfore are they in the presence of y^e seate of God & serue hym dāye & nyght in his tēple, & he that sitteth in the seate wyl dwel amonge them. They shall hunger no more, nether thyrst, nether shall the sunne lyght on them, nether any heate. For y^e lābe whych is in y^e myddes of y^e seate, shall fede them, & shall leade them vnto fountaynes of lyvynge water, & God shall wyppē awaye all teares from their eyes.

The .viii. Chapter.

The seventh scale is opened, there is silence in heauen, the foure angels blowe their trompettes, & greates plagues folowe vpon the earth.

And when he had opened the seuenth scale, ther was sylence in heauen abou the space of halfe an houre. And I sawe .vii. angelles standynge before God, & to them were geuen seuen troyettes. And another angell came & stode before y^e aulter, hauynge a golden senser, & moche of odoures was geue vnto him, that he shulde offere of the prayers of all saynetes vpon the golden aulter, whych was before y^e seate. And the smoke of the odoures whych cam of the prayers of all saynetes, ascēded vpon before God out of the Angelles hande. And y^e Angell toke the senser, and fylled it wyth fyre of the aulter, and caste it into the erth, and voyces were made, & thondrynge & lyghtnynges, and erthquake.

B And y^e seuen Angelles whych had y^e seuen troyettes, prepared them selues to blowe. The fyrst Angell blewe, & there was made hayle & fyre, whych were myngled w bloud, & they were cast into y^e erth: & y^e thirde parte ^{of the erth was set on fyre, and the thirde parte} of trees was burnt, and all grene grashe was byēt. And y^e secōde angell blewe: & as it were a gret mountayne burnynge w fyre was caste into the see, and y^e thyrde parte of the see tourned to bloude, and the thyrde parte of the creatures whych had lyfe, dyed, & the thyrde part of shypes were destroyed.

C And the thyrde Angell blew, & ther fell a gret starre from heauen, burnynge as it were a lāpe, & it fell into the thyrde parte of the ryuers, & into fountaynes of waters, & the name of y^e starre is called wormwood. And y^e thyrde parte was turned to wormwood. And many men dyed of the waters, because they were made bytter. And the fourth Angell blew, and y^e thyrde parte of the sunne was smytten, and y^e thirde parte of the mone, and the thyrde parte of starres: so that the thyrde part of them was darchned. And the daye was smytten, that the thyrde part of it shulde not shyne, & lyke wyse the nyght. And I behelde and herde an Angell synginge thoroow the myddes of heauen, sayinge with a lowde voyce: Woo, woo, to the inhabyters of the erth, because of y^e voyces to come of the troye of the thre Angelles, whych were yet to blowe.

The .ix. Chapter.

The fifth and syxt Angell blowe their trompettes: the starre fallēth from heauen: the locustes come out of the smoke. The fyrst wo is past: the foure angels that were bounde are loosed, and the thyrde parte of men is kyllēd.

And the fyrst Angell blewe, and I sawe a starre fall from heauen vnto the erth. And to him was geuen the kape of the bottomlesse pytt. And he opened the bottomlesse pytt, and the smoke of the pytt arose as the smoke of a gret forname. And the sunne, and the ayer the ayer were darchned by the reason of the smoke of y^e pytt. And there came out of the smoke locustes vpon the erth, & vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the erth haue power. And it was commaunded them, that they shuld not hurt the grashe of y^e erth: nether any grene thyng: nether any tree: but onely those men whych haue not y^e scale in their foreheades. And to them was comaunded, that they shulde not kyll them, but that they shulde be vexed. v. monethes, & their payne was as the payne y^e cometh of a scorpion, when he hath stonge a man. And in those dayes shall men seke deeth, and shall not finde it, & shall desyre to dye, and deeth shall flye from them.

B And the symilitude of the locustes was lyke vnto horses prepared vnto battayll, & on their heades were as it were crownes, lyke vnto golde, and their faces were as it had bene y^e faces of men. And they had heere as the heere of women. And their teethe were as y^e teethe of lyōs. And they had habbergions, as it were habbergions of yron. And the soude of their winges, was as the soude of charrettes, when many horses rūne to gether to battayll. And they had tayles lyke vnto scorpions, and there were spynge i their tayles. And their power was to hurt mē. v. monethes. And they had a kyng ouer the, whych is y^e angell of y^e bottomlesse pytt, whose name in the hebrewe tong, is Abaddon: but in the Greke tonge, Apollion y^e is to saye: a destroyer. One wo is past, & beholde, two woos come yet after this.

C And the fyrst Angell blewe, and I herde a voyce from the .iiii. corners of the golden aulter, whych is before God, sayinge to the fyrst Angell, whych had the troye: Lose the foure Angelles, whych are bounde in y^e grette ryuer Euphrates. And the foure Angelles were loosed, whych were prepared for an houre, for a daye, for a moneth, & for ayere, for to slay y^e .iii. part of men. And the nōbre of horsmen of warre were. xx. thousande tymes. x. M. And I herde the nōbre of them: & thus I sawe y^e horsen in a vision, & them y^e late on them, hauynge fyre habbergions of a Jacincte couloure, & byrmstone, & the heades of y^e horsen were as y^e heades of lyōs.

D And out of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke, & byrmstone. And of these thre was y^e thyrde part of men kyllēd: that is to saye, of fyre, smoke, and byrmstone: whych proceeded out of the mouthes of them: For their power was i their mouthes & in their tayles, for their tayles were lyke vnto serpentes, & had heades, & with them they dyd hurt: And y^e remanūt of y^e men whych were not kyllēd by these plagues, repēted not of the dedes of their handes y^e they shulde not worshyppe demys, & ymages of golde and spuler, and brasse, and stone, and of wood, whych nether can se, nether heare, nether go. Also they repēted not of their murther, and of their lozery, nether of their fornyca cyon, nether of their thefte.

The .x. Chapter.

The Angell bath the booke open: he sweareth ther shalbe nōmore tyme: he geueth the booke vnto John, whych eateth it vp.

And I sawe another myghty angell come downe from heauen clothed w a cloude, & the raynebowe vpon his heed. And his face as it were the sunne, & his fete as it were pyllars of fyre, and he had in his hāde a lytell booke open, and he put his ryght fote vpon y^e see, & his lyfte fote on the erth. And cryed wyth a lowde voyce, as when a lyon roareth. And when he had cryed, seuen thondres spake their voyces. And when y^e .vii. thōdres had spoken their voyces, I was about to wyryte. And I herde a voyce from heauen, sayinge vnto me: seale vp those thynges whych the .vii. thōdres spake, & wyryte them not.

B And y^e Angell whych I sawe stode vpon the see, & vpon the erth, lyfte vp his hande to heuen, and sware by him that lyueth for euer more, wch created heauen, & the thynges that therein are: (And the erth and the thynges that therein are) and the see, & the thynges whych therein are: y^e there shulde be no longer tyme but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth Angell, when he shall begyn to blowe: euen the mystery of God shalbe fynlyshed, as he preached by his seruauntes y^e prophetes.

C And y^e voyce whych I herde from heuen, spake vnto me agayne, & sayd: * go & take the lytle booke whych is open in the hande of y^e angell whych standeth vpon y^e see, & vpon y^e erth. And I wēt vnto the angell, & sayde to him: geue me the lytle booke, and he sayde vnto me: take it, & eate it vp, & it shall make thy belly bytter, but it shalbe i thy mouth as swete as hony. * And I toke y^e lytle booke out of his hande, & eate it vp, & it was in my mouth as swete as hony: and as sone as I had eatē it, my belly was bytter. And he sayde vnto me: y^e must prophesy agayne amonge the people, and nacōs, and tōges, and to many kynges.

The .xi. Chapter.

The temple is measured. The seconde wo is past.

And then was geuen me a rede, lyke vnto a rodd, & it was sayde vnto me. Ryse & meate the temple of God, & y^e aulter, & them y^e worshyppē therein, & the quere whych is wīn y^e tēple, cast out & meate it not for it is geuen vnto the Gētyles, & y^e holy cytye shall they treade vnder fote. xlii. monethes. And I wyl geue power vnto my two witnesses, & they shall prophesy a thousande, two hundred &

lx. dayes, clothed in sacke clothe. These are two olyue trees, & two candelstyckes, standing before the God of the erth.

And if any man will hurt the, fyre shall procede out of their mouthes, and consume their enemyes. And if any man will hurt them, they muste be kylled. These haue power to shut heauē, that it rayne not in the dayes of their prophesying: and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, and to smyte the erth with all maner plagges, as often as they will.

And when they haue synfulled their testimony, the beast that cam out of the bottomlesse pyt, shall make warre agaynst them, & shall overcome them, & kyll the. And their bodyes shall lye in the stretes of the greates cite, which spiritually is called zodom and Egypte, where oure Lorde was crucified. And they of the people & kynredes, & tonges, & they of the nacyōs, shall se their bodyes. iii. dayes and an halfe, & shall not suffre their bodyes to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the erth, shall reioyce ouer them, and be glad, & shall sende gyftes one to another, for these two prophetes vexed them that dwell on the erth.

And after. iii. dayes & an halfe, the sprete of lyfe from God, entred into them. And they stode vpon their fete, & greates feare came vpon them whych sawe them. And they herde a greates voyce fro heauen, sayinge vnto them. Come vpon hyther. And they ascended vpon heauen in a cloude, & their enemyes sawe the. And the same houre was ther a greates erthquake, and the tenth parte of the erthe fell, and in the erthquake were slayne names of men seuen. And the remnant were feared, and gaue glory to the God of heauen. The second woo is past, & beholde, the thyrde woo will come anone.

And the seuenth Angell blew, & ther were made greates voyces in heauen, sayinge: the kyngdomes of this worlde are oure lordes, and his Christes, & he shall raygne for euer more. Amen. And the. xliii. elders, whych sate before God on their seates, fell vpon their faces, & worshipped God, sayinge: we geue the thākes. O Lord God almyghty: whych arte & wast, & arte to come, for thou hast receaued thy greates myght, and hast raygned. And the nacyōs were angry, and thy wrath is come, & the tyme of thy deed & they shuld be iudged and that thou shuldest geue rewarde vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and sayntes, & to them that feare thy name small & great & shuldest destroye the, which destroye the erth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, & ther was sene in his temple, the arcke of his testamēt, & ther folowed lightynnges, and voyces, and thunders, and erthquake, and moche hayle.

The. xii. Chapter.

The seuenth Angell bloweth his trumpet. There appeareth in heauen a woman clothed with the sunne: Michael fighteth with the dragon, which persecuteth the woman.

And ther appered a gret wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with the sunne, & the moone vnder her fete, & vpon her heed a crowne of. xii. starres. And she was with chylde, & cryed traouaylinge in byrth, & payned redy to be deliuered. And ther appered another wonder in heauen, for beholde, a gret red dragon haunged. vii. heddes, & ten hornes & seuen crounes vpon his heades: and his tayle droue the thyrde parte of the starres out of heauen, and cast them to the erth.

And the dragon stode before the woman whych was redy to be deliuered: for to deuoure her chylde as sone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man chylde, which shulde rule all nacyōs with a rodd of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, & to his seate. And the woman fled into the wyldernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, where she shulde fede her there a. xii. hundred and. lx. dayes.

And ther was a greates battayll in heauen, Michael & his angels fought with the dragon, & the dragon fought & his Angelles, and preuailed not, nether was their place founde any more in heauen. And the greates dragon, that olde serpēt, called the deuyl & Sathanas, was cast out. Which deceaueth all the worlde. And he was cast into the erth & his Angelles were cast out also with hym.

And I heard a lowde voyce sayinge: in heauen is now made saluacyon and strengthe & the kyngdome of oure God, & the power of his Christ. For the accuser of our brethren is cast downe, which accused the before oure God daye and nyght. And they overcame him by the bloude of the lambe, and by the worde of their testimony, & they loued not their lyues vnto the deeth. Therefore reioyce heuē, & they that dwell in them. Woo to the inhabytors of the erth, and of the see: for the deuyl is come downe vnto you, which hath greates wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short tyme.

And when the dragon sawe that he was caste vnto the erth, he persecuted the woman, which brought forth the man chylde. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a greates eagle, that she myght flye into the wyldernes into her place, where she is noursished for a tyme, tymes, & halfe a tyme, fro the presence of the serpent. And the dragon cast out of his mouth water after the woman as it had bene a ryuer, because she shuld haue bene caught of the floud. And the erth holpe the woman, and the erth opened her mouth & swallowed, the ryuer, which the dragon cast out of his mouth, month. And the dragon was wroth with the woman: and went, & made warre with the remnant of byrth, which kepe the commandementes of God, and haue the testimony of Iesus Christe. And he stode on the see sande.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A beast cometh out of the see with seuen heades and ten hornes. Another beast cometh out of the earth with two hornes.

And I sawe a beaste ryse out of the see, haunged seuen heddes, and ten hornes, and vpon his hornes ten crounes, & vpon his heed, the name of blasphemie. And the beaste which I sawe, was lyke a catte of the mountayne, and his fete were as the fete of a beare, & his mouth as the mouth of a lyon. And the dragon gaue hym his power & his seate, & gret auctorite: and I sawe one of his heddes as it were wounded to deeth, & his deadly wounde was healed. And all the worlde wondered at the beaste, & they worshipped the dragon, whych gaue power vnto the beaste, and they worshipped the beaste sayinge: who is lyke vnto the beaste: who is able to warre with hym?

And ther was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake greates thynges & blasphemies, & power was geuen vnto hym, to do. xlii. monethes. And he opened his mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God, to blasphemie his name & his tabernacle, & them that dwell in heauen. And it was geuen vnto hym to make warre with the sayntes, & to overcome the. And power was geuen him ouer all kynred, and people, and tonge, and nacion, and all that dwell vpon the erth worshipped hym: whose names are not written in the booke of lyfe of the lambe, which was kylled from the begynnyng of the worlde. If any man haue an eare let hym heare. He that ledeeth into captiuite, shall go into captiuite: he that kylleth with a swerde, must be kylled with a swerde. Here is the paycenge, & the fapth of the sayntes.

And I behelde a nother beast comyng vnto the erth, and he had two hornes lyke a lambe, & he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyrste beaste coulde do in his presence, & he caused the erth, & them which dwel therein, to worshyppe the fyrste beaste, whose deadly wounde was healed. And he dyd greates wonders, so that he made fyre come downe from heauen in the syght of men. And deceaued them that dwell on the erth, by the meanes of those sygnes whych he had power to do in the syght of the beaste, sayinge to them that dwell on the erth: they shuld make an ymage vnto the beaste, whych had the wounde of a swerde, and dyd lyue.

And he had power to geue a sprete vnto the ymage of the beaste, & that the ymage of the beaste shuld speake, and shuld cause, as many as wolde not worshyppe the ymage of the beaste, shuld be kylled. And he made all, both small & gret, ryche & poore, fre & bond, to receaue a marke in theyr ryght handes or in theyr foreheades. And if no man myght by or sell, saue he that had the marke or the name of the beaste, other the nōbre of his name. Here is wysdome. Let hym that hath wytt, count the nōbre of the beaste. For it is the nōbre of a man, and his nōbre is fyre hondred, thre score and fyre.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

The lambe standeth vpon the mount Syon, and the hundred congregacyon with hym. The angel exhorteth to the feare of God, and telleth of the fall of Babylon.

And I looked, and lo, a lambe stode on the mount Syon, & with hym an. C. & xliii. thousande haunged his name & his fathers name written in theyr foreheades. And I herde a voyce from heuen, as the sounde of many waters, and as the voyce of a gret thoundre. And I herde the voyce of harpers harpyng with theyr harpes. And they songe as it were a newe songe, before the seate, & before the foure beastes, & the elders, & no man coulde learne the songe, but the hondred & xliii. which were redeemed from the erth. These are they, which were not defyled with women, for they are virgyns. These folowe the lambe whither soeuer he goeth. These were redeemed from men, byng the fyrste frutes vnto God and to the lambe, & in their mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are with oute spot before the throne of God.

And I sawe, another angell flye in the myddes of heauen haunged the euerlastyng gospel, to preache vnto them that sate & dwell on the erth, & to all nacyōs, kynreds, & tonges & people, sayinge: a lowde voyce: feare God, & geue honour to hym, for the houre of his iudgemēt is come: and worshyppe hym, for he made heauen & erth, & the see, & fountaynes of water. And there folowed a nother angell, sayinge: Babylon is fallen is fallen that greates cite, for she made all nacyōs dryncke of the wyne of her fornicacyon.

And the thyrde angell folowed thys sayinge: a lowde voyce: If any man worshyppe the beaste and his ymage, & receaue his marke in his forehead, or on his hande, the same shall dryncke the wyne of the wrath of God, which is powred in the cup of his wrath. And he shalbe punysshed in fyre & byrmstone, before the holy angels, & before the lambe. And the smoke of theyr torment ascēdeth vnto euermore. And they haue no rest daye, nor night, which worshyppe the beaste & his ymage & whosoever receaueth the pynt of his name. Here is the paycenge of sayntes. Amen.

Hearc are they that kepe the commaunde-mentes and the sayth of Iesu.

And I hearde a voyce from heauen sayig vnto me: wyte. Blessed are y deyd, which here after dye in the Lorde, euen so sayth y spete: that they rest from theyr laboures, but theyr workes folowe them.

And I lokyd, and beholde a whyte clowde, and vpon the clowde one syttinge lyke vnto the sonne of man, haupng on his heed a golden crowne, and in his hande a sharpe spyke. And another angell came out of the temple, crying with a lowde voyce to hym that sat on the clowde: * Thrusse in thy spyke & reye, for thy tyme is come to reye, for the corne of y erth is ripe. And he that sat on the clowde, thurst in hys spyke on the earth, and the erth was repyd.

And another angell came out of the temple, whych is in heauen, haupng also a sharpe spyke. And another angell came out fro the aultr, whych had power ouer fyre, and cryed with a lowde crye to hym that had y sharpe spyke, & sayde: thurst in thy sharpe spyke, & gaddre the clusters of the erth, for her grapes are ripe. And the angell thurst in hys sharpe spyke on the erth, & cut downe the grapes of the vyneparde of y erth: and cast them into the gret wynefat of y wrath of God, & y wynefat was troden with out the cytic, and bloud came out of y fat, euen vnto y horse byddes, by y space of a thousande, and. vi. C. furlonges.

The. xv. Chapter.

The seuen Angells, haupng seuen vyalles full of wrath.

And I sawe another sygne in heuen gret and meruellous, seuen Angells, haupng the seuen laste plages, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God. And I sawe as it were a glassy see, myngled w fyre, & them that had gotten victory of the beast, and of hys ymage, and of the nombze of hys name, stande on the glassy see, ha-upng the harpes of God, and they songe the songe of Moyses the seruaunt of God, & the songe of the lambe, sayinge: Gzet and maruclous are thy workes: * Lorde God al-myghty, iuste & true are thy wayes, thou kyng of Sapnetes. Who shall not feare o Lorde, & glorify thy name? For thou only arte holy, and all gentyls shall come and worshyppe before the, for thy iudgementes are made manifeste.

And after that, I lokyd, and beholde, the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, and the seuen Angells came out of the temple whych had the seuen plages clothed in pure and bygght lymen, and haupng theyr brestes gyrded with golden gerdels. And one of the foure bestes gaue vnto y seuen Angells seuen golden vyalles, full of the wrath of God, whych lpueth for euermore. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God & of hys power, and no man was able to entre into the temple, tyll y seuen plagis of the seuen Angells were fulfilled.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The Angells powre out theyr vyalles full of wrath.

And I herde a great voyce out of the temple saying to the seuen angells: go poure wapes, powre out poure vyalles of wrath vpon the erth. And y fyrst Angell wet, & powred out his vball vpon the erth, & there fell a nopsome, & a soze botche vpon the men whych had the marke of the beast, & vpon them whych worshypped hys ymage. And the secod Angell shed out hys vball vpon the see, and it turned as it were into the bloud of a deyd man: and euery lyuyng thyng dyed in the see. And the thyrde Angell shed out his vball vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, & they turned to bloud. And I herde an Angell saye: Lorde, whyche arte and wast, thou arte ryghteous & holy, because thou hast geuen soche iudgementes, for they shed out y bloud of sainctes, and prophetes, & therfore hast y geuen them bloud to dryncke: for they are worthy. And I herde another saye: euen so Lorde God almyghty: true and ryghteous are thy iudgementes.

And the fourth Angell powred out hys vball on y sunne, & power was geuen vnto him to vexe men with heat of fyre. And the men raged in gret heate: & spake euyl of y name of God, which hath power ouer those plages, & they repeted not of theyr euill de-dis, to geue him glory. And the fyfe Angell powred out his viall vpon y seate of y bea-ste, and his kyngdome waxed derke, & they gnethe theyr togges for sorowe, and blasphe-med y God of heauen for sorowe & payne of theyr sores, & repented not of theyr dedes.

And y syxt Angell powred out his vball vpon y gret ryuer Euphrates, & the water dried vp, y the wapes of the kynges of the east shulde be prepared. And I sawe thre vncleue spyetes lyke frogges come out of y mouth of y dragon, & out of y mouth of the beast, & out of the mouth of y falsse prophe-te. For they are the spyetes of deuyls, worshypng myracles, to go out vnto the kynges of the erth and of y whole world, to gather them to the battayle of that gret dape of God almyghty. * Beholde, I come as a theft. Happy is he that watcheth, and kepeth hys garmentes, lest he walke naked, and men se hys fylthynes. And he gathered red them together into a place called in the Hebze tonge Armagedon.

And the seuenth Angell powred out hys vball into the ayre. And ther cam a greate voyce out of heauen from y seate, saying, it is done. And ther folowed, voyces, thodun-ges, and lightenynges, & ther was a greate erthquake, such as was not sence me were vpon the erth, so mighty an erthquake & so great. And the great cytye was deuyded in to thre partes, and y cyties of all nacjons fell. And greate Babylon came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto hys y cup of the wyne of the scarcenes of his wrath.
Euery ple also fled awaye, and y mountaynes were not founde. And ther fell a greate haye (as it had bene talentes) out of heauē vpon the men, and the me blasphemed God: because of the plage of the haye, for it was great, and the plage of it soze.

The. xvii. Chapter.

The descreybeth the woman sittynge vpon the beast with ten hornes.

And ther came one of the seuen Angells, whyche had the seuen vyalles: and talked wyth me, sayenge vnto me: come, I wyll shewe vnto the, the iudgemēt of the great whoze that sytteth vpon many waters, wyth whome haue comytted for-nicacion the kynges of the erthe, and the in-habytors of the erth are droncken wyth the wyne of hir fornicaciō. And y spete carped me awaye in to the wylernes. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a rose colozed beast, full of names of blasphemye, whyche had seuen heades and ten hornes. And the womā was arayed in purple and rose coloure, and decked wyth golde, precious stone, and pear-les, and had a cup of golde in her hande, full of abhominaciōs and fylthynes of her for-nicacion. And in her foreheade was a name written, a mystery, gret Babylon the mother of whordom and abominacions of the erth. And I sawe the wyfe droncken wyth the bloude of sapnetes, and with the bloude of the wytnesses of Iesu. And when I sawe her: I wondred with great meruayle.

And the Angell sayde vnto me: wherfore maruaylest thou? I wyll shewe the the mystery of the womā, and of the beast y beryth her, which hath seuen heades and ten hornes.
The beast that thou seest, was, and is not,
and shall ascēde out of the bottomlesse pyt, and shall go into perdicion, & they that dwel on the erth shall wondre (whose names are not written in the boke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the worlde) when they behold the beast that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath wylidome.

The seuen heades are seuen mountaynes, on which the woman sytteth, they are also seuen kynges. If yue are fallē, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he commeth, he must contine to a shorte space. And the beast that was, & is not, is euen y epyght and is one of the seuen, and shall go into be-strucciō. And the ten hornes which y sawest are tē kynges which haue receaued no kingdom as yet, but shall receaue power as kyng-ges at one houre wyth y beast. These haue one mynde, and shall geue their power and strength vnto the beast. These shall fyght with the lambe, & the lambe shall ouercome the. * For he is Lorde of lordes, and kyng of kynges, and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen, and saythfull.

And he sayde vnto me: the waters whych thou sawest, where y whoze sitteth, are people, and folke, & nacjons, and tonges. And the ten hornes, which thou sawest vpon the beast, are they that shall hate the whoze, & shall make her desolate and naked, & shall cate her fleshe, & burne her wyth fyre. For God hath put in theyr hertes to fulfill his wyl, & to do wyth one consent, for to geue their kyngdome vnto the beast, vntyll the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the womā which thou sawest, is y gret cytye, whyche raygneth ouer the kynges of the erth.

The. xviii. Chapter.

The louers of the worlde are soze for the fall of Babilon, but they that be of God haue cause to reioyse for her destruction.

And after that, I sawe another Angell come from heauen, haupng gret power, and the erthe was lyghtened wyth hys bygghtnes. And he cryed mygh-tely with a stronge voyce, sayinge: * Gzet Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the inhabitacion of deuyls, and the holde of all foule spyetes, and a cage of all vncleane and hateful byddes, for all nacjons haue dronke of the wyne of the wrath of her for-nicacion. And the kynges of the earth haue comytted fornicacion wyth her, and the merchautes of the erth are waxed ryche of the aboundaunce of her pleasures.

And I herde another voyce from heauē, saye, come awaye from her my people, y ve be not partakers of her synnes, and y ve receave not of her plagis. For her synnes are

And the kynges of the erth shall beweepe her and waille ouer her, which haue comyt- ted fornicaciō with her, & haue lyncd want- fanly with her, whē they shall se the smoke of her burnyng, & shall stande a farre of, for feare of her punishment, sayinge. * Alas, Alas, that gret cytie Babylon, & myghty cytie: for at one houre is thy iudgemēt come. And the marchauntes of the erth shall wepe and waille in them selues, for no man wyll bye theyr ware any more, the ware of gold and siluer, & precious stones, nether of pearle, and raynes, and purple, and skarlet, and all thyng wodge, and all maner vessels of puerie, & all maner vessels of most precious wodge, & of brasse & yron, & of syna- mō, and odours, & oymntes, and frackin- fence, & wyne, and oyle, and fyne flour, and wheate, beastes, and shepe, and horyles, and charetes, and bodys, and soules of men.

And & apples that thy soule lusted after, are departed fro the. And all thynges which were deyntie, and had in price, are departed fro the, & thou shalt fynde the nomore. The marchauntes of these thynges whiche were wered ryche, shall stande a farre of from hir, for feare of & punishment of her, wepyng and waylpyng, & sayinge: * Alas, Alas, that gret cytie, & was clothed in raynes and purple, and skarlet, and decked with golde, and precious stones, & pearles: for at one houre so great ryches is come to nought.

And euery thyng gouernour, and all they that occupied thynges, and thyngmen which worke in the see, stode a farre of, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burnyng, sayinge: what cytie is lyke vnto this gret cytie? And they cast dust on theyr heddes, and cryed wepyng, & waylpyng, & sayde: * Alas, Alas, that gret cytie, wher were made ri- che all that had shippes in & see, by the rea- son of her cosynnes, for at one houre is she made desolate.

Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye ho- ly Apostles and Prophetes: for God hath geuen your iudgemēt on her. And a myghty angell toke vp a stone lyke a gret millstone and cast it into & see, sayinge: With such vo- lence shall that gret cytie Babylon be cast, & shall be founde no more. And & voyce of har- pers, and musycions, & of ppyers, and tro- petters shall be herde no more in the: and no craftes mā, of whatsoeuer craft he be, shall be founde any more in the. And the soude of a myll shall be herde no more in the, & the voy- ce of the bydegrom and of the byde, shall be herde no more in &, for thy marchauntes were the gret me of & erth. And w thyne inchaū- ment were deceaued al naciōs: & in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, & of the saynctes, & of all & were slayne vpo & erth.

The. xix. Chapter.

Chapter is geuen vnto God for iudgyng the wyse- re, and for auengynge the bloude of his seruauntes. The Angell wyll not be worshipped. The foules and bydes are called to the slaughter.

And after that, I herde a greate & voyce of moche people in heauen sayinge: Alleluia. Saluacion & glory & honour & power be ascri- bed to & Lorde our God, for true and ryghteous are his iudgements, for he hath iudged the gret whoze which cor- rupt the erth w her fornicaciō, & hath auē- ged the bloud of his seruauntes of byr hāde. And agayn they said: Alleluia. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And &. xliii. elders, & &. iiii. bestes fell downe, & worshipped God that sat on & seate, sayinge: Amē, Alleluia. And a voyce came out of the seate, sayinge: praise our Lorde God all ye & are his seruaū- tes, & ye & feare hym both small and great.

And I herde & voyce of moche people eue as the voyce of many waters, & as the voy- ce of strong thōdynges sayinge: Alleluia, for the Lorde our God omnipotēt raygneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, & geue honoure to him, for the mariage of the lābe is come, and bys wyfe made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted, that she shuld be arayed with pure and goodly raynes. For the ray- nes is the rightewelsnes of sainctes. And he sayd vnto me, wypte, * happy are they whi- che are called vnto & supper of & lābes ma- riage. And he sayd vnto me: these are & true sayinges of God. And I fell at his fete, to worshype him. And he sayde vnto me: se & do it not. For I am thy felow seruaūt, & one of thy byrthē, eue of them & haue the testi- mony of Iesus. Worshype God. For the testimony of Iesus is & sprete of prophely.

And I sawe heaue open, & behold, a whyte hōrse: & he & sat vpon him was called sayth full & true, & in rightewelsnes he doth iudge & make battayle. His eyes were as a flāme of fyre: & on his heed were many crownes: & he had a name wypten, that noman knew but he hym selfe. * And he was clothed wth a vesture dypt in bloude, & his name is called & wyde of God. And the warriors which we- re in heauen, folowed him vpon whyte hōr- ses, clothed wth whyte & pure raynes: and out of bys mōthe wente a sharpe two ed- ged swerde, that wth it he shulde smyte the hethen. And he shall rule them wth a rodde of yron, and he trode & wynefat of fearlines and wrath of almyghty God. And hath on bys vesture and on his thygh a name wypt- ten: Kyng of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes.

And I sawe an Angell stāde in the sonne, and he cryed with a loude voyce, sayinge: to all the foules that flye by the middes of hea- uen: come and gather youre selues to gether vnto vnto & supper of & great God, that ye maye eate fleshe of kynges, and the fleshe of hye captaynes, and the fleshe of myghty men, & the fleshe of horyles, and of them that spt on them, and the fleshe of all free men and bonde men and of small and gret. And I sawe the beast, and the kynges of the earth, and their warriors gathered together to make batay- le agaynst hym that sat on the hōrse, and agaynst his loudiers.

And the beast was takē, & wth hym that false prophet that wrought miracles befoze hym, with whych he deceaued them that re- ceaued the beastes marke, & them that wor- shipped bys ymage. These both were cast quicke into a ponde of fyre burnyng wth byrmstone: & the renaunt were slayne w the wyerde of hym & sat vpo the hōrse, whych I wearde proceeded out of his mōthe, & all & foules were fulfylled wth theyr fleshe.

The. xx. Chapter.

The dragon is bounde for a. ccc. yeres. The deeth arys, and receaue iudgement.

And I sawe an Angell come downe fro heauen, haung the kape of & bottom- lesse pyt, and a greate chayne in bys hand. And he toke & dragon & olde serpente, which is the deuyll & Satanas, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: and cast hym into & bottomlesse pyt, and he shutte hym vp, and let a scale on hym, that he shulde deceaue & people nomore, tyll the thousand yeres we- re fulfylled. And after that he must be losed for a lytell season.

And I sawe seates, and they sat vpo the, & iudgemēt was geue vnto the: and I sawe the soules of them that were beheaded for & wytnes of Iesu, and for the worde of God: & which had not worshipped the beast, nether his ymage, nether had takē his marke vpo their forheades, or in their handes: and they lyued, and raygned wth Christ a. ccc. yere: but the other of the deed me lyued not agay- ne, vntyll the thousand yere were finished. This is that first resurreccion. Blessed and holy is he, that hath parte in the first resur- reccion. For on such shall the seconde deeth haue no power, but they shall be the Priestes of God & of Christ, and shall raygne wth hym a thousand yere.

And whē the thousand yeres are expyred, Satan shall be losed out of his pson and shall go out to deceaue & people, whych are in the foure quarters of the erth, Gog & Ma- gog, to gather them together to battayle, whose nombre is as the sonde of the see: and they went vp in the playne of the erth: & co- paced the fētes of the saynctes about, & the beloued cytie. And fyre came downe fro God out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuyll that deceaued them, was cast into a lake of fyre and byrmstone, where the beast and the false prophetes shall be tormented daye and nyght for euermore.

And I sawe a greate whyte seate, and him that sat on it, from whose face flect a waye both & erth and heauen, and their place was nomore founde. And I sawe the deed, both gret and small stonde befoze God: And the boke was opened, and another boke was opened, which is the boke of lyfe, & the deed were iudged of those thynges whych were wyitten in the boke accordyng to their de- des: and the see gaue vp her deed which we- re in her, and deeth and hell deliuerd vp the deed, which were in them: & they were iud- ged euery man accordyng to his dedes. And deeth and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the seconde deeth. And whosoeuer was not founde wyttē in the boke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The. xxi. Chapter.

In this chapter is described the new and spiri- tual Jerusalem.

And I sawe a newe heaue and a newe earth. For the fyrst heauen, and the fyrst earth were vanyshed awaye, and ther was nomore see. * And I John sawe that holy cytie, newe Jerusalem come downe from God out of heauen, prepared as a byde garnished for her husband. And I herde a greate voyce out of heauen say- inge: beholde, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he wyll dwell wth them. And they shall be bys people, and God hym selfe shall be wth them, and be theyr God. * And God shall wyte awaye all teares fro theyr eyes. And there shall be nomore deeth, nether sorowe, nether cryenge, nether shall ther be any more payne, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sat vpo the seate, sayde: * Beholde, I make all thynges newe. * And he sayde vnto me: wypte, for these wo- des are saythfull and true.

And he sayd vnto me: it is done, I am Al- pha and Omega, the begynnyng & the ende I wyll geue to hym that is a thyrt, of the well of the water of lyfe, fre. He that ouer cometh shall enheret all thynges, and I wyll be bys God, and he shall be my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbeleuyng, and the abhominable, and murdres, & whoremong- ers, and sorcerers, and ydolaters, and all ly- ars shall haue theyr parte in the lake which burnyth with fyre and byrmstone, which is the seconde deeth.

And there cam vnto me one of & seuen An- gels which had the seuen vyalles full of the seuē last plagis: & talked with me sayinge: come byther, I wyll shewe the & byde, the lammes wyfe. And he carped me awaye in & sprete spete to a great and an hye moſtayne, and he ſhewed me the great cytie holy Jeruſale, deſcendynge out of heauen fro God: hauynge the bryghtnes of God. And her ſpynge was lyke vnto a ſtone moſt precious, euen lyke a Jaſper cleare as Cryſtall: & had walles great & hye, & had. xii. gates & at þ gates xii. Angells: and names written, whych are the names of the. xii. trybes of Iſraell: on þ Eaſt parte. iii. gates, & on the Northſide. iii. gates, & towardes the South. iii. gates, & from the Weſt thre gates, and the wall of the cytie had. xii. foundacions: and in them þ twelue names of þ lambes. xii. apoſtles.

And he that talked with me, had a golde reade to meaſure the cytie with all and the gates therof & the wall therof. And the cytie was bylt. iii. ſquare, and the lēgth was as large as the bredth, & he meaſured þ cytie with the golden reade. xii. M. furlonges: and the length & the bredth, and the heyth of it, were equall. And he meaſured the wall therof, an. cxi. cubytes: the meaſure that the angell had, was after the meaſure that man vſeth. And the byldynge of the wal of it was of Jaſper. And the cytie was pure golde, lyke vnto cleare glaſſe, and the foundacions of the wall of the cytie were garniſhed with al maner of precious ſtones. The fyrſt foundation was Jaſpis, the ſeconde Saphyre, the thyrde a Calcedony, þ fourth an Emeralde, the fyft Sardonyx, the ſyxt Sardeos, the ſeuenth Cryſolite, the eyght Berall, the. ix. a Copas, the tenth a Cryſopraſos, the eleuenth a Jacynthe, the tweluenth an Amathiſt.

The twelue gates were twelue pearles, euer y gate was of one pearle, and the ſtrete of the cytie was pure golde, as thoꝝow thynge glaſſe. And I ſawe no temple therein. For the Lorde God almighty and the lambe are the temple of it. * And the cytie hath no nede of þ ſonne, nether of þ mone to lighten it. For the bryghtnes of God dyd lyght it, and the lambe was the lyght of it. And the people whych are ſaued ſhall walke in the lyght of it. And the kinges of the earth ſhall bynge theþ gloꝝy (and honour) vnto it. * And þ gates of it are not ſhut by dape. For there ſhalbe no nyght there. * (And into it ſhal they bynge þ gloꝝy & honour of the nations.) And there ſhall enter into it none vncleane thing, nether whatſoeuer worketh abhominacion oꝝ maketh lyes: but they only whych are wyrtten in the lambes boke of lyfe.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The reuer of the water of lyfe, the ſcrutunnes and lyght of the cytie of God. The Lorde geueth euer þ ſeruauntes warnynge of chynge to come, the angell will not be wyrttyn. To þ woꝝde of God maye nothynge be addyd noꝝ mynyſhed.

And he ſhewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, clere as Cryſtall: procedynge out of the ſeate of God, and the lambe. In the myddes of the ſtreet of it, and of ether ſyde of the ryuer, was ther woode of lyfe: whych bare twelue maner of frutes: & gaue frute euer y moneth: & the leues of the wood ſerued to heale þ people with all. And ther ſhalbe no moze curſe, but the ſeate of God and the lambe ſhalbe in it: and þ ſeruauntes ſhall ſerne hym. And they ſhall ſe þ face, and his name ſhalbe in their foreheades. * And there ſhall be no nyght there, & they nede no candle, nether light of the ſunne: for the Lorde God geueth the lyght, and they ſhall raygne for euer moze.

And he ſayde vnto me: theſe ſaynges are faythfull and true. And the Lorde God of þ holy Prophetes ſent þs Angell to ſhewe vnto þs ſeruauntes, the thynge whych he muſt ſhortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come ſhortly. * Happy is he that kepeth þ ſaying of the prophely of thys boke. I am John, whych ſawe theſe thynge and herde them. And when I had herde & ſene, * I fell downe to woꝝthpye befoze the fete of the Angell, whych ſhewed me theſe thynge. And he ſayde vnto me: ſe thou do it not, for I am thy ſelowe ſeruaunt, & the ſelowe ſeruaunt of thy brethꝝen the Prophetes, and of them whych kepe the ſaynges of (the prophely of) thys boke. But woꝝthpye God.

And he ſayde vnto me: ſeale not the ſaynges of the prophely of this boke. For the tyme is at hande. He that doeth euyll, let him do euyll ſtyll: and he whych is fylthy, let him be fylthy ſtyll: and he that is ryghteous, let hym be moze ryghteous: & he that is holy, let hym be moze holy. And beholde, I come ſhortly, and my rewarde is wyth me, to geue euer y man accordynge as his dedes ſhal be. I am Alpha and Omega, þ begynninge and the ende: the fyrſt and the laſt. Blessed are they that do his comaundementes, that they þ power maye be in the tree of lyfe, and maye entre in thoꝝow the gates into the cytie. * For wythout ſhalbe dogges and inchauntes, and whoꝝmongers, and moꝝthers, and ydolaters, & whoſoeuer loueth oꝝ maketh leaſynge.

I Jeſus ſent myne Angell, to teſtyfy vnto you theſe thynge in the congregacions. I am the rote and the generacion of Dauid and the bryghte moꝝnyng ſtarre. And the ſpete and the byde ſape come. And let him that heareth, ſape alſo: come. * And let him that is a thyrſt: come. And let whoſoeuer wyll, take of the water of lyfe, fre.

On the sondaye after the We pe therfore souze and But whan the conforter On Wytsondave euen
It fortunyd, wyle apol.
Pe ye loue me, kepe my On Wytsondave
And whan the daves Pe aman loue me
On the mondaye
And he commaunded vs For God so loued the
On the twel dave Whan the Apostles Uerely, uerely. ec. he that On the wednisdaye.
But Peter stepped vp
No man can come vnto
On the thursdave
Then came Philip into a cylie Jesus called the twelue
On the frydaye
Pe men of Israell, heare And it happened vpon a dave
On the saterdave
And the nexte Sabboth
And whan he was rylen On trinite sondaye.
After thys I loked, and Ther was a man of the On corpus Christi dave That whyche I delpyered For my fleshe is meate
On the fyrst sondaye after trinite.
God is loue, and he that Ther was a certayne
On the seconde sondaye after trinite Warynple not my brythren A certayne man made On the thyrde sondaye after trinite Submyt your selues
Then resorted vnto hym
On the fourth sondaye after trinite For I suppose that the We pe therfore mercy On th. v. sondaye after trinite In conclusion be ye
It came to passe that whan On the .vi. sondaye after trinite I knowe ye not, that For I saye vnto you:
On the .vii. sondaye.
I speake grossly be In those daves whan
On the epghe sondaye Therfore brythren
Beware of false
On the .ix. sondaye We shulde not lust after

And he sayde also vnto
On the .x. sondaye Pe knowe that ye were
And as he was come
On the eleuenth sondaye Brythren as partapnyng
And he tolde thys
On the twelue th sondaye Haue we such trust
And he departed
On the .xiii. sondaye
To Abram and hys Happy are the eyes
On the .xiiii. sondaye
I saye walke in the spete And it chaunfed as he On the .xv. sondaye Pe we lyue in the spete No man can serue two On the .xvi. sondaye Wherfore I desyre
And it fortunyd after On the .xvii. sondaye
I therfore whyche
And it chaunfed
On the .xviii. sondaye
I thanke my God
But whan the Pharyses
On the .xix. sondaye
To be renewed
He entred also
On the .xx. sondaye Take hede therfore
And Jesus answered
On the .xxi. sondaye Fynally my brythren be ye And ther was a certayne On the .xxii. sondaye I thanke my God in Therfore is the kyngdome On the .xxiii. sondaye Brythren be followers Then went the Pharyses
On the .xxiiii. sondaye For thys cause we also Whyle he thus spake
On the last sondaye after trinite Beholde, the tyme come After these thynge
On the wednisdaye in the Ember weke afoze Wighelmasse Beholde the tyme come
And one of the company
On the frydaye
O Israell turne the nowe And one of the Pharyses
On the saterdave
For there was afoze tabern.
A certayne man had In the dedication of the churche.
